RELIGION REPORTED ON RISE IN ARMED SERVICES OVERSEAS

RETURNING from a tour of Far East military installations, a Lutheran leader reported that interest in religion is rising among armed forces personnel overseas, including concern for "soul winning and personal evangelism" among those in uniform and their dependents.

The Rev. E. O. Midboe, who is executive secretary of the National Lutheran Council's Division of Service to Military Personnel, said that increased emphasis upon spiritual retreats for chaplains and laymen, and stress on evangelism, are major factors in this upsurge.

As a result, he said, many members of the armed forces and their families living overseas are being brought to the Church through the efforts of their friends in uniform. Formal church membership, he added, is being increased through adult training classes held regularly by chaplains.

Chaplain Midboe termed the rising interest in religion as "a significant sign in a region that is too often known only for the temptations it offers."

"This is not to minimize some very serious moral conditions that exist in these areas of the world," he went on, "but it does point up the other side of the coin which cannot be overlooked as if we want to appraise the situation fairly."

Another contributing factor to the rise in religious interest, the Lutheran executive believes, is the presence of more families at overseas installations with their servicemen fathers and husbands.

In a seven-week tour of Japan, Korea, Okinawa, Taiwan, Hong Kong, the Philippines, Vietnam, Thailand, Guam, Alaska and Hawaii, Chaplain Midboe said he attempted to contact all echelons of the U.S. military establishment from commanding officers to enlisted men.

Chaplain Midboe asserted that Churches must give more attention to the preparation offered to young people who may someday be living in these areas where a strong faith is required to resist immoral living.

Men may fail, but

GOD KEEPS HIS PROMISES

By Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

THOSE elected to positions of responsibility in our government have made many campaign promises. It remains to be seen how many of them will be kept. Sometimes promises are made which could not possibly be kept; others are of such nature that they could be fulfilled, if sincerely meant.

All of us make promises at one time or another. A promise was made by your parents and sponsors, at the time of your Baptism, that you would be taught the Word of God, brought to God's house of worship, and encouraged in your Christian faith. You in turn made a promise at the time of your Confirmation as you (not your parents) promised that you would be true to the Christ of your baptismal covenant. Perhaps at New Year's or at other times of renewal or rededication, you have promised yourself and your Lord that you would live more faithfully for Him. Perhaps you have already made the promise at the altar to be faithful to your bride. If not, for many of you this experience lies ahead of you. Throughout life, we constantly make promises.

God, too, has made promises. He has entered into the lives of his people, assisting them in their time of need, strengthening them in the days of weakness, encouraging them in their hours of despair, and holding forth promises for the future which He fully intends to keep.

To Fulfill His Purposes

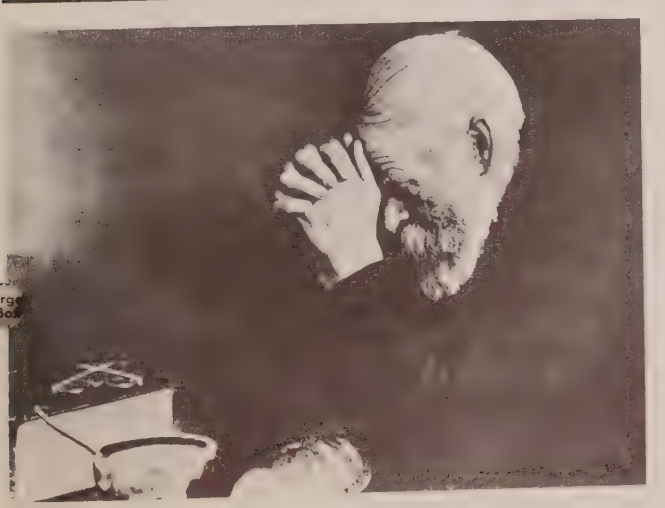
In II Peter 3:9 we are told that it is God's wish that none "should perish, but that all should reach repentance." He calls men to follow Him, to become his disciples, to serve Him. Centuries ago the promise came to Abraham and his descendants that they should inherit the world (Rom. 4:13), but it was also intended that the Gentiles were to be "fellow heirs, members of the same body, and partakers of the promise in Christ Jesus through the Gospel" (Eph.3:6).

Men around us are lost without having Jesus Christ as their Lord and Savior. This is not God's will. His promise to save all who call upon Him still holds true so that his purposes might be fulfilled, namely, to restore harmony, fellowship, and love between each and every man and Himself. You, as a child of God, are called upon to be used by Him to be an instrument in telling men of this need of Christ and of the Christ who alone can meet their spiritual needs.

Given for Man's Benefit

As certain as the laws of gravity, of nature, and of cause and effect, so sure also are spiritual laws. "Do not be deceived; God is not mocked, for whatever a man sows, that he will also reap. For he who sows to his own flesh will from the flesh reap corruption; but he who sows to the Spirit will from the Spirit reap eternal life. And let us not grow weary in well-doing, for in due season we shall reap, if we do not lose heart" (Gal.6:7-9).

Here lies a warning but also a promise—your life and work for Him will not be in vain. If you've tried to witness to a buddy or a shipmate exactly what Jesus Christ meant to you, perhaps you didn't seem to get anywhere. Remember, though, you can't play God. He alone can convict of sin and convince of Christ's righteousness. Your task and mine is to witness by attitude, word and deed what the Gospel, the "good news," is.



Here is one example of God's promises for man's welfare. To the unrepentant sinner there is a warning of judgment to come. To the one who responds in faith there is a promise of forgiveness. To the one who will rely on this message of hope there is a promise of "success" in due time according to God's values and his schedule.

Can Be Relied Upon

Sometimes promises made at election or other occasions are not worthy of our confidence. But one thing you can be positive about —that God's promises are sure and can be relied upon. II Sam. 22:31 says, "This God—his way is perfect; the promise of the Lord proves true; he is a shield for all those who take refuge in him."

In the Old Testament there was the promise of the Messiah to come; in the New Testament Christ is revealed as having come. In Luke 24 there was the promise of the Holy Spirit who was to come; in Acts 2 this promise is fulfilled.

Yes, the promises of God are certain. Rely upon them. The promise of forgiveness and of love is not only for those who lived at the time of Christ but also for you. "For the promise is to you and your children and to all that are far off, every one whom the Lord our God calls to him" (Acts 2:39). Let us then be earnest in our faith so that we "may not be sluggish, but imitators of those who through faith and patience inherit the promises" (Heb. 6:12)

A SIMPLE MAN clasps his hands and bows his head in thankfulness for the food before him.

Second Glance

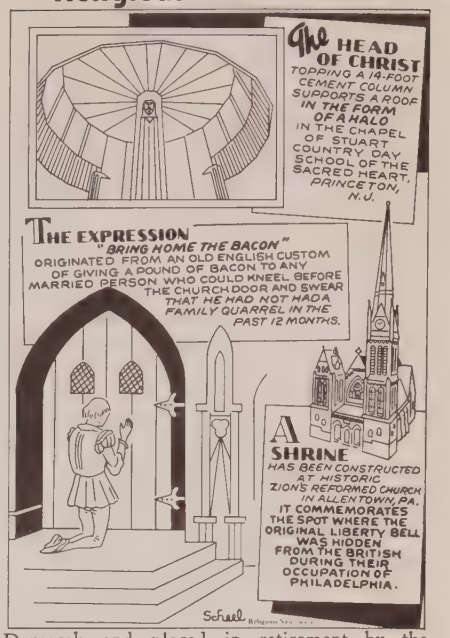
¶ Miss America of 1965—21-year-old Vonda Kay Van Dyke—is a Methodist Sunday school teacher who never goes anywhere without her Bible. Her Christian testimony was clear in interviews after her selection at the Atlantic City pageant.

In answer to a question by the master of ceremonies she said, "I would not classify my Bible as a 'charm', but something more in the nature of companionship. And I would not classify my relationship to Jesus Christ as a religion, but rather as a faith. I trust Him completely."

¶ In one of the most outspoken comments upon the political campaign by a religious spokesman, the Rev. Francis B. Sayre, Jr., dean of the National Episcopal Cathedral in Washington, D. C., in a September sermon castigated both the Democratic and Republican presidential nominees.

He said the parties had offered the nation a "sterile choice." Though not mentioning President Johnson and Senator Goldwater by name, he held that one candidate is "a man of dangerous ignorance and devastating uncertainty" and the other is "a man whose public house is splendid in its every appearance but whose private lack of ethic must inevitably introduce termites at the very foundation."

¶ A religion based on the use of the hallucination-producing drug, peyote, is capturing the loyalty of vast numbers of Indians of the Southwest, according to Dr. J. Lloyd Mason, Seventh-Day Adventist medical missionary on the Navajo reservation in southern Utah. Peyote comes from "buttons" atop a kind of cactus grown in the Rio Grande valley. When eaten or drunk in a kind of tea, it produces visions of astonishingly vivid colors. It is used in night-long religious ceremonies by the "Native American Church," which claims it brings the user into closer touch with God.



¶ An end to the pledge required by the Roman Catholic Church when a non-member marries a Roman Catholic—to rear any children of the marriage as Catholics—was suggested by Roman Catholic Bishop John K. Mussio of Steubenville, Ohio, in a magazine article.

Writing in Marriage, a family monthly, the bishop said the pre-marital pledges "in many instances, encourage deceit on the part of one or both parties to the mixed marriage." He added that "no good can come out of a method that is forced upon a non-Catholic as the only alternative to marrying the person of his choice."

¶ Accused of "preaching politics," the Rev. Harold Sobye was suspended from his pastorate in the Lutheran Church of Denmark and placed in retirement by the Danish Ministry of Church Affairs. Pastor Sobye's suspension and subsequent removal were the result of an Easter Monday sermon last March in which he expounded the value of socialism and used such expressions as "down with royalty" and "long live the revolution."

¶ Named delegate-observers to the third session of the Second Vatican Council by the Lutheran World Federation were five Lutheran theologians. The Rev. Dr. Warren A. Quanbeck of Luther Seminary, St. Paul, Minn., and the Rt. Rev. Sven Silen, bishop of Vasteras, Sweden, were in continuous attendance at the Roman Catholic council. A third seat was occupied alternately by three men associated with the Lutheran Foundation for Interconfessional Research at Strasbourg, France: the Rev. Dr. Vilmos Vajta, the Rev. Dr. K. E. Skydsgaard, and Dr. George A. Lindbeck.

LINDA SUNDELIUS of Escanaba, Mich., is our "Lutheran Girl" for October.

A recent graduate of Escanaba Area High School, Linda's extra-curricular activities included: student council representative, secretary and member of the band, membership in the dramatics society and Spanish club, and athletic club secretary. Her fellow students also chose her as homecoming queen. Her church-related activities include Luther League work and Sunday school teaching.

A girl with an outdoors look, Linda lists swimming and tennis among her favorite recreations. She is also an expert cheerleader and a fine clarinet player.

Now continuing her studies at Northern Michigan University, Linda is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Sundelius. She was nominated for this honor by the Rev. Erland Carlson, pastor of her home parish, Christ the King Church, Escanaba, who describes her as "very active in young people's endeavors, a willing worker and a brilliant student."

NEW EDUCATION PROGRAMS BEGIN FOR LUTHERANS

IN AN EFFORT to deepen the understanding of Christianity and encourage spiritual growth among church members of all ages, both National Lutheran Council church bodies are presently introducing new church school lesson materials for use in their congregations. The Lutheran Church in America and the American Lutheran Church have each developed exciting new educational programs over the past several years.

The LCA Parish Education Curriculum was formally inaugurated in the 6,200 parishes of the former body on Sunday, Sept. 13. Over 1.2 million pupils are involved. Designed to enlist adults as well as children in the program of Christian learning, it includes study courses for Sunday and weekday church schools, vacation schools and church camps. Unusual new features include "School of Religion" courses for older youth and adults, and a Christian Family Education Series to help parents give Christian training to their children.

The newly-developed teaching aids include such features as hard-cover study books, workbooks, filmstrips, recordings and teacher's manuals. Over 120 different authors participated in writing the various courses. More than 100,000 teachers were briefed on the philosophy and methods of the new study materials at some 800 coaching conferences held last spring.

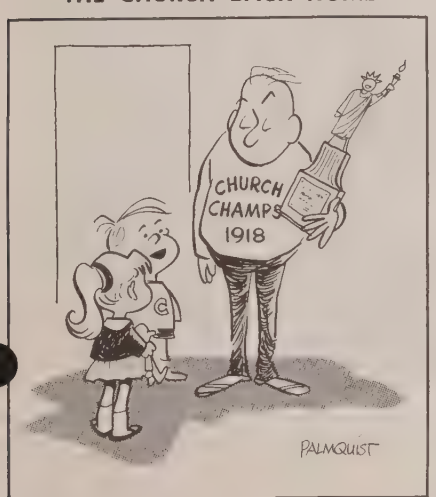
A special emphasis in the LCA curriculum is on getting adults into Christian education. Fewer than 10 percent of the adult members of the Church now attend Sunday schools, but a variety of types of educational programs, as well as more challenging courses, are expected to draw larger numbers of persons above confirmation age, both as teachers and students.

Challenge to Teenagers

This fall also marks the publication of new church school courses for teenagers by the American Lutheran Church. The first of 19 courses to be offered to senior high students, entitled "Lutherans Are Asking," has been distributed to more than 4,000 congregations using the materials.

Most striking features of this new curriculum are the following:

- Youth are encouraged to formulate difficult questions, with no "pat answers" offered.
- Youth are given the opportunity, in many congregations, to choose their own subjects for study and their own teachers.
- Materials are "student-centered"—focused upon the interests of the teenager and the concerns of the Church; teachers function as discussion starters, rather than lecturers.



Development of additional ALC teaching materials continues to occupy a full-time staff of more than 20, with a junior high—confirmation curriculum scheduled to make its appearance next year.

In both new Lutheran education programs, field testing of materials in selected parishes, careful revision of courses based on the testing, and training of teachers in new techniques were carried out extensively before the official introduction of the courses for general use.

STUDENTS AND TEACHER are shown in a typical classroom discussion session, using one of the new Lutheran church school courses introduced this fall.

SIX-YEAR-OLD Gary Falde tapes Biblical passages in modern English for radio broadcast by the American Bible Society. The boy recorded 30 one-minute tapes, reading from St. Mark's Gospel. He is the son of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Gaylerd Falde of Studio City, Calif. The father is president of the American Lutheran Church's South Pacific District. Gary's parents discovered that he could read at the age of three when they saw him studying a television magazine. (RNS Photo)

RIFLE CHAMPION Gary Anderson, who is a student for the ministry at Hastings (Nebr.) College, placed first in a three-position, six-hour free rifle final tryout for the U.S. Olympic team. The tryouts were held at Fort Benning, Ga. Mr. Anderson, a lieutenant in the Army reserve, won the 1962 world rifle championship at the International Shooting Union's games in Cairo, Egypt, setting three world records in winning four first place medals. He is a Presbyterian. (RNS Photo)

Vatican II and the Reformation

By Oswald C. J. Hoffmann

OBSERVING the anniversary of the Reformation on October 31, Protestants of many lands reaffirm their loyalty to Jesus Christ. Accepting Christ for what he claimed to be—Son of God, Lord and Savior—Protestants declare that faith in Christ "saves," a favorite word in some Protestant vocabularies. Other Protestants prefer the more precise expression, "justification by faith," taking their cue fom St. Paul: "Therefore, we conclude that a man is justified by faith without the deeds of the law" (Roman 3:28).

The New Testament doctrine of justification by faith was singled out by Martin Luther as the one article of Christian faith upon which the Church either stands or falls. The historic Protestant understanding of justification by faith was correctly set forth, and condemned, in the decrees of the Roman Catholic Council of Trent, convened in 1545 and continuing for the next two decades: "If anyone saith that justifying faith is nothing else but confidence in the divine mercy which remits sins for Christ's sake or that this confidence alone is that whereby we are justified, let him be anathema."

The sharp division thus begun between Protestants and Roman Catholics has continued to the present time with various historical, political, cultural and economic overtones, but still centered ultimately in the way in which a man comes to know his God, receives divine forgiveness and arrives at peace and contentment of soul.

Councils and decrees of the Roman Catholic Church since Trent, in the Protestant view, have only served to accentuate the differences apparent during the Reformation period. An example would be the Vatican Council of 1870 (now called Vatican I) which defined as "divinely revealed dogma" the infallibility of the Roman pontiff, whenever he speaks "ex cathedra" to the whole Church on some doctrine of faith or morals "in his public and official capacity as pastor and doctor of all Christians. . . ." Historically, Protestants recognize the Scriptures as God's Word, having the final and only right to impose divine authority on men's consciences. Therefore, almost to a man, they find the definition of Vatican I unacceptable, since it appears to run counter to every conception of divine grace and truth encountered in the New Testament.

A New Look

No Protestant, however, can be unaware of the fact that Vatican II is underway. At the latest Vatican meeting, personal consideration and courtesy hitherto unknown have been shown to Protestant and other Christian observers. There is little doubt that Vatican II has let some fresh air into Protestant-Roman Catholic relationships.

Anger breeds anger. Molten emotions eventually cool and solidify into hardened "positions" which no one dares examine or discuss for fear of being accused of weakness by friends and associates, or of duplicity by foes and adversaries. In this respect, both Protestants and Roman Catholics are to a certain extent victims of their own history.

Commemorating the dramatic results of the posting of 95 Latin theses by Martin Luther on the eve of All Saints' Day, 1517, Protestants come to the annual observance of Reformation week faced with the possible necessity of taking a new look at Roman Catholics, though they may not feel any compulsion to abandon their historic protest against the whole structure of Roman Catholic dogma and the ecclesiastical power based largely upon that system of dogma.

It is probably too much to expect that Roman Catholic theologians, some of whom in recent years have had kind things to say about Luther's piety and even about his understanding of the New Testament doctrine of justification by faith, will engage in a frontal attack upon the condemnations pronounced by the Council of Trent. An outright declaration of the primacy of Scriptural authority in the doctrine and life of the Roman Catholic Church, however, would be regarded by many Protestants as helping to establish common ground, at least, for the discussion of other great and presently insurmountable differences.

Protestants could not fail to note, following the first two sessions of Vatican II, that for the first time since the Reformation Roman prelates returned to their dioceses ready to accept, and sometimes seeking, opportunities to talk to other Christians, whom they described as "separated brethern." The harsh sound of this rather patronizing phrase was ameliorated, in certain instances, by candid and explicit references to Protestant conferees as "brothers in Christ."

Such professions have been taken at face value by many Protestants, whose doctrine of justification by faith calls upon them to take God at his Word in his gracious declaration of intent to grant forgiveness to all men. Having themselves been forgiven by a good God, they do not feel that they can refuse to honor the good intentions of fellow-Christians despite a long history of bitterness and misunderstanding. Indeed, generosity of spirit on the part of Protestants may be a demonstration on their part to Roman Catholics that genuine trust in the saving merits of Christ, which is saving faith, as Protestants always have asserted, really does produce good works pleasing to God.

For most thinking Protestants, the healing of an historic schism requires more than a superficial solution of organizational difficulties. Desirable as it might be from various viewpoints, including that of a united Christian front against Communism, formation of one world-wide Church is not the answer a divided Christendom is really seeking. Mere submission to authority, if it ignores the basic issues of faith, will not prevent the rise of another Luther asking his historic question: "How can I get right with God and be at peace?"

The answer of the Gospel of Christ to this question, Protestants feel compelled to assert, must be found in the truth stated in the first great Protestant confession of faith: "Conscience cannot come to rest and peace through works, but only through faith; that is, when it is assured and knows that for Christ's sake it has a gracious God, as Paul says in Romans 5:1: 'Since we are justified by faith, we have peace with God'."

Dr. Hoffmann is the speaker on The Lutheran Hour radio program, and is attending the third session of Vatican II as a guest.

Second Glance

¶ Lutheran missions will reach into the middle-eastern country of Iran with the opening of a 50-bed hospital and clinic at Ghorveh in the Iranian province of Kurdistan. Operated by the Lutheran Orient Mission of the United States, the hospital will serve Moslem residents of some 300 communities. The independent inter-Lutheran mission also carries on evangelistic work in neighboring Iraq.

¶ Another Lutheran "first" is the organization of a congregation in Bermuda by the American Lutheran Church. Numerous requests from Lutheran military personnel and tourists led to a study by the Church's Board of American Missions which confirmed the need for Lutheran services on the British-owned Island in the North Atlantic. First services were held in August.

¶ July 20 marked the 20th anniversary of the abortive plot against Hitler and his regime in which Christian leaders played important roles. The event was marked at special services in both Lutheran and Roman Catholic churches in West Berlin, during which those who gave their lives in the attempt to overthrow the German dictator were lauded as martyrs. Speaking at the Kaiser Wilhelm Memorial Church, Lutheran Bishop Hanns Lilje said that the plotters against Hitler acted because they believed that "the chain of inhumanity and guilt" of the Nazi regime "could be broken only if someone had the courage to take new guilt upon himself."

The plot failed when Hitler walked away from a table, under which a bomb had been placed, shortly before it exploded.

¶ Plans for a Lutheran monastery and retreat house were disclosed at Oxford, Mich., by the Rev. Arthur C. Kreinheder who heads a Lutheran monastic order, the Congregation of the Servants of Christ. A former Detroit department store executive, Pastor Kreinheder studied theology and was ordained in the Church of Sweden in 1956, returning to America to found St. Augustine's House at Oxford. A year ago the house burned to the ground, but is now being rebuilt with quarters for eight retreatants plus members of the order.

ARTIST'S SKETCH depicts newly-dedicated building of the Seamen's Center of the Lutheran Church in America, in New York City, which offers hospitality to seamen of all faiths.

¶ About 500 top athletes and coaches participated in a week of "perspiration and inspiration" at the Fellowship of Christian Athletes conference on the Southern Oregon College campus in August. They combined inspirational meetings and talks with such sports as basketball, football, track, baseball, wrestling, swimming, tennis and weightlifting.

"Athletes are the leaders of high school and college youth," said Tad Wieman, Pacific Coast secretary of the FCA. "Young folk are hero worshippers. We want to give them the right kind of heroes to worship. It is also true that nowhere in contemporary society do young people come more realistically and dramatically to grips with the diciplines of failure and the temptations of success than in athletic competition."

NEW YORK CENTER FOR SEAMEN IS DEDICATED

THE RECENTLY completed $1,100,000 Seamen's Center of the Lutheran Church in America was dedicated on Sept. 27 in New York City. The 11-story building is located at the corner of 15th St. and Irving Place in lower Manhattan.

Formerly located on Water St. near the southern tip of Manhattan Island, the Center's new building was made possible from the voluntary gifts of Sunday schools and other groups and of many individuals, including members of Lutheran congregations. Generous contributions were also made by friends in the shipping industry.

According to the Rev. Dr. J. Vincent Nordgren, executive director of the Seaman's Center, an additional $32,000 is still needed to meet the cost of equipment and construction not as of now provided for, and is being sought through voluntary gifts.

The Seamen's Center has a long record of Lutheran service to seafarers and other transients. Many sailors count the Center a "home away from home." They make use of its recreational facilities, its mail and message service, its lounge room to meet friends in town, its reading room and television attractions. Counselling services are provided by the Center's pastors and worship is held regularly in the chapel.

About 100 guests can be lodged each night, and the rooms are usually filled. Facilities are also used by seamen's families, missionaries, international students and young women while looking for more permanent residence.

Every 20 minutes or so a merchant ship puts into New York harbor, or shoves off from its piers. To the number of many more than a million, seamen from such ships have found lodging and other hospitality under the Christian auspices of the Seamen's Center during the seven decades of its life.

"America's Lutherans are proud of this fine new Center and of its ministry today to the world's seafarers in this busiest seaport in all the world," Dr. Nordgren said.

SYLVIA OLSON, of Seattle, Washington, is our "Lutheran Girl" selection for September.

As a sophomore at Augsburg College, Minneapolis, Minn., she sings with the Augsburg Choir and is looking forward to the group's scheduled European engagements next year. Musically inclined, she also sings in a women's trio and plays viola with a string quartet.

As the student body secretary in high school, Sylvia was an active leader who also served as Luther League president and demonstrated a talent for music and art.

She is working part-time as a dental assistant. She lists dental hygiene, social work and music as the fields that most interest her. Her favorite sport is skiing.

Sylvia is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. C. G.. Olson. She was nominated for this honor by the youth director of her home church, Mr. Robert L. Moylan. "Seldom have I seen a young woman with such a vibrant personality, variety of talents and a clear sense of Christian purpose. She exemplifies the best of our Lutheran young people," he states.

LUTHERAN CONVENTION HAILS CIVIL RIGHTS ACT

THE CIVIL RIGHTS ACT of 1964 was strongly endorsed at the second biennial convention of the Lutheran Church in America at its meeting in Pittsburgh, Pa. July 2-July 9.

The LCA urged "all citizens to join in compliance with the Civil Rights Act in letter and in spirit," hailing the act as "a historic advance in the long struggle to secure rights to which we, as Christians, believe all citizens are entitled."

Subject of most debate was the controversial issue of civil disobedience as a justifiable means of combatting racial injustice when all other alternatives have failed. The final statement stressed that "if and when the means of legal recourse have been exhausted or are demonstrably inadequate, Christians may then choose to serve the cause of racial justice by disobeying a law that clearly involves the violation of their obligations as Christians."

In so doing, however, church members were cautioned that they must be willing to accept the penalty for their actions, to limit and direct their protest against a specific grievance or injustice, and to carry out their protest in a non-violent, responsible manner.

Free by Lawful Means

The statement declared that the Church and its members are "recognized as free by all lawful means, including participation in peaceful demonstrations" to urge repeal of laws which are believed to be "in basic conflict with the constitutional law of the land or the moral law of God."

WORSHIP SERVICES opened the second biennial convention of the Lutheran Church in America at which Dr. Franklin Clark Fry delivered the sermon before seven hundred delegates.

Delegates also accomplished the following:

- Adopted "A Statement on Marriage and Family" approving birth control where it is spiritually and economically necessary.
- Called for an end to commercialism in the Church, citing the "false image" created by bazaars and other money-raising affairs.
- Voted to support the U.S. Supreme Court decision in the school prayer and Bible reading cases.
- Approved uniform communion practices, agreeing that opportunity for "private confession and absolution should be afforded in every parish."
- Received a report urging support of public schools and discouraging the starting of parochial schools.
- Approved a "master plan" providing for the merger and/or relocation of several of the LCA's ten theological seminaries.
- Were informed that $2,546,568 had been given to help support the LCA's church-related colleges in the U.S. and Canada in 1963.
- Were told of the critical need for missionary personnel to serve in the LCA's 11 missions in Africa, Asia and South America.
- Assured a two-year $45 million church expansion program, funds of which will be used to enter 215 fields, organize nearly 200 new congregations and erect 320 new church buildings.
- Approved a budget of nearly $59 million for the next biennium.
- Heard an address by Roman Catholic Bishop John J. Wright of Pittsburg, the first prelate of his faith to address a Lutheran convention in North America.
- Elected Dr. Malvin H. Lundeen to a four-year term as secretary of the LCA, a post to which he was named for two years in 1962 when church bodies merged to form LCA.

Second Glance

¶ Use of the words "under God" in the Pledge of Allegiance by school children was upheld as constitutional by the New York State Court of Appeals in a ruling in June. Elimination of the words had been sought by two parents acting on behalf of the "Freethinkers of America."

In an earlier ruling the State Supreme Court had pointed out that the petitioners' right to disbelieve was guaranteed by the First Amendment "and neither they nor their children can be compelled to recite the words 'under God' . . . But the First Amendment affords them no preferance over those who do believe in God and who, in pledging their allegiance, choose to express that belief."

¶ Lutheran mission work was due for expansion as the Board of World Missions of the Lutheran Church in America voted to start missions in Trinidad, an island off the Venezuela coast, and in Peru as an extension of its work in Chile. The work in Trinidad will be largely among its East Indian population who are of Hindu and Moslem background. The work in Peru will be among the Spanish-speaking population.

¶ A leader of Reform Judaism warned the Central Conference of American Rabbis that mixed marriages—between a Jew and a non-Jew—are an "increasing threat" to the survival of Judaism in America. Citing the "prospect of a considerable rise" in mixed marriages, especially among Jewish college students, he said there is a "growing fear that some day . . . Judaism as a vital force may be attenuated to the point of utter ineffectiveness, and the Jewish people perhaps will all but disappear."

At the same time, Rabbi Leon I. Feuer, president of the conference, said that Reform Jews "do not wish to isolate" themselves from other religious communities, "nor from the American civilization of which we are an integral part."

¶ Film and TV star Bob Hope, who has traveled around the world entertaining service men and women, was presented with the National Citizenship Award of the Military Chaplains Association at its 39th annual meeting. He was honored for "distinguished service to this country." The citation said that the comedian provided service men and their families with "medicine for the spirit."

Accepting the award, Mr. Hope stayed in character and quipped: "I feel out of place. Like Nasser at a Bar Mitzvah." Mr. Hope told his listeners that "I have to spend a night like this occasionally—in pious company. I know somebody up there likes me, but I like to keep in touch with the branch office."

¶ Total baptized membership of Lutheran Churches in the U.S. and Canada reached 8,870,721 at the end of 1963, according to figures released by the National Lutheran Council's Department of Research and Statistics. These Lutherans are organized in 18,422 congregations in all states and most provinces, and are served by 19,946 pastors.

Which Are You—

MISSIONARY OR MISSION FIELD?

By Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

WHY AREN'T Christians more effective in their influence in our society today? This question cannot be discussed adequately in such a short article as this. However, there is one aspect to the problem which stands out in bold relief.

When Jesus Christ was upon this earth, he went about giving "the word" to those who would listen. It wasn't a namby-pamby, do-good, get-better, all's-well-with-the-world, just-do-the-best-you-can, everything-will-turn-out-all-right kind of message. No, it was bold and clear. What he said turned some people against him, because he spoke the truth. People hated him. They despised and abused him. They beat him and finally crucified him.

In simple and straightforward language he told them that man is lost without the salvation that God alone can give. The truth had to be said, no matter who might feel hurt. Jesus did not condone open, gross sin. He condemned the sin but forgave the sinner. He could not stand hypocrisy. Like a hot knife running through butter, he cut to the very core of man's problem—himself. No amount of religiosity, pious talk, or "do good" programs can save him.

Plainly put, Jesus stated that man is doomed to damnation unless God saves him. Like a doctor giving the diagnosis to a seriously ill patient and stating the need for an operation, so our Lord stated in no uncertain terms that man needed to be born anew.

Our Saviour not only proclaimed the Law, that is, that man is lost in trespasses and sin, out of fellowship with God and heading for damnation unless God saves him. He also heralded the Gospel, the remedy for man's deathly, sick condition. He was the Gospel, in person. He had come to bring life, light and peace. He had come to bridge the gap which separated man from his Creator.

He could do this because he was God himself. As the Son of God he had come to live the perfect life which the law demanded and which man could not live. He had come to reveal to man how much God loves him. He had come also to atone for man's sin—to die to make it possible for man to be forgiven completely by God. This was a divine love, which exceeded anything man had ever experienced.

This "good news," personified in Jesus Christ, was told from person to person. Men were told that if they would repent of their sins and believe in this Christ they would have a new birth. They were to be baptized, declare themselves as followers of Christ, and live for him. They made a commitment, not to an organization but to a Person. Their promise was to follow him, come what may.

In the Book of Acts you can read the exciting account of how the disciples spread this message regardless of the consequences. When they were thrown into jail and beaten, they rejoiced that they were counted worthy to suffer for the sake of Christ. They had heard "the word"—the Law and the Gospel. They had accepted Jesus Christ as their personal Saviour. They had committed their lives to his service. Sometimes God called them from their occupations to go about teaching and preaching. Others stayed at their posts of duty in their daily tasks and witnessed to the faith by word, attitude and deed.

Is this what you are doing? Are you a missionary? All around you, aboard ship, in the field, on the grinder, in the tent, in the barracks, are men who are either lost or saved. Your challenge is to bring them Christ, the eternal life, by sharing with them the Word of God which you read and hear. Or are you instead a mission field?

Largest North American Lutheran body is the Lutheran Church in America, which counts 3,227, 157 baptized members. Other large groups include the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, with 2,683,876 members; the American Lutheran Church, 2,544,617 members, and the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod, 354, 840 members.

In addition there are six smaller Lutheran bodies, with a total membership of 70,231.

In the Inner-City—

Youths Seek "Anonymous Neighbor"

A LUTHERAN PROGRAM for young people to help them discover the "anonymous neighbor" in the inner city was held in downtown San Francisco this summer.

A dozen young people spent 10 weeks working with and among San Franciscans under the direction of two clergymen—a theological professor and a sociologist.

The project—Summer Work Seminar—was sponsored by the Lutheran Church in America's Board of College Education and Church Vocations.

THE CHURCH must seek "to discover new ways. . . . of re-entering the city and of becoming realistically aware of what is happening to people."

The Rev. Dr. E. Theodore Bachmann, New York, the board's executive secretary, said the idea for the seminar goes back to the "postwar student work camps in Europe and elsewhere as conducted by the World Council of Churches, the Lutheran World Federation, and other agencies."

The participants' average age is 20. They have another year or two of college. They come from a cross section of the nation, Dr. Bachmann said.

He described the seminar this way:

"The members of the work seminar came to the inner city to live there for three months. Their base of operations was a large house. A theological professor and his wife were the houseparents and he was director of the seminar . . .

"The administrator of the seminar was a young pastor who has for two years been conducting a joint social action program of the Lutheran Churches in San Francisco. He also has his advanced degree in social work."

Dr. Bachmann said the students divided their time between academic sessions, work and church activity.

"Positions of student employment included the assignments to an office in City Hall, a bureau in the California State office building, campaign headquarters of a California assemblyman running for re-election, the field office of a church-led group working for fair housing for Negroes, Mexicans, Nisei, and other disadvantaged minorities, and working with a group infiltrating teen-age gangs."

Other students, he explained, worked with the more conventional welfare and mental health agencies.

"All had contact with a local congregation, and thus were enabled to compare what its programs as well as its members have to offer."

The Lutheran educator tied the aims of the seminar to those of St. Mark's Church, San Francisco, the oldest Lutheran parish on the Pacific coast.

St. Mark's is in the center of an urban renewal program which it has supported by building two apartment houses on either side of the church.

"This is an example of the Church remaining in the city," Dr. Bachmann pointed out, "and not fleeing to the suburbs. Besides, the building that is under way symbolizes a kind of re-entry of the Church into the heart of the city."

Dr. Bachmann sees the work seminar as a method "to discover new ways of the Church re-entering the city and of becoming realistically aware of what is happening to people.

"In this way, we hope that the relevance of the Church will become more evident, and that the service rendered through the seminar—little as such service may actually be—may become a place of exciting discovery.

"For it may well be that in serving others, the students have discovered themselves. They may then be better able to decide on their own life work . . . The students, and others with them, may then too, have discovered that ecumenical horizons of church welfare work are both as far away as the other side of the world and as near as the anonymous neighbor."

The Rev. Herman G. Stuempfle, Jr., a professor at Gettysburg Lutheran Theological Seminary, Gettysburg, Pa,. directed the program He was assisted by the Rev. William J. Black, who has been working among Lutheran congregations in San Francisco to promote an awareness of the need for inner city churches.

SYLVIA OLSON, of Seattle, Washington, is our "Lutheran Girl" selection for September.

As a sophomore at Augsburg College, Minneapolis, Minn., she sings with the Augsburg Choir and is looking forward to the group's scheduled European engagements next year. Musically inclined, she also sings in a women's trio and plays viola with a string quartet.

As the student body secretary in high school, Sylvia was an active leader who also served as ...ther League president and demonstrated a talent for music and art.

She is working part-time as a dental assistant. She lists dental hygiene, social work and music as the fields that most interest her. Her favorite sport is skiing.

Sylvia is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. C. G.. Olson. She was nominated for this honor by the youth director of her home church, Mr. Robert L. Moylan. "Seldom have I seen a young woman with such a vibrant personality, variety of talents and a clear sense of Christian purpose. She exemplifies the best of our Lutheran young people," he states.

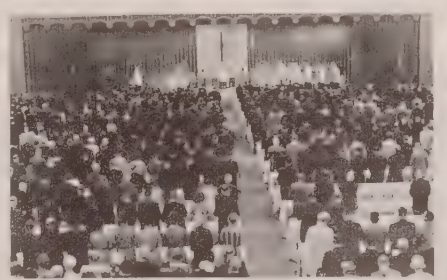
LUTHERAN CONVENTION HAILS CIVIL RIGHTS ACT

THE CIVIL RIGHTS ACT of 1964 was strongly endorsed at the second biennial convention of the Lutheran Church in America at its meeting in Pittsburgh, Pa. July 2-July 9.



The LCA urged "all citizens to join in compliance with the Civil Rights Act in letter and in spirit," hailing the act as "a historic advance in the long struggle to secure rights to which we, as Christians, believe all citizens are entitled."

Subject of most debate was the controversial issue of civil disobedience as a justifiable means of combatting racial injustice when all other alternatives have failed. The final statement stressed that "if and when the means of legal recourse have been exhausted or are demonstrably inadequate, Christians may then choose to serve the cause of racial justice by disobeying a law that clearly involves the violation of their obligations as Christians."

In so doing, however, church members were cautioned that they must be willing to accept the penalty for their actions, to limit and direct their protest against a specific grievance or injustice, and to carry out their protest in a non-violent, responsible manner.

Free by Lawful Means

The statement declared that the Church and its members are "recognized as free by all lawful means, including participation in peaceful demonstrations" to urge repeal of laws which are believed to be "in basic conflict with the constitutional law of the land or the moral law of God."

WORSHIP SERVICES opened the second biennial convention of the Lutheran Church in America at which Dr. Franklin Clark Fry delivered the sermon before seven hundred delegates.

Delegates also accomplished the following:

- Adopted "A Statement on Marriage and Family" approving birth control where it is spiritually and economically necessary.
- Called for an end to commercialism in the Church, citing the "false image" created by bazaars and other money-raising affairs.
- Voted to support the U.S. Supreme Court decision in the school prayer and Bible reading cases.
- Approved uniform communion practices, agreeing that opportunity for "private confession and absolution should be afforded in every parish."

Second Glance

¶ Use of the words "under God" in the Pledge of Allegiance by school children was upheld as constitutional by the New York State Court of Appeals in a ruling in June. Elimination of the words had been sought by two parents acting on behalf of the "Freethinkers of America."

In an earlier ruling the State Supreme Court had pointed out that the petitioners' right to disbelieve was guaranteed by the First Amendment "and neither they nor their children can be compelled to recite the words 'under God' . . . But the First Amendment affords them no preferance over those who do believe in God and who, in pledging their allegiance, choose to express that belief."

¶ Lutheran mission work was due for expansion as the Board of World Missions of the Lutheran Church in America voted to start missions in Trinidad, an island off the Venezuela coast, and in Peru as an extension of its work in Chile. The work in Trinidad will be largely among its East Indian population who are of Hindu and Moslem background. The work in Peru will be among the Spanish-speaking population.

¶ A leader of Reform Judaism warned the Central Conference of American Rabbis that mixed marriages—between a Jew and a non-Jew—are an "increasing threat" to the survival of Judaism in America. Citing the "prospect of a considerable rise" in mixed marriages, especially among Jewish college students, he said there is a "growing fear that some day . . . Judaism as a vital force may be attenuated to the point of utter ineffectiveness, and the Jewish people perhaps will all but disappear."

At the same time, Rabbi Leon I. Feuer, president of the conference, said that Reform Jews "do not wish to isolate" themselves from other religious communities, "nor from the American civilization of which we are an integral part."

¶ Film and TV star Bob Hope, who has traveled around the world entertaining service men and women, was presented with the National Citizenship Award of the Military Chaplains Association at its 39th annual meeting. He was honored for "distinguished service to this country." The citation said that the comedian provided service men and their families with "medicine for the spirit."

Accepting the award, Mr. Hope stayed in character and quipped: "I feel out of place. Like Nasser at a Bar Mitzvah." Mr. Hope told his listeners that "I have to spend a night like this occasionally—in pious company. I know somebody up there likes me, but I like to keep in touch with the branch office."

¶ Total baptized membership of Lutheran Churches in the U.S. and Canada reached 8,870,721 at the end of 1963, according to figures released by the National Lutheran Council's Department of Research and Statistics. These Lutherans are organized in 18,422 congregations in all states and most provinces, and are served by 19,946 pastors.

Largest North American Lutheran body is the Lutheran Church in America, which counts 3,227, 157 baptized members. Other large groups include the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, with 2,683,876 members; the American Lutheran Church, 2,544,617 members, and the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod, 354, 840 members.

In addition there are six smaller Lutheran bodies, with a total membership of 70,231.

Which Are You—

MISSIONARY OR MISSION FIELD?

By Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

WHY AREN'T Christians more effective in their influence in our society today? This question cannot be discussed adequately in such a short article as this. However, there is one aspect to the problem which stands out in bold relief.

When Jesus Christ was upon this earth, he went about giving "the word" to those who would listen. It wasn't a namby-pamby, do-good, get-better, all's-well-with-the-world, just-do-the-best-you-can, everything-will-turn-out-all-right kind of message. No, it was bold and clear. What he said turned some people against him, because he spoke the truth. People hated him. They despised and abused him. They beat him and finally crucified him.

In simple and straightforward language he told them that man is lost without the salvation that God alone can give. The truth had to be said, no matter who might feel hurt. Jesus did not condone open, gross sin. He condemned the sin but forgave the sinner. He could not stand hypocrisy. Like a hot knife running through butter, he cut to the very core of man's problem—himself. No amount of religiosity, pious talk, or "do good" programs can save him.

Plainly put, Jesus stated that man is doomed to damnation unless God saves him. Like a doctor giving the diagnosis to a seriously ill patient and stating the need for an operation, so our Lord stated in no uncertain terms that man needed to be born anew.

Our Saviour not only proclaimed the Law, that is, that man is lost in trespasses and sin, out of fellowship with God and heading for damnation unless God saves him. He also heralded the Gospel, the remedy for man's deathly, sick condition. He was the Gospel, in person. He had come to bring life, light and peace. He had come to bridge the gap which separated man from his Creator.

He could do this because he was God himself. As the Son of God he had come to live the perfect life which the law demanded and which man could not live. He had come to reveal to man how much God loves him. He had come also to atone for man's sin—to die to make it possible for man to be forgiven completely by God. This was a divine love, which exceeded anything man had ever experienced.

This "good news," personified in Jesus Christ, was told from person to person. Men were told that if they would repent of their sins and believe in this Christ they would have a new birth. They were to be baptized, declare themselves as followers of Christ, and live for him. They made a commitment, not to an organization but to a Person. Their promise was to follow him, come what may.

In the Book of Acts you can read the exciting account of how the disciples spread this message regardless of the consequences. When they were thrown into jail and beaten, they rejoiced that they were counted worthy to suffer for the sake of Christ. They had heard "the word"—the Law and the Gospel. They had accepted Jesus Christ as their personal Saviour. They had committed their lives to his service. Sometimes God called them from their occupations to go about teaching and preaching. Others stayed at their posts of duty in their daily tasks and witnessed to the faith by word, attitude and deed.

Is this what you are doing? Are you a missionary? All around you, aboard ship, in the field, on the grinder, in the tent, in the barracks, are men who are either lost or saved. Your challenge is to bring them Christ, the eternal life, by sharing with them the Word of God which you read and hear. Or are you instead a mission field?

If you want help in knowing how to study, how to share, how to teach God's Word, write in for an attractive free folder and learn about the sixteen correspondence courses available. The first lesson of the course "Salvation Made Plain" is free. Write to the Lutheran Bible Institute, 6125 Olson Highway, Minneapolis, Minnesota, 55422.

In the Inner-City—

Youths Seek "Anonymous Neighbor"

A LUTHERAN PROGRAM for young people to help them discover the "anonymous neighbor" in the inner city was held in downtown San Francisco this summer.

A dozen young people spent 10 weeks working with and among San Franciscans under the direction of two clergymen—a theological professor and a sociologist.

The project—Summer Work Seminar—was sponsored by the Lutheran Church in America's Board of College Education and Church Vocations.

THE CHURCH must seek "to discover new ways. . . . of re-entering the city and of becoming realistically aware of what is happening to people."

The Rev. Dr. E. Theodore Bachmann, New York, the board's executive secretary, said the idea for the seminar goes back to the "postwar student work camps in Europe and elsewhere as conducted by the World Council of Churches, the Lutheran World Federation, and other agencies."

The participants' average age is 20. They have another year or two of college. They come from a cross section of the nation, Dr. Bachmann said.

He described the seminar this way:

"The members of the work seminar came to the inner city to live there for three months. Their base of operations was a large house. A theological professor and his wife were the houseparents and he was director of the seminar . . .

"The administrator of the seminar was a young pastor who has for two years been conducting a joint social action program of the Lutheran Churches in San Francisco. He also has his advanced degree in social work."

Dr. Bachmann said the students divided their time between academic sessions, work and church activity.

"Positions of student employment included the assignments to an office in City Hall, a bureau in the California State office building, campaign headquarters of a California assemblyman running for re-election, the field office of a church-led group working for fair housing for Negroes, Mexicans, Nisei, and other disadvantaged minorities, and working with a group infiltrating teen-age gangs."

Other students, he explained, worked with the more conventional welfare and mental health agencies.

"All had contact with a local congregation, and thus were enabled to compare what its programs as well as its members have to offer."

The Lutheran educator tied the aims of the seminar to those of St. Mark's Church, San Francisco, the oldest Lutheran parish on the Pacific coast.

St. Mark's is in the center of an urban renewal program which it has supported by building two apartment houses on either side of the church.

"This is an example of the Church remaining in the city," Dr. Bachmann pointed out, "and not fleeing to the suburbs. Besides, the building that is under way symbolizes a kind of re-entry of the Church into the heart of the city."

Dr. Bachmann sees the work seminar as a method "to discover new ways of the Church re-entering the city and of becoming realistically aware of what is happening to people.

"In this way, we hope that the relevance of the Church will become more evident, and that the service rendered through the seminar—little as such service may actually be—may become a place of exciting discovery.

"For it may well be that in serving others, the students have discovered themselves. They may then be better able to decide on their own life work . . . The students, and others with them, may then too, have discovered that ecumenical horizons of church welfare work are both as far away as the other side of the world and as near as the anonymous neighbor."

The Rev. Herman G. Stuempfle, Jr., a professor at Gettysburg Lutheran Theological Seminary, Gettysburg, Pa,. directed the program He was assisted by the Rev. William J. Black, who has been working among Lutheran congregations in San Francisco to promote an awareness of the need for inner city churches.

BARBARA ANN GLOEDE of Staten Island, N.Y., is our "Lutheran Girl" for August.

During high school, Barbara was a scholarship student involved in such diverse activities as the glee club, field hockey, drama club and newspaper staff. Now a senior at Wagner College, Lutheran school on Staten Island, she has maintained an interest in these activities while preparing to be a teacher, with elementary education as her goal.

Endowed with wholesome charm, as well as ability, she was chosen "Miss New York" last year and represented her state in the Miss America pageant, earning an award for the best talent act of non-finalists. She plays the piano, clarinet and saxaphone.

Her church-related activities have included Luther League work, youth choir, and teacher of both vacation and weekday church school. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Gloede, Great Kills, Staten Island, N.Y.

The Rev. Henry J. Cornish, the pastor who nominated her for this honor, says "she has all the fine qualities you like to see in a young person, as well as a sincere Christian outlook on life."

Traditions Questioned—

Churches Study Confirmation Views

THE RITE of Confirmation is an important event each year in almost every Lutheran congregation. For the individual church member it is often a high point of teen-age years. In most instances a long period of instruction and elaborate ceremonies are included in the confirmation experience. So firmly established are the traditions of confirmation that many people are surprised to learn that in the past a wide variety of practices and interpretations have been associated with this rite.

In a recent book, "Confirmation in the Lutheran Church," Prof. Arthur C. Repp of Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Mo., has traced the history of confirmation and shown the different meanings that this ceremony has had to Lutherans of different countries and different periods. He also questions some of the present traditions of the Church about confirmation.

Prof. Repp's book illustrates a growing trend in all Lutheran church bodies to re-examine confirmation practices. Educational leaders are asking what is the best age for the rite (most children are now confirmed at age 14), whether children should be allowed to receive Holy Communion before being confirmed (confirmation has usually been understood as a ceremony of admittance to the Lord's Supper), and what type of instruction and promises should be connected with it.

Announcement was made recently that the three major Lutheran bodies in North America have agreed to participate in a joint study of the theology and practice of confirmation. A commission of 15 members will represent the American Lutheran Church, the Lutheran Church in America, and the Lutheran Church —Missouri Synod.

As a basic document the commission will have a 3,000-word report on the subject which was submitted to the LCA in 1962 by its own Joint Commission on Confirmation. Specifically the LCA's commission had suggested "for the purpose of stimulating discussion" that children be permitted to receive the Sacrament of Holy Communion at the age of 10 years.

The LCA commission had further proposed that confirmation should no longer be regarded as necessary for admission to Holy Communion.

America's Lutherans can look forward to lively discussions on this important subject during the next few years.

HUNDREDS of vacationists this summer are visiting the Chapel of the Transfiguration, located at the base of the mighty Teton Mountains in Grand Teton National Park, Wyoming. The simple altar of the chapel is backed up by a plate glass window, permitting a view over sage-covered plains and heavily wooded mountains to Grand Teton peak, rising 13,766 feet above sea level. The scene reminds the viewer of the Biblical verse, "I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills from whence cometh my help; my help cometh from the Lord which made heaven and earth" (Ps. 121:1,2).

JUDICIARY COMMITTEE of the House of Representatives called on numerous leading American churchmen to express their views on proposed amendments to the U.S. Constitution to allow voluntary prayer and Bible-reading in the public schools. Among witnesses were the Rev. Daniel Poling, left, editor of the Christian Herald magazine, who said he favors such an amendment, and the Rev. Dr. Martin E. Marty, right, associate professor at the University of Chicago Divinity School, who opposed the proposals. They discuss the subject here with Prof. Paul Freund of Harvard University. Advocates of amendment generally disagreed with recent Supreme Court interpretations of the First Amendment, which labelled school devotional exercises as an "establishment of religion." Many opponents of school prayers expressed the view that such devotions must be so "general" that they do not express any meaningful form of religious belief.

BISHOP of the Northern Diocese of the Evangelical Luthern Church of Tanganyika is the Rt. Rev. Stephano R. Moshi, who was recently installed in his office by Bishop Hanns Lilje of Hanover, Germany, past president of the Lutheran World Federation. Bishop Moshi, 58, is presiding officer of the 400,000-member Tanganyikan Church, formed last year through the merger of seven regional bodies, as well as heading a diocese of 160,000 members. He is also a vice president of the Lutheran World Federation.

SAILORS aboard the USS Yorktown are now worshipping in what has been termed the "finest chapel afloat in the Pacific." An all-new, permanent 60-seat chapel was installed on the ship during a recent five-month overhaul. It features pine paneling, air conditioning, new draperies, paint and tile in the Navy color scheme of blue and gold. There is also a new altar, lectern and altar fixtures. Pictured below is Chaplain W. J. Forsyth preaching first sermon in the new chapel. Noonday services are held daily, with regular services on Sunday. The chapel is open 24 hours a day for private prayer.

STEADY PROGRESS in bringing the written Gospel to remote parts of the world is reported by Wycliffe Bible Translators organization. At left, an Amarakaeri Indian boy in the jungles of the upper Amazon in Peru studies a primer. His language, unwritten until five years ago, was mastered by a Wycliffe linguist, Robert Tripp. At right, a Campa Indian girl is being taught to write by Willard Kindberg, another Wycliffe worker who plans to remain among the Campas for 20 years to produce the New Testament in the native language.

MISSIONS WORK BOLSTERED BY SKILLED VOLUNTEERS

A DENTIST goes to Madagascar where he serves 700 patients in two months, extracts up to 70 diseased teeth in one day . . . .

A plastic surgeon changes the appearance of a girl with a cleft palate who was ostracized from her community in India . . . .

A contractor helps build a church and school in Ethiopia . . . .

A radio engineer teaches technicians in Tanganyika . . . .

In the past three years, more than 80 such volunteers have gone abroad to contribute their skills at missions stations around the world for periods of two months to two years under the World Brotherhood Exchange. And they have gone at their own expense.

Some 600 persons at a dinner held recently in Minneapolis were told by Dr. Walter H. Judd, former medical missionary and congressman, that the Exchange's ministry of healing and witness had grown faster than could have been expected.

But he appealed for more volunteers for the fight against disease, poverty and ignorance, saying the experience of serving abroad could be the "richest" experience in their lives.

The Rev. Conrad S. Braaten of Thousand Oaks, Calif., Lutheran pastor and executive director of the Exchange, said 23 volunteers are currently serving abroad under the Exchange's auspices, eight will be leaving in the next six weeks and "dozens" are being prepared for service in the next four months.

World Brotherhood Exchange was organized by Lutheran leaders, but has since branched out to include persons of many denominations. Many overseas mission fields, as well as one among the Navajo Indians in Arizona, are served by Exchange volunteers.

JOIN THE "GIVE-UP GANG"

By Chaplain Robert Wayne, USAF

EVERY SCHOOLBOY has been thrilled with the adventures of Marco Polo, his father, Nicolo, and uncle Maffeo, as told in his book, "The Travels of Marco Polo." Born in 1254 in Venice, Polo recorded such adventures that they could only be classified in those days as untruths. Even today in England, an untruth may often be called a "Marco Polo" by young children.

The great Kublai Khan, ruler of much of Asia, received these travelers from afar and treated them well. He was impressed with their Christian faith and wanted to know more of Christianity. One day the great Khan expressed the desire that the Pope would send him a hundred men of learning, thoroughly acquainted with the principles of Christian religion and qualified to prove to the learned of his dominions, by just and fair argument, that the faith professed by Christians is superior to, and founded upon more evident truth than any other. The Khan had opened the door to the Christian missionary venture in Asia.

When the Polos came back to Venice, they sought the help of church leaders in sending back with them, on a second journey to Asia, some Christian teachers. Pope Gregory dispatched two men with the Polos as missionaries, Friar Nicholas of Vicenza, and Friar William of Tripoli.

When the little party entered the desert areas of western Asia, on their way to the great Khan, there were difficulties. Marco Polo tells of it in his book, "Here they received intelligence that the Sultan of Babylonia . . . had invaded the Armenian territories with a numerous army . . . Terrified at these accounts and apprehensive for their lives, the two friars determined not to proceed further, and delivered over to the Venetians the letters and presents entrusted to them by the Pope." These two men, on whom so much depended, faded from history and the Polos continued their journey and arrived safely at their destination.

Kublai Khan had requested 100 missionaries, but he received none. One wonders what he must have thought of these faint-hearted Christians. It was not until many years later that the Christian missionaries moved into China. If these two men, traveling to the courts of the great Kublai Khan, had persevered and trusted that together with God they were a majority, our present history may well have been changed.

The Spies Who Failed

The Bible contains a similar story of joining the "Give-Up Gang." Moses sent twelve spies on a long and dangerous journey into the land of Canaan. After forty days, the spies returned to the Israelite camp and made two reports, a majority report and a minority one. Ten of the men were filled with fear and brought in their report concluding that the Canaanite warriors were so fierce that the Israelites could not possibly possess the land. Caleb and Joshua, however, had faith that God would stand with them. The people were tired, emotionally worn out, and took the easier course of action which was to turn back. They literally fell apart at the seams and cried out, "Let us choose a leader and return to Egypt."

These stories are as familiar as today's newspaper. We start out on some adventure of life with high hopes and good intentions, but difficulties continually stand in our way. Instead of understanding that with God we are a majority in any situation, fear creeps in and we ask ourselves, in effect, "Would it not be better to go back to Egypt?"

When God lays a hand on our shoulder and points to some open door, some task that can be done, does He not always also give us the strength and resources to accomplish the mission He has assigned us? In the Garden of Gethsemane a great burden was laid on the shoulders of our Lord, so much so that the Gospel pictures the intensity of the moment when sweat stood on his forehead like drops of blood. It was a real struggle, but the Scripture also states that an angel came from heaven and strengthened Him, so that He could go out to meet His captors with His head high, with the realization that the victory was assured.

We must understand that when we enlist under the banner of our Lord, there will be problems, but the final victory is assured. "Therefore, my beloved brethren, be steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, for as much as you know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord" (1 Cor. 15:58).

DAILY BIBLE READINGS

To get most benefit from your Bible reading, we suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.
2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.
3. Read it when you are alert.
4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.
5. Look for some message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.
6. Reread verses which strike fire. When God condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

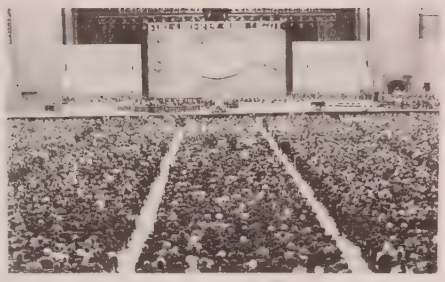
Churches and Civil Rights

THE LONG legislative battle over the Civil Rights Bill, and the whole movement seeking greater justice for racial minorities stirred the consciences of the Churches of America as have few issues in over three centuries of national history. Christians were not unanimous in their attitudes toward individual measures. Voices were heard which accused the Church of doing "too little, too late." But national leaders such as President Johnson and Sen. Hubert Humphrey called the rights issue essentially a "moral" one, and pointed specifically to Churches as having both ability and responsibility to help bring greater justice and harmony in human relations.

Pictures on this page point out some aspects of Christian action and reaction in the current civil rights struggle.

Activity was brisk in Washington as ministers and laymen met each morning for prayers at the Lutheran Church of the Reformation. Following the prayers, churchmen of many denominations went to nearby Capitol Hill to contact legislators on behalf of Civil Rights Bill. Picture at left shows a procession, organized by the National Council of Churches' Commission on Religion and Race, to commemorate the 10th anniversary of the Supreme Court decision against public school segregation.



Fasting, an ancient form of Christian discipline, was the form of protest adopted by the Rev. Clayton Hewett, Episcopal clergyman. He is shown below on his cot in a county jail at Media, Pa., where he went on a hunger strike to protest racial segregation in public schools. Another clergyman ministers to him.

Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace campaigned for Democratic presidential nomination on a segregationist platform. Clergymen were among his most outspoken opponents, however. At right a Roman Catholic priest, Rev. Bernard Strange, pickets Gov. Wallace as he seeks votes in Indianapolis, Ind.

The Methodist Church at its General Conference in May struggled with the problem of segregation in its own organization. A demonstration by Methodists, pictured at right, urged the Church to abolish its Central Jurisdiction, exclusively for Negro congregations. In a compromise action, delegates voted to desegregate gradually.

More reluctant were the Southern Baptists. At their annual meeting in Atlantic City, N.J., pictured above, this largest single Protestant church body in America, declined to urge its congregations to work for integrated membership.

In contrast, the United Presbyterian Church continued among the forefront of religious bodies supporting civil rights. Symbolic of this was the election of Dr. Edler G. Hawkins of the Bronx, N.Y. (center below) as moderator (spiritual leader) of the Church.

For many, a heroine of the integration movement was the wife of an Episcopal bishop, Mrs. Malcolm Peabody of Massachusetts. Cartoon above from the Albany Times-Union shows her as "Whistler's Mother" in jail. She was imprisoned briefly in Jacksonville, Fla., after her arrest for efforts to integrate public accommodations there.

PATRICIA ANN GREGORY of Alvin, Texas, a WAVE, is July's "Lutheran Girl of the Month."

Prior to her Navy enlistment, Pat attended Texas Lutheran College, Seguin, where she majored in music and sang in the chapel choir. During high school days she served as Luther League president in her home congregation. She was also a counselor and choir director at Bible camp.

At recent graduation ceremonies at the U.S. Naval Training Center, Bainbridge, Md., Pat was awarded the American Spirit Honor Medal as the recruit who had displayed "outstanding qualities of leadership," as well as other honors recognizing her "conscientious attention to duty."

Pat is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Miles J. Gregory. She was nominated as "Lutheran Girl" by Chaplain A. C. Boyer of Bainbridge. He reports that during recruit training she sang in the chapel choir at the Center and since graduation has been its director.

The Church and the Jewish People—

LUTHERAN CONSULTATION CONDEMNS ANTI-SEMITISM

ANTI-SEMITISM in all its forms was categorically condemned by an international Lutheran consultation on "The Church and the Jewish People." The conference of 40 theologians, pastors and church administrators from 14 countries met at Logumkloster, Denmark, early in May.

Anti-Semitism is not only a "denial of the dignity and equality of men," said the conference statement, but "primarily a denial of the image of God in the Jew; a demonic form of rebellion against the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and a rejection of Jesus the Jew, directed upon his people."

Confessing the "long and terrible history of Christian culpability for anti-Semitism," the report stated that "no Christian can exempt himself from involvement in this guilt."

While declaring its conviction that only "a return to the living God in the power of his grace and, through the forgiveness of Jesus Christ our Lord" could ultimately defeat anti-Semitism, the members of the group pledged "to work . . . with others at practical measures for overcoming . . . this evil within and without the Church, and for reconciling Christians with Jews."

Mission Ideas Clarified

The consultation was called because the Christian Church is in the process of rethinking and re-interpreting its entire missionary enterprise, said Bishop Heinrich Meyer, of Lübeck, Germany, chairman of the conference, and this raises questions also about relations with Jews.

Factors calling for special consideration, he stated, include the important Old Testament heritage shared by Christians and Jews, their difference as to the Messiahship of Jesus, and the fact that anti-Semitism is still alive in many parts of the world despite the horror aroused by the murderous outbreaks of anti-Semitism in recent years.

Christians must continue missions as an unavoidable consequence of their belief in the uniqueness and centrality of Jesus Christ for faith and for history, the consultants agreed, and that to exclude as a matter of policy any person or group from the Church's witness to this belief would be discriminatory. However, if anyone thinks that Lutheran missions engage in a "Christian witness" that violates the personality or the freedom of another person, treating him simply as an object for conversion, he is dealing with a caricature, Bishop Meyer said.

Call for Dialogue

Conversations or "dialogues" with Jews that "presuppose the existence of common ground as well as differences" are to be welcomed, the delegates agreed, whether these take place in formal institutes or between various groups or individuals. Such dialogues aim at understanding rather than conversion, but ought not to be "aimless exercises which do not deal with fundamental beliefs and problems," the consultation reported.

In the report on anti-Semitism, introduced by Dr. Harold H. Ditmanson of St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn., Lutheran Churches throughout the world were urged to examine their publications for possible anti-Semitic references.

"Especially reprehensible are the notions that Jews, rather than all mankind, are responsible for the death of Jesus the Christ, and that God has for this reason rejected his covenant people," it said.

In addition, Lutherans were asked "to oppose and work to prevent all national and international manifestations of anti-Semitism."

Congregations and their members were urged to "know and to love their Jewish neighbors as themselves; to fight against discrimination or persecution of Jews in their communities; to develop mutual understanding; and to make common cause with the Jewish people in matters of spiritual and social concern, especially in fostering human rights."

FORMER PRESIDENT Harry S. Truman led dignitaries in groundbreaking ceremonies at Fulton, Mo., for an American memorial to Sir Winston Churchill, who delivered his famous "Iron Curtain" speech there on March 5, 1946. The memorial will be the reconstructed church of St. Mary Aldermanbury, bombed in London in World War II. It will be moved stone-by-stone and rebuilt on the Campus of Westminster College. ACTOR Kirk Douglas and wife eat warm milk porridge and biscuits with youngsters in Hong Kong. Acting on behalf of the U.S. Consulate General, the traveling couple presented a mobile canteen to the Lutheran World Federation as a gift from the people of the U.S. The Rev. K. L. Stumpf, Lutheran World Service director in Hong Kong, said the canteen will aid in serving some 25,000 underprivileged boys and girls. The LWF operates four such canteens, four milk bars and 20 feeding stations for low income families in densely populated sections of Hong Kong.

STUDENTS from Lutheran and Roman Catholic seminaries at Fort Wayne, Ind., used a campaign appearance there by pro-segregation Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama as an occasion for a joint demonstration in support of the civil rights bill. The seminarians, and five Lutheran professors, marched and distributed anti - discrimination literature outside a hotel where Gov. Wallace held a press conference. Participating were 125 students from Concordia Senior College, a Lutheran pre-theological college, and about 30 from the Crosier House of Studies, a seminary of the Roman Catholic Crosier Fathers. SHAKESPEARE AND HIS CHURCH—Holy Trinity Church, Stratford-on-Avon, England, is where William Shakespeare was baptized and where he is buried. The 400th anniversary of his birth, being observed this year, has focused attention on the historic Anglican church building. Many churchmen and church publications cited religious aspects of the great playwright's work in anniversary speeches and articles.

ONE OF THREE Lutheran churches cited among the ten outstanding examples of contemporary church design in the U.S. is Hope Church, Paradise Valley, Calif. The church, built in 1963, was selected by a five-man jury of church building experts and nationally known architects representing the National Conference on Church Architecture. Designed by the firm of Maul and Pulver, Covina, Calif., Hope church was judged as a first unit of what ultimately will be a larger building and was cited for "attaining considerable dignity through the use of clean forms."

Beginning April 29, Monday-through-Saturday prayer sessions at the Lutheran Church of the Reformation on Capitol Hill drew prominent churchmen at 9 a.m. each day, who afterwards went to the Senate Office Building to contact legislators on behalf of the civil rights bill.

¶ Spain's Protestant minority is now more confident and optimistic, according to Jose Cardona, secretary general of the (Spanish) Evangelical Defense Commission. Official and unofficial pressures from the government of Spain, which is largely Roman Catholic, have long interfered with freedom of Spanish Protestants. Recently, however, signs of greater tolerance and legal protection for the Evangelicals have been noted.

¶ A Lutheran woman, mother of four sons and grandmother of 13, has been chosen 1964 "Mother of the Year." She is Mrs. Cora H. Stavig of Sioux Falls, S.D., wife of the president of Augustana College (Lutheran). [illegible] selection was announced by the American [illegible]thers Committee to coincide with "Mothers' Day" in May. Mrs. Stavig's four sons have achieved distinction in their respective fields of medicine, literature and business. Mrs. Stavig has served as a "foster mother" to many foreign students attending Augustana College, practicing her own brand of "people-to-people" diplomacy to foster international understanding.

¶ Electric lighting is to be installed in the Church of the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem. Until now it has been lighted only by candles. An agreement has been signed by Greek Orthodox, Armenian Orthodox and Roman Catholic custodians of the ancient shrine, traditional site of Christ's crucifixion and tomb, to permit the installation. The joint custodianship of the church has in the past led to bitter disputes between the three bodies involved.

¶ An American missionary said in Lima, Peru, recently that large expeditions into the South American jungles provoke savage Indian tribes to violence. The Rev. Mariano Gagnon, a native of Manchester, N. H., only American Roman Catholic priest serving in Peru's Amazon jungle, made his comment after a 75-man expedition of Peruvian engineers was attacked by savages.

Father Gagnon said that he has made many trips into the area without incident, but [illegible]er did his party exceed more than five [illegible]sons. More than that number, he contended, frightens the forest Indians and provokes attack. There are few tribes which have still not made contact with the white man in Peru's jungle area; however, those still left are very savage. These tribes are nomadic and depend on hunting and fishing for survival.

THE SOURCE OF TRUE LIBERTY

By Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

EACH TIME we go by the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor, we seem to hear her say, "Welcome!"

Perhaps you have sailed by on the ferry or taken the boat ride to the island on which she stands. Or perhaps you have stood at attention aboard ship as you sailed past her up the Hudson River to a berth or pier. To many an American soldier, airman or seaman coming back from overseas, she has been a most welcome sight.

Thousands have also sailed by the statue as they have seen the shores of America for the first time. If they have known what she symbolizes, they have thrilled to this sight as she majestically holds forth the torch expressing freedom for all who come seeking it.

Yet, it is possible to live in such a country as America, called "the land of the free and the home of the brave," and still not experience real freedom. Jesus Christ was bold enough to say, ". . . if the Son makes you free you will be free indeed" (John 8:36). That's right! If you haven't been set free by Christ, then you still aren't free.

According to the Scriptures, man is self-centered, a slave to sin, interested mainly in what he can get for himself out of life. There is a sense in which man is to look out for himself and also think highly of himself. We are told in God's Word that we are to love our neighbor as ourselves. But we are not to think of ourselves more highly than we ought to think. And we are not to be among those who "look after their own interests and not those of Jesus Christ" (Phil. 2:21).

Man can do some wonderful things. He can construct beautiful highways, improve the lot of the underprivileged, give aid to needy nations, do much in the area of social improvement. However, good as these are, we may do them merely for self-preservation, not really for the welfare of others. In fact it is impossible to do good to others purely out of unselfish motives; otherwise man would have to be perfect. And this we know is not the case. Man is still bound. He is not free . . . until Christ sets him free.

In order for man to be free he must be created anew. Paul says, ". . . if any one is in Christ, he is a new creation; the old has passed away, behold, the new has come" (2 Cor. 5:17). By permitting Christ to do his good work in us, we can become the kind of free men he intends us to be. He said, "If you continue in my Word, you are truly my disciples, and you will know the truth and the truth will make you free" (John 8:31, 32).

The religious people of Jesus' day balked at this. "We are descendants of Abraham," they said, "and have never been in bondage to any one. How is it that you say, 'You will be made free'?" (John 8:33) Jesus told them in forthright terms, "You are of your father the devil, and your will is to do your father's desires" (John 8:44).

Are you searching for a freedom which will set you free from guilt? Do you want to be set free from the power of a sin which has enslaved you? Then come back to the Christ of your baptismal covenant. Are you displeased with your lack of success in living a clean, moral life? Then come back to the Christ of your confirmation. Do you feel yourself trapped in a life without meaning and purpose? Then yield yourself to that One who alone can set you free.

Christ makes you free to become a true man of God, in the likeness of himself, who was THE true man of God. He sets you free to live that life which is pleasing to him, a life of unselfish service to those about you, your buddies, who also need to know this Christ who alone can set them free.

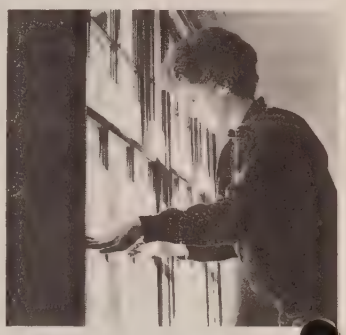
For renewal of youth—

Holden Village--A Place Apart



HOLDEN VILLAGE is a unique inter-Lutheran retreat center tucked high in the Cascade Mountains of northern Washington. Once an abandoned mining town, its facilities stood deserted for a number of years before the property was given to the Lutheran Churches of the U.S. Now it is a flourishing wilderness retreat, a pioneering "place apart" where Christians can attempt honestly to appraise their way of life.

Arriving at the dock after a three-and-one-half hour boat trip along scenic Lake Chelan, you face what appears to be an unclimbable ridge of mountains fortified with a thick forest. But a bus takes you the remaining 11 miles up a winding gravel road to Holden. The facilities, valued at $3 million, include 14 chalets, six dormitories, recreation hall, school house, dining hall, and hospital.

Pioneering task of reactiving locked up, dust-covered, partially dismantled and vandalized facilities began in 1960, when about 500 persons (mostly young adults) volunteered to do this work. The following year the work crews doubled in number, and by 1962 Holden Village was ready for its first "open house" season. Girl pictured at right was among the volunteers

Recreation is an integral part of the program, along with study, work, worship and meditation. The Rev. Carroll Hinderlie, who is Holden's executive director, is enthusiastic about the primary purposes of this wilderness retreat. He hopes Holden might be a place where the Church can renew its youth, although programming is not restricted to young people. "Man has got to get apart to get his perspective on life," he says.

Volunteers working on the trails, pictured at right below, express in physical labor, the basic purpose which the retreat seeks to serve. During 1964 the village is open from May 15 to October 15, during which time outstanding faculty personnel will dwell on specific subjects of Bible study; youth ministries; art, drama and music in the Church; philosophy of the modern novel; geology; the mission of the Church; Church and law, and family renewal.

In the latter part of the summer Holden will feature a Young Adult "Stehekin" and the First International Christian Hootenanny.

As one young camper put it: "The future is exciting. No one knows the real things that will happen here."

For more information, write the Holden Village year-round office at 122 West Franklin St., Minneapolis, Minn., 55404.

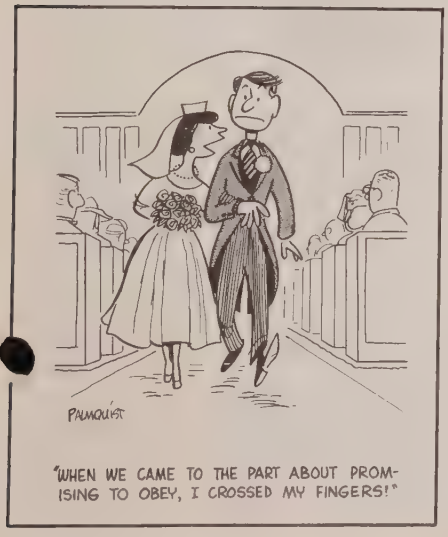
GIRL OF THE MONTH



ELSA JOHANSEN of Ivanhoe, Minnesota, is our "Lutheran Girl of the Month" for June.

Demonstrating high scholastic ability in both high school and college, she was valedictorian in high school and later graduated with highest honors from Gustavus Adolphus College, St. Peter, Minn. Now enrolled in the graduate nursing program at the University of Minnesota, she was recently named the outstanding nursing student in the state and received numerous accolades for her excellence in this profession.

Elsa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johansen, is a member of Bethany-Elim Church, Ivanhoe. Her church work has included the presidency of the Luther League, singing in the choir, and serving as organist for two years.

The Rev. James D. Ford, assistant chaplain of the U.S. Military Academy, West Point, for whom Elsa worked as secretary during the summer of 1962, nominated her for this honor. "During years of service to her Church and profession, she has always exhibited a friendliness and warmth with everyone she has known," he writes.

After Arizona Survey—

Belief in Basic Tenets Held Strong Among Modern Christians

A SURVEY of Protestants living in the Salt River Valley area of Arizona has revealed that a high majority of respondents expressed complete belief in the divinity of Christ, the Virgin Birth and other traditional Christian doctrines.

The poll was conducted by the Arizona Republic; the participants were Baptists, Methodists, Lutherans, Episcopalians and Presbyterians.

According to the publication, 330 persons replied; 650 questionnaires had been mailed out. More than 80 percent of the respondents professed complete belief in "10 fundamental tenets" of Christianity. It was estimated by poll-takers that some 40 percent of the valley's residents were regular church-goers. The study was made of persons in this group.

Several valley clergymen felt that the poll was a demonstration that modern Christians have kept the faith in the traditional orthodox concepts of their religion.

Episcopal Bishop Joseph M. Harte of Arizona said: "This shows a very considerable orthodoxy among people and exonerates our belief that Christian people do believe the basic doctrines of the Christian faith. It shows there is not a liberalization in Christian doctrine."

Suggesting questions for the poll were Bishop Harte, the Rev. Dr. Kermit Long of Phoenix's Central Methodist Church, the Rev. Charles E. Schmitz of the American Lutheran Church of Phoenix and the Rev. Dr. David C. Hall of North Phoenix Baptist Church.

The results of the survey:

1. Do you believe that the Bible is God's inspired word of salvation? Completely, 282; partially, 41; reject, 1; do not understand, 4.

2. Do you believe that God created man and the universe? Completely, 307; partially, 20; reject, 2; do not understand 1.

3. Do you believe in the divinity of Christ? Completely, 308; partially, 16; reject, 3; do not understand, 2.

4. Do you believe in the Virgin Birth of Christ? Completely, 286; partially, 29; reject, 9; do not understand, 6.

5. Do you believe in the Second Coming of Christ? Completely, 263; partially, 39; reject, 14; do not understand, 10.

6. Do you believe in salvation through the blood of Christ? Completely, 285; partially, 23; reject, 8; do not understand, 12.

7. Do you believe in heaven and a life after death? Completely, 297; partially, 26; reject, 2; do not understand, 4.

8. Do you believe in the Holy Trinity of Father, Son and Holy Ghost? Completely, 308; partially, 15; reject, 1; do not understand, 5.

10. Do you believe that God made man in His image? Completely, 272; partially, 38; reject, 10; do not understand, 5.

Some of the other questions asked elicited the following replies:

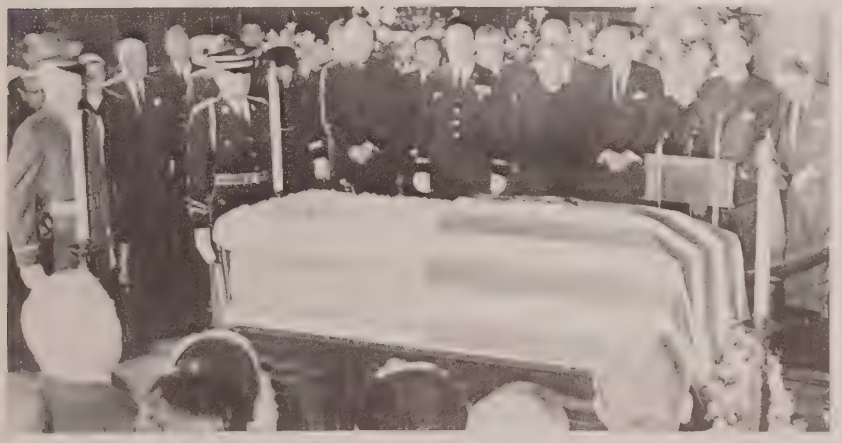
Religious sidelights on recent news events and other items of interest

CHRISTIAN REFUGEES clear ground for makeshift homes in West Bengal, India, just across the Pakistani border, in picture at left. They said they left Pakistan to escape Muslim persecution. Many thousands have moved into India, and are in need of homes, clothing, food and drugs. Lutheran World Relief is helping meet these needs. Religious unrest has involved Hindus, Muslims and Christians in India and Pakistan in recent months. (RNS Photo)



SOME CHURCHES were severely damaged and many others were darkened and left without heat as an earthquake of tremendous proportion rocked Alaska on Good Friday. Two days later Easter worshippers gathered, not only in churches but also in garages and warehouses, before returning to the huge task of digking out from under the quake's rubble. Despite the tragedy, Easter services were well attended, as at Elmendorf Air Force Base chapel (above), where many wore parkas and other heavy clothing. Early reports indicated there were few cases of major damage to Lutheran church property. (RNS Photo)

LARGEST CHURCH in northern Europe is the cathedral of Uppsala, Sweden, pictured at right. The Lutheran Church of Sweden celebrates the 800th anniversary of the archdiocese of Uppsala at a festival June 12-15 which will be attended by the King and Queen of Sweden and prominent Lutheran and other Christian leaders from many countries. The first archbishop of Uppsala was consecrated in Sens, France in 1164. The present archbishop, the Rt. Rev. Gunnar Hultgren is the 65th occupant of the office. The present cathedral was built in the 13th century.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES for the late General of the Army Douglas MacArthur were held at the Seventh Regiment Armory, New York City, while the noted soldier's body lay in state there. In photo at left, the Rev. Dr. Terence Finlay, rector of St. Bartholomew's Protestant Episcopal Church, offers a prayer before the flag-draped casket. At his right is Roman Catholic Francis Cardinal Spellman and at his left, Rabbi Max Schenk. Among those shown in second row are Mayor Robert Wagner of New York and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. Second Glance

¶ The little town of Ferrin, Ill., 55 miles east of St. Louis, has been pinpointed by the Census Bureau as the population center of the United States. The town is also unique in that every one of its 50 citizens is a member of the local Bethlehem Lutheran Church, and everyone except the pastor and the teacher in the Church's parochial school is related to everyone else.

¶ The 72-year-old wife of a retired Episcopal bishop became a leader in integration efforts in Jacksonville, Fla., in April. Mrs. Malcolm Peabody of Cambridge, Mass., who is also mother of Gov. Endicott Peabody of Massachusetts, was jailed along with others for her efforts to integrate public accommodations in the Florida city.

¶ Some British Roman Catholics have put a large share of the blame for a decline in conversions to their Church on the effects of the Second Vatican Council. In the last four years there has been a sharp decline in the number of conversions, the Catholic Information Center in Liverpool reported. Many respondents to an appeal for opinions on the decline attribute it to "the present friendly attitude of officials in the Church to non-Catholics . . ." This reasoning was disputed by The Universe, London Catholic weekly, which said that "a great many more responsible and unbiased views are called for before a proper analysis can be made."

¶ The Rev. Dr. Kurt Scharf, chairman of the Council of the Evangelical Church in Germany, launched a fund-raising drive among German Evangelicals for a "repentence church" to be built on the grounds of the notorious Nazi concentration camp at Dachau. He said the church will be "a memorial shrine for all victims of Nazism who lost their lives because they professed their faith and stood up for justice and humanity, or belonged to other races or were citizens of a state or members of a party opposed by the Nazis."

¶ A Danish Lutheran pastor, known for helping Jews during World War II, made a lecture tour of the U.S. and Canada during April and May. The Rev. Poul Borchsenius of Randers, Denmark, an expert on Judaism, has written several books on the Jewish people and the state of Israel. Using the cover name of "Hans Hansen" in the Danish underground, which he joined in 1941, he soon was dubbed by the Nazis as "the shooting priest." During 1943 Pastor Borchsenius was credited with smuggling to Sweden the small community of 20 Jews of Randers to keep them out of Nazi clutches.

¶ Communist authorities of East Germany are displaying a growing readiness to exchange ideas with church leaders—"to talk and listen"—the Lutheran Bishop of Pomerania reported. The Rt. Rev. Friedrich Krummacher, whose Church is entirely in the East zone, said the government has shown appreciation for the Church's work particularly for the physically and mentally handicapped. At the same time, he urged atheists to stop forcing their ideology on others through government power, public communications media and especially in the schools.

Is it possible to ACHIEVE THE IMPOSSIBLE?

By Chaplain David L. Windle, USN

DURING the summer months the tone of our worship and thus of our religious thinking is usually of a practical nature. We desire to put into practice, to use in everyday life, the teachings of our Christian faith. As Christians we want to follow Christ, to live the way He taught us, showing our gratitude for all He has done for us.

However the Christian life is not easy. In fact, actually to put into practice much of Christ's teaching is an impossible task. Yet, says Jesus, unless we do as God tells us we are not fit for the Kingdom of God. "Whoever puts his hand to the plow and looks back is not fit for the Kingdom of God" (Luke 9:62).

Throughout most of the life we are concerned about one thing, ourselves. Our world revolves around ourselves. We direct much energy toward that which is satisfying to us and we carefully try to avoid that which would harm us or make us sad. The limits of our immediate concern are usually very narrow and confining. While the statement of Jesus about "putting our hand to the plow and not looking back"—that is, following a straight line—may seem even more confining, the contrary is true. It is actually in committing ourselves exclusively to God and giving Him our attention that life opens up to us. It is in following the "narrow" prescribed way that we find what is really good and happy and satisfying.

Christ wants us to grow and mature in our Christian faith. He wants us to be the masters of our life. This can only take place when we, of our own motivation, direct ourselves toward the goal of the Kingdom of God. Our concern must be putting into practice the ideals of the Christian life, rather than living a life directed by impulse dependent upon our biological needs or personal comfort. Life is for most of us too full of meaningless wanderings, "looking back," by way of an attempt to recapture the past.

In almost every area there are tried and tested ways of doing things. In almost everything we do, whether it be work or play we follow directions, diagrams, or schematics. By following these we get results. Failure to follow them leads to frustration. When we travel, whether by foot, auto, aircraft or ship we must follow certain routes to get to a designated place. Irrational wanderings have no value and delay us.

Can not the same principles apply in the Christian life? God has laid down certain rules or guide lines or directions—whatever you want to call them—for us to follow in reaching the ultimate goal, the Kingdom of God. But we "look back," we wander from the prescribed way and go on meaningless and often dangerous and harmful excursions and side trips. We must admit that even though we have given our loyalty to Christ and have set his way as our goal, personal impulse often wins out, and we stray. The result: the things we tell ourselves we will not do, we do; and much that we have full intention of doing we leave undone. The ultimate goal of the Christian life is that there be a consistency between that which we profess and that which we practice.

Since we do "look back," since we do not give God our exclusive attention, who then is fit for the Kingdom? That which we are not able to achieve completely, Christ has achieved. He is fit for the Kingdom and offers to us his fitness. The compassion and mercy of God is given to us who believe in Christ. Our response to this is to follow to the fullest of our abilities the pattern set by Christ, to put into practice the things Christ taught us about living the Christian life, to give our uninterrupted attention to God and not become distracted by merely selfish concerns.

Christian Pavilions at the World's Fair

SPIRES, towers, crosses, famous religious art objects, and light beams reaching skyward will help project the Christian message to the 70 million people expected to visit the 1964-65 New York World's Fair. Religious pavilions offering a wide variety of features cover more than seven acres in the heart of the fair's International and Industrial areas, space which has been provided rent-free.

Lutheran interest at the fair centers on the $1,500,000 Protestant and Orthodox Pavilion, pictured at left below. Here the Lutheran exhibit, sponsored by regional groups representing the three major Lutheran bodies in the U.S., occupies 800 square feet of floor space. Its main display incorporates narration, music, and a variety of bright, colorful lighting effects, focusing attention on the Biblical theme, "Jesus Christ the Light of the World."

Near the display is a lounge area with information desk and literature racks. Facilities for private counseling are available, with a pastor on duty each day to answer visitors' questions and serve as chaplain.

An unusual pavilion, pictured at right, is devoted to "Sermons from Science." In a 500-seat theatre films on such subjects as creation, the atom, space, underseas life and other scientific subjects, will seek to show that science and religion are in complete harmony.

The Billy Graham Pavilion presents evangelistic motion pictures.

A controversial feature of the Protestant and Orthodox Pavilion is the film, "Parable," in which a circus clown is portrayed as a Christ-like figure. While some critics have objected to the film as "irreverent," others have defended it as an effective way to bring the Christian message to people who do not understand or accept the usual expressions of the Gospel.

Fortify your faith through
DAILY BIBLE READINGS

To get most benefit from your Bible reading, we suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading the Bible.
2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.
3. Read it when you are alert.
4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.
5. Look for some message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.
6. Reread verses which strike fire. When God condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

DEBBIE WRIGHT, of Hampton, Virginia, is our "Lutheran Girl of the Month" for May.

In addition to her many activities at Hampton High School, where she is a junior, Debbie "has been outstanding in giving of herself unselfishly to the needs of her Church," says the Rev. Robert B. Lineberger, who nominated her for this honor.

She has been church organist, Sunday school pianist, editor of the Luther League paper, and, at various times, secretary, treasurer and president of the Luther League. She has also been director of the chapel choir at Langley Air Force Base, where Pastor Lineberger is contact pastor.

Upon graduation, Debbie plans to attend college, majoring in music. She is described by her pastor as an intelligent girl with a keen sense of humor and pleasant personality. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wright.

Church Youth Told—

MILITARY SERVICE MAY BE A CHRISTIAN'S VOCATION

A PROGRAM to tell the Church's young people what they, their friends and families face when a young man goes into military service will be started by the Youth Commission of the Lutheran Church in America.

The Rev. Clair B. Hoifjeld, the commission's staff official who will direct the special program, said about 100 Lutheran teen-aged boys and girls will attend a meeting, probably at Fort Dix, N. J., this spring.

This will inaugurate the commission's "Program of Religious Encounter for Pre-Inductees," a pilot project designed to "acquaint them with what military life is and how it may affect them, their peers and the Church," Pastor Hoifjeld said.

Commenting on the need for such a program, the Rev. Engebret O. Midboe, who heads the National Lutheran Council's Division of Service to Military Personnel, discussed the Church's responsibility to youth facing military service.

"American society—including our Churches—has not taken proper cognizance of the fact that military service has become a serious factor for consideration in the life of most young men," he asserted.

Anxiety of Youth

Moreover, he observed, "one of the greatest single obstacles on the horizon for a teen-age boy today is the uncertainty about his induction into the armed forces sooner or later."

This concern extends to young girls and "it has been conjectured that this uncertainty is one of the contributing factors to the upswing in the juvenile delinquency rate," Chaplain Midboe noted.

Furthermore, he warned that if the draft age is lowered to 17 or 18—a possibility now under consideration—"the problem will be much more serious."

Pastor Midboe declared that a conspiracy of silence on the part of society and the Church has discouraged open discussion of the fact that a large percentage of physically and mentally able young men face some sort of military service.

"In spite of the fact that we know that this is so," he said, "this fact needs to be emphasized because this whole matter is not often discussed openly just like death, a serious handicap, or some such thing which we simply do not mention."

Chaplain Midboe urged the Church to take the initiative in mentally preparing a young man for military service.

"Unless a man's underlying motivation upon entering the military service is based upon a sense of duty and responsibility as a Christian citizen, he is likely to become a problem not only to himself but the service as well. . .

"The whole matter," he went on, "ought to be placed in its proper context over against the psychological, philosophical and the ideological battle with which we are faced as a nation, the comparison of our small sacrifice over against that which those who are battling for the shoddy gospel of Communism are willing to make and the simple Christian fact that wherever we are we may be of influence for good for society and for the advancement of the Kingdom of God.

Compared to Mission Work

"A high sense of vocation to the military service is as essential as a call to the foreign mission field, if we are going to carry out our God-given purposes in this life," the chaplain said.

Pastor Midboe also said that military service can be a worthwhile career for a Christian.

"As church people we are perhaps loathe to make such a suggestion to a young man because we are so imbued with the idea that military service is basically evil and that it would be certainly a rare thing, if not almost a complete impossibility, for a young man to be a Christian and serve a career in the armed forces.

"And yet, we must admit that here is certainly a valid call to a Christian vocation with high responsibility and commensurate opportunities for service both to God and to men," he concluded.

Also starring in the film are Felipe Alou, Bobby Richardson, Bill Wade, Raymond Berry and Bill Glass.

EXPLORER SCOUT James Sulerud, of Halstad, Minn., receives congratulations from the Rev. Dr. Malvin Lundeen, secretary of the Lutheran Church in America (left) and the Rev. G. S. Thompson, executive director of the Division of Welfare, National Lutheran Council. Scout Sulerud was one of 12 Scouts and Explorers chosen to represent 5½ million Scouts of America in a "Report to the Nation," made to President Johnson and other government leaders. Sulerud is a member of Trinity Church in Crookston, Minn., and an Eagle scout.

ALMOST A YEAR after a Supreme Court ruling banning officially-sponsored Bible reading and prayer in public schools, debate continues about the practices. At left, Rep. Frank S. Clark of Pennsylvania delivers petitions to Congress from over 22,000 residents of three Pennsylvania counties, asking return of prayer and Bible reading to the schools. The congressman is one of 35 House members who have introduced a resolution calling for a constitutional amendment to override the Supreme Court decision.

At right, Mrs. Madalyn Murray alters a billboard advertising the program of the Constitutional Prayer Foundation. Mrs Murray added an "Un" to "constitutional" on the sign stationed next to her Freethought Society of America office. The foundation endorses school prayer. Mrs. Murray was plaintiff in a suit which brought the Supreme Court decision against devotional acts in the public schools. (RNS Photos)

Second Glance

¶ Dr. Donald Soper of London, noted British Methodist, wrote recently in the Methodist Recorder that if "Beatlemania" typified western society, then "with all their faults, give me the Soviets. They at least believe that all aspects of life must be related to their overriding political beliefs." He asked, "Into what aspect of the full life of the Kingdom of God can we find a place for the Beatles?"

¶ Parishioners of a Lutheran Church in a Detroit suburb went "underground" during Lent to worship in "catacombs" reminiscent of the ancient Church. Every Wednesday evening during the pre-Easter season, members of Prince of Glory Church visited the home of a parishioner to hold services in the basement. As homemade candles and flat dishlike lamps flickered eerily and cast ominous shadows on the wall, members prayed ancient liturgies and sang hymns. The Rev. Alan J. Kieffer, pastor, said, "We're trying to emphasize the basic elements of the primitive Christian fellowship and worship." But he added that members "realize the Church today cannot remain hidden and secretive. It must come out of hiding and bear a fearless witness."

¶ A new Lutheran Service Center was opened in Long Beach, Calif., in February. It is located in the parish hall of St. Stephen's Church, 1611 Pine Ave., and is open Sundays from 4-10 p.m. Transportation is provided for servicemen between the center and the piers. Lutheran Churches in the Long Beach area are cooperating to make the center possible. It has ping pong, reading and writing rooms, TV room, a lounge with piano, and refreshments. All service personnel are welcomed.

¶ A 30-foot statue of the Apostle Paul will be erected in a downtown section of St. Paul, Minn., the city named for him. The statue, which is being prepared by Warren Mosman, St. Paul sculptor, shows the Apostle at the moment he was blinded on his way to Damascus to persecute the Christians.

¶ Presentation in New York of a play, "The Deputy" by Rolf Hochhuth, a German author, has stirred up controversy about the role of the late Pope Pius XII during World War II. The play presents Pius as a symbol of those who kept silent about the Nazi program of extermination of European Jews. The author believes the Pope, whom Roman Catholics believe to be the "deputy" or representative of Christ, should have openly condemned the Nazi genocide program. Defenders of Pius XII, however, assert that if he had protested the Nazis would actually have intensified the persecutions. They cite examples of quiet, behind-the-scenes efforts of the pontiff to help the persecuted.

PENTECOST is the time for confirmation in many churches. Pictured at right are youths in a Swedish parish, dressed in albs, a new style of confirmation robe recently introduced.

The movement of God's Spirit makes

THE CHURCH—A HOLY SCANDAL!

IT WAS NOTHING short of scandalous. The onlookers were amazed and perplexed. Indeed, to some it was quite obvious that the disciples were intoxicated (Acts 2). This was a fine way for respectable religious leaders to behave! But the disciples could not help themselves. At that first Pentecost they had just received the Holy Spirit. And when the Spirit is allowed to move freely, the results are surprising and sometimes revolutionary.

Holy Baptism was Pentecost for each of us. We received the same Spirit of God. Have we let the Spirit move freely in us? When was the last time the world was "amazed and perplexed" at the working of the Spirit in you? Have we Christians caused any holy scandal of late?

The Spirit of God is the life of God. He is a revolutionary and disturbing force in those who give Him free rein. St. Paul exhorts us, "Quench not the Spirit!" (I Thessalonians 5:19). But you must see that that is just what we have done. We have tried to control and contain the Spirit in order to protect our own comfort. An observer of the American scene has this to say about us:

> The Church is pleasant-voiced; endangering nothing in particular; an ornament of the Sunday pew; devoted to good causes in proportion to their remoteness; ignorant alike of the ardors of the mystic or the heroisms of the reformer; cheerfully assured that whatever is innocently agreeable is religious; a domestic religion, calculated to make life pleasant in the family circle; curiously at ease in Zion.

That was said by a faithful Christian who loves the Church. Imagine what the Church's enemies could say! Or is that just the problem, the Church does not seem to have many enemies? Who was it that said, "Woe to you when all men speak well of you!"? (St. Luke 6:26) Perhaps we have been more concerned about what people think and say than for the power of the Spirit.

PENTECOST—the birthday of the Church—is celebrated May 17 this year. It commemorates the coming of the Holy Ghost on the first Christians, 50 days after Jesus' Resurrection. This article, from an American Lutheran Publicity Bureau tract, describes the meaning of the Spirit's coming for the Church of today.

A Spiritual Tornado

The Holy Spirit is a spiritual tornado that breaks down all the barriers and excuses that keep us from obedience to God. The Spirit is radical and restless. There can be no safety or complacency where the Spirit is let loose. He upsets our pet ideas, shatters our prejudices, and makes us righteously intolerant of all wrong, injustice, sham and half-truth. In the face of wrong, J. D. Salinger says, "Most of us have learned to suppress, ignore, or outwit the occasional suspicion that the situation is not to be borne—only the young, the mad, and the saints do not know the trick." Men who live by the Spirit risk being considered naive or rather odd. God, however, calls them saints.

At Pentecost the Spirit was evidenced in flames of fire. He would now cause a burning and restless zeal in us. The man of the Spirit is not satisfied with the world as it is, because the Spirit will not accommodate Himself to the world as it is. So long as men suffer unjustly, so long as brethren are separated by racial and economic discrimination, so long as two-thirds of the world is hungry while one-third tries to lose weight, so long as some build shelters for death while their brethren do not have shelter for life, so long as the Church overlooks the thousands and thousands in the inner city—so long will the Spirit be a restless and burning fire in our lives.

The Spirit gives us courage to tackle the big tasks. Through a motley crew of Palestinian peasants He established the Church. The Spirit is no less potent today. The Spirit would accomplish the great acts of God through us. He moves us to a new boldness in witnessing to others. He inspires us to a truly sacrificial offering of ourselves to God. He gives us vision to see in every man a brother of Christ.

We need the Holy Spirit to operate courageously for Christ. At Pentecost the disciples were "filled with the Holy Spirit." The Spirit comes to you in the life of the Church, in sermon, song, Sacraments, and the study of His Word. May we be open to His coming and responsive to His moving! Then will the Church again be a "holy scandal." Then will the world look at us as it looked at the Early Church, in amazement and perplexity. They will ask, "What does this mean?" (Acts 2:12) And we will answer with St. Peter, "The Spirit of God is upon us!"

Sharing Your Experience:

A BEACHHEAD FOR BROTHERHOOD

by Sgt. Lars Nelson, USAR

AS A FORMER member of the much-publicized Berlin Brigade, it was my good fortune to be called at one time to step in as administrative chief of the chaplain division. The division, unfortunately, at the time seemed to be a confused and suspicious collection of warring church groups.

The Protestant and Roman Catholic sections rarely had any direct contact, other than through the chaplains' assistants dropping into my office periodically to turn in reports and gather supplies. The Jewish section felt so left out and removed from the mainstream of division activity that we never saw the civilian head of their office.

From this vacuum there seemed to be little hope of escape short of going to European HQs for "guidance." I had planned on beginning to chart a workable solution after the forthcoming Easter celebration, but I was spared the effort by the very curious turn of events on that day.

On this glorious Easter dawn, I was chosen to be the official greeter and guide for our Sunrise Service guest of honor and speaker, the Right Rev. Hanns Lilje, Lutheran bishop of Hannover, Germany. An old friend of mine from St. Olaf College days, Bishop Lilje was very attentive and understanding when I put before him the problem which we faced.

BISHOP LILJE

He was in great spirits and tactful form that sunny morning, as he deftly hurdled the task of presenting both an Easter message and an impromptu exercise in the brotherhood of man, for us and our Jewish guests. He then went well beyond his expected duties by insisting on meeting all the chaplains and religious personnel of our entire division, in addition to greeting the assembled military VIPs.

Since we Protestants had sponsored his presence, and were the largest group in the division, it was also our pleasure to accept the accolades for his tremendous effectiveness. Shortly after his departure a new quiet settled on our division. The deep impact of this dedicated man's visit made itself felt. From a new respect for our side of the fence, the other sections began to cooperate more in getting our common work done, and providing a witness for our God—which is precisely why we are in the "chaplain business."

A new era of brotherhood in this small area is the living testimony to an inspiring man.

GIRL OF THE MONTH

MAY WE PRESENT BETTY MONTICUE of Benton Harbor, Michigan? She is our choice as "Lutheran Girl of the Month" for October.

When Betty set out to enter nurses' training at Augustana Hospital, Chicago, Ill., in late August, she left a wonderful record for her home community to remember her by. Her infectious enthusiasm and devoted use of her talents played their part in her becoming president of the Luther League, teacher in the Sunday school, and member of the senior choir—all at Saron Lutheran Church (Aug.) at St. Joseph, Mich., where the Rev. Frans A. Victorson is her pastor.

Saron congregation named her their "Youth of the Year" in 1954. Early this year she won first place in the Berrien County Council of Churches oratorical contest, for which she received a free trip to visit the United Nations in New York City.

"Billboard" Awards Citation To Church TV Program

"THIS IS THE LIFE," TV feature produced by the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, has received the plaudits of Billboard, news weekly of the amusement industry.

Selected as the best non-network religious series being televised today, the program drew praise on the basis of its achievements in public service, raising of cultural standards, and religious programming.

This is the second year the program has won the top non-network honor. It polled almost three times the number of votes cast for its nearest co-entrant.

In the over-all category of TV Film Series Performing the Greatest Public Service, the Lutheran series ranked fifth in the nation. Preceding it were: "Medic," "The Search," "Disneyland," and "I Led Three Lives."

Participating in Billboard's Third Annual TV Film Program Talent Awards were 502 television executives who represented stations and networks, advertising agencies, sponsors, distributors, producers, laboratory men, and suppliers. Voting was restricted to one ballot per company.

As it begins its fourth series this fall, "This Is the Life" goes out over 265 stations. Its anniversary episode featured "Mrs. America of 1956," Mrs. Carl Deitemeyer, a member of Christ Lutheran Church, Lincoln, Neb.

Tanganyika To Be Site Of First All-Africa Lutheran Conference

INTRODUCING THE AFRICAN Lutheran to his fellow African Lutheran on a continental scale promises to be a gripping experience of the first All-Africa Lutheran Conference next month, according to Dr. George Hall, executive secretary of the Commission on Younger Churches and Orphaned Missions of the National Lutheran Council.

Undertaken by the Department of World Missions of the Lutheran World Federation, this conference on November 12-22 will have its setting at Marangu, Tanganyika, in the shadows of famous snow-crowned Kilimanjaro.

"All around, though invisible in the banana groves and coffee plantations, is the liveliest tribe in Tanganyika, the quarter million Chagga, who live on the lower slopes of this noble mountain," writes Dr. Daniel Friberg, missionary to Africa.

Recognized to be among the most progressive of African tribes in politics and in economics, the Chagga is one of the seven tribes in the membership of the Lutheran Church of Northern Tanganyika, which, in turn, is the most independently advanced Lutheran Church in Tanganyika. This Church is the first on the continent of Africa to have attained membership in the Lutheran World Federation. Appropriately, it will be host to the first All-Africa Conference.

Most of the 1,000,000 Lutherans in Africa have come to their knowledge of the faith through the work of 24 European and American missionary societies.

These native Christians live in pocket groups in at least 15 separate countries, using probably

DIVERSITY OF LANGUAGE will not hinder any of those attending the first All-Africa Lutheran Conference at Marangu, Tanganyika, next month from participating in its discussions.

IBM simultaneous translation equipment such as the United Nations employs is being installed for the conference, according to Dr. Fridtjov Berkeli, executive secretary of the Department of World Missions of the Lutheran World Federation.

This equipment permits simultaneous translation into five languages, a necessary device inasmuch as the conference will bring Lutherans together from the whole continent of Africa, as well as Lutheran World Federation and National Lutheran Council officials from Europe and the United States.

COMPARING THE FIRST 16mm release print of the "Martin Luther" film with a 35mm theatrical print are Lothar Wolff (Left) of Louis de Rochemont Associates, co-author and executive producer of the film, and Robert E. A. Lee, executive secretary of Lutheran Church Productions, Inc., the sponsoring organization. Since its world premiere in Minneapolis, where 90,000 people viewed it during the first 3½ weeks, this spectacular film has played in many parts of the world. It will be shown in a theater in Moshi, Tanganyika, as a feature of the first All-Africa Lutheran Conference next month.

THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY
THE LIBRARY

LUTHERAN PASTORS AND SEMINARY STUDENTS SPENT SIX WEEKS in study at the state mental hospital at Willmar, Minnesota, this summer. Their stay in the hospital was part of a full-time 12-week course in clinical pastoral training sponsored jointly by Luther Theological Seminary of St. Paul and the Lutheran Welfare Society of Minnesota. Here they are pictured as they listen to a lecture on psychiatry by Dr. Frithjof Sorum (lower left). The ministers also participated in seminars in which they studied dynamics of human behavior, discussed case histories, and heard lectures on medicine, social work, psychology, and similar fields. On their arrival at the hospital, the ministers became "patients" for a day at the institution. During the remainder of their stay, they lived with alcoholics and worked with psychotics. (RNS Photo)

Churches at High Membership Record of 97,482,611 Souls

WITH A GAIN of 2,639,766 members during 1954, church rolls in the United States recorded an all-time high of 97,482,611.

Religious bodies now claim in their memberships slightly better than six out of every ten persons.

This gain was 2.8 per cent over 1953 as compared with the U.S. population increase of 1.7 per cent for the same period.

Further statistics from the Yearbook of American Churches for 1956 indicate that Americans are donating more money for religious purposes than they have ever done before, new church construction is breaking all previous records, churches are staffed by the greatest number of ministers in history, and Sunday school enrollment is at an all-time high.

According to the yearbook, Protestants now number 57,124,142; Roman Catholics, 32,403,332; Jews, 5,500,000; Eastern Orthodox, 2,024,319; Old Catholics and Polish National Catholics, 367,918, and Buddhists, 63,000.

The relative strength of Protestant and Catholic groups has remained "virtually the same" for more than 50 years, the report says.

The largest single Protestant body is the Methodist Church, with 9,202,728 members.

Consecration of Youth

CHRIST, in my youth I come to Thee,
In these eager, valiant years,
With eyes undimmed by wisdom's tears;
Strong of body, clean of soul
I come to Thee.

Christ, with my youth I come to Thee—
With all my unspent years,
My eagerness unchecked by fears,
The radiance of my dreams,
My vision's far outreach,
My hope that gleams
Through slowly opening doors
To future years—my fervent prayers,
The ardor of my love,
My reckless faith that climbs the stairs
To heaven above—
Joyously, without restraint,
I give my youth to Thee!

★ About one million Norwegian radio listeners, or 42 per cent of the total, frequently tune in the Sunday church service broadcasts over the state-owned radio system, according to a survey of the Norwegian Gallup Institute. Next to news and weather reports, the Sunday morning church broadcasts were the most popular Sunday radio programs in the country.

Thus far, only the Lutheran churches belonging to the state church of Norway are permitted to broadcast Sunday morning religious programs, though a movement is on foot to provide these facilities to minority religious groups.

★ A son succeeds his father as president of the Finnish Lutheran Church of America (Suomi Synod).

★ Safe driving is a modern application of practical religion, declared Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, as he presented a safety award for the city of Chicago. (It placed first in a traffic safety contest for cities with a population of more than a million.) "Today's driver must drive to protect other drivers and pedestrians . . . the man behind the wheel must now be his brother's keeper," he said.

★ Taking a forward step in its treatment of the American Indian, the Evangelical Lutheran Church has disbanded its Indian Mission in northern Wisconsin in favor of assimilating into the regular congregations of the church members of the three tribes involved.

The Law of Love

BY DR. ROBERT D. HERSHEY
Pastor of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church
New York City

We love, because he first loved us. I. John 4:19.

GOD IS a tremendous dramatist. Watch Him unfold creation's story.

He starts with darkness on the face of the deep and the Spirit of God brooding over the murky waters.

Dr. Hershey

Then He says, "Let there be light," — and piercing shafts of brightness cut the dark. He separates the two into an orderly sequence of day and night.

He makes the sky, the earth, and the sea. He hangs stars and the moon and the sun in the sky. He puts trees and plants into the soil, and some into the sea.

To bring this all to vibrant pitch, He lets loose birds to wing through the sky, cattle and creeping things and beasts to move over the earth, and fish to swarm in the seas.

Then, finally, when all these are present, the stage is set for the grand entrance of the highest of all God's creation—human life, fashioned in God's own image. Man arrives on the scene.

It is into a furnished world that man comes with his infinite capacities, with his talents, with his desires, and with his needs.

Look at the tiny babe in a cradle. Crowding in around that bit of impotent humanity are all the possibilities that a lifetime offers. But the child lies there gurgling or cooing, completely unaware of it all. His parents, his home, the whole world about him—they are his heritage, unknown to him now; his problem is to come to realize all this and to make the highest of it. These things are ready-made for him; the question is, how will he respond to them?

Let us say it in these words:

The food is before the hunger and says to it,
"I've been waiting for you to desire me."
The river is always before the thirst,
Beauty was in the sky and on the hill before
The eye of man was fashioned.
Music rode the winds before the earth was framed.
Fragrance was in the rose before the nostril came
To catch the odor.
The picture was before the imagination discovered it,
The sea before the ships that sailed it.
The fish before the fisherman caught it.

God has always been there first. Nobody ever gets ahead of God.

How presumptuous it is for us ever to dream that we are the builders of the world—or "builders of the kingdom of God," a phrase which falls so glibly from our lips. The kingdom of God is already built! That's God's business. You and I have only to walk into it.

What we can really mean when we refer to building the kingdom of God is that we seek to help others find the way which has already been prepared—by God. Such concern is not to be minimized, of course. But only God is the builder.

It was John's exciting discovery that also in love God has always been first on the scene. He declares this beautifully: "We love because he first loved us."

This is an exceedingly great thought to anyone pondering over his own lack of love to God.

Love cannot be coerced and still be love. We may be able to force ourselves to go through the motions of pushed favors and pleasantries, but we simply cannot drum up love within ourselves. Its essence is of finer stuff.

Someone says that his life is dull and boring, just a tedium of hour following hour, and day after day, and week after week. That man is really acknowledging that he has never learned to open the door. It's a crime to waste a lifetime that way.

Open your heart and your mind to see the goodness of God! — and the love of God will course through your being. It's the law of love that our love is always a response to the initial love of God. If you don't have a love for God in your heart, you can be quite sure that you have not paused to appreciate that God has given you everything and that you have been put into this world to accept with a spirit of consecrated adventure all the possibilities that unfold to you.

Think on the love and goodness of God—think quietly and honestly, read from the Word about the patient love of God through the centuries, thank Him for the daily forgiveness of your sins.

Sensitize us, good Lord, to recognize Thy goodness to us—and then we shall love Thee as we ought. Amen.

PRESIDENT AND MRS. Eisenhower and Mrs. John S. Doud, the President's mother-in-law, presented this handmade limed-oak pulpit to the Corona Presbyterian Church in Denver, Colorado, as a memorial to four deceased members of the Eisenhower family. Just two blocks from the Doud home, this house of worship was Mrs. Eisenhower's girlhood church. The President and his family worship there now on their annual vacations at the summer White House. The Rev. Robert S. Lutz, pastor of the church, stands in the pulpit for this picture. (RNS Photo)

THIS ILLUSTRATED edition of the New Testament is a recent innovation by the American Bible Society. Examining it here are the Rev. Leonard Boyd and Dr. James Nettinga, both of the California area. Produced by rotogravure, the edition comes in modern picture-book style and is entitled, "The Good News." It contains 566 pictures, 9 maps, and 6 diagrams to illustrate and clarify the scriptures in the light of recent archeological and historical studies. (RNS Photo)

Children Still Choose Jesus as Literary Hero

JESUS IS STILL the undisputed favorite literary hero of children, this in spite of current fads for books about horses and Davy Crockett, reports a noted author of literature for juveniles.

All the Davy Crockett books ever sold won't nearly match the number of books about Jesus which have been published in the last generation, is the further declaration of Dr. Mary Alice Jones of Nashville, Tenn.

The director of children's work for the Methodist Board of Education, Dr. Jones herself has written 20 religious books for young people, with a circulation of seven million copies in ten languages.

"I'm a Davy Crockett fan myself," says Dr. Jones, an alumna of Davy Crockett Elementary School in Dallas, Texas, "but Davy is just a 'passing phase' compared to the surging circulation of children's religious books."

Speaking before the 23rd International Sunday School convention in Cleveland last summer, she cited four factors as responsible for increased sales of children's literature in the publication houses of the Church:

1. The rising birth rate, increasing the number of readers.
2. Parents' assuming more responsibility for their children's religious education.
3. Emphasis of the churches on family worship.
4. New outlets for children's religious books —five and dime stores, drug stores, groceries, and newsstands.

Tanganyika Is Site For All-Africa Conference

fifty different languages in their teaching of Luther's Small Catechism.

To illustrate the vast separations, missionaries point out that a direct flight from the ULCA missionary field in Liberia to that of the Norwegians in Madagascar is as long as one from Canada to Bolivia, South America. Considering the length of the continent, the Swedish missionaries and their converts in Eritrea on the Red Sea are farther from the German missionaries and their native believers in Cape Province of South Africa than is Norway from Tibet in Central Asia.

To help these scattered believers sense their oneness as a Church is a thrilling prospect for the All-Africa Conference!

QUALITIES OF FUN SET FORTH AT CONCLAVE OF YOUTH

"HAVE FUN but be selective in your recreation" was the advice the Rev. Harner Middleswarth of Philadelphia gave the 3,000 young people attending the national Luther League convention of the United Lutheran Church at Ann Arbor, Mich., in August.

"Recreation is big business today," he said. "Promoters and agents of commercialized recreation too often work under the idea that 'business is business.' The Christian has a duty to be selective and should work to save those who cannot help themselves from pernicious forms of amusement.

"Recreation should enrich life, not just exhaust the body and the purse. In this day of increased automation there are increasing numbers of unwanted and unassimilated youth with too much leisure time. They offer a terrific challenge to the youth of the Church," declared Pastor Middleswarth.

Motion pictures and songs that distort religion came under fire from the convention. The delegates firmly adopted a resolution "disapproving the use by the motion picture and song industries of biblical and religious material when there is distortion of its intended purpose—to convey the Word of God."

This youth group expressed its opposition to universal military training decrying the "emphasis of many governmental leaders on the idea that permanent military power is a solution to international tension."

Taking the positive point of view, the delegates endorsed the efforts of the United States government to "make world peace through increased love and understanding of other peoples rather than chiefly through reliance on the deterring effect of military or economic power."

Luther Leagues which had entered into interracial areas to promote integration of various classes and races of people received praise also.

Television Evangelism Mapped for Unchurched

THE EVANGELICAL Lutheran Church has produced the pilot film in a television series which it hopes will "reach the unchurched of America for Christ."

It was unveiled at a special screening in Minneapolis, Minn., and is now being shown to ELC congregations across the nation in an effort to win their support in producing the balance of the projected series of 13 half-hour films.

As planned, the series will have the general title, "It Happened to Me," and will dramatize the experiences of present-day persons whose lives have been changed by the Christian faith.

The pilot film tells the story of Barclay Allen, pianist, composer and band leader, whose meteoric rise in the entertainment world was interrupted by an accident in 1949 which left him permanently crippled.

After dramatizing some of Mr. Allen's experiences, the film is climaxed with an interview between him and the Rev. Norman Hammer, ELC television evangelist and former Hollywood, Calif., pastor.

Mr. Hammer spearheaded production of the film, which is a joint venture of the ELC's evangelism and public relations departments.

If support is obtained for the project and a series of 13 films produced, they will be televised in 1955, possibly as part of an inter-Lutheran all-year-round program, the Rev. O. H. Hove, ELC public relations secretary, said.

Co-producers of the pilot film were Pastor Hammer and Bill Karn, who also directed and wrote the script. Cast includes Myron Healey, Betty Lou Gerson, Dan Riss, and Don Harvey. The film is a product of ELC Television Productions, Inc., under general administration of the ELC's public relations office.

VOL. IV NEW YORK, N. Y., JULY, 1954 NO. 3

Ike Says Chaplains Are 'Too Modest'; Urges them To Stress Free Way of Life

PRESIDENT Dwight D. Eisenhower, speaking to the annual convention of the Military Chaplains Association in Washington, at which he received the 1954 award for "the promotion of good citizenship during 1953," told the chaplains that the great service they can render the nation, apart from their normal duties, is to make every serviceman realize what he is fighting for.

The Chief Executive appealed to the chaplains to do a more thorough job of explaining to members of the Armed Forces that they are "defending a free way of life."

Chaplains have a key role to play in "keeping up the morale and spiritual strength we need to defend freedom from totalitarianism in our day," he said.

The simplest and best way to do this, he suggested, is to "get over to them that they are defending a free way of life, and that that free way of life is imbedded deeply in the religious faith of their fathers."

"I believe it can be done ahead of time, and I don't believe we have to ask our fighting men of any service to go into battle not knowing what they are fighting for," President Eisenhower said.

As an example of soldiers who believed they saw a direct connection between what they were doing and "something deep in their souls," the President used Cromwell and his Puritan army, an analogy that likely caused some eyebrow-raising in certain religious circles, according to the Washington Religious Review.

"Now, you may have been a Cavalier instead of a Roundhead in your sympathies, but you do have to admit that there was a most efficient army, and they sang while they hewed off heads with a sweep of their swords," the President said. "They were highly disciplined, and greatly and wildly enthusiastic about the cause for which they fought. They marched into battle singing hymns . . . "

The President repeated a comment he previously had made about chaplains: "They were far too modest, far too much like shrinking violets, and were normally hiding their lights behind trees, if not under bushels."

He added the admonition that chaplains should have gotten out where they belonged to "do something about things," like explaining to the GI's what the war was all about — whatever the war.

In awarding the citation, the chaplains praised the President for his spiritual leadership, the example he sets through his own regular attendance at public worship services, and his frequent references to his own belief in God.

Assistant Secretary of Defense John A. Hannah told the meeting that the Army is preparing a new course of instruction to better enable men in uniform to understand "the precious freedom they are called upon to defend," and he asked the chaplains to play a large role in "putting the program across."

He said the program will comprise courses in the Declaration of Independence, the Constitution, the Bill of Rights and other fundamentals of the American way of life.

"Chaplains have a great risk to perform," Dr. Hannah said, "in helping the men to believe in the equality of man, respect for the truth and, above all, in the existence of a good God.

"Such beliefs will provide the greatest security for our way of life. There is no assurance that we will come out at the end of the difficult road ahead of us unless such essential beliefs as these are held by all our people."

Seek Full GI Benefits For Theology Students

THE VETERANS ADMINISTRATION is studying an appeal from Protestant theological seminaries that seminarians and graduate students be given full benefits under the G. I. Bill of Rights, even though they attend classes only four days a week.

Some seminaries operate on a four-day week, because their students do pastoral work over the weekend for which academic credit is given.

A number of seminarians have been receiving a reduced scale of allowances under the G. I. Bill as the result of a contention by VA administrators that they are only part-time students.

The legal division of the VA is understood to be preparing a memorandum for the administrator, recommending the seminarians be recognized as carrying a full-time program.

A spokesman for one Protestant agency which has called the attention of VA officials to the problem said that if the memorandum is approved, it will solve the problem.

Protestant Chaplaincy Recruitment 'Very Good'

RECRUITMENT of Protestant chaplains for the Armed Forces is proceeding so well that at least one branch of the Service is thinking of raising minimum qualifications for candidates.

Chaplain (Rear Adm.) Edward B. Harp, Jr., Navy Chief of Chaplains, says the Protestant recruitment picture for all services was "very good." He added that the Navy is considering re-establishment of its pre-war requirement that candidates have at least two years' experience in a civilian pastorate.

Chaplain (Maj. Gen.) Charles I. Carpenter, Air Force Chief of Chaplains, agrees that some trial period ought to be required of new chaplains, to prevent a situation in which the Armed Forces might find themselves with young men too inexperienced to handle the difficult assignments given to service chaplains.

A Furlough Coming Up?

CONTRARY to what you may have heard, barely 10% of France's population of some 42 millions believes in or practices any form of religion. This means that France, in 1954, is an almost entirely dechristianized land.

Probably not more than 7 million Frenchmen can be considered Roman Catholics "in good standing," a fact admitted by R.C. leaders, even though the majority of the populace is still baptized, married and buried by the Roman Church.

Though numerically small, French Protestants exert an intense vitality in evangelism, social work, foreign missions, lay leadership and religious journalism. They are actually a "leaven" in a secular land.

If you're planning a furlough in France, get from the French National Tourist Office in Paris an illustrated map-brochure entitled, "Journeys in Protestant France."

You'll find Lutheran headquarters in Paris at 83 Boulevard Aragon (Tel. Gob. 6164, the Rev. Etienne Meyer). Pastor F. Gueutal, Director of the Lutheran Refugee Aid Committee, is at 13 Rue de Poissy, Paris (Tel. Ode. 3241).

To visit the historic Huguenot region, contact the Rev. Howard Schomer at College Cevenol, Le Chambon-sur-Lignon (Haute-Loire), Tel. 20. As an American Congregationalist, he is well-informed on French Church life. (Next Month: Suggestions for Italy.)

E. Zone Churchmen Concerned Over Anti-Religious Teaching

LEADERS of the Evangelical Church in Germany have voiced "grave concern" over anti-religious tendencies in Soviet school policies.

The churchmen met recently in West Berlin under the chairmanship of Bishop Otto Dibelius of Berlin. They said developments at East Zone schools indicated that the Soviet materialist ideology was being systematically forced upon German youth.

"It is the imperative duty of the Church to voice to the responsible East German authorities its grave concern and to urge a change in the situation," the churchmen said.

Second Glance

★ Statistics issued in West Berlin by the Evangelical Church in Germany reveal that the number of theology students in the Soviet Zone has more than doubled since 1948. At present, a total of 931 students are enrolled at the Evangelical faculties of East German universities in Rostock, Halle, Greifswald, Leipzig, Jena and East Berlin.

★ Setting up of libraries of "books of religious interest" at all military and naval installations was urged in a resolution adopted by the Military Chaplains Association of the U. S. at its annual meeting in Washington, D. C.

★ Miss Marion E. Potts, 60, a United Lutheran missionary from Philadelphia, is being decorated by the Japanese government for her 30 years' service in educating Japanese girls. Miss Potts will receive the fifth class Order of the Sacred Treasure.

★ Among 12 chaplains recently decorated for meritorious service in Korea, as announced in Washington by the Office of the Chief of Army Chaplains, was Chaplain (Capt.) Viggo O. Aronsen, an Evangelical Lutheran pastor, who received the Bronze Star.

★ The East German Communist government has agreed to the erection of a Protestant and a Roman Catholic church in Stalinstadt, Soviet Zone steel city, reversing a previous policy of not permitting the construction of chapels or churches. Up to this time, both groups had been using tents, mobile chapels and rented rooms for worship services.

★ A new three-cent stamp bearing the motto, "In God We Trust," was issued last month for use as regular postage, the Postmaster General's office announced in Washington. The stamp is similar to a multi-colored eight-center recently issued, and also carries a picture of the Statue of Liberty. It is purple, and the same size as the present Thomas Jefferson stamp which has been in use since 1938, but which will now be discontinued.

★ The upper house of the Convocation of Canterbury, a group of Anglican bishops, approved in London recently a motion denouncing the hydrogen bomb as "a grievous enlargement of the evils inherent in all war and a threat to the basic obligations of humanity and civilization." The bishops called upon statesmen to seek an agreement to limit, reduce and control armaments, in order to "remove immediate threats of war and encourage the return of mutual confidence."

★ Leaders of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod and the Wisconsin Lutheran Synod have failed to reach final agreement on a doctrinal dispute which threatens to end their 82-year-old fellowship. They are the principal bodies in the Lutheran Synodical Conference, comprising about a third of the Lutherans in the U. S. Wisconsin objects to the Common Confession (a doctrinal agreement approved by Missouri and the American Lutheran Church, a National Lutheran Council body), has accused Missouri of "unionistic practices" by permitting joint prayer with persons outside the Synodical Conference, and further disapproves of Missouri's cooperation with the boy scout movement and the joint NLC-Missouri Synod chaplaincy service.

NOW HEAR THIS!

Ashamed of Your Christianity?

by Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

WHY IS IT that so many servicemen who count themselves as Christians are ashamed to let others know that they are Christians?

One basic reason, no doubt, is that many GI's, sailors, airmen and marines come from Christian homes and activities in their Luther Leagues and home parishes where they have never previously had to face the world's ridicule, as they now must do in the Armed Forces.

As a consequence, there are many servicemen who have hidden under shells like turtles, barely sticking their heads out far enough to make themselves known or their influence felt.

In the Armed Forces, there is a clear line drawn between believers and unbelievers. The world and its crowd take part in immorality and drunkenness unashamedly. And, many a Christian is hiding his light under a bushel—because he is afraid!

Pray God to give us more men who are Daniels, unafraid of the lions' den; and more Stephens, who care not for the scoffers' stones as they are cast at them!

Often, the example of a Christian who openly identifies himself as a "follower of the Way" can be a means of encouraging other weaker ones to step out in faith.

A young soldier lay on his bunk debating with himself: "Should I read my Testament, or not?" The first night it remained closed. He had heard more profanity during the previous 24 hours than he had in many months back in his home town. No, he dared not read. He prayed silently, but felt like a hypocrite.

The next night, however, the soldier had the courage. You see, even during the day he had prayed God that he might have the "guts" to let others see that he was interested in a book, the Bible.

And, so he began to read his Bible. Sure, there were cat-calls. Some of his best buddies poked fun at him. But he took it good-naturedly, replying with little comments of encouragement that they might do well to do likewise.

When the week was up, as he looked around the barrack, he saw that many a Testament had come out of a duffel bag, pocket, or other secluded place. He wondered: "Could it have been that there were others a little afraid, a little ashamed, like me?"

Still musing, "Perhaps they were encouraged when they saw me begin to read . . . Thank you, God, for giving me courage. Help me and my buddies to show our colors, and to be willing to witness for Thee and Thy Son, Jesus Christ, as the occasion arises," he prayed.

"If you confess with your lips that Jesus is Lord and believe in your heart that God raised him from the dead, you will be saved. For man believes with his heart and so is justified, and he confesses with his lips and so is saved." (Romans 10:9-10)

Do you have a spiritual problem or question which you would like to have answered? If so, you are invited to write to "Now Hear This!", c/o A MIGHTY FORTRESS, 50 Madison Ave., New York 10, N. Y.

MF Begins New Feature: Answers Your Questions

BEGINNING with this issue of a MIGHTY FORTRESS, we are presenting a new feature, "Now Hear This!", prepared by Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR, who has served with the Navy in Korea and also in the Pacific during World War II.

Chaplain Opsal

Idea behind the the feature is to supply answers to spiritual problems and questions which you may have in mind. In this way, we hope to render a service through the MF which may not be available to you in any other form. Of course, any Lutheran chaplain will be happy to talk with you personally about any problems. For those of you without this opportunity, we invite you to write.

Chaplain Opsal is president of the Lutheran Bible Institute, Minneapolis.

Prayer Room in Capitol Approved by Congress

THE SENATE has voted unanimously to join the House in establishing a prayer and meditation room in the United States Capitol in Washington, D. C.

The room will be situated below the Capitol dome, just off the main rotunda. It will be about equally distant from the floor of the House and the Senate.

This is the first time in the 154-year history of the Capitol building that Congress has designated such a prayer room

Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark.) and Sen. A. S. (Mike) Monroney (D-Okla.) jointly sponsored the resolution to create the prayer chamber. Since it was a concurrent resolution, the measure does not require President Eisenhower's signature.

In a joint statement, the two sponsors stressed that the resolution had been adopted without any outside pressure on Congress.

"We felt from the beginning that passage of the resolution should come only from the members' personal convictions," they said. "Our nation should get a life from this evidence of renewed interest in religion, prayer, and meditation."

They emphasized that the room will be "a place of retreat for members who seek help from that Power outside themselves."

The resolution made clear that the room will not be available for any formal worship services or assemblies.

GI's of the First Battalion at Fort Monmouth, N. J., study a "prayer reminder" placed on their mess-table. The "reminder" reads: "Each in his own words, Each in his own way; Let us remember at meal-time to thank Him for our blessings." Army men shown, left to right: Pvt. Paul Hammann, Pvt. Harlan Frederick, Pvt. William Fortes. (Official U. S. Army Photo)

Senate Approves Adding 'Under God' to Flag Pledge

A RESOLUTION that the words "under God" be added to the pledge of allegiance to the flag has been unanimously approved by the Senate. The proposal was sponsored by Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.)

A similar resolution sponsored by Rep. Louis C. Rabaut (D-Mich.) is pending before the House Judiciary Committee and is expected to be reported to the floor soon.

Sen. Ferguson's resolution was amended in the Senate to make it conform with the House's version. The Senate specified that the words "under God" should follow "one nation," rather than the word "indivisible," as suggested by Sen. Ferguson.

As amended, the Pledge of Allegience would read: "I pledge allegience to the flag of the United States of America and to the republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Lutherans Name Military Service Bureau Director

AN ARMY CHAPLAIN has been named secretary of the National Lutheran Council's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel. He is the Rev. Engebret O. Midboe, 38, a pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, who assumed his new duties in Washington, D. C., on June 1.

Chaplain Midboe

For the past three years, Mr. Midboe has been on active duty in the chaplaincy of the U. S. Army, serving as chief of reserve chaplains at First Army headquarters on Governor's Island, N. Y. He also served overseas for two years during World War II.

Chaplain (Capt.) Midboe succeeds Dr. Gynther Storaasli, a former Army chaplain, who headed the NLC bureau from June, 1948, through March, 1954. Col. Storaasli, who retired from the Army in 1948 after nearly 30 years of service, is now director of the newly-organized military chaplaincy commission of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in Minneapolis, Minn.

Chaplain Storaasli

Shortly before he was offered the NLC post, Chaplain Midboe had signed for another tour of duty abroad, but his request for separation from the service as of June 1 was granted by the Adjutant General's Office to permit him to accept the position with the Council.

The Bureau of Service to Military Personnel supervises a spiritual ministry for Lutheran men and women in the Armed Forces. It also maintains contacts with NLC chaplains, furnishing them with literature and supplies. It also acts as a clearing agency for endorsement of chaplains from NLC member bodies for service in the Army, Navy or Air Force.

WCC Leader Sees No Difficulty Over Iron Curtain Delegates to Evanston

DELEGATES of Churches in Communist-ruled countries are expected to have little difficulty in obtaining American visas to attend the Second Assembly of the World Council of Churches in Evanston, Ill., Aug. 15-31, according to Dr. W. A. Visser 't Hooft.

The State Department has shown "good will and a positive attitude" in dealing with the matter, Dr. Visser 't Hooft, the WCC's general secretary, said on arriving in New York from Geneva to make final preparations for the conclave.

He predicted that the Assembly will be attended by delegates from churches in Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Poland and East Germany.

Dr. Visser 't Hooft added, however, that the governments of these countries will issue passports to very few delegates. The aggregate of Iron Curtain delegates, he said, will be a tiny percentage of the total number of official church representatives at Evanston.

The WCC leader discounted a charge made in American Legion circles that the admission of some Assembly delegates to this country would threaten American security.

On this question, he lauded the position taken by the Chicago Tribune, which said editorially that "the danger to our security from the Evanston meeting is far less than the benefits it should bring as a witness to the common loyalties of Christians throughout the world."

"It is possible," the Tribune said, "that some of the visitors from Soviet-controlled countries may be heartened to carry on against the oppression of religion in their homelands. At least they will be able to see what happens in a country that believes in freedom of religion," the paper added.

While emphasizing that the Evanston deliberations will be a "positive Christian testimony" rather than a stand "against Communism," Dr. Visser 't Hooft said that such testimony represents a challenge to "totalitarianism of any sort." He described the Assembly as "a unifying factor" in current international life.

He said he was "encouraged" by the Assembly's prospects. Preparatory meetings held in all parts of the world have revealed an "immense interest" in the gathering, he said.

Assembly Tickets Scarce As World's Series Ducats

TICKETS to the Second Assembly of the World Council of Churches at Evanston, Ill., next month, are already as hard to come by as ducats for a World's Series baseball game.

By June 1, all of the 33,000 tickets for public sessions of the Assembly had been snapped up, according to WCC officials in New York.

Those holding tickets will be able to attend any of 11 plenary sessions in Northwestern University's McGraw Hall, where the Assembly will be held.

Ticket restrictions do not apply to the Ecumenical Festival of Faith, to be held the evening of Aug. 15 in Soldier Field, Chicago, which has a seating capacity of 100,000.

Reach All-Time High In Bible Distribution

DISTRIBUTION of Scriptures in the United States increased by 140% over the past five years and reached an all-time high during 1953 of 9,726,391 volumes, the American Bible Society was told at its 138th annual meeting in New York.

In 1948, a five-year program was adopted to double the domestic distribution of Scriptures, which then amounted to 4,047,915 volumes. In 1953, the goal was met and exceeded by 40%.

Of the total number of volumes distributed in the U.S., 509,298 were whole Bibles, 815,732 were Testaments, and 8,401,361 were portions of the Bible. In addition, chaplains distributed 1,301,145 Scriptures to members of the Armed Forces and veterans.

Eleven Lutheran church bodies contributed $120,189 in direct gifts to the American Bible Society in 1953, nearly 17% of a record total of $785,897 received by the Society from about fifty Protestant denominations.

UN Secretary-General Stresses Spiritual Needs

SECRETARY-GENERAL Dag Hammarskjold of the United Nations told more than 100 editors of Protestant publications recently in New York that the UN "needs the inspiration and support of those who represent the great communions of the spiritual world."

Welcoming the Associated Church Press, Mr. Hammarskjold stressed a "spiritual approach" to world problems which he said was a "common aim" of the churches and the United Nations.

The Secretary-General repeatedly referred to the "common aims" of religion and the UN in his brief talk. He said that because of these mutual goals "the churches have a special responsibility to understand the United Nations."

He defined the UN as a "secularized church to bring about peace and understanding."

Member papers of the Associated Church Press have a total circulation of 7,000,000, reaching an estimated audience of 20 million readers. Eleven Lutheran publications are members of the ACP.

New Lutheran Service Book Seen as Major Factor to Promote Lutheran Unity

THE SERVICE BOOK and Hymnal which has been in preparation for nearly a decade by the eight general bodies associated in the National Lutheran Council "will be a powerful factor in promoting the essential unity and the spiritual vigor of the Lutheran Church in America."

This is the prediction of Dr. Luther D. Reed of Philadelphia, chairman of both the Commission on the Liturgy and the Commission on the Hymnal, as he announced that "under favorable conditions" the new book of worship may be expected from the press near the end of 1955.

"Experience teaches that common work and common worship unites churches of a common faith," he said. "The National Lutheran Council demonstrates the fact that several Lutheran churches in this country can work together. The new Service Book and Hymnal will show that these same churches can worship together."

The Service Book and Hymnal will actually be a two-volume work of more than 1,000 pages in a single binding.

The Liturgy will be somewhat fuller than the forms in any of the Service Books now in use in the cooperating churches. It will contain an enlarged selection of Psalms, many new collects and prayers and additional occasional services. Three entirely new and complete musical settings will enrich this first section of the Book.

The second section, the Hymnal, will contain 605 hymns, with about 625 tunes. The latter will comprise a rich collection of the finest Plainsong melodies, many German and Scandinavian chorales, French church tunes, Swiss, English and Scotch psalm tunes, English, Scotch, Welsh and American hymn tunes and approved folksongs from many nations. Lutheran composers now living in America will be represented by about 25 original hymn tunes.

THE MEDITATION and Prayer Room at United Nations headquarters in New York City was visited by more than 40,000 persons last year. The prayer chamber is a triangular room, draped from ceiling to floor with off-white fiberglass curtains and carpeted in olive green. Twenty-five chairs are arranged in five rows. In front is a pedestal surmounted by a flower-filled shallow bowl, with the UN banner on a gilt standard standing nearby. (RNS Photo)

"Luther" Bests "GWTW" In German Premiere

OVER 55,000 Germans saw "Martin Luther" during the first three weeks of its run in Hannover, following its premiere showing in Germany. "Luther" proved a greater attraction than "Gone With The Wind," which had to run for four months in Hannover to draw 100,000.

People came to see "Luther" from the surrounding countryside as well as from Hannover itself, and among the 55,000 who saw the film were 29,000 secondary school pupils.

Evanston Assembly Theme Analyzed by Dr. Fry

AN ANALYSIS of the theme of the World Council of Churches Second Assembly—"Christ—the Hope of the World"—has been made by Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the United Lutheran Church in America, who is also vice-chairman of the WCC's Central Committee.

The Assembly will be held this summer on the campus of Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., August 15-31.

By having a "doctrinal theme," Dr. Fry said, "we are going to prove to ourselves and to the world that our fellowship is strong enough to examine fundamental doctrines of faith about which we are not as yet agreed."

"In so doing," he added, "we will at Evanston demonstrate to the world our maturity. This theme comes at precisely the time when the world is thinking in terms of a violent end. We are offering something to replace thermonuclear eschatology. The question is not will we be blown to smithereens, but will we be blown into Kingdom Come?"

"Christ—the Hope of the World," he continued, "echoes the urgency of our times. With life going faster and faster, we can no longer believe that we have forever to accomplish the task of Christianity."

This urgency, Dr. Fry said, will create new perspectives. "It points up, for instance, the absurdity in thinking in terms of race at the moment of eternity," he said.

Dr. Fry explained that another effect of the Assembly's theme will be "to make thinking about the substance of the Christian faith popular. Such an exhilarating experience," he said, "might even become a life-long habit."

He warned against people expecting the Assembly to be "something it isn't intended to be." He pointed out that the Assembly will necessarily reflect the wide diversity of those who attend it.

"If all the delegates were alike," he said, "the World Council would be a misrepresentation of the 20th Century."

"Delegates from very old and feeble churches will sit alongside those from the very young churches who are living in the future," he said. "There will be a contrast between State Churches and minority Churches. Some of the delegates will have their passages paid for by their governments, and they will not be ashamed of that."

"On the other hand, representatives of minority Churches will, in some instances, be concerned with survival of Protestantism in their countries. Delegates from conservative Churches will mingle with those from liberal ones."

Dr. Fry noted a "tremendous advance since Amsterdam," where the WCC held its first Assembly in 1948. Then, he said, it was primarily individuals working together to promote the ecumenical movement. But since then, he said, the Churches themselves have assumed the task.

The ULCA leader said that the many scheduled pre-Assembly denominational study sessions on the Assembly (such as eight being held this summer by the National Lutheran churches are preparing for the Evanston meet-Council) show with what seriousness the ing.

PRETTY Taina Elg, a Finnish Lutheran ballerina under contract with MGM, shown here with Lionel Barrymore, was standing ready in Hollywood last March to accept "Oscars" in behalf of the Luther film, if it would have won in balloting by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences. Taina (pronounced ty-nah) says she loves to cook Finnish dishes. ("Martin Luther" was nominated for "Oscars" in two categories.) (MGM Photo)

ELC Sells Home Mission 'Trust Certificates'

THE EVANGELICAL Lutheran Church has speeded up its program for building new churches by going into the financial investment business.

For more than a year now, the Church has been selling "home mission trust certificates," and putting the capital into buildings for new parishes. Response to the procedure, church officials say, has been "gratifying beyond expectations."

In 16 months, the idea has netted the ELC about $1,250,000 to add to its regular church extension fund, and this money has made it possible to help congregations build more than 20 new churches.

The ELC does not believe in loading down a new congregation with an impossible building debt. Church leaders think it is better business to get a new church launched well with an adequate building and a little help on operating expenses at the start. Then the congregation is expected to take over and pay for its church in a systematic way.

The trust certificates are purchased in amounts of $100 or more. They earn 3% interest annually after three years (slightly less the first two years).

Congregations pay 4% interest on the money they borrow for building. The other 1% is used for costs of operating the program. As loans are repaid by congregations, the money is lent to other congregations.

The extra income has made it possible for the church to plan a 1954 building program which will cost between $1,700,000 and $2,000,000. Cost of a single new church building averages $60,000.

Second Glance

★ Membership in the United Lutheran Church in America reached a record high of 2,143,020 during 1953, an increase of 2.6% over the previous year, it was announced by Dr. F. Eppling Reinartz, ULCA secretary.

★ Televised advertising showing persons pouring, drinking or opening containers of alcoholic beverages would be made a federal offense under a bill introduced in the House by Rep. Homer Budge (R-Idaho). A fine of no more than $1,000 and imprisonment for not more than a year would be imposed for violations. Rep. Budge said many parents strongly object to the effect of such advertising upon morals of youth.

★ A translation of the New Testament in modern colloquial Japanese appeared in Tokyo last month. Published jointly by the American, British and Japan Bible Societies, the new version was undertaken because of vast changes in the Japanese language since the war.

★ Unless the Bible is given a place in the home "no less prominent than the TV set," America is in danger of losing the cold war, according to Clifford F. Hood, president of the U. S. Steel Corp. He said, "Christianity and freedom are inseparable," urging a return to Bible Study to avert loss of individual liberty in this country.

★ The Hippocratic oath, the promise doctors make to stick by the ideals of their profession, doesn't mean a thing without an education that includes God, according to Dr. E. J. McCormick, president of the American Medical Association. He urges moral and spiritual training in medical and pre-medical education.

★ The number of Roman Catholics who joined United Lutheran Church in American congregations in 1952 was four times as great as the total of ULCA members lost to Catholicism that year, it was reported by Dr. F. Eppling Reinartz, ULCA secretary. He said the figures "go far to support" a recent estimate by Christian Herald magazine that 4,144,366 Roman Catholics had become Protestant church members in the past ten years.

★ Some 70,000 trained visitors made the rounds of 150,000 homes of 490,000 Augustana Lutheran Church members last month, to "tell the story" of Augustana missions and receive pledges for missionary extension. Goal was $2,000,000.

★ Officials of the German Evangelical Church Day movement have denied they made any kind of political pledge in return for permission to hold their big annual rally of Protestant laymen at Leipzig, in the Soviet Zone, July 7-11. A Soviet German news report created the impression that the Church had "bought" Communist approval for the rally by accepting certain political conditions.

★ Neva Jane Langley of Lakeland, Fla., "Miss America" of 1953, says that the Christian training she received from her parents has enabled her to withstand the temptations confronting a beauty queen. She said she regards the "crown of righteousness" she hopes to gain for living a Christian life as "far more precious" than the one she won at Atlantic City.

Holy Communion and the Wedding Service

by Chaplain (Lt. Cdr.) Elmer E. Bosserman, USN
Marine Corps Air Station, Miami, Fla.

PRACTICALLY every pastor and chaplain has heard the remark after officiating at a wedding, "It didn't take long," or, "I expected a longer service."

Many times we have the feeling that there isn't enough to the service; it should have more time for contemplation, be more impressive. The wedding service itself is beautifully written, so we would not change that.

During generations past, the practice was to have a wedding sermon which served a fine purpose, unless the pastor talked too long. Other than that, we perform the service in an average of five minutes, hoping to make it significant for eternity.

The question arises, "What can we do to make this very important service of greater value spiritually, to the bridal party as well as creating a deeper impression on the congregation?"

The answer is the inclusion of Holy Communion into the wedding service. The symbolical meaning behind it is perfect, and the spiritual value is of greatest importance.

As we counsel with our young people, we stress the commands of God in relationship to purity and sanctity in marriage. We impress the fact that in marriage two people become "one" if it is to be a perfect union.

However, in these days, the attitudes of the world seek to weaken and destroy every teaching of the Church concerning the high virtues in marriage. Virginity is not expected; extramarital relations are accepted and divorce is easily condoned.

These tendencies must be uprooted at the time of marriage, even before, if we are to preserve our extraordinary way of family life in this country.

It is felt that most couples respond to the spiritual value in having the Sacrament during the wedding. The doctrinal approach is sound. Here, we have a man and a woman who seek the blessing of God in marriage. They want to begin their marriage on the very best premise by coming to the Church.

However, we readily admit that as bridal couples come before the altar, there may be attitudes of sin already performed or contemplated, which cannot but cast a blight on the very threshold of the union.

We can best serve our people at this point by offering to them as they kneel for the marital blessing the opportunity to commune with Christ, asking and receiving the entire forgiveness of sins, and thereby entering into the state of matrimony in the most perfect condition possible.

There is also the fact that as they become "one" with Christ spiritually, that they will have the highest possibility of becoming "one" spiritually with each other.

The mechanics or procedures in giving the Communion have much to offer. Sharing the "love feast" with Christ answers the couple's most urgent need. Drinking from the same Chalice demands concentration by the communicant on the seriousness of the service. There is a release of tension on the part of the bridal couple, and the true sense of what they are doing pervades their minds.

It can be suggested that the exhortation, confession and absolution by given by the pastor during the counselling period. Then, during the wedding, the actual communion service can readily be adapted.

In the practice of this procedure, the expressions from the participants have been so unusual that the method can be highly recommended as a means to greater pastoral service.

LET'S FACE IT —

Sinning Made Sinful

"Every one who commits sin is guilty of lawlessness." (I John 3:4).

THERE'S a bit of vicious philosophy prevalent among military personnel to the effect that marriage vows do not count on the other side of the International Date Line.

This is about as ridiculous as the manifest attitudes of many which proclaim that God doesn't exist in the Orient, or that He can't see in the dark, and therefore, "Anything goes."

The curse of the modern age is not only that sinning is made simple, but that it is no longer accounted as sinful.

The moment that God begins to have His way in your heart, that moment sin becomes sinful. It rises up before you like some hideous ghost out of the past. It strikes terror into your heart; it numbs and paralyzes; it blots out your sun and leaves you in a stifling darkness.

It is then that your sin begins to appear before you as it has always appeared before God, and you begin to see how it has estranged you from your Creator.

It is when sinning is made to appear sinful that your heart is being readied for its redemption from sin. You then see its awful grip upon you and its horrible consequences. You seek release and forgiveness. You confess it; Christ bears it, and "the blood of Jesus cleanses us from all sin."

"Every one who commits sin is guilty of lawlessness." Whoever breaks the law and becomes "lawless" pays the penalty, and the "wages of sin is death."

Beware in that moment that sinning begins to appear less sinful. You then are beginning to drift away from God!

Yokosuka, Japan.

Lutherans Plan Joint Refugee Service Agency

THE NATIONAL Lutheran Council and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod have combined forces to help bring refugees to the United States under the 1953 Refugee Relief Act.

A new agency, Lutheran Refugee Service, has been set up to operate the joint program. Dr. Cordelia Cox, director of the NLC's Service to Immigrants, is in charge of the agency.

Church bodies participating in the National Lutheran Council include: American Ev. Lutheran Church, American Lutheran Church, Augustana Lutheran Church, Evangelical Lutheran Church, Lutheran Free Church, Suomi Synod, United Ev. Lutheran Church, and United Lutheran Church in America.

Lutheran Named Commandant Ft. Slocum Chaplain School

CHAPLAIN (Col.) Luther W. Evans (ULCA) has been appointed as new commandant of the Armed Forces Chaplain School, Fort Slocum, N. Y. He succeeds Chaplain (Col.) Joseph R. Koch, who is retiring.

Chaplain Evans, a native of Annville, Pa., was graduated from Gettysburg College and Seminary. Ordained in 1928, he entered the military chaplaincy in 1934.

Chaplain Evans recently returned from Korea where he served as chaplain of the U. S. Eighth Army. Under his leadership, American servicemen in Korea launched many relief projects for needy Korean civilians.

Celebrate 179th Year of U. S. Army Chaplaincy

THE 179TH anniversary of the U. S. Army Chaplaincy will be celebrated on July 29.

Legal origin of the chaplaincy is found in a resolution of the Continental Congress, dated July 29, 1775. It provided that the pay of chaplains should be $20 per month.

From this humble beginning, the chaplaincy has grown into the present-day organization of more than 1,400 clergymen of Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish faiths, who serve side by side wherever American troops are stationed. The chaplaincy is a special branch of the Army.

LUTHERAN AIRMAN William J. Stromer (right) of Marinette, Wis., has received the Soldier's Medal, the nation's highest award for heroism not involving actual contact with the enemy. Presentation was made by Col. W. S. Dawson of the air rescue service at Ashiya AFB, Japan.

Airman Stromer received the Medal for heroism in evacuating flood-stricken Japanese civilians from Kyushu flood areas. He was cited for "complete disregard for his own life and safety," plunging repeatedly into deep swirling flood waters to make rescues. (Official USAF Photo)

A FURLOUGH SUGGESTION —

A Visit to Holland

ANOTHER interesting European country which you should plan to visit if you are stationed nearby is Holland, the land of dikes and tulips.

About 39% of Holland's 10 million people are Protestants, including 70,000 Lutherans. Some 67 Lutheran congregations are scattered throughout the country, about half of them in four large cities — Amsterdam, Rotterdam, Utrecht and The Hague.

You'll find a friendly welcome at Castle Hoekelum, the Lutheran Center in Holland, at Bennekom, near Ede. This is a fine, romantic old building surrounded by beautiful woods, used by the Church as a youth center and for meetings and conferences.

Centrally located in the County Veluwe, Castle Hoekelum is open all year around, offering room and board for about $2.00 a day. It makes a good starting point from which to visit other places of interest in Holland.

GI's interested in further information should write to: Luthers Buitencentrum, Kasteel Hoekelum, Bennekom, Holland.

Bible Study Can Be Fun and Meaningful

STUDYING the Bible can be both interesting and even fun. The trouble many fellows have is that they begin by studying difficult passages. Yet there are many sections of the Bible which are easy to understand, and which have practical application for everyday life.

One way to get help in studying the Bible is through a correspondence course from the Lutheran Bible Institute, 1619 Portland Ave., Minneapolis 4, Minnesota.

A course entitled, "Salvation Made Plain," is offered free to servicemen, and treats man's need of salvation and God's willingness to save him, forgiveness of sin, baptism, Lord's Supper, assurance of salvation, God's power to keep, victory over sin, prayer and service to the Lord.

To enroll in the course, simply wite to the above address. When you have completed and returned the first lesson, it will be corrected and sent back to you with the second lesson, and so on, until fifteen lessons have been completed.

Lutheran GIRL OF THE MONTH

A TALENTED BLONDE from Schenectady, New York, is our Lutheran Girl of the Month for May. She is Miss Charlotte Sonnergren, 18, who plans to become a nurse after graduating from Nott Terrace High School this spring. She plays organ for services at Bethany (ULCA) Lutheran Church, and her pastor, Rev. John E. Nelson, reports Charlotte sings in the choir, plays piano and teaches Sunday School and is a Luther League leader. Her brother, Ronald, has served with the Army in Korea. (White Studio Photo)

"Martin Luther" Film Shown at Air Force, Army Bases in U. S.; Named for 2 "Oscars"

THEATRES at Army and Air Force bases throughout the United States are now showing "Martin Luther," and the film is also scheduled for presentation at overseas installations, according to the producers, Louis de Rochemont Associates, also distributors of the picture for Lutheran Church Productions, Inc.

The showings in 330 theaters at 205 domestic bases of the Army and Air Force, including the U.S., Newfoundland, Bermuda and Alaska, began in March, with showings at overseas installations expected to begin shortly.

"Martin Luther has proved an artistic, commercial and box office success," said Borden Mace, president of de Rochemont Associates. "It has played in more than 2,000 theaters in the United States, and therefore we felt it should be shown to our Armed Forces as well."

Lutheran GI's and airmen are urged to encourage all Protestants to see "Martin Luther" when it is shown at their camps or bases.

"Martin Luther" was one of five films nominated for two of Hollywood's prized "Oscars", out of hundreds of pictures produced in 1953.

Henry Endress, executive secretary of Lutheran Church Productions, Inc., termed the two nominations a "wonderful achievement."

"Luther" was named for "Oscars" for "best black-and-white photography" (won by "From Here to Eternity") and for "best black-and-white art direction" (won by "Julius Caesar").

During award ceremonies conducted by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, scenes from "Luther" were flashed across an estimated 40,000,000 TV sets over the nation, as home viewers watched the NBC network telecast of the proceedings on March 25.

Lutheran Service Commission Names Chaplain Sitler First Service Pastor for West Germany

THE LUTHERAN Service Commission has announced the appointment of Chaplain Carl M. Sitler (ALC) as service pastor in the Kaiserslautern area of West Germany, the first such project by the LSC in Europe.

Kaiserslautern, west of Mannheim and the Rhine River, is a city of 70,000, and it is the central point in a large military area.

Chaplain Sitler's task will be to render a spiritual ministry to Lutherans stationed in the area, plus conducting survey work and conferences with military representatives, Armed Forces chaplains and local Lutheran pastors. He is a retired Navy chaplain.

Upon completion of the survey work, if needs warrant such, a Lutheran service center will be opened under auspices of the LSC.

The Commission is a joint agency of the National Lutheran Council and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod. LSC hopes to expand other work outside the continental U.S., and already operates centers in Formosa and Japan.

Chaplain Sitler has a long military record, beginning in the Army during World War I. He was commissioned by the Navy in 1931, and has served aboard the USS Melville, New Orleans, Maryland and F. D. Roosevelt, plus tours of duty ashore at Newport, R. I.; Philadelphia, Pa.; American Samoa; San Diego and Long Beach, Calif.; and Portsmouth, Va.

Before entering the Navy, Chaplain Sitler did post-graduate study at the University of Southern California and Ohio State University. He is a graduate of Thiel College, Greenville, Pa., and the Lutheran Seminary at Columbus, O. He has a son currently serving in the Navy.

Educator Says Federation, Not Union, 'Only Hope' For Real Lutheran Unity

FEDERATION, rather than union, is "the only hope for real unity" among the Lutheran churches of the United States, according to Dr. Clarence C. Stoughton, president of Wittenberg College, Springfield, O.

The Ohio Lutheran (ULCA) educator stresses that "for the Lutheran churches of America, the pattern is already established in the 36-year-old National Lutheran Council."

"A history of its accomplishments in this brief period is breath-taking," he says. "And this was done without conformity, without loss of cultural heritage, and without overbearing power.

"The areas in which further work is possible are virtually unlimited. If we will but look, we shall discover in the pattern already established the possibility of a really glorious unity.

"It will be the unity of federation, the only kind—beyond that of the presently existing communion—that I believe worth striving and praying for."

Dr. Stoughton is a former stewardship secretary of the United Lutheran Church in America, current director of its Lutheran Laymen's Movement for Stewardship, and former president of Wagner College (ULCA), Staten Island, N. Y.

New Psychiatry School Emphasizes Faith Needs

A NEW SCHOOL of psychiatric thought developing in Sigmund Freud's home city of Vienna, Austria, is based on the belief that man's urge for spiritual life is equal to, if not greater, than his drives for personal ambition and sexual satisfaction.

This was disclosed by Dr. M. Arthur Kline of Vienna University's medical faculty in an article, "We are Born to Believe," featured in the April Woman's Home Companion.

Dr. Kline said the leader of the psychiatric movement is Dr. Viktor Frankl, teacher of psychiatry at the university and head of the Austrian Medical Psychotherapy Society.

Dr. Frankl's belief, he said, is simply that "men and women are driven not only by sex and ambition, but also by an over-riding need for God," and that they "must overcome the modern-day notion that religion and God are not real needs and that it is 'unsophisticated' to search for a spiritual side of life."

Treatises by Dr. Frankl amplifying his theories are being introduced into medical schools, and his method into clinics for the mentally-disturbed in France, Spain, Italy, Netherlands, Germany and Argentina, Dr. Kline said, but his lessons have been overlooked in the U.S.

Dr. Frankl says that he and his followers "recognize that man is often more religious than he thinks."

"More men have laid down their lives for spiritual ideals than for sexual love," he states. "How, then, can psychiatrists logically place all their stress on sexual motivation and ignore other interests which are proven to be quite as strong?

"Psychiatrists who ignore the spiritual side of mental disorders are like doctors who pretend the patient has no body above his neck. Doctors of internal medicine agree that a physician must consider the patient's psychological condition; so must the doctor also consider his spiritual condition.

"Ours is an age of intellectual confusion with a topsy-turvy sense of values. Materialism rides high; indifferentism is in the saddle. Our time is a period of deep tragedy and acute political crisis. To take the shocks of wars and threats of war with no religious beliefs to support us is a task too great for men."

Dr. Frankl blames major emotional problems of the day on "modern suppression of our need for religion."

"Today," he says, "when most men and women have conquered their bashfulness about sexual emotions, they are increasingly troubled by their suppression of religious feelings. They are replacing sex-shyness with God-shyness.

"To deny the spiritual side of one's nature does it great violence. I have known many cases where patients who were willing to expose every detail of their sexual histories without shame became tongue-tied when I inquired about their spiritual lives.

"We can hide our innermost feelings about God from other people, but if we conceal them from our own conscious minds, we arouse conflicts in ourselves more deadly than those of the spinster of 50 years ago who denied to herself that she found men attractive."

Dr. Frankl estimates that three quarters of the people of Europe suffer from some fear of "suppression of the spiritual," which he calls "the real pathology of our age."

Neon Cross on Church Warns Pittsburgh Planes

An eight-foot neon-lighted cross has been put on the steeple of Union church in Pittsburgh, Pa., as a warning to low-flying planes.

The church is only about two seconds flying time from the Pittsburgh airport, and in direct line with one of its busiest runways.

The lighted cross has become popular with pilots who use it like a beacon because it can be seen all the way from the Ohio border.

"I thought it was some sort of commercial advertising at first," one pilot said. "But now most of us are using it as a guide to the field."

Second Glance

★ More than 4,000,000 American Roman Catholics have joined Protestant churches in the last 10 years, according to Christian Herald, non-denominational monthly magazine, which polled 25,000 of the 181,000 Protestant pastors in the U.S. Projecting the conversion statistics against the total of Protestant pastors, the magazine estimates there have been 4,144,366 Catholic-to-Protestant conversions since 1944.

★ An eight-cent stamp, printed in red, white and blue, is the first regular United States postage stamp to bear the motto, "In God We Trust." Issued early in April, the stamp also bears a picture of the Statue of Liberty. It is the first multicolored regular stamp of a small denomination in U.S. history. The new stamp meets a request from Congressmen that the U.S. use a religious theme on its stamps going behind the Iron Curtain to emphasize the spiritual beliefs of this country in contrast to the atheism of Communism. The eight-cent postage is used principally for international mail.

★ A color film on the life of John Wesley, founder of Methodism, has had its premiere showing in New York city. "John Wesley" was made in England for the Methodist Church by Religious Films, Ltd., of London, a subsidiary of the J. Arthur Rank organization.

★ In Poland, Warsaw's largest Lutheran church has been converted into a concert hall by Communist authorities. The church — Holy Trinity — was destroyed during the siege of Warsaw in 1939, and rebuilt through government subsidies and voluntary contributions from Lutherans in Poland, the U.S. and other parts of the world. Communist officials have removed a huge wooden cross from atop the church.

★ The Soviet Zone government has given the German Evangelical Church permission to hold its big annual rally of Protestant laymen in Leipzig, July 7-11. Permission is reportedly conditioned on Church leaders' anticipated refusal to tolerate statements or actions during the rally which support the West German government's European defense policy, or are otherwise contrary to the Soviet Zone political position. This will be the first time since World War II that the rally will convene in an East German city.

★ The American Bible Society reports that the demand for the Bible in Asia is greater than it has ever been. Asians, the Society said, are beginning to recognize that the way of faith is the way of freedom, in contrast to a way of life which is frankly irreligious.

★ The "official" periodicals of eight church bodies affiliated with the National Lutheran Council now have a combined circulation of 424,329, according to a survey made by the NLC's News Bureau. The periodicals have gained 56% since 1947, and it is estimated that they are read by more than half of the 3,064,000 confirmed members of the eight church groups.

St. Louis Lays Claims to Lutheran "Center" Title

ST. LOUIS, headquarters city of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, is the latest claimant to the title, "Center of Lutheranism."

Already heard from in the friendly controversy have been Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, and Duluth, Minn., in that order. Now, the St. Louis Lutheran, bi-weekly periodical of the Lutheran Publicity Organization of Greater St. Louis, has decided to "get in on the fun."

"The only thing that surprises us about all these claims," says the paper in a recent editorial, "is that they have been going on when everyone knows that St. Louis is the real 'center' of Lutheranism in the United States."

Noting that "accumulation of numbers doesn't make a place a center unless people look to it as such," the periodical points out that "approximately 2,000,000 Missouri Synod Lutherans look to St. Louis as their center."

St. Louis, according to the editorial, has the largest Lutheran seminary (Concordia), the largest Lutheran publishing house (Concordia), the largest audio-visual aids program of any Protestant denomination, the only Lutheran-owned radio station, and the largest and most active Historical Institute in the Lutheran Church.

The paper points out that St. Louis is also the headquarters for the largest religious radio program in the world ("Lutheran Hour"), the largest Protestant lay organization in the world (the 75,000-member Lutheran Laymen's League), and the largest television program of its kind anywhere (Missouri Synod's TV program, "This Is The Life").

And, "as a closing thought," the periodical claims that St. Louis "probably" has more Lutheran cemeteries than any other city in the United States.

"It's all nice clean fun to call Chicago, New York, Philadelphia or Duluth the 'center' of Lutheranism," the editorial concluded. "But, when you get right down to the facts, ma'am, it's really a case for St. Louis."

NLC Lutherans Organize Spring Clothing Appeal

THE ANNUAL spring clothing appeal of Lutheran World Relief is being held this month, May 2-9, according to Mr. Bernard A. Confer, executive secretary of the NLC agency.

Calling on Lutherans to "demonstrate anew our concern for all His sheep," Mr. Confer said that U.S. Lutherans had gathered more than 2,600,000 lbs. of used clothing and shoes for relief purposes last fall, in response to LWR's Thanksgiving clothing appeal.

"Once again we must face the harsh fact that severe need still exists in many areas of the world," he said.

"Refugees from the Soviet Zone continue to stream through Berlin into West Germany; millions of innocent people are suffering in war-ravaged Korea; and in the Middle East, Palestinian refugees huddling in hovels and tent camps are sorely in need of what we have to share."

Between last November through January, Mr. Confer said, Lutheran World Relief shipped more than $1,000,000 worth of supplies overseas each month during the four-month period.

Lutheran Military Personnel Receive Honors

RADARMAN 3C Jim Fent (below, right) of Bellefontaine, O., met his former hometown pastor in Yokosuka, Japan, recently. He was reunited with Lt. (jg) E. Ellsworth Campbell, former pastor of Philadelphia (ULCA) Lutheran Church, DeGraff, O., now chaplain of Destroyer Squadron 22. Fent's ship, USS Delta, a repair vessel, was tied up next to Chaplain Campbell's destroyer, USS Owens, and the chaplain came on board the Delta to conduct services. Jim said he was "really flabbergasted" to see his former pastor again.

Suggestions for G.I. Furloughs —

Switzerland: Crossroads of Europe

IF YOU are stationed in Europe, you ought to plan to spend at least a week's furlough in Switzerland soon, for an experience you'll not soon forget.

Don't worry about languages. A high percentage of Swiss speak excellent English, though German, French and Italian are the tiny (pop. 4,750,000) country's official languages.

In addition to travel information which you can get from your Special Services Officer, we would like to add a few suggestions so that you can see something extra in church life.

In Geneva, where John Calvin once lived (out of his teachings stem churches like Presbyterian and Reformed), you can find headquarters for the Lutheran World Federation and the World Council of Churches at 17 Route de Malagnou.

At the same address are offices of the Presbyterian World Alliance and the Brethren Service Commission. The World's Student Christian Federation is at 13 Rue Calvin, Geneva.

Outside Geneva in a charming old French chateau is the Ecumenical Institute, operated by the WCC, specializing in problems of Christian laymen and professional people.

(Literally, "ecumenical" means "world-wide," and is a term used to describe a growing awareness among Christians that they have fellow-Christians among other churches not of their own denomination.)

In southern Switzerland, at Locarno, situated on a high slope overlooking beautiful Lake Maggiore, is "Casa Locarno," an ecumenical rest center for European pastors and church leaders operated by the WCC with the aid of Lutheran World Action gifts.

In the "Casa", you'll find, as guests, tired, overworked pastors spending unhurried, pampered leisure in an inter-faith atmosphere, regaining strength of body and spirit before returning to regular parish duties. Many are Lutheran pastors from Germany, Austria and Scandinavia.

There is complete freedom of worship in Switzerland. About 58% of the population is Protestant, with the remainder Roman Catholic. You'll find several English-speaking congregations (non-Lutheran) in larger cities like Geneva or Zurich.

You'll see more mountains in Switzerland than perhaps anywhere else in the world, since 61% of the nation's 16,000 sq. miles is Alpine, with 70 peaks ranging from 10-15,000 feet.

In several of Switzerland's crystal-clear lakes are the headwaters of larger European rivers like the Rhine, Rhone and Danube.

Though not a UN member, Switzerland provides headquarters sites for the World Health Organization and the International Labor Organization, plus the International Red Cross and International Postal Union.

LET'S FACE IT . . .

Are You Showing a "Crooked Pattern"?

"For he who sows to his own flesh will from the flesh reap corruption; but he who sows to the Spirit will from the Spirit reap eternal life."
(Galatians 6:8)

A missionary to India reports this revealing comment from the lips of a native Christian: ". . . And who can say you missionaries lead specially-holy lives? We Indian Christians observe. We observe you not only when you work, but when you are off work, too!

"Is there anything remarkable about you? Are you burning-hot people? We look to you to show us patterns, and you are showing us crooked patterns!"

Truly, "the way of him that is laden with guilt is exceeding crooked"; nothing more can be expected of the non-Christian.

The tragedy we consider today concerns the patterns of compromise, of hesitancy and half-heartedness, that are drawn by the lives of confessing Christians. These are the "crooked patterns" that never lead to life, but rather to death; and they have an odor of death about them.

The curse of "crooked patterns" can be seen about us. Instead of manifesting life — the life of Jesus — to our fellow-men, we may be manifesting sin and selfishness and death.

Jesus came that the crooked might be made straight. It is not necessary to portray "crooked patterns." The way to life is the straight path; and the way of straightness is the way of obedience to all the known will of God. It is the way back to loving God above all else; it is the way back to intense, consecrated, concentrated living.

Let us examine ourselves to see if our witness has been one of "crooked patterns." May we be a savor of life unto the dead and the dying all about us! May we be the Bread of Heaven to those who hunger, and the Living Water to those who thirst!

Leslie F. Brandt
Lutheran Service Pastor
Yokosuka, Japan

A DATE TO REMEMBER —

Mother's Day — May 9

The second Sunday in May customarily is set aside as "Mother's Day." We'd like to remind you that Sunday, May 9, is a day when your mother will look for evidence of your love. Write her today!

COPIES of this reproduction of a painting of Christ by Sirio Tonelli have been requested by more than 32,000 persons, following its recent publication in color in the Omaha (Neb.) World-Herald. The paper said orders for the reproduction are still being received. (RNS Photo)

Biggest Parish In America? Air Force Lutheran Chaplain Thinks He Has It!

BIGGEST parish in North America? Lutheran Chaplain (1st Lt.) Theodore J. Kleinhans at Willow Run Air Force Base, near Detroit, is convinced he has it.

Whether in number of preaching stations, in geographical area, or in miles travelled, Chaplain Kleinhans moves fast and often. The 30-some small bases which he visits have no resident chaplain, and he acts as a latter-day circuit rider, shuffling from one to the next.

His "parish" stretches from Pennsylvania to Minnesota, and from Tennessee to Hudson's Bay. The area is about 800 miles east and west, and about 950 north and south. Total distance around the circuit: 5,800 miles.

Except to more remote sites, Chaplain Kleinhans normally travels by auto. In the course of a two or three-day stay at a radar station, he conducts services, gives one or more lectures, shows a film or film-strip, counsels with airmen, visits families, and encourages local clergymen in their work among military personnel.

Travel to eight or ten stations monthly requires him to be absent from his home base at Willow Run about 25 days. With that kind of a schedule, Chaplain Kleinhans thinks he's fortunate to be a bachelor!

Lt. Kleinhans is a pastor of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod. Before entering the chaplaincy, he taught for three years at the University of Michigan, and spent two years overseas working with the Service to Refugees of the Lutheran World Federation. He is a graduate of Concordia Seminary, St. Louis, Mo.

World Council Releases Evanston Assembly Plans

THE OFFICIAL program of the Second Assembly of the World Council of Churches, to be held at Evanston, Ill., August 15-31, has been announced.

Three languages — French, German and English—will be used by the Assembly, and simultaneous translation, similar to that used at the United Nations, will be provided.

A worship service at First Methodist Church, Evanston, will open the Assembly on Sunday, Aug. 15, in which the five presidents of the WCC will participate.

(Included will be Lutheran Bishop Eivind Berggrav of Oslo, Norway, plus a Greek Orthodox archbishop, the Archbishop of Canterbury, the president of the French Protestant Federation, and Methodist Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam of Washington, D.C.)

Delegates to the Assembly will devote considerable time to the main theme: "Christ—the Hope of the World."

Highlight of the Assembly's first week will be a huge public worship service at Soldier Field, Chicago, with local churches taking responsibility for a service which will tell the Gospel story in Scripture, music and pageantry. A capacity crowd of 100,000 is expected.

Leading churchmen from various parts of the world are scheduled to address the Assembly.

One of the most important reports to be made to the Assembly will be that on suggested organizational changes in the WCC. Action on this report will largely determine the direction the WCC will take in the next five years.

Other reports will deal with evangelism, women in the Church, Faith and Order and Unity, international affairs, inter-church aid and service to refugees, plus study reports on race situations and Christianity in society.

A Mighty FORTRESS

VOL. III NEW YORK, N. Y., APRIL, 1954 NO. 12

New "Lutheran Service Book and Hymnal" Nears Completion, Ready by Christmas, 1955

LUTHERAN CHURCHES in America may receive a new book of worship as a Christmas gift in 1955.

That is the opinion of Dr. E. E. Ryden, secretary of the Joint Commission on a Common Hymnal, who reports that work on the long-awaited hymnal, including a common liturgy, is nearing completion.

He said the first manuscript of the music edition of the hymnal will probably be placed in the hands of typesetters this spring.

According to a report given by Dr. Luther D. Reed at a recent meeting of the Editorial Committee in Chicago, it is estimated that at least two years will elapse before the first copies come from the printing presses.

The Editorial Committee is composed of representatives from the Commission on a Common Hymnal and the Commission on a Common Liturgy, and is charged with responsibility of putting the manuscript of the new book of worship into final shape. Dr. Reed is chairman of both Commissions.

The full title of the new volume, as determined at the Chicago meeting, will be "The Service Book and Hymnal according to the use of the Lutheran Church in America," Dr. Ryden said.

Dr. Ryden explained that completion of the work has been delayed because of disagreement over Bible versions for the appointed texts of the Church Year.

The Commission on Liturgy had originally intended to adhere to the King James Version, but the pressure for the Revised Standard Version from a number of the cooperating bodies caused the Commission to propose as a compromise that no texts be printed in the Service Book.

Although this suggestion also met with strong criticism among some groups, notably the Augustana Lutheran Church, Dr. Ryden disclosed that the Executive Council of that body has now indicated that it would withdraw its objections in order to facilitate publication of the common book of worship.

As finally constituted, the new hymnal will contain 605 hymns. The last hymn to be added to the collection was a Negro spiritual, "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord?" The addition was made by the Editorial Com-

EASTER JOY TO OUR READERS

He Has Risen!

Now after the Sabbath, toward the dawn of the first day of the week, Mary Magdalene and the other Mary went to see the sepulchre.

And behold, there was a great earthquake; for an angel of the Lord descended from heaven and came and rolled back the stone, and sat upon it.

His appearance was like lightning, and his raiment as white as snow. And for fear of him the guards trembled and became like dead men.

But the angel said to the women, "Do not be afraid; for I know that you seek Jesus who was crucified. He is not here; for he has risen, as he said. Come, see the place where the Lord lay.

"Then go quickly and tell his disciples that he has risen from the dead, and behold, he is going before you to Galilee; there you will see him. Lo, I have told you."

So they departed quickly from the tomb with fear and great joy, and ran to tell his disciples. —Matt. 28:1-8—

LUTHERAN WORLD ACTION PROJECTS TO VISIT —

19 "Rubble Churches" in West Germany

(We've received many requests from GI's for suggestions on church-related points of interest which American servicemen should visit while they are stationed overseas. This is the first of a series which we will present in A Mighty Fortress — Ed. Note.)

When World War II ended in Europe, churches began to assess their losses. In Germany alone, more than 6,400 churches had been destroyed or damaged. Replacement and repair costs seemed impossible to German Church leaders.

Lutheran World Action, the emergency inter-church aid program of U.S. Lutheran churches cooperating in the National Lutheran Council, stepped forward to serve.

As a result, a new "style" of church architecture sprang up in Germany, a technique and construction described by its originators as "truth and simplicity."

Called "Notkirchen", or "Rubble Churches," a total of 48 emergency worship buildings were constructed throughout Germany by 1950, 36 in West Germany and 12 in the East Zone.

Notkirchen consist of a framework of wooden girders which support roof and walls, with the latter depending in each case on rubble materials salvaged locally. Window frames, doors and girders were prefabricated at a central point and transported to the sites of the proposed churches.

Each unit cost between $7,000 and $8,000 to build, representing money needed to purchase prefabricated sections, the remaining materials and costs supplied by local parishes in Germany, boosting total costs to $10,000-$16,000.

With the framework built from the ground up, and materials salvaged from rubble of destroyed churches to build outer shells, such church buildings are actually the simplest forms possible, with few "fancy fixtures."

INTERIOR of St. Stephen's Lutheran Church in Wuerzburg, showing typical construction of a "Notkirche." This church was built with aid of Lutheran World Action gifts.

EXTERIOR of the first of the 48 "Notkirchen" built in Germany since the end of the war. This unit, begun in 1947, became the prototype for the others, and was built with funds supplied by Swiss Protestants. It is located in the city of Pforzheim.

Because of their manner of construction, one may see at a glance of what materials Notkirchen have been made. Old bricks and other salvaged materials are clearly visible, and nothing has been "hidden," architecturally.

Simplest in design among the Notkirchen is the church at Aachen in the British Zone, built in connection with a former air-raid shelter. Another, which utilizes the tower of a former church, can be seen at Muenster. Others which well illustrate the "style" of construction are located in Stuttgart, Munich and Hamburg.

Rubble Churches which are gifts of Lutheran World Action include 19 in West Germany and the 12 built in the East Zone. In the West, they are located in Bremen-Groepelingen; Darmstadt (St. Reinoldi-Sued); Dortmund; Duesseldorf; Hamburg-Eppendorf; Hamburg-Hoheluft (Markusgemeinde); Hamburg-Schnelsen; Hannover-Doehren; Hannover-List; Heilbronn (Friedenskirche); Kiel (Vicelinkirche); Koeln-Muehlheim; Muenchen (Kreuzkirche); Muenster; Nuernberg (St. Leonhardskirche); Stuttgart (Ludwig Hofackergemeinde); Wuerzburg (St. Stephangemeinde); Wuppertal-Elberfeld; and Worms.

For further information on locations of Notkirchen, contact the German inter-church aid office, Hilfswerk, at Stafflenbergstrasse 66, Stuttgart-Ost. (Tel. 91738). A number of the staff members speak excellent English, and are eager to assist visitors.

(Next Month: Points to visit in Switzerland will be suggested.)

Second Glance

★ Synods of the United Lutheran Church in America topped the $5,000,000-contribution mark for the first time in 1953. Total gifts reached $5,047,422, or 96% of the 1953 budget, as compared with a mark of 89% received in 1952.

★ The Lutheran World Federation and the World Council of Churches helped more European refugees to find new homes last year than did 20 other voluntary agencies combined. Together, the two groups assisted 14,205 refugees.

★ Today's "glamor trend" in evangelism has been criticized by a Grand Rapids, Mich., physician who conducts a radio Bible class. Dr. M. R. DeHaan says he cannot help but wonder what will come of this "glamor age" of evangelism, "where we measure a man's ministry today in terms of his popularity, his success, his ability to get a crowd." He added, "But I do not find a single Bible verse that gives us any reason to expect anything but sacrifice for those who will follow Jesus."

★ The National Lutheran Council is making a special grant this year of $25,000 to the American Bible Society in recognition of the society's 150th anniversary. Through Lutheran World Action, $684,500 have been contributed to the Bible Society in the past 12 years.

★ Members of the Joint Negotiating Committee of the three major Presbyterian denominations in the U.S. predict that the three bodies will be united into one Church by May, 1956, combining the Presbyterian Church-USA (Northern), Presbyterian Church-US (Southern) and the United Presbyterian Church into a new Church of 3½ million members.

★ Ecclesia, a Spanish Roman Catholic newspaper, admits that Spanish people are lax in their religious devotion, lack confidence in the regime, and are hounded by poverty. The publication is the only uncensored paper in Spain.

★ More than a third of all U.S. Boy Scout troops are sponsored by Protestant churches, a new high, according to the National Council of Churches' Committee on Scouting, which reported that 1,800 new Protestant-sponsored troops and cub packs were added during 1953.

★ Survival of the Churches in Communist-controlled lands depends entirely on laymen, according to the Council on Foreign Relations of the Church of England. Reporting that Communists are constant in their objective to undermine and destroy Christian faith, the Council said laymen will play the deciding role. "Where they give unstinting support to their ministers, where they maintain firm witness to their faith, the Communist authorities are powerless to destroy either their religion or their Church," it declared. The group cited the "magnificent way" Protestant laymen in East Germany (80% Lutheran) have "witnessed to their faith (and) dealt a powerful blow against the enemies of religion."

★ Three Lutherans are included in a list of 40 American church leaders named consultants to the Second Assembly of the World Council of Churches at Evanston, Ill., August 15-31. They are Dr. Paul C. Empie, executive director of the National Lutheran Council; Dr. Edgar M. Carlson, president of Gustavus Adolphus College, St. Peter, Minn.; and Dr. Abdel Ross Wentz, of the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Gettysburg, Pa.

New Lutheran Hymnal

mittee when it was discovered than no hymn of Negro origin had previously been included.

At a previous session, Fanny Crosby's, "Pass Me Not, O Gentle Saviour" was added when it was brought to light that America's blind hymn writer was not represented in the collection.

Dr. Ryden noted that a unique feature of the Hymnal will be the inclusion of representative hymns from the Lutheran lands of Europe—Germany, Sweden, Denmark, Norway, Finland and Iceland. He said efforts have been made by the Hymnal Commission to produce in English dress the finest lyrics in the hymn tradition of each of these countries.

It is believed that the publication of these translations will serve to introduce some of the gems of Lutheran hymnody hitherto largely unknown on the western side of the Atlantic.

Despite the Lutheran emphasis, however, Dr. Ryden stressed that the new hymnal will be thoroughly ecumenical in character. Approximately 65 hymns in the collection date back to the pre-Reformation era, among them Greek and Latin sacred songs from the early centuries of the Church.

Hymn-writers of the British Isles predominate in the book, being represented by nearly 300 hymns, while a few hymns have been included from French, Dutch, Spanish and Italian sources.

Although practically no Christian hymns were written in North America until the beginning of the 19th Century, Dr. Ryden said, the new volume indicates that American hymnody "is coming into its own." Almost 100 hymns by American authors will be found in the collection, some of them by contemporary writers.

The hymnal will contain approximately 626 hymn tunes, among them a few original compositions. In addition to the stalwart Lutheran chorales from Germany and Scandinavia, there will be a large number of tunes by outstanding English, Welsh, French, Scotch, Spanish, Italian and American composers.

Harmonizations by Johann Sebastian Bach, famous Lutheran organist and composer, will be given for some of the great German chorales. Folksongs from various European countries will be used as musical settings for a number of hymns.

Turning to the new liturgy, which will be somewhat similar to the present Common Service in textual content, Dr. Ryden said it will contain some elements incorporated from the Scandinavian orders of worship. There will be two principal musical settings, the one following the form of Anglican chanting now used in the Common Service, the other employing the Continental chorale type of music for some of the responses. The music for the greater part of the liturgy will be identical in both settings, however. A third setting, Gregorian in character, will be provided for choir use.

"The Service Book and Hymnal" will be sponsored by the eight general bodies of the National Lutheran Council, numbering more than 4,500,000 members and representing two-thirds of the Lutheran constituency in America. These bodies are the United Lutheran Church in America, American Lutheran Church, Evangelical Lutheran Church, Augustana Lutheran Church, United Ev. Lutheran Church, Lutheran Free Church, American Ev. Lutheran Church, and the Suomi Synod.

Work on the hymnal began in June, 1945, when representatives of the ALC, Augustana, ELC and ULCA met in Pittsburgh, Pa., on the invitation of the ULCA for the purpose of exploring the possibilities of a common project.

Other NLC bodies joined the undertaking at later dates. The proposal for a common liturgy was initiated by Augustana, and a new commission to work on this project was created in 1946.

Dr. Ryden observed that the first edition of the Service Book and Hymnal "may reach a million copies," and that "it will constitute one of the largest printing undertakings of a similar volume in the history of American Protestantism."

"MARTIN LUTHER" has been named the motion picture of 1953 which "most effectively and artistically dramatized the values for which Christian faith immemorially stands." The award was given by the Christian Herald magazine after a nation-wide poll of Protestant movie-goers. Dr. Daniel A. Poling (right) editor of the magazine, shows the plaque to Mr. Henry Endress (left) (ULCA), and Dr. Oswald Hoffman (MoSy), Lutheran leaders who acted as advisers during production of the film.

Ike Lauds Relief Efforts by Churches

PRESIDENT Eisenhower has endorsed "with warm appreciation" the 1954 United Appeal and "One Great Hour of Sharing" campaign sponsored by Church World Service, relief unit of the National Council of Churches.

The President's commendation lauded the "efforts of our churches to aid suffering humanity." He said he was "delighted to send greetings to all who . . . are doing so much to foster international understanding and good will.

"Through their Government, the American people are providing material aid to many suffering inhabitants of the world," he said. "But, so great is the suffering and so great the need, that it will always be essential for individuals and churches to supplement this aid.

"In so doing, they not only reap the great personal satisfaction, which is, somehow, lacking when one government simply makes funds available to other governments, but they bear witness to the true brotherhood of which our Lord spoke."

The United Appeal, in which National Lutheran Council churches are participating, is seeking more than $8,000,000 this year to implement programs. A major share of the funds was expected to be received in offerings on Sunday, March 28, the "One Great Hour of Sharing."

Three Cities Claim Title as Main U. S. Center of Lutheranism

THREE U.S. cities have engaged in successive claims to being the center of Lutheranism in this country.

The most recent city to toss its hat into the ring to challenge Chicago and New York as the center of American Lutheranism is Philadelphia.

The "City of Brotherly Love" has as its champion the Rev. Dr. Frank M. Brown, director of Lutheran World Action for the United Lutheran Church in America.

While admitting that his argument is short on statistical strength, Dr. Brown stresses that it is long on historical fact.

Statistically, Dr. Brown points out that there are 230 Lutheran congregations with 151,077 baptized members in metropolitan Philadelphia, consisting of eleven counties in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware.

(Against this, Chicago has claimed 408 congregations with 274,865 members in its metropolitan area, while New York boasts of 428 congregations, but has no figures available on membership.)

Pursuing figures further Dr. Brown notes that Pennsylvania has within its borders more Lutherans than any other state. In this, he is backed by the All-Lutheran Directory, which lists 821,410 Lutherans in the Keystone State, giving second place to Minnesota with 712,864, and third to Wisconsin with 685,652.

Historically, Dr. Brown comes up with an impressive array of facts, such as: St. John's, Overbrook, Pa., is the oldest Lutheran Church holding continuous, uninterrupted services in the English language in the U.S.A.; Zion-St. Michael's is a downtown church where funeral services were held for George Washington and Benjamin Franklin; Old Trappe Lutheran Church, some 28 miles north of Philadelphia, was built in the day of Henry Melchior Muhlenberg, "Patriarch of American Lutheranism."

Dr. Brown calls particular attention to the fact that "Lutherans of Philadelphia have not deserted the downtown area," in contrast to the situation in Chicago. He cites numerous congregations that are active in the heart of the city, several of which attract many out-of-town visitors.

He also points out that Lutheran institutions and agencies in the area include a Lutheran seminary of 165 students and a graduate school of 111 students; a motherhouse and training school for deaconesses; four old folks' homes; two children's homes; a convalescent home; a tuberculosis clinic; a preventorium for children; two settlement houses; a social mission society; an inner mission board with services for those in city hospitals, prisons, child placement, services for the blind, deaf, and resettlement of refugees; two Lutheran cultural clubs, a Board of Publications for the United Lutheran Publication House; and headquarters of the Women's Missionary Society, Luther League and ULCA Board of Pensions.

"Metropolitan Philadelphia," he concludes, "is a Lutheran center and a headquarters city because there are so many loyal Lutherans in the area."

Another aspect of the friendly controversy over which city is entitled to call itself the center of Lutheranism appeared in a recent issue of the Duluth (Minn.) Herald.

The article admitted that Duluth cannot run competition to Chicago and New York in numerical tabulation, but "quite surpasses"

LET'S FACE IT . . .

You're on the Spot!

"Simon, Simon, behold, Satan demanded to have you, that he might sift you like wheat, but I have prayed for you that your faith may not fail." (RSV, Luke 22:31)

You have been put on the spot! Your Church and home training, your confirmation vows, your Christian experience have now been thrown into the crucible and are being given the most strenuous test of your life.

As with Peter, so Satan desires to "sift you like wheat." It goes further than that; he desires to destroy your soul for all eternity, and he will marshal all the demonic powers of hell to do it.

In other words, you are up against it. You are pitted against a foe far stronger than you. Sinning is made more simple; it appears as less sinful. The hosts of hell are using every conceivable means to get you to take your eyes off God. They are enticing and alluring, discouraging and frightening, scorning and despising you.

But there is a purpose for this test you are enduring. It is to reveal whether your courtship with God is the real thing, or whether you are just playing church and Christian.

The trials confronting you are fatal to imitation Christians, and if your faith is anything less than an all-out consecration and committal to Christ, it shall most certainly fall through. The next few months or years will prove you a soldier or a sissie, a warrior or a washout, a man of God or a sniveling coward.

If you mean business with God, then all the devils of hell shall not prevail against you. God and you are the majority. God's side is the winning side. You will have your defeats, but they will not be debacles.

"And this is the victory that shall overcome the world" . . . and anything else the enemy will throw at you . . . "even our faith!"

43½% More GI's Visit LSC Service Centers in 1953

ATTENDANCE at the 45 Lutheran Service Centers operated by the Lutheran Service Commission showed an increase during 1953 of 43½% over the previous year, according to summary statistics reported by the LSC.

Total attendance during 1953 was 270,391, as compared with 188,240 in 1952, the report said. Of 35 centers reporting attendance, the LSC said each had an average monthly attendance of 772 servicemen. Records show that from 60-65% of service personnel visiting LSC facilities are non-Lutheran or unchurched.

The Center at Charleston, S.C., led all others during 1953, with a total attendance of 45,549. Next in line was Wichita Falls, Tex., with 22,061, and San Francisco, Calif., with a total of 20,771.

Other attendance figures showed: Norfolk, Va., 20,736; San Diego, Calif., 19,301; Tacoma, Wash., 19,058; Columbia, S.C., 14,481; Denver, Colo., 14.075; Baltimore, Md., 13,251, and Jacksonville, Fla., with 13,172.

The LSC report also indicated an increase and strengthening of its program of spiritual ministry, which it described as "most heartening," because of "the manifold gifts of God."

The number of divine services at LSC centers during 1953 tripled over the previous year, with attendance at these services increased 3½-fold. Bible class attendance was also tripled, as was the number of instruction classes and those who participated.

Social activities were doubled, showing a 50% attendance increase, and there was 100% increase in communions, 200% increase in the number of baptisms and confirmations, and better than a three-fold increase in marriages performed in service centers.

The Lutheran Service Commission is a cooperative agency of the National Lutheran Council and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod. It is financed by Lutheran World Action gifts from NLC churches and an annual Mothers' Day offering in Missouri Synod parishes.

Church Paper Hits Moral Behavior of U. S. Soldiers in Britain

AN APPEAL to Americans to do something about U.S. soldiers in England so that "the blot of unjust behavior, piled on immorality, comes to an end" was made in London by the Catholic Times, a prominent weekly.

In a sharp editorial, the paper commented on a recent London court case in which a British woman sought to enforce an affiliation order against an American soldier, the father of her child.

According to the paper, the woman's lawyer told the court that his client's child was one of 70,000 born under similar circumstances.

This case, the Catholic Times said, "shocked the people of Britain, and we hope shocked America too!"

"It seems," the paper added, "that 70,000 or so American men have failed in their duties in justice to their offspring. And so stupid is the arrangement made for American soldiers in this country that there is no way of making them carry out their moral obligations."

Asking, "Why do we stand for this sort of thing?" the paper said:

"Americans can send anybody they like to Britain, and, when here, men can do as they like with comparative immunity. Yet, before a British subject can go to America, he or she must be free of blemish, and, on arrival, be wholly subject to United States law.

"It is too one-sided, but the point we wish to make here is to appeal to Americans to see that the blot of unjust behavior which is piled on immorality comes to an end."

both in churches per capita. "In fact," it added, "Duluth can probably snow under any city of 100,000 population and up with percentile figures."

It said that Chicago has one Lutheran church to every 20,588 persons, while Duluth has one Lutheran church to every 4,166 persons. While New York claims to have 15 more churches than Chicago, the Duluth paper maintained that "It would run a poor third (to Duluth) in churches per capita."

Churches Called to Combat Servicemen's Morale Drop

A SPIRITUAL MINISTRY to men and women of the Armed Forces must be continued indefinitely, and its effectiveness must be increased as "every vestige of hope of a return to normalcy has been swept away," according to Dr. Carl F. Yaeger, associate secretary of the Lutheran Service Commission.

Predicting that "close to a million of our youth will continue to enter and leave our military establishments annually," he told the National Lutheran Council's 36th annual meeting in Atlantic City, N. J., that recreation, moral and religious activities are more important now than they were during the Korean conflict.

"Chaplains overseas and service pastors warn of a serious undermining of the moral and spiritual character of our men through excessive drinking and sexual promiscuity during the critical post-armistice period of enforced idleness," Dr. Yaeger stated.

Declaring that "even the most economy-minded government officials envision no drastic cut in our national budget," and that "draft calls currently at 23,000 a month will be raised to 50,000 a month after June," Dr. Yaeger said that "military service and training will continue to be a normal part of the education and development of American youth."

He reported that during 1953 attendance at the 45 parish centers, service centers and lounges operated by the Lutheran Service Commission in the U. S. and overseas had risen to over 267,000. Previous high was 170,000.

According to Dr. Yaeger, 60-65 per cent of the service personnel visiting Lutheran centers last year were non-Lutheran or unchurched.

Aid from U.S. Lutherans Kindles New Confidence Behind the Iron Curtain

1953 LWA Receipts 107%; Over the Top

SOME 4 million U. S. Lutherans who belong to the eight participating bodies of the National Lutheran Council have given $2,791,330.77 to Lutheran World Action during 1953, or 107 per cent of the year's goal of $2,600,000 for world-wide aid.

Each of the eight church groups reached 100 percent or more of their individual goals: American Ev. Lutheran (116%), United Ev. Lutheran (112%), United Lutheran (112%), Lutheran Free (102%), Augustana Lutheran (101%), Evangelical Lutheran (100%), Suomi Synod (100%), American Lutheran (100%).

AMERICAN Lutheranism's spiritual and material aid to war-torn countries has not only been "supremely helpful in relieving misery," but has also "kindled confidence in the hearts of those who wait behind iron curtains for the dawn of freedom."

Dr. Oscar A. Benson, president of the National Lutheran Council told the NLC's 36th annual meeting in Atlantic City, N. J., last month that "Underground forces may be better organized and more active than most of us realize."

He reminded Lutheran leaders of the Church's "solemn obligation to speak unequivocally" on world issues, particularly of the NLC's obligation to speak for Lutheran churches, "as the hopes for peace continue to be uncertain, and totalitarianism threatens to engulf the world."

But, Dr. Benson declared, "if German leaders regard the Church as having the only platform where today East and West Germany stand together, is it not probable that the Church alone, under God, can bring the whole world together?"

Martin Luther' Motion Picture Banned by Film Censors for Public Showing in Quebec, Canada.

THE FILM "Martin Luther" has been barred from public showing in the Province of Quebec, Canada, by the Quebec Board of Censors.

This was revealed in New York by Henry Endress, executive secretary of Lutheran Church Productions, sponsor of the film. He said his agency would appeal to the board to reverse its decision.

The ban was ordered by the Quebec film censors on the grounds that the motion picture biography of the 16th Century Protestant reformer would "arouse undue antagonistic sentiments."

Said Mr. Endress: "We believe that no board of censors has the right to censor history," adding that "It has no right to keep from thousands of people an inspiring and most timely film about religious freedom."

Meanwhile, the Lutheran Ministerial Association of Greater Montreal termed the ban as a "grave danger to the trust and authority which the people of this Province have placed upon the government for the protection of their freedom."

The group voiced its protest in a special letter to the Quebec Attorney General, in which they asked for a reversal of the ban.

The Presbytery in Montreal of the Presbyterian Church in Canada sent a similar protest to the provincial government and to the Quebec Board of Censors. They said the ban is "headed for a control of thought, communication and action which is absolutely dictatorial, in the tradition of Communist-dominated countries."

The Canadian Church Press Association, an organization of Protestant editors, also issued a formal protest on the banning of "Martin Luther," in which they charged that the Board of Censors did "grave injustice" to the 400,000 Protestants in the Montreal area alone, by denying them a chance to see the film biography.

"Martin Luther" was recently named one of the ten best pictures of the year by the National Board of Motion Pictures, the New York Times, and the Philadelphia Inquirer. Niall MacGinnis, who plays Martin Luther in the film, has been suggested by many as a logical candidate for an "Oscar" acting award.

Mr. Endress also stated that "Martin Luther" was produced "on the basis of careful research of original documents and works from the pens of both Roman Catholic and Protestant historians."

He added that the film had been described by the secular press as "a deep religious experience" and "Magnificently authentic."

"It is considered," he said, "a major contribution toward community understanding which, in part, is dependent upon one neighbor understanding why another neighbor has deep religious convictions and how he got them."

Servicemen's Morale

lished three years ago for cooperative spiritual services to Lutherans in the Armed Forces.

As an "arm of the Church" and a "source of those values which undergird our American way of life," Dr. Yaeger pointed out that the LSC has made no attempt to supply what is offered by secular service agencies like U.S.O., and has therefore emphasized spiritual services rather than "over-emphasized social activities" in its service centers.

According to statistics, Dr. Yaeger estimated that "slightly better than 53 per cent of the theoretical Lutheran military population is now being reached by LSC facilities," while only 35 per cent were reached in 1952.

Calling on Lutheran churches to make a "renewed and intensified effort" to meet "the continuing deterioration of morale overseas," Dr. Yaeger asserted that "it becomes clear that priority must be given to our overseas program and the spiritual needs of our youth who find themselves in spiritually hostile communities" because "overseas programs must function in communities without Lutheran or other Christian congregations."

Adding that often such programs must be carried out in areas not served by wholesome off-base facilities or by any USO program, he stressed that "our weakness in view of overwhelming forces of evil and godlessness become all the more evident where we realize we must work in an atmosphere devoid of positive Christian influence."

He reported that negotiations are now under way to acquire suitable buildings for Lutheran centers in Tachikawa, Tokyo, and Yokosuka, in Japan, as well as in the Kaiserslautern area of West Germany.

Sermon Topic Cooperation

MINISTERS of three local churches within a few blocks of each other in Albert Lea., Minn., posted these subjects for Sunday sermons, in this order:

"Where Is He?"
"He Is Here."
"God Changes His Address."

The three preachers, who apparently chose their topics without consultation, were First Baptist's Harold McNeil, First Lutheran's Melford S. Knutson (ELC), and First Presbyterian's Lloyd A. Peterson.

ELC Council Asks Approval ON 4-Way Lutheran Merger

THE CHURCH COUNCIL of the Evangelical Lutheran Church has recommended that its biennial convention in June adopt a set of resolutions covering polity and organization for a proposed merger with three other Lutheran bodies.

The "blueprint" was prepared by a joint union committee of the ELC, American Lutheran Church, Lutheran Free Church, and United Ev. Lutheran Church, which have a combined membership of more than 1,800,000.

The ELC Church Council said the report is "an outstanding example of painstaking effort in the field of Christian cooperation," and called on the convention to adopt the report "as a tentative step basic to and necessary for further steps toward merger."

Under the plan worked out by the joint union committee, a definite vote on merger is to be taken at the 1956 conventions of the bodies involved in the negotiations.

★ A feature-length motion picture based on the life of St. Paul was released in January for showing in theaters over the country, and is entitled "Magnificent Adventure," produced by Cathedral Films of Hollywood, Calif.

★ Americans are spending twice as much per minute for liquor as they are for religious, charitable and educational institutions. During 1953 Americans spent $17,000 a minute for alcoholic beverages, compared to $8,500 a minute for church, charity and educational purposes. (American income has been calculated at $600,000 a minute, according to the family economics bureau of the Northwestern National Life Insurance Co.)

★ Grants totalling $86,000 for four new Lutheran mission station hospitals in New Guinea and a new missionary hospital building in Tanganyika, East Africa, have been approved by the National Lutheran Council. Funds come from Lutheran World Action gifts.

★ Nine Lutheran church bodies and two church-related agencies in North America sent 259 missionaries to 17 countries during 1953, the highest number in seven years. During 1953, foreign mission expenditures totalled $4,000,000 with 1,438 missionaries now on foreign fields.

★ About 800,000 of France's 42,740,000 people are Protestants, but 60 per cent of them are "seasonal" churchgoers who show up on Christmas, Easter, weddings, baptisms and funerals. Included in the total are some 280,000 Lutherans.

★ A proposal to establish a joint Lutheran four-year liberal arts college in California has been presented to the National Lutheran Educational Conference by a special survey commission, which said that California's "phenomenal population growth" was the principal basis of their recommendation.

★ Reports reaching Hong Kong say Chinese Communists have started to demolish all Christian churches in China's Kwangtung Province. A Communist account said the churches were being torn down "brick by brick . . . providing memorial tablets for our heroes of the Korean War."

★ One out of every 10 Lutherans in the world today is a refugee, according to Dr. Carl E. Lund-Quist, executive secretary of the Lutheran World Federation. He said the number of Lutherans, who have disappeared in Eastern Europe exceeds the entire Lutheran population of the United States (6,673,945). From 22 to 25 million Lutherans are still behind the Iron Curtain, he added.

★ Six complete worship services for 300 Naval vessels not large enough to have full-time chaplains have been recorded on tape by the Protestant Radio Center, Atlanta, Ga. Similar recorded worship services are also being used by the Armed Forces Radio Service.

★ German Protestant churches are beginning to adopt American techniques of stewardship and evangelism, according to the Rev. Carl H. Mau, who has served as liaison representative of the National Lutheran Council to the German churches for the past 3 years. He said the need for stewardship programs in Germany is "terrific" because while 98 per cent of the Germans are church members, only about 5 per cent attend church regularly.

LET'S FACE IT . . .

Do You Know the Score?

"I write this to you who believe in the name of the Son of God, that you may know that you have eternal life." (RSV I John 5:13)

If you are going on with this game, you had better know the score!

An old philosopher kept harping on the necessity of "knowing ourselves." The preacher constantly talks about "knowing God." When you are going out on the line in this spiritual warfare, both are essential.

The men who wrote the New Testament did not dabble with doubts. "Do you not know. . . ?" asked St. Paul. "We know . . ." responded John in his epistles again and again. "I know that my Redeemer lives," wrote the song-writer.

There are some heathen notions spread about to the effect that one can't know he is going to Heaven until he gets there. This does not come out of God's Word. Our Lord makes it clear that to believe in Him is to belong to Him, and when one truly belongs to Him, he knows it!

If you are uncertain about your relationship To God, the red flag is out. It may mean that there is something between you and God, or that you are trusting your feelings, rather than God, for your salvation. It may even mean that you have never come to God in the way He has prescribed, the way of the Cross, the way of faith in His Son, Jesus Christ.

It is important to know whether or not you are married, or to know your nationality. It is just as necessary to know whether or not your "citizenship is in heaven."

Unless you are right with God and know it and believe it, whether you always feel it or not, you are utterly unprepared to meet this crisis in your life.

Stop right where you are, and deliberately and decisively give over the command of your life to Christ. Take Him as your Savior and your Lord!

Do this, and you will have safe conduct along the perilous paths before you!

LWR Clothing Appeal Nets Record Response

MORE THAN 2½ million pounds of clothing were contributed by U.S. Lutherans in response to the 1953 Thanksgiving Clothing Appeal of Lutheran World Relief, under the theme, "Let Your Clothing Speak for Christ."

The 2,622,238-lb. total was the largest in any LWR Thanksgiving appeal. It topped the previous record of 2,035,592 lbs. gathered in 1952.

Bernard A. Confer, LWR executive secretary, credited the record response to the cooperation of many Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod parishes, and to "better organization and harder work."

The clothing is being shipped to Germany, Austria, Trieste, Jordan, Syria and Korea, for distribution among refugees and other needy.

Protestants Set Relief Goal of $8 Millions

PROTESTANT and Eastern Orthodox churches in the U.S. are being asked this month to give more than $8,000,000 for 1954 overseas relief and reconstruction needs through a united appeal called "One Great Hour of Sharing."

High point of the relief drive will be the "One Great Hour of Sharing" observance on Sunday, March 28, when special offerings will be made in thousands of American churches.

Funds collected will be used for refugee and relief needs such as food, clothing, shelter and medicine, in Korea, Germany, Austria, Yugoslavia, India, Pakistan and the Near East.

Included in the $8,000,000-goal is the 1954 Lutheran World Action goal of $2,600,000 which the National Lutheran Council seeks this year.

Aid from Lutherans

He explained that much of the NLC's program today "consists in reaching ministering hands across the sea," pointing out that during the past 13 years, Lutheran World Action (the NLC's annual fund-raising campaign), had collected more than $37,000,000 to finance this program.

In addition, Lutheran World Relief, the NLC's material-aid agency, has sent food, clothing and other relief goods valued in excess of $30,000,000 to overseas countries during the past eight years.

Communists Admit Failure To Win Over Christians

INTENSIVE efforts of Communist groups in East Germany to win Christians over to the Communist line have had no success.

This was admitted in Berlin by Gerald Goetting, general secretary of the Communist-controlled East German Christian Democratic Union.

Addressing party functionaries, Goetting said that the education of the people along Communist lines "is being made difficult by the adherence of wide Christian circles to certain ideological systems and social theories to which they feel associated by convention."

"It is an open secret," he added, "that in some Christian layers, the fear of a third world war is not as great as the fear of Communism, a fact cleverly nourished by Western propagandists."

The East German C.D.U. recently renewed its attempts to spread the Communist line among Soviet Zone Christians, and win clergymen over to cooperation with the government.

The group is primarily an organization which attempts to rally Christians behind the Communist program, but repeated attempts to set up a collaborationist movement of "patriotic" clergymen similar to those in other Communist countries have failed in East Germany.

THE FAMILY of Cpl. Manson Johnson of Brooklyn, N. Y., was honored by city officials because their soldier-son defied Korean Communists by refusing to use pages from a Bible as cigarette paper on their request. Cpl. Johnson was repatriated by the Reds after 2½ years in captivity. Accepting his son's citation is the Rev. William Johnson (right), pastor of St. Paul's Disciples of Christ Church for 21 years. John Cashmore, Brooklyn Borough president, presented the award, as other members of the Johnson family looked on. (RNS Photo).

Lutheran Youth Name Most Popular Hymns

"BEAUTIFUL SAVIOR" and "A Mighty Fortress is Our God" won a recent hymn-popularity contest among Augustana Luther Leagues of 400 congregations. Runners-up were "Beneath the Cross of Jesus" and "Take My Life and Let It Be."

Others of the 10 top hymns included: "Holy, Holy, Holy," "My Jesus, I Love Thee," "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," "Rock of Ages," 'The Old Rugged Cross" and "Faith of Our Fathers."

Among frequently-sung choruses, the young people listed five favorites: "Living for Jesus," "For God So Loved the World," "Open Mine Eyes," "Jacob's Ladder" and "Into My Heart."

The contest will help determine which hymns and choruses will be included in a forthcoming book, "Youth's Favorite Songs," for use by Luther Leagues and other youth groups.

Missouri Synod Leaders Meet on Differences

NATIONAL leaders of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod and the Evangelical Lutheran Joint Synod of Wisconsin and Other States adjourned a conference in Milwaukee without reaching an agreement on the doctrinal dispute between their groups.

The president of the Wisconsin Synod, the Rev. Oscar J. Naumann of St. Paul, Minn., said he thought the 3-day conference in January, held behind closed doors, had reduced the likelihood of a split between the two synods.

The Wisconsin Synod charged that the Missouri Synod already has broken the fellowship of the two groups by engaging in "religious unionism." It specifically accused the Missouri Synod of cooperating with "unorthodox church bodies" and tolerating boy scouts, military chaplains and joint prayer with persons of differing faiths.

Church Leader Praises Army's Spiritual Program

BISHOP William C. Martin of Dallas, Tex., president of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., returned recently from a tour of the Korean front, "satisfied that the Amy is doing everything possible to satisfy the spiritual needs of its soldiers."

The Methodist bishop expressed the view that if anyone is letting down the men overseas, it is "our own churches here at home."

One ready way in which churches can reach former members overseas is to send them letters, Bishop Martin said.

"A soldier lives for mail call," he said. "Send him letters that make him feel his job is worthwhile, that makes him know his friends back home are thinking of him and want to welcome him back to the church."

Lutheran Groups Ready 4-Way Merger Blueprint for 1,800,000-Member Church

A BLUEPRINT for the organization of a new Church that will be created if four Lutheran bodies merge was completed in Chicago recently by their Joint Union Committee and will be submitted to their conventions this year.

Involved in the negotiations are the American Lutheran Church (790,989 members), Evangelical Lutheran Church (907,124), Lutheran Free Church (64,376), and United Evangelical Lutheran Church (51,640), with a combined membership exceeding 1,800,000.

A spokesman for the 36 union committee members said "an insistent effort has been made successfully to keep authority in all things in the merged Church in the congregation."

The blueprint proposes that:

The new Church have 18 districts. Upon nominations of their Conferences, they would elect the delegates to the biennial convention, which would serve as the governing body of the Church. The convention would have about 1,000 delegates, half clergy and half laymen.

The only two officers of the Church would be a president and a secretary, both elected by the convention.

There would be a Church Council, made up of the president and the 18 district presidents and a layman elected from each of the districts, which would have charge of all spiritual and doctrinal matters in the Church.

Under the Church Council would be two commissions—one devoted to evangelism and the other to research and social action. It is expected that the latter commission would study such social problems as divorce, labor-management relations, temperance, and the like.

Business affairs of the Church would be vested in a board of trustees, elected by the general convention, that would hold title to all corporate property. It would have under it the commission on stewardship.

Between biennial conventions, a joint council made up of the president, the secretary, the Church Council and the trustees would serve as the interim legislative body.

The Church would have six working divisions: American missions, world missions, education, charities, publications and pensions.

Auxiliary organizations would be related to the Church through a council of auxiliaries. At the outset, three auxiliaries are anticipated: a Luther league, a brotherhood and a women's missionary organization.

No recommendations have been made yet with regard to the number of educational institutions the merged Church would have, except in the case of theological seminaries.

It is proposed that there be only one seminary but operating in different places. Thus, one of the present seminaries might specialize in the training of missionaries; another in rural ministers and a third in graduate study. Whether the seminary would operate in the six cities where the four bodies now have their six seminaries has not yet been determined.

At an earlier meeting, the union representatives gave much attention to the proposal of the Lutheran Free Church that their present congregations be admitted to the new Church as a "non-geographical" district, with the district to retain ownership of Augsburg College and Seminary in Minneapolis and Oak Grove Seminary in Fargo, N.D., and to operate its own home missions program.

With respect to this proposal, the joint committee expressed the "earnest desire" that

New Japan Bible Translation

FORMER Japanese Premier Tetsu Katayama has completed translating a portion of the New Testament into language he believes "can be understood easily by all Japanese."

The book comprises 350 pages of excerpts from Matthew, Mark, Luke and John and the complete letters of Paul, and is aimed primarily at Japanese unfamiliar with Christianity.

A SPECIAL POSTER welcoming members of the Armed Forces to the churches of New York City is shown displayed here by members of a committee in charge of distribution. Some 5,000 posters have already been placed in the city subways and another 4,000 are displayed in buses and trains entering Manhattan. Posters were prepared by the Protestant Council of the City of New York. Left to right are: Mr. Clifford W. Pettit, director of the Council; Pastor Joseph D. Huntley of Broadway (Congregational) Tabernacle; Chaplain Thomas Blomquist, 3rd Naval District assistant district chaplain; and Chaplain Engebret Midboe (ELC), assistant chaplain at First Army Headquarters on Governor's Island.

G.I. Infantry Battalion Provides New Shoes, Bowls For 4,700 Korean Orphans

SOME 4,700 orphans in and around Chonju, Koera, have new shoes because the First Battalion, 19th Infantry Regiment, 24th Infantry Division happened to be stationed recently in the area.

In addition, the parentless youngsters, now living in 17 orphanages, also have bright new bowls used for milk and rice, new spoons, and new towels for good measure.

Sparked by the leadership of Chaplain (1st. Lt.) Martinus E. Silseth (ELC), and encouraged by their commanding officer, Lt. Col. Cyrus J. Drew, the men of the 19th's First Battalion contributed over $2,500 toward the project after the project had been presented to them.

To promote the program, Chaplain Silseth conducted a dozen 50-man tours to Chonju, including visits to orphanages, refugee camps, and church and Korean hospitals.

High spot of the project came when 60 Korean orphans—faces shining—were given a return tour-picnic at the 19th's base camp. They were escorted by the provincial governor of Cholla Pukto, the mayor of Chonju, and other officials who thanked the G.I.'s on behalf of the 17 orphanages aided. The youngsters danced and sang for the soldiers.

At dinner that day, each company of the 1st Battalion entertained a group of orphans. As the youngsters departed, the G.I.'s loaded them down with candy, cookies, balls and, of course, plenty of chewing gum!

Communists Try to Destroy Significance of Christmas

COMMUNIST authorities in Iron Curtain countries recently increased their efforts to erase from the minds of the people the religious significance of Christmas.

For one thing, they eliminated the word "Christmas" from the Communist vocabulary, substituting for it "New Year celebrations." The traditional Christmas tree has been replaced by the Communist-invented "New Year's Tree."

The Communist-controlled press and radio scrupulously has avoided mention of the word "Christmas" or making any reference to its religious significance.

In place of Christmas carols, the Communists promoted among children songs extolling the "achievements of our new social system."

A Warsaw Radio broadcast heard in London said: "The holiday period is coming; the children love to sing. And what could be a better opportunity to sing than during the period of New Year's Tree festivities? The State Publishing House has thought of that and has published new music and songs specially-written for our children to sing during those festivities.

"These songs, written by Soviet and Polish song writers, speak of great deeds by labor competition leaders and stakhanovites, about the great achievements of our new social system."

In addition, Christmas stories for children were banned. Instead, the youngsters heard a diet of speeches and lectures on the "happy life of Soviet children," and the like.

THIS PASTOR has literally "taken to the air" to serve five churches in a 2,800-sq. mile area in North Dakota. He is the Rev. Charles V. Lee, of Lima, O., who flies his single-engine Aeronica summer and winter to conduct services in the churches of the Flasher, N.D., larger parish, located about 60 miles from Bismarck. He preaches sermons at two churches every Sunday morning, two more in the afternoon, and another in the evening. Pastor Lee's desire to enter the ministry stemmed from his being wounded in battle while serving in the South Pacific with the U.S. Marines during World War II. At that time he decided he wanted to "do something for God, for He had helped me." (RNS Photo.)

★ More than 25 million copies of the Scriptures will be published or circulated throughout the world in 1954, but the actual need is for twice that number, according to the American Bible Society, which also reported that 1953 Bible distribution was 25% above the 1952 figure.

★ Air Force men stationed at Hickam Field, Honolulu, Hawaii, were urged to "take God as your co-pilot" at the opening service of a unique mission sponsored by the Chief of Air Force Chaplains, Maj. Gen. C. I. Carpenter.

★ An Arkansas Man's proposal that the motto, "In God We Trust," appear on all U.S. currency as it does on most of our coins, has been received by the Secretary of the Treasury. Matt Robert of Camden, Ark., said the fact that the phrase is left off our paper money is "an oversight that should be corrected. Putting it on," he said, "would affirm our trust in God in a manner that would be 'heard round the world' and give moral and spiritual strength to those who realize a great nation humbly and reverently places its trust in the Almighty."

★ The New Jersey Supreme Court has ruled that distribution of the King James Version of the New Testament in the public schools of Rutherford, N.J., violated the bill of rights of the Federal and N.J. Constitutions. The Court's opinion held that the Bible was a sectarian book, and to permit its distribution in public schools constitutes favoritism toward one religion. The decision resulted from an appeal taken by the parent of a Jewish pupil. Defendants were the Rutherford Board of Education and the Gideons International, who planned to distribute the New Testaments.

★ In Rome, Pope Pius XII has inaugurated the "Marian Year," during which Roman Catholics throughout the world will be required to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the Dogma of the Immaculate Conception, decreed as an article of faith by Pope Pius IX on Dec. 8, 1853. It teaches that the Virgin Mary was free from Original Sin from the moment of her conception in her mother's womb. All Roman Catholics are now required to believe this as an article of faith.

★ If preachers wouldn't press so hard for publication of their sermons in the daily press, church editors could be more selective in their choice of religious news, in the opinion of Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr, professor at New York's Union Theological Seminary. Dr. Niebuhr said that sermons are newsworthy only when the subject is relevant to urgent problems of the day, such as world peace and Communism. The theologian admitted the "historical fact" that ordinary sermons are often dull and said they should not be regarded as newsworthy. Neither, he added, is there news appeal in sermons which expound the Christian faith.

★ Many members of the Free German Youth (FDJ), Communist youth group in the Soviet Zone, are attending church services more regularly than they do FDJ meetings and indoctrination courses. This was revealed in a report based on an investigation ordered by Halle district FDJ leaders to determine the reasons for absenteeism of members from Communist-sponsored activities. As a result of the findings, the Reds have ordered a constant supervision of "church-friendly" members of the FDJ.

Examine Your Faith . . . Is It

A "Hot-Shower" Christianity?

A NORTH KOREAN colonel, who had spent some time in America, expressed to a correspondent a widespread belief in the decadence of the United States when he said, "Your countrymen will be defeated by a longing for a hot shower!"

The Communist world is of the conviction that our capitalist way of life, with its comforts and lack of self-discipline, marks us for eventual and ultimate defeat.

One of the by-products of prosperity and democratic liberties such as we enjoy is a smugness, a complacency that makes us easy pickings for the enemy. At least, that is what they think, until we become conscious of the possibility of losing those precious liberties and are thrown into a life and death struggle to keep them.

We have little doubt as to the ability of our people to suffer and bleed, once they become convinced that our standard of life is really in danger. What we do fear is the possibility of such an awareness coming too late.

The softness and insipidness manifest in our democratic way of life is matched by a tragic weakness and emaciatedness in the spiritual lives of the Christians of our nation. The faith and fervor of original Christianity is about gone. The intense passion and power of those first followers of Christ is seldom witnessed. The devotion and drive obvious in those waking hours in the life of the Church seems to be absent in this day in which we live.

In its place we have developed a 'hot-shower' Christianity—a streamlined, plush-lined experience that is designed to satisfy modern man.

The Christianity of our day is that in which the guilty conscience is traded-in for a soft cushion of comfort and consolation, where recklessness and arduousness of Christian daily living is overshadowed by the goal of 'pie-in-the-sky-by-and-by,' where men style God after their own pattern and pretend those things to be true of Him which they would like to be true.

The Christianity of Christ's making was a Christianity on the march, on the offensive; that which we call Christianity today is defensive, a crawling-into-our-holes-to-lick-our wounds.

From some of our prayers and hymns to our day-by-day activities, our Christianity is hardly more than an escapism, a running-away from reality, a place of refuge and hiding—a longing for a 'hot-shower'!

No wonder some psychologists are terming the modern religious experience a neurosis! The teachings of Christ and the way of life He came to reveal to us are so distorted and perverted that they can hardly be recognized as His. Instead of committing ourselves to be used by God, we are seeking to use Him—as a way of escape from sin's consequences, a form of security, a way to avoid facing-up with the storms and problems of life.

We are thankful that there is a place of hiding in Christ. The ship comes into the harbor to be repaired; front-line soldiers fall back to rest and regroup whenever possible. But this place of quiet and rest, of consolation and strengthening, is not the whole of life. It is rather that which is necessary to enable us to get back into life and to fight its battles effectively.

The reason the Christian experience is typed by the uninitiated as an illusion or a neurosis is simply because there are too-few Christian people who advertise by their lives what true Christianity really is.

In reality, the Christianity Christ came to establish is austere and demanding. "If anyone comes after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross . . . he must renounce all that he has . . . no one who looks back is fit . . . seek first the kingdom of God . . . he who loves his life shall lose it . . ."

Christianity was far from comfortable to Stephen—they threw a rock-pile at him! Peter didn't retire in quietness and peace—he was crucified, upside down!—Paul didn't direct the campaign against unbelief from an armchair—his hazardous exploits were ended only when they took off his head!

But the bulk of Christendom today is sitting around, wishfully hoping: "A thousand may fall at my side, ten thousand at my right hand; but it will not come near me!"

May God help us to see what Christianity is not! It is not a way-out of a tough spot; it makes us right with God, but does not eradicate the consequences of sin in this life. It is not a place to hide from life and its clashes.

Every promise of peace is paralleled with a call of challenge. To accept the first and not the last produces a false and perverted faith. It is these distortions of the faith as made manifest by individuals claiming to be followers of Christ that make Christianity unpalatable to many of the crowd around us.

It is time that we who call ourselves by His name throw out our adulterated concepts of discipleship and become authentic in our Christian lives. This necessitates going back to His Word and His pattern of life for His Church.

To do this will entail major renovations in our lives. We shall find that there is nothing easy-going about Christianity. It is costly and demanding. It promises not softness, but suffering; not comfort, but challenge; not safety, but sacrifice.

There is peace, but there is also persecution; there is security, joy, abundance, there is also blood, sweat, tears. But Christ does offer truth and life and order; a purpose and objective, restoration and reconciliation. He offers to put us in joint with God again, to reinstate us in His Universe, to relate us to His family.

It is in consideration of this that no price is too great to pay, no suffering too great to endure; whether that be our monthly tithe or final martyrdom. The most we can do is to trade of our marbles for His jewels!

May God grant us the grace to live valid Christian lives!

Lutheran Merger Plans

the LFC might find it possible to join in the merger on terms identical with those of the other bodies.

But should the LFC find it impossible to do this, the committee asked it to submit a more detailed proposal for a non-geographical district or an alternate proposal of a different nature to make it possible for the LFC to become part of the merged body.

WHEN MEMBERS of the Methodist Church in Oxon Hill, Md., came to attend services, they found a wall of bricks in front of their sanctuary's main entrance. The Rev. J. W. Kuschel, pastor, explained that the 1,000 bricks were for sale, proceeds to go toward the church's expansion fund. White bricks forming a cross were for sale at $100 each, others for $5.00 each. In the picture, three church members help themselves to as many bricks as they wished to "purchase."

Over 20 Million G.I.'s Attend Army Services

Attendance at religious services conducted under auspices of the Army totaled more than 20,000,000 during the last fiscal year ending June 30, 1953, the Department of Defense said.

The annual report of Chaplain (Maj. Gen.) Ivan L. Bennett, Army Chief of Chaplains, revealed that attendance by service personnel and dependents at services conducted by Army chaplains totaled 17,413,715, while services held at Army installations by visiting civilian clergymen drew 2,811,286.

Far East Christianity Endangered, Lund-Quist, LWF Leader, Warns

IN VIEW of a marked resurgence of heathen religions in the Asiatic sphere, the United Nations and world public opinion must be alerted to the issues of freedom of faith and religion in the Far East, Dr. Carl E. Lund-Quist, executive secretary of the Lutheran World Federation, has warned.

Though freedom of religion "is anchored in most constitutions of the Asiatic countries," the younger Christian churches and missions must intensify their efforts to secure implementation of this freedom, he stated.

Dr. Lund-Quist, an Augustana Lutheran pastor from Kansas, recently returned to his office in Geneva, Switzerland, after a 6-weeks' tour of churches in Australia, Indonesia, Hong Kong, Malaya and India.

He said the issue of religious freedom must be considered as "one of the most accurate international problems of the day," and that the Lutheran World Federation, as well as the World Council of Churches, must render "important services as mediators of information" concerning this problem.

Dr. Lund-Quist indicated the LWF will seek the services in this field of the Commission of the Churches on International Affairs, a joint agency of the World Council of Churches and the International Missionary Council.

A decisive factor in "averting the danger that threatens Christianity in the Far East" could be the development of contracts for exchange of information between Asiatic politicians and leaders of the young churches, Dr. Lund-Quist explained.

He added that even though "at the moment, a development of such relations may seem difficult," the active participation of Christians in the politics of their countries in the Far East may prove of great help.

Dr. Lund-Quist also stressed the need for increased activities by the LWF in the fields of information and interpretation of its work, adding that channels of information are needed, "not only to other Protestant world organizations, but also to the Vatican."

He indicated that the LWF's newly-organized Department of Information will increase and expand its activities toward this end.

Anti-Church Trends Continue in East Germany

A REVIVAL of "anti-church trends" in East Germany has been reported in Berlin by Dr. Kurt Scharf of the Evangelical Union Church. He said the "new course" assumed by the Soviet Zone regime when it agreed to stop attacking the Church last June was being endangered.

Causes for concern which he cited were:

Increasing attacks against the Junge Gemeinde, Evangelical youth movement; seven pastors arrested early last year not yet released; anti-religious pamphlets used as study materials in special seminars in Soviet Zone high schools.

He said several students in a vocational school near Berlin were disciplined recently because they possessed Bibles and attended church services.

The Church's budget suffered a half-million dollar loss during 1953 because of a 30% reduction in State subsidies, plus Communist obstruction of church-tax collections and interference with fund-raising drives.

President Hears Christian Statesmen Have Real Hope

CHRISTIAN statesmen have a hope that can sustain them through the greatest of difficulties and disappointments, Dr. W. A. Visser 't Hooft, general secretary of the World Council of Churches, told a congregation in Washington, D.C., which included President and Mrs. Eisenhower.

National Presbyterian Church was filled to overflowing as the World Council leader occupied its pulpit on Nov. 22 as guest preacher to climax a busy week in the Nation's capital.

While the President and other government leaders in the congregation listened intently, Dr. Visser 't Hooft compared the present world crisis with that which faced the early Church.

"(Early Christians) triumphed over pagan cults largely because they 'out-hoped' them," the Dutch churchman said. "Alone among the philosophies of the day, Christianity held out a hope that man could better his condition."

Political systems have betrayed the hopes of man, the WCC secretary said, drawing a grim picture of a restless, cynical generation in Europe that has no faith and asserts there are no objectives in life beyond mere existence.

"In the United States, hope for a better world has perhaps lasted the longest, but even here one can see growing signs of cynicism and pessimism," Dr. Visser 't Hooft warned.

"A great diplomat said recently," he added, "that the thing that differentiates a Christian statesman in the world is that he has a hope, so secure in the foundation of faith, that he will continue working for man's betterment despite countless disappointments and defeats."

The Christian Church can be a great beacon of hope, he said, when it puts aside yesterday's differences and looks toward "the glorious Kingdom of God that is tomorrow."

A Mighty FORTRESS

East German Lutheran Churches are Strong Despite Many Tests by Trial and Tribulation

CHURCHES in Communist East Germany, where 9 out of 10 congregations are Lutheran, are being tested by trial and tribulation, but are proving themselves to be staunch and strong citadels of the faithful.

This was reported in New York in December by Dr. Julius Bodensieck, who returned to the U. S. after seven years of almost uninterrupted service abroad, mostly in Germany and Austria.

For the past two years, Dr. Bodensieck was Lutheran World Service representative in Berlin, while his wife, Justine, represented both LWS and Lutheran World Relief, also in Berlin.

Dr. Bodensieck said the strength of the churches in the Soviet zones of Germany and Austria was demonstrated by good attendance at services, the faith of the church members, and the way "the pastors stick with their congregations," even though many have opportunities to escape to freedom in the West.

PRESIDENT and Mrs. Eisenhower pause outside National Presbyterian Church, Washington, D.C., after hearing a sermon preached by Dr. W. A. Visser 't Hooft of Geneva, Switzerland, general secretary of the World Council of Churches (at right). With them is Dr. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of the church, which the President attends. Dr. Visser 't Hooft told a large congregation which includes other government leaders that Christian statesmen have a hope that can sustain them through the greatest of difficulties and disappointments. (RNS Photo.)

The Communists control schools, the press, theaters and every other public institution "to make only one voice heard," and use special efforts to win over youth. But according to Dr. Bodensieck, they have "so far not been particularly successful in iradicating faith in the Gospel of Jesus Christ."

Shortly before returning to the U.S., Dr. Bodensieck had an opportunity to visit Dresden and nearby Meissen, deep in the Soviet Zone of Germany, where he attended the installation of the new Bishop of Saxony, Dr. Gottfried Noth.

The travel-permit was granted only after great difficulties, and, at the last moment, and Dr. Bodensieck was ordered to register with the Dresden police as soon as he arrived there. Only one other foreign church representative was permitted to attend the consecration service. He was Bishop Louis Veto of Hungary.

The impressive ceremony at Meissen gave Dr. Bodensieck additional proof of the vital strength of the Church in the East Zone, "where people have learned to know the Church as the last remaining institution of truth and freedom."

As some 500 pastors and church officials moved through the city in a procession which lasted more than an hour, the streets were lined with spectators standing up to seven deep along the way, Dr. Bodensieck reported.

The procession was showered with flowers, people took their hats off, and many wept. In practically every window of the city, people who had often been compelled to display red flags had voluntarily hung white cloths decorated with green branches of palm or myrtle, as an "impressive demonstration of their loyalty to the Church."

The church in which the new bishop's consecration took place was jammed by some 1,400 people, Dr. Bodensieck said, and thousands more were crowded into other churches where the ceremony could be followed through a system of loudspeakers.

Though all the highest leaders of the Evangelical Church (Lutheran) in Germany took part in the ceremony, at which Dr. Bodensieck brought greetings from the 46 million Lutherans in the Lutheran World Federation, he said he was most impressed by the address delivered by a representative of the East Zone youth.

The young speaker based his remarks on the quotation, "If God be for us, who can be

Writes Seaman's Version Of Twenty-Third Psalm

A SEAMAN'S version of the 23rd Psalm has been published by the Navy Chaplain's Bulletin, in Washington, D.C.

Its authorship is attributed to a J. Rogers, a merchant marine captain, who wrote it during World War II. The seaman's version:

"The Lord is my Pilot: I shall not drift. He lighteth me across the dark waters; He steereth me in the deep channels; He keepeth my log.

"He guideth me by the star of holiness for His name's sake. Yea, though I sail 'mid the thunders and tempests of life, I shall dread no danger; for Thou art with me. Thy love and Thy care they shelter me.

"Thou preparest a harbor before me in the homeland of eternity; Thou anointest the waves with oil; my ship rideth calmly.

"Surely, sunlight and starlight shall favor me on the voyage I take, and I will rest in the port of my God forever."

Armed Services Need 50 Chaplains a Month

THE ARMED SERVICES need to recruit at least 50 chaplains a month by next June 30 in order to keep all vacancies filled, the Chiefs of Chaplains reported in Washington, D. C.

More vacancies exist in the quotas for Roman Catholic, Protestant Episcopal and Lutheran communions than for other religious groups, the chiefs said.

The Navy will need 175 new chaplains, the Army 166, and the Air Force 40 to 50 chaplains by next June 30, according to the announcement. Needs are created by the large number of reserve chaplains about to complete duty tours.

WANTS MORE BIBLE STUDIES

Sir: I enjoy receiving the MF each month, and I want you to know I think it is interesting and worthwhile. I'm looking forward to some more Bible studies which Pastor Paul Bierstedt wrote for the MF some months ago.

SHARES MF WITH BUDDIES

Sir: I have been receiving your paper through my pastor, who sends it to me regularly. I enjoy and get much benefit out of the articles and meditations. As soon as I have read them thoroughly, I pass the paper on to my buddies. I am happy to say that this has been very beneficial.

One fellow who had been reading several copies came to me and said that the MF had given him the answer to several problems which had been bothering him. All I can say is thanks for the very wonderful paper.

Second Glance

★ The five Lutheran Churches in America that are members of the World Council of Churches will send 23 delegates to the WCC's Second Assembly on the campus of Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill., August 15-31, 1954. The United Lutheran Church in America will have 12 delegates; the American Lutheran Church, 5; Augustana Lutheran Church, 4; the United Evangelical Lutheran Church and the American Evangelical Lutheran Church, 1 each.

★ The great lack of trained ministers in many East German parishes has caused young West German pastors to volunteer for service in the East Zone. The need for pastors in the East is increasing, despite great numbers of volunteer church workers, especially from the ranks of church youth organizations.

★ New Jersey voters aproved by 2½ to 1 a constitutional amendment to legalize bingo and raffles sponsored by religious, charitable, veterans, civic and similar organizations. The overwhelming pro-bingo vote climaxed a hard-fought battle in which opposing sides were spearheaded by Roman Catholic and Protestant church groups.

★ Every White House guest in the future will be able to read the Bible in his own language as the result of a gift by The American Bible Society to President and Mrs. Eisenhower of a collection of Bibles and New Testaments in 78 tongues. Scripture translations span the modern languages from Afrikaans to Zulu.

★ A booklet which states that Communism and religion are "as irreconcilable as freedom and slavery, truth and lies, light and darkness" is being circulated in Germany's Soviet Zone. The 32-page pamphlet, "Communist and Religious Morals," written by a Soviet author, charges that "religion is an ideology aimed toward justifying and perpetuating" slavery and exploitation among the working classes. Religion makes men powerless, the booklet states, deprives them of their will, and poisons their souls with disbelief in their own powers, thus preventing them from achieving happiness.

★ In a unique effort to stimulate Bible reading, the Church of Norway has sanctioned the sale of Gospels in magazine format on newsstands throughout the country. 100,000 copies, illustrated with photos of modern Norwegian life, are on sale for one crown (14c) each.

★ The United Lutheran Church in America has named Charles C. Hushaw, executive editor of the Glendale (Calif.) News-Press, as director of its newly-established department of Press, Radio and Television. Mr. Hushaw began his duties in New York on January 1.

★ Associated Press correspondent Eddy Gilmore, who spent 12 years in Moscow, reports as "an encouraging sign" behind the Iron Curtain today the deep religious feeling of the ordinary Russian. "The churches are still open," he said, "and the Russian people flock to the services." Of course, the State controls the churches, and so the preachers cannot say very much, he said, but still the people come by the hundreds. "On special days such as the Russian Christmas or Easter," he said, "you cannot even get near the churches, the crowds are so large."

PERSONAL PROBLEM CLINIC

"Your Future--If You Want It!"

by Chaplain (Lt Cdr) Elmer E. Bosserman, USN

LOOKING at "Life" through rose or green-tinted glasses may be all right, if you can afford the cost of disillusionment, but realism is your best bet.

Young people in and out of the service are guilty of doing much of their thinking like Alice in Wonderland did. When the responsibility of living catches up to them, they are like "babes in the woods."

Service life can have a very great deteriorating effect upon the work attitudes of an individual. People in the military can develop a feeling that no matter what they accomplish, Uncle Sam will still pay their check every pay day.

They are willing to let some one else do the work, bear the responsibility and do the worrying. The feeling that there will always be a bed, three good meals daily, and clothing brings on the attitude, Why work and be a sucker?"

This attitude is becoming more and more prevalent in all of our community troubles. An employer has a very serious problem confronting him in hiring any type of labor. The growing demands on the part of the employe of "give me something for nothing" is eating away at our national strength. A man can no longer get an honest day's work from the person he employs unless the individual is exceptional. The evils of socialism are very much evident.

When a young man or woman asks for the rule of success and happiness, the answer is easily found in Scripture. There are admonitions throughout the Old and New Testaments against all vices that sap humans' desire to work for a living. Slothful attitudes are quickly condemned.

Almighty God is a stern taskmaker. He as the Giver and Employer of "life" tolerated no combined effort against Him on the part of the Israelites. Either they measured up, or they were severely punished.

Jesus in His eternal parables gave the answer to today's dilemma. The parable of the vineyard leaves no doubt in any mind as to the religious relationship of employer and employe.

If the clergy could get across to all parishioners that we are all servants in the household of God, and not Lords (as some of us seem to think), we would be on the way toward recovery from the insidious infiltration by the concept: "The Government owes me a living." The doctrine of stewardship accountability is not in the present-day thinking of common man.

As individuals, we can test ourselves to see whether our attitudes are leading us in the way of success or happiness. First of all, would you be willing to accept a job or position without asking how much the salary is, or do you go in and demand a high wage?

In doing your work, do you have a personal sense of pride in doing the very best job possible, or do you take the attitude of "It does not belong to me, so why should I care?"

Do you insist on an honest return of labor and material for cost demanded, or are you willing to overlook crooked practice, hidden charges and the like?

These three questions can mean that you are either in demand as an asset to "Life," or can indicate that you are a useless parasite on humanity.

We should ponder over the fact that the most successful Person in the world by the standards of Eternity was crucified because of His love for His fellow man—How many of us can measure up in our Christianity?

DO YOU TREAT CHRIST AS A STRANGER?

"Winter Souls"

by M/Sgt. Ray Abernethy

WHAT does it take to fire up your soul, so that you long to make Heaven your home, and not be satisfied until you do God's will? You have been told of His great love, and all all that He has done to redeem your soul.

For you, Christ was beaten with stripes and wounded, then made to bear our cross. The world nailed Him to the cross amid taunts and jeers.

There, the Son of God, our Savior, was left forsaken, with just a very few who cared. This was done for you and me. He bore our sins. Do you not care if you grieve Him?

You are gay and careless, and your feet have led you astray. Stop! Think a moment about Judgment Day before you go on. Christ paid for your sins, and God will require of you full payment if you do not accept Him.

Now, don't turn away from Him; there is great joy and a glorious peace for everyone who opens his heart to Christ.

You wouldn't turn away from a friend that had stood by you while all others had let you down. Christ has done much more for you, yet you treat Him like a stranger!

He will be your best Friend, and bring you much happiness. In days of sorrow and grief, His love will bring you comfort and relief, so why not accept this Friend I tell you about, if you want a life fruitful and true?

The gay things of the world may tempt you with their glitter and guile, but they can only give satisfaction for a time. When this glamour is gone, what do you have left? Your soul is torn with unrest.

Religion may be practiced in your life, and it may deceive the world, but God looks into your soul and sees all your wrong.

Now, won't you come to Christ and have your heart washed clean? His love is boundless, and His promises are true! Christ wants to help you to heights this world can't possibly give.

There is joy in His service, and precious peace for your soul. The most wonderful thing of it all is that it doesn't make any difference to a Christian whether he lives or dies, because Christ is with him down here. And, what a wonderful experience it will be when he goes to be with Him in Heaven!

Lutheran Church Sets Unique Tithing Example

DIAMOND LAKE Lutheran Church in Minneapolis, Minn., has given a tithe that leaders of the Augustana Lutheran Church hope sets an example for other congregations.

It took over the job of "mothering" a new Lutheran congregation in suburban Richfield and "tithed itself" to provide members for the new House of Prayer Lutheran Church there.

The transfer of members took place at a worship service in Diamond Lake Church when the Rev. Gordon Bergin held a "God-speed Service" for 62 adult members of his congregation.

When this service was ended, the 62 (and 76 of their children) formed an auto caravan and motored out to the public school in Richfield, where the new congregation is worshiping temporarily.

In addition to the 138 baptized members that Diamond Lake provided (out of a membership of 1,821), the older congregation gave the new one another 50 Sunday School pupils who are not baptized members, but who have been attending the Diamond Lake Sunday School.

The total gift puts Diamond Lake congregation over the historic 10 per cent tithe of Biblical times, officials pointed out.

Pastor Bergin told his congregation he had dreamed of the day when Diamond Lake could repay its own debt to the Augustana Lutheran Church by helping to form a new parish.

Diamond Lake was founded in 1940 with 52 charter members and 6 Sunday School pupils.

against us?"

Observing that "it is safe to say that not more than two or three per cent of the East German population is in favor of the present regime," Dr. Bodensieck stressed that the German churches urge their members to stay, rather than to flee to the West.

However, he added, the refugee influx into Berlin is again increasing rapidly, and by the beginning of 1954, it may reach the flood proportions of the period before the Church-State "armistice" and the East Zone riots of last June.

Record Run for Luther Film in N. Y. Theater

"MARTIN LUTHER" broke all records for first run films at the 50th Street Guild Theater as it began its 13th week on December 1, it was announced in New York by Louis de Rochemont Associates, producers of the picture.

The organization, which also distributes the film for Lutheran Church Productions, also said that the film has "definitely been booked to play through and beyond the Christmas holidays" at the Guild Theater.

In breaking the record, "Martin Luther" tops the previous high of 12 weeks and 5 days, set at the Guild by "A Queen Is Crowned," a documentary film on the coronation of Queen Elizabeth of England.

The Luther film, de Rochemont Associates noted, has been "firmly established as one of the box-office triumphs of the year."

"Martin Luther" has now been booked to play in more than 600 cities in the U. S. alone.

AMERICAN prisoners-of-war organized and conducted their own Christian worship services in dismal North Korean camps, according to a story told by repatriated POW's who returned to the U. S. aboard the U. S. transport, General Black. Here, Cpl. Herbert M. Romberger of Toledo, O., one of the prisoners (left), shows Chaplain John W. Raab, of the transport, the pencil drawing of the head of Christ which he made as an altar piece for the camp services. The men had nothing but a worn New Testament to guide them, but they made their own hymnals containing songs they wrote down from memory. In addition, a wooden cross was carved by one of the prisoners. The POW's said their spirits were greatly bolstered by these worship services. (RNS Photo)

American POW's Conducted Own Worship Services in North Korean Yalu Camp

THE STORY of how American prisoners of war organized and conducted their own Christian worship services in dismal North Korean camps has been revealed by the Department of Defense.

The Department released details of the activities of Staff Sgt. Leo E. Cunningham of Portland, Ore., who as a prisoner of the Communists from Sept. 15, 1951, to Aug. 26, 1953, led Christian work in the camp near the Yalu River where he and other Americans were detained.

At first, services were held secretly, starting in 1951, Sgt. Cunningham reported, with the men risking severe punishment, even death, if detected. But beginning December, 1952, the services were conducted openly with the grudging tolerance of Communist guards, who insisted that all sermons and prayers be checked for censorship beforehand.

The men had nothing but a worn New Testament, but made their own hymnals containing 10 songs that they wrote down from memory. Included were "I Need Thee Every Hour," "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," "Sweet Hour of Prayer," and "Jesus Is Tenderly Calling Thee Home."

When the men were repatriated, they brought the prison-camp cross with them, together with their hand-written hymnals and a treasured picture of Christ which was drawn by a prisoner from Toledo, O.

Missouri, Wisconsin Synods To Confer on Differences

TOP OFFICERS of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod and the Evangelical Lutheran Joint Synod of Wisconsin and Other States meet in Milwaukee January 12-15, to try to mend the growing split between their synods.

The conference was proposed by Missouri Synod president, Dr. John W. Behnken of St. Louis, when the Wisconsin Synod held a special meeting in Milwaukee last October 9, and accused the Missouri Synod of causing a "break in relations" between the two bodies by engaging in what the Wisconsin Synod calls "unionistic practices." These charges will be discussed at the meeting.

LBI Offers Free Bible Courses to Servicemen

"SALVATION Made Plain" is the title of a new correspondence course in Bible study offered free to individuals by the Lutheran Bible Institute, Minneapolis, Minn. Service men and women in the nation's training camps are especially encouraged to enroll for a course of 14 lessons on the Epistle to the Ephesians.

The course has been prepared for "beginners" in Bible study, which, according to the LBI, includes many mature Christians, as well as young people who recently made their confirmation vows.

Participants will receive the lessons, work them out, and return them for correction, before receiving the next lesson. Independent search for answers in the Bible will be stressed to train the students in careful observation of the meaning of Bible passages.

Though the new course was started on Oct. 1, enrollment will continue throughout the 1953-54 season. Details on courses and how to enroll may be obtained by writing to: Home Study Department, Lutheran Bible Institute, 1619 Portland Ave., Minneapolis 4, Minn.

28 Lutheran Chaplains Earn Decorations For Meritorious Service in Korean War

TWENTY-EIGHT chaplains of church bodies participating in the National Lutheran Council have earned thirty-six awards and decorations for their service in Korea, it was reported in Washington, D.C., by the NLC's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel.

Col. (Ret.) Gynther Storaasli, BSMP secretary, pointed out that other NLC chaplains who have served in Korea but whose names do not appear on the list may still be added to this honor roll, even though a truce in the hostilities has been declared.

"Awards and decorations are not lightly made," he said. "A chaplain's record of service is carefully scrutinized and must be properly authenticated before an award is made. This frequently requires much time."

Of the total awards, 23 went to chaplains of the United Lutheran Church in America, 5 each to the American Lutheran Church and the Evangelical Lutheran Church, and 1 each to the Augustana Lutheran Church, Suomi Synod and American Evangelical Lutheran Church.

Most decorated of the Lutheran chaplains in the Korean conflict is Lt. Comdr. Orlando Ingvoldstad, Jr., of the ELC. He has twice been awarded the Distinguished Unit Citation, sometimes called the Presidential Unit Citation, and has also won the Bronze Star Medal and the Purple Heart Medal.

Col. James F. Patterson of the ULCA has been decorated by both the U.S. and the Korean Government, receiving the Legion of Merit Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster from the former, and the Military Order of Ulchi from the latter, making three awards in all.

Two chaplains of the ULCA have been decorated twice each. Maj. Frank E. Helsel holds the Silver Star with Oak Leaf Cluster, and Lt. James W. Lewis the Distinguished Unit Citation twice.

Capt. Carl P. Oberleiter of the ALC has also earned two awards. He holds the Bronze Star and the Purple Heart medals.

A Blessed Christmas to Our Readers!

". . . THEY SAW the young child with Mary, His mother, and fell down and worshipped Him . . ." (Matt. 2:11) (RNS Photo)

NEARLY 2,000 years ago, there was born in Bethlehem of Judea a Babe whose life was destined to affect countless millions. That Babe was Jesus Christ.

The time was ripe for His birth. Roman roads had been built throughout the civilized world in preparation for the feet of His future messengers. The Greek language had become almost universal in readiness for the proclamation of His Gospel.

The people among whom He was born were poor and despised, having been conquered by the Roman power. In the heart of every man was a cry for deliverance.

The world knew not of His birth. Work went on as usual. There was no tremendous upheaval announcing a new order. Kings and Potentates continued to rule as before. Nothing outwardly heralded His Advent into the world.

Only Heaven appeared to be interested. In fact, God had to arrange a welcome Himself, and so legions of angels circled the skies and heralded His birth. Wise men from the East, studying the stars, and observing an unusual phenomenon in the heavens, came with their gifts from afar.

Rulers learned of His birth and became fearful and afraid. Anger filled their hearts.

Lutherans in America Total Membership of 6,673,945 in 1952

WHILE TOTAL membership of the Lutheran churches in America is well on the way toward seven millions, Lutherans are still divided into 16 church bodies and a number of independent congregations and missions. But at least some signs of progress in merger talks are reported.

According to the National Lutheran Council, which compiles the statistics annually, Lutheran membership increased by 3% over 1951, reaching a total of 6,673,945 during 1952.

Comprising the third largest Protestant denominational grouping in America, Lutheran churches are exceeded in numbers only by the Baptists and Methodists.

Of the total, 6,485,782 Lutherans live in the United States, and 188,163 in Canada. The largest Lutheran Church body, the United Lutheran Church in America, reported 2,087,945 members, the Eielsen Synod (which is the smallest) counted 1,550 members.

In addition, membership totals, in order of size, were: Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, 1,847,284; Evangelical Lutheran Church, 907,124; American Lutheran Church, 790,989; Augustana Lutheran Church, 485,165; Wisconsin Synod, 316,839; Lutheran Free Church, 64,376; United Ev. Lutheran Church, 51,640; Suomi Synod, 30,883; American (Danish) Ev. Lutheran Church, 20,434; Norwegian Synod, 11,027; Negro Missions, 8,126; National Ev. Lutheran Church, 8,068; Lutheran Brethren, 3,929; and Eielsen Synod, 1,550.

Progress in merger talks was reported by the Joint Union Committee of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, American Lutheran Church, Lutheran Free Church, and the United Ev. Lutheran Church, representing a combined membership of 1,800,000.

All four groups adopted a doctrinal agreement entitled, "United Testimony of Faith and Practice", at their conventions last year, and the committee has begun work on the task of framing a joint statement on policy and organizational structure of the merged Church.

African Mountain Named for Lutheran Missionary

THE MOST outstanding peak of Mt. Kilimanjaro, Africa's highest mountain, has been named after Dr. Richard Reusch, veteran Lutheran missionary who climbed it 50 times during 31 years of service among the Masai and other tribes in Tanganyika Territory, East Africa.

The peak, known to the natives as "Kibo," and to whites as "Ash-Peak Crater," was renamed by order of Sir Edward Twining, British Governor of the Tanganyika Territory. It is the most difficult point to reach on Kilimanjaro.

Dr. Reusch

Dr. Reusch first climbed Kilimanjaro in 1926, making his 50th and last ascent in August, 1952.

He laughingly relates how up to his 25th climb, he was known as the "Father of Kibo," and when he reached his 50th ascent, he became the "Son of Kibo."

On his last trip to the "Roof of Africa," the missionary led a government scientific expedition assigned to measure the height of the mountain. Only three members of the party reached the summit. Accordingly, they established that Mt. Kilimanjaro is more than 20,000 feet high. (Previously, it had been estimated between 19,565 and 19,700 ft.)

Before the trio began their return descent, Dr. Reusch wrote his valedictory in the book at the summit: "My goodbye to Kilimanjaro. Kibo, you have always been good to me, an abode of peace and a source of vigor. I am old and am preparing for my last safari, so I shall not see you any more. Goodbye. Your son. . . ."

Another honor was bestowed on Dr. Reusch recently when the Mountain Club of East Africa presented him with a diamond medal to commemorate his 50 ascents of Kilimanjaro. He was given a gold medal on his 25th ascent. He has also been notified that he is to receive a medal from the Royal African Society.

Dr. Reusch, 62, is a pastor of the Augustana Lutheran Church, on loan to the Commission on Younger Churches and Orphaned Missions, National Lutheran Council.

He had planned to retire this year and return to America, but his departure was postponed. He has agreed to remain at his post to supervise erection of new buildings for the Lutheran Theological School in Tanganyika. Now located at Lwandai in the Usambara area of Tanganyika, the school will be relocated at Makumira, in the Arusha District, Northern Province.

(Ed. Note: See MF, December, 1952, for story of Dr. Reusch's 50th climb to the peak of Mt. Kilimanjaro.)

Second Glance

★ Lutheran missionary Paul Mackensen of Baltimore, Md., is among 33 American citizens held in detention by Chinese Communists in spite of a recently repeated State Department protest. In the group of 33 twenty-one are missionaries; 13 Roman Catholics, eight Protestants. From Mackensen, the only American Lutheran missionary in China, no word has been received since he was arrested on March 7, 1952, at Tsingtao. Two other Lutheran missionaries, a Finn and a Dane are known to be in Red China.

★ With an overwhelming vote, the General Synod of the United Evangelical Lutheran Church in Australia reaffirmed its ties with the Lutheran World Federation and rejected a charge that this constitutes "sinful unionism." The issue was brought up in connection with talks about merger with the Evangelical Lutheran Church of Australia, which is not an LWF member.

★ An open Luther Bible of 1534 is featured on a new series of Austrian stamps, issued to support a drive for reconstruction of a famous Evangelical School in Vienna, Austria's capital.

★ Methodist opposition to "any system of peacetime universal military training" was reaffirmed by the denomination's Interboard Committee on Missionary Education which warned of "the imminent possibility of the passage of a UMT Act when the 84th Congress convenes in January."

★ American consumption of alcoholic beverages reached an all-time high of 18.86 gallons per capita in 1952, the National Temperance League warned. It added that 40 per cent of Americans never drink, and therefore the consumption rate of those who do is proportionally higher.

★ An educational program teaching youth to "discriminate in its reading matter and select what is good" was called for by the Brotherhood of the American Lutheran Church. The laymen urged the Church to formulate such a program as a means of "offsetting the influence of the mass of objectionable literature flooding the nation's markets."

★ President Eisenhower was asked by 500 Methodist leaders attending a Citizenship Convocation to rescind a recent Army directive allowing the sale of alcoholic beverages on military reservations.

★ "The undergirding of America's rural life with an adequate religious faith," is one of the greatest problems facing the Church today, Dr. A. D. Mattson of Augustana Theological Seminary, Rock Island, Ill., told a convocation sponsored by the National Council of Churches. He said two-thirds of the rural population — 40 million people — do not belong to any church, and that there are states where only 10-12% of the rural population is attached to any church. 13,000,000 young people and children receive no religious instruction, Dr. Mattson said.

★ A Martin Luther libary will be included in a new $1,500,000 headquarters building at Minneapolis, Minn., for Lutheran Brotherhood, life insurance society.

PERSONAL PROBLEM CLINIC

"Know Christ, and Follow Him!"

by Chaplain (Lt. Cdr.) Elmer E. Bosserman, USN

MODERN YOUTH is asking the Christian Church, "What should we do, and what shouldn't we do according to the teachings of Christ?"

Just the other day, a Marine told me that people with whom he and his wife were living had said that "Anyone who danced was heading straight for Hell."

That recalled the time several years ago when a seminary professor told our class that when a man takes his first drink of wine, he is on his way to a drunkard's grave.

Unscriptural religious pronouncements of a fanatical nature do more to keep our young people from Christ than any other one thing.

As Chaplains, we find young people who have been taught that to smoke is sinful; to attend a movie (regardless of subject treatment) is sinful; that cards are sinful; that dancing is sinful; that even a definite moderate use of alcoholic beverages is extremely sinful, and so on, ad infinitum.

This parallels the strict code of the moral law of the Pharisees which Jesus upset in so many ways. St. Paul wrote, "The letter of the law killeth, but the spirit of the law giveth life." (2 Cor. 3).

In the preceding article, we wrote of the moral law of God and what the Old Testament teaches us concerning it. Now, we are taking all that has been written, and adding to it the New Testament teachings of Jesus, with its enlarged concept of moral behavior.

When a person studies the life of Christ, one can readily note the contradictions He voiced to the religious and moral concepts of the chief priests and Pharisees. There are many Scriptural quotes which point out how Jesus applied love and understanding to the moral law, and how He violated the religious codes of His day.

He walked farther than was permitted on the Sabbath; He performed the act of threshing on the Sabbath; He supposedly blasphemed; He made wine for the wedding feast at Cana; He defined our obligation to the State; He cast off the accusers of the adulterous woman and admonished her to go and sin no more; He cleansed the Temple with force; He pronounced condemnation on Pharisaical righteousness, and so on.

As we live life today, it behooves us to apply common sense and a full understanding of moderation to our actions. Christ wants us to be happy and enjoy life within the realm of Christian teaching.

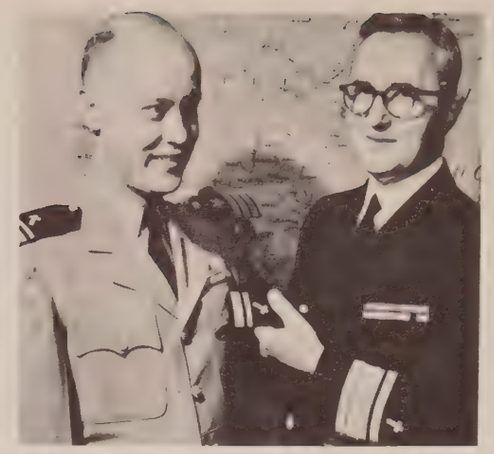
The many taboos placed by some religious groups upon the habits and desires of men and women are not upheld Scripturally. They are simply man-made pronouncements. Temperance and moderation are forgotten, and the teaching of total abstinence becomes the sin of man.

There is one very important teaching that is seldom heard from pulpits or from parents, and that is the New Testament attitude on sexual promiscuity.

As Chaplains interview the young recruits, they are shocked to find that the parents and the Church have taught these young people many Christian concepts, but have entirely skipped the matter of keeping the body under subjection.

The average youth today sees nothing wrong with fornication. Adultery is taken a little more seriously, but not enough to prohibit it. (Note: Fornication is sexual promiscuity outside of marriage; adultery is sexual promiscuity with a married party.)

Throughout the New Testament and with condemnatory emphasis in Revelation, the matter of sexual promiscuity is shown to be one of the easiest and most definite ways there is to lose "eternal life."



Those of us who are in positions of teaching youth must cast aside restraint and tell them exactly what the score is concerning their sexual behavior. There is no teaching of moderation in this field—it's either one way or the other.

Keeping sex for marriage means normal, wholesome development. Catching sex on the loose opens the pits of a self-made "Hell."

The individual who knows and follows the teachings of the Christian Church has a happiness which can't be taken away, plus a peace of mind which is beyond evaluation. Try it and see.

Making a man of yourself in Christ's eyes means to know Christ and follow Him.

(Note: Next month, Chaplain Bosserman will discuss Holy Communion and the Wedding Service of the Church.)

Editor's Mail Bag

Sir: I receive the MF every month from my home town church and enjoy it very much. It is such an easy way to keep up on the happenings of the Church.

I can't fully express my appreciation for the published list of service centers around the nation and world. I think every Lutheran in the service should make use of this handy reference.

While our ship was in Formosa, I had the opportunity to visit your service pastor at Kaohsiung. These service pastors are doing a swell job here in the Far East, but it is too bad that more of the fellows do not take advantage of them.

Keep up the good job. We need "A Mighty Fortress" and your publication is helping the men in service to build one.

Lutheran World Action Appeal Hits Three-Quarter Mark on October 31

LUTHERAN WORLD ACTION reached the three-quarter mark with two months to go in the 1953 campaign for $2,600,000. As of October 31, receipts were reported as $1,947,218 or 74.9 per cent of the goal. The results were nearly 12 per cent better than at the same time last year.

All the eight church bodies participating in the National Lutheran Council had passed the halfway mark in contributions, and hope was expressed that the final total will exceed the minimum goal by a substantial amount.

The Augustana Lutheran Church had almost raised its quota in full, with $285,331 or 96.5 per cent of its share contributed by the end of October. The United Lutheran Church in America had raised $947,531 or 77.7 per cent of its quota, while the Lutheran Free Church had contributed $27,916 or 72.7 per cent of its share.

A Thanksgiving Prayer...

Almighty God, who hast given us the good land of America for our heritage: We humbly beseech Thee that we may always prove ourselves a people mindful of Thy favor, glad to do Thy Will.

Bless our land with honorable industry, sound learning and pure manners. Save us from violence, discord and confusion; from pride and arrogancy, and from every evil way.

Defend our liberties; preserve our unity. Fashion into one happy people the multitudes brought hither out of many kindreds and tongues.

Endue with the spirit of wisdom those to whom in Thy name we entrust the authority of government, to the end that there may be justice and peace at home, and that through obedience to Thy Law we show forth Thy praise among the nations of the earth.

In the time of prosperity, fill our hearts with thankfulness, and in the day of trouble, suffer not our trust in Thee to fail. In Jesus Name we pray. Amen.

VOL. III NEW YORK, N. Y., NOVEMBER, 1953 NO. 7

"Martin Luther" Film Praised by Most N. Y. Critics; Sets Box Office Record

"Martin Luther", dramatic 105-minute film on the life of the 15th Century Reformation leader, broke a 15-year box-office record and won praise from all screen critics of New York newspapers as it began its commercial run at Manhattan's 50th St. Guild Theater on September 9.

Total opening-day attendance at the 450-seat theater reached 2,163 persons, grossing $2,700 in box-office admissions, breaking a 15-year record at the theater. According to a spokesman for Louis de Rochemont Associates, producers of the film, Radio City guards had to be called out to keep the crowds in line.

Most of New York's screen critics lauded the film in warmest terms of praise, and even those who worded their reviews more cautiously found values in "Martin Luther" as a religious film.

The New York Times found that "as a fair and dignified re-enactment of history, it could hardly be surpassed," and the Herald-Tribune said, "Martin Luther's adventure of the spirit has been dramatized succinctly and capably."

A few of the tabloids indicated the film's appeal might be limited to certain groups of spectators. "It is a well-made, impressive film," said the Daily News, "but its special pleading is meant to appeal particularly to followers of the Lutheran Church."

However, this view was shared by only two of New York's seven daily papers. The Times' Bosley Crowther pointed out that the screen treatment of a "tough and unusual subject" has been "squarely and intelligently embraced," with the result "a brilliant demonstration of strongly-disciplined emotions and intellects."

The dialogue, Mr. Crowther said, "is done with such forceful delivery and in such well-assembled scenes that it commands intelligent attention and stimulates the mind." In doing so, he added, "it develops a sense of passion and power."

Otis L. Guernsey, Jr. of the Herald-Tribune found the "story rolls out like the notes of the hymn, 'A Mighty Fortress,' in a succession of heavily-accented beats with a strong underlying theme of conviction and dedication."

The characters, he said, "are like figures in some classic bas-relief: proud, significant, telling a clear story in their changing relationships and attitudes. The film, he added, "is a kind of adventure story as it marches across the screen in a steady cadence."

Mr. Guernsey concluded, "This Martin Luther is in effect a sample of any fight for liberty of conscience, and its ancient organ notes strike chords of modern living all the way."

The critic of the World-Telegram and Sun, stressing that Luther's life story "is told in direct and simple manner," termed it "an unusual and stimulating document."

He added, "Apart from being mature in subject matter, it gains strength from beautiful photography, and the fact that historical characters are intepreted by excellent actors whose faces are unfamiliar to audiences here."

Commending the film's direction, the WT & S critic added, it "gives the work a grand solemn sweep that builds intense excitement over this intellectual struggle."

Rose Pelswick of the Journal-American described Martin Luther as an "impressively-made" documentary. The Post found that the story is "unfolded with solemn dignity," adding, "yet, there is pageantry aplenty—in the church sequences, and pomp in the courts of the Holy Roman Empire and the princes of old."

OUR CHRISTIAN RESPONSIBILITY —

"Seek Peace and Pursue It."

by Chaplain (1st Lt.) Eugene W. Beutel

THE NIGHTMARE of the suffering and dying, of the pain and anxiety, has ended in Korea—at least temporarily. But we find ourselves now in a very crucial hour.

We find ourselves on the fence between a true peace and an all-out war. We can't stay on that fence long—we must step off on the one side or on the other.

The Psalmist advises us (Ps. 34:14) "Depart from evil, and do good; seek peace, and pursue it."

In our nation, we pride ourselves that we guarantee to our citizens the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. But another pursuit is basic, even to these cherished rights—namely, the pursuit of peace.

We cannot sit back and wait for peace to come upon us. We must "seek peace, and pursue it." That goal of peace requires from each of us a rededication of our time and talents, hearts and souls to our Lord and Savior.

The only true peace that is to be found anywhere is found in Christ. The words which He first spoke to His disciples still echo down to us through the ages. "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you; not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid." (John 14:27)

The individual who has experienced this true inner peace, that peace which the world cannot give, but which comes from God alone, will exert his Christian influence in every positive direction in the attempt to achieve outward peace, or peace among the nations.

A heavy responsibility rests upon the shoulders of the Christian world, and upon every individual Christian as well. We must unite in exerting genuine Christian influence upon the world, that the sacrifices made in Korea shall not have been made in vain, and that a just, honorable and lasting peace may be established out of the chaos that now exists.

The only road to that goal is the endless road of the search for peace, which requires the cooperation and efforts of all of us. Truly, we need to "seek peace, and pursue it."

U. S. Protestant Churches Support UN Peace Efforts

AMERICA'S Protestant Churches are "steadfastly" convinced the United Nations is the best available political instrument for world cooperation and peaceful change, the National Council of the Churches of Christ has assured the U. S. delegation to the UN.

"We believe that our government should regard the United Nations not only as a vehicle of cooperation, but as an instrument of mutual criticism and restraint through which the power of our nation and other nations may be transformed into morally responsible policy," the NCCC statement said.

Purpose of the message was to inform the delegation of the American churchpeople's views on questions scheduled for consideration by the UN General Assembly's 8th session, which recently got underway in New York.

"We believe it is urgent that the U. S. and other free nations make another bold attempt to break the disarmament impasse," the message said. It added, however, that the U. S. should maintain "an adequate level of military strength" until all nations accept a trustworthy system by which all military weapons are subject to international agreement or placed under international control."

"MISS AMERICA-1954" is a 20-year-old ash-blonde Lutheran from Ephrata, Pa., beauteous Evelyn Ay, a member of Trinity Lutheran Church (ULCA), where she sang in the choir and had perfect Sunday School attendance, according to the Rev. Myron A. Eichner. Evelyn won the coveted "beauty and brains" title over 10 finalists among 52 entries at Atlantic City, N. J., in September. She told the judges she wants to go to India as a medical technician to help fight malnutrition, after completing her studies at the University of Pennsylvania. (Freeman Studio Photo).

Policeman Hits 'Jungle Animalism' Writing Cult

Speaking to a group of young people in Youngstown, O., Police Chief Edward J. Allen charged that "a cult of writers and publishers is dragging man down to the level of barnyard and jungle animalism."

The chief for several months has been waging a campaign against "obscene" literature circulated on Youngstown's newsstands.

"Once our literature reflected man as being capable of reaching great heights," he said. "But today a cult of writers and publishers is dragging man down to the level of barnyard and jungle animalism. Where once literature looked for heroes and immortals, it now wallows with perverts and immorals."

Continuing, the chief said, "Where literature was once concerned about man as he tended to become most like God, he is now presented as he behaves most like a beast."

"And the amazing part of our present-day culture is that many educated men and women angrily attempt to defend such blasphemous insults in the name of 'freedom of the press,'" he charged.

Second Glance

★ Noman A. Hjelm, a '53 graduate of Princeton University, was installed as president of the Lutheran Student Association of America during ceremonies closing LSAA's annual Ashram at the National Music Camp, Interlochen, Mich. Over 600 Lutheran college students from 29 states and 12 foreign countries attended the 18th annual "corporate spiritual quest" of the organization in late summer.

★ Embarrassed because his choir boys showed boredom during his sermons, the Rev. C. H. Whipp, rector of St. James church in Leicester, England, has asked his parish to supply the young singers with something to read while he is preaching. "Not necessarily religious books," the clergyman said, "but certainly nothing of the 'Deadwood Dick' type either."

★ President Eisenhower sent greetings to the 32nd annual convention of the Luther League Federation (Lutheran Free Church) at Minneapolis, Minn. Said the Chief Executive, "I am happy to learn that this convention united young people not only from numerous states in our own West and Northwest, but also from sections of Canada. All of them, I hope, will return to their homes with a clearer understanding of the religious values which they have contributed not only to the strength of the two nations they represent, but also to the spirit underlying the traditional friendship and cooperation of those nations."

★ Presbyterians in Los Angeles and Baptists in Philadelphia have sent messages of protest to President Eisenhower on reports that liquor will be sold at military messes. The Presbyterians condemned drinking of liquor as "debasing to the individual and to the nation as a whole," and the Baptists requested the President "to rescind any or all orders which would allow the sale of liquor and beer in military installations."

★ Nearly 2½ million copies of the Revised Standard Version of the Bible have been sold since its publication a year ago, it was announced in New York by Thomas Nelson & Sons, the publishers. W. R. McCulley, president, said that in the history of the publishing industry, no other book, fiction or non-fiction, had ever made such a sales record.

★ Printed prayer cards are now being placed on tables of all messrooms of ships in the U. S. Navy's Military Sea Transport Service, Atlantic Area, it was announced at MSTS area headquarters in Brooklyn, N. Y. Cards are "tent-style," carrying suggested pre-meal graces for Protestants, Roman Catholics and Jews.

★ Monks of the celebrated Hospice of St. Bernard, situated high in the Swiss Alps, have been obliged to change their centuries-old rule which bound them to offer a free night's lodging and food to travelers crossing the pass on the route between France and Italy. Modern methods of transportation have reduced the number of travelers to a mere trickle, but tourists flock to the monastery to see the kennels of the famed "St. Bernard" rescue dogs. If the age-old rule were applied, monks say they would have to supply 2,000 meals daily.

★ A memorial to Johann Sebastian Bach will soon be the newest addition to the Garden of Our Lord, Lutheran outdoor hall of fame in Coral Gables, Fla. On Nov. 29, a bronze plaque will be placed in memory of the famed German musician "as a devout Christian who held firmly to the Lutheran faith."

"Be a Man . . . In God's Eyes!"

by Chaplain (Lt. Cdr.) Elmer E. Bosserman, USN

A RECRUIT learns many things in "Boot Camp" or Basic Training. This overall instruction is good, because it forms a transition from civilian life to military life.

However, some of the "old-timers" consistently seem to take it upon themselves to give the "Trainees" the straight word on how to become a "Man."

Every so often, a Chaplain will get word that some Sergeant or Petty Officer has (off the record) informed the boys that the way to become a "Man" is to shake loose their morals on their next week-end pass or liberty.

Whether we are military or civilian, there are deteriorating forces at work which exert constant pressure upon us. The most interesting study we can make is to trace the fall and rise of mankind down through the ages, and to recognize the beautiful pattern of Redemption which God has established for us.

These deteriorating forces which we face today have been present ever since the beginning of the human race. Once man had carnal (fleshly) knowledge, his inquisitive mind led him into all kinds of corruption.

In the story of Noah and the Ark, the Bible reader infers that mankind must have reached the depths of human rottenness for God to completely destroy all life, except that which remained on the Ark.

Then again, we sense utter deterioration of men and women in the wicked cities of Sodom and Gommorrah. Here is our first Biblical record of homosexuality. The attitude of Lot in dealing with the men of Sodom and his treatment of his daughters in Genesis, Chapter 19, is beyond comprehension for the normal Christian personality.

History records the fact that man's depravity reached its lowest level under Greek culture, where perversion was the expected practice. In those days, a person was considered "queer" if he did not practice homosexuality.

God left no doubt in the minds of righteous men and women under the old dispensation (Old Testament) as to His complete abhorrence of all types of perversion. The drowning of the human race, plus fire destruction of two large cities testifies to His righteous wrath.

Christian leaders throughout the world are greatly concerned with the present-day growth in homosexuality. Those of us who have the responsibility of moral protection in the Military are alarmed at its prevalence among our men and women. Because it is the destroyer of the human soul, we must face it squarely and do our very best to stamp it out.

In every case studied in a certain area, three conditions were found to exist: The individual concerned was the product of either a divorced couple, a widowed mother, or "mother" domination. In each case, there was absence of a normal father-son relationship. There was no evidence to support the theory of heredity. It is an acquired habit, brought on by environment (surroundings).

Homosexuals are made up of two groups—active and passive. The active type is, in most cases, beyond correction or redemption. He becomes boastful and arrogant about his way of life. The passive type is many times led into submission through excessive alcohol, then is kept captive through intimidation and fear of being found out. As soon as a man or woman in the Military is found to be a pervert, he or she is discharged immediately.

The problem of normal development for our youth and the burden of correction and redemption for those who are involved falls upon the family, the Church, and our educational institutions.

Every effort must be made by these groups to express the teachings of God in relationship to human behavior. Otherwise, this horrible blight on society will continue to grow and cause the condemnation of many souls who would otherwise come to know the promises of God.

In the Military, we have definite, established lectures on homosexuality which inform and educate the service man on how to make a man out of himself in God's eyes. Chaplains labor constantly against this evil, in the prayerful hope that our young men and women will understand the insidious danger which surrounds them every day.

Making a "Man" out of yourself in God's eyes means to develop moral courage, in order to withstand the onslaught of the Devil. In order to inherit Eternal Life, we must follow the commands of Almighty God.

(Next month, Chaplain Bosserman will discuss Christian marriage, promiscuity, and immoderate living.)

A Pen-Picture of Christ

THIS DESCRIPTION of Christ was written in the year 32 A.D. by Publius Lentulus, President of Judea in the reign of Caesar Tiberius, to that monarch in Rome, and first appeared in the writings of St. Anselm of Canterbury in the eleventh century:

"There lives at this time in Judea a man of singular virtue . . . whose name is Jesus Christ, whom the barbarians esteem as a prophet, but his followers love and adore him as the offspring of the immortal God.

"He calls back the dead from their graves and heals all sorts of diseases with a word or touch.

"He is a tall man, well-shaped, and of an amiable and reverend aspect; has hair of a color that can hardly be matched, falling into graceful curls, waving about and very agreeably couching about his shoulders, parted on the crown of his head, running as a stream to the front after the fashion of the Nazarites; his forehead high, large and imposing; his cheeks without spot or wrinkle, beautiful with a lovely red; his nose and mouth formed with exquisite symmetry; his beard of a color suitable to his hair, reaching below his chin and parted in the middle like a fork; his eyes bright blue, clear and serene, look innocent, dignified, manly and mature.

"In proportion of body most perfect and captivating; his arms and hands delectable to behold.

"He rebukes with majesty, counsels with mildness, his whole address whether in word or deed, being eloquent and grave. No man has seen him laugh, yet his manners are exceedingly pleasant, but he has wept frequently in the presence of men.

"He is temperate, modest and wise. A man for his extraordinary beauty and divine perfection surpassing the children of men in every sense."

Lutheran Army Chaplain Receives Legion of Merit

"Martin Luther" Praised

The Daily Mirror's critic, like his colleague on the News, described the film as "dedicated to a man of strong conviction . . . well, though ponderously done, but for a limited audience."

He found the "story-line is too slow-moving, the treatment too tedious for popular consumption," but added, "yet it is a challenging document for the theologian, the student of history —who are not average movie fans." However, he, too, admitted, "its performers are excellent."

The National Legion of Decency, Roman Catholic film censors, put the film in a special category, observing that "This picture offers a sympathetic and approving representation of Martin Luther, the 16th-Century figure of religious controversy. It contains theological and historical references and interpretations which are unacceptable to Catholics." However, the Legion did not bar Catholics from seeing it.

Though there had been some doubt about booking the film in strongly Roman Catholic cities like Boston, "Martin Luther" opened in that city's Majestic Theater on November 1, at the special request of theater operators. It was also scheduled for Canadian showings later this fall, and elsewhere in the U. S.

The Preacher's Prayer:

"Dear Lord, fill my mouth with worthwhile stuff,
And nudge me when I've said enough."

NAVAL CHAPLAINS BULLETIN

A CORPORAL in charge of the barracks yard put up a sign, "Keep Off the Grass." No one heeded this polite request.

But he had no more trouble after he had changed the sign to read: "Keep Off the Colonel's Grass."

Montana Lutherans Gather First Carload of Wheat In All-Lutheran Appeal

FIRST CARLOAD of wheat gathered for the 1953 All-Lutheran Food Appeal left the quiet community of Reserve, Mont. (pop. 200), after a dedication ceremony highlighting a new phase in Lutheran World Relief activities.

The 2,000-bushel carload (120,000 lbs.) represented only part of the grain collected for the appeal throughout Sheridan County. Other grain was gathered by Lutherans south of Reserve amounting to 3,000 bushels, and additional grain was expected as the appeal followed the harvest northward toward Canada.

In giving from bumper crops which yielded as much as 50 bushels per acre, Sheridan County farmers joined with other Lutherans throughout 12 farm-belt states, in a united effort to help refugees and other needy people throughout the world by providing them with food.

The carload dedicated in Reserve was sent to Philadelphia to be loaded on board a ship for the Holy Land, where the wheat will be distributed among 850,000 destitute Arab refugees through the Lutheran World Federation.

The 1953 All-Lutheran Food Appeal, first of its kind, is sponsored by Lutheran World Relief, material-aid arm of the National Lutheran Council. The Board of World Relief, Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, is cooperating in the project.

No quotas for the appeal have been set, with all gifts being made according to individual donors' good will and possibilities. The appeal will end on Nov. 15.

A THOUGHT FOR THANKSGIVING

"Think on these things." Helen Keller said that it would be a blessing, if, at regular intervals, every human being were stricken blind and deaf.

Darkness would make them appreciate light, and silence would teach them the joy of sound.

To take for granted things that matter most is no small sin.

Count your many blessings — name them, one by one!

SCRIPTURE READINGS for Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 26: Isa. 26:1-12; I Tim. 2:1-8.

Tithing Answer to Church Financial Problems, Indiana Businessman Tells Lutheran Pastors

TITHING is the answer to the financial problems of the Church, a businessman who is a layman in the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod told a group of Lutheran pastors in Minneapolis.

W. C. Dickmeyer, Ft. Wayne, Ind., candy manufacturer and board chairman at Valparaiso University, pointed out that the work of the Church "is more or less impeded or dwarfed by lack of money to do the job."

The reason for this, he said, is that "we still give God the crumbs, instead of the first-fruits."

The tithe, or giving of 10% of one's income to the Lord, is an Old Testament injunction, Mr. Dickmeyer noted.

While Christians are not legally bound by this rule, he said, it still holds good as an indication of what God expects of us even now.

"When we learn to tithe, God fulfills His promise in every one of us," he declared. "He pours out His blessing upon us."

Mr. Dickmeyer said he frequently is asked whether a person should figure his tithe on his net or gross income.

"That's a matter of personal choice," he said. "The Lord wouldn't hold it against us if we tithe on our net."

The Ft. Wayne businessman stressed the importance of "saving the next generation for Christianity."

He said he personally believes that this can best be done by having Christian day schools, "in which we not only give children good secular training, but give them the priceless ingredient of Christian concepts."

Next Lutheran World Federation Assembly In United States, 1957

THE NEXT Lutheran World Federation Assembly in 1957 will take place in the United States, it was decided in Trondheim, Norway, by the Federation's executive committee in annual session this past summer.

The National Lutheran Council, acting as the U.S.A. National Committee for the LWF, extended an invitation to hold the 1957 assembly in the U.S.A. during the 1952 Assembly at Hannover, Germany. The Assembly authorized the executive committee to vote on the invitation.

In accepting the American invitation, the executive committee also instructed the LWF's officers and its Commission on Theology to prepare plans for the 1957 event and to report these plans to the next annual meeting of the group of leaders.

Assemblies of the Federation are held once every five years, bringing together representatives from 52 Lutheran member churches in 25 countries cooperating in the Federation.

Bishop Hanns Lilje of Hannover, Germany, LWF president, urged the Lutherans of the world to develop a fresh approach to public life in order to bring Christian attitudes into politics.

He also said the Lutheran Church has become a "world Church," not only because it "is the mother church from which all Protestantism has sprung," but also because "the thoughts of the churches and their members are moving in the direction of conceiving Lutheranism as something world-wide."

The latter conception, he added, is due largely to the aid and relief work done in the post-war period by U.S. and Scandinavian Lutherans, who have thus "made this one of the best periods in our Church's history."

Luther Leaguers Challenged to Do Better Evangelism Job than Parents

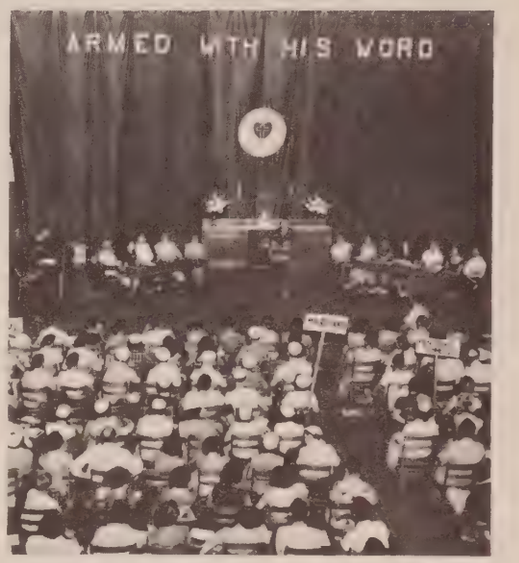
THE SURVIVAL of Christianity is in the hands of today's young people, more than 2,000 delegates to the 58th annual convention of the Luther League of America were told in Oxford, O.

The Rev. John M. Mangum of Philadelphia, associate secretary of the youth organization of the United Lutheran Church in America, said that the Church "at any given time is only one generation away from extinction."

"The youth of the Christian Church," he said, "must be conscious of Christian vocation, alert to opportunities for missionary activity, must participate in 'social action' and above all must accept evangelism as its responsibility."

Challenging the young people to do a better job of evangelizing than their elders, Pastor Mangum said there are only 6,000,000 Lutherans in the U.S., although there would be 30,000,000 if the Church had retained the descendants of all Lutheran immigrants.

The Leaguers were also told that Christianity is a religion of rescue, rather than a religion of achievement or a program of self-improvement.



Dr. G. Elson Ruff of Philadelphia, editor of The Lutheran, news weekly of the ULCA, said that the "central ideas of Christianity are unintelligible to a majority of Americans, who don't understand the belief that men are persistently in rebellion against the will of their Creator, and that Divine redemption of man from his situation is necessary."

"Christian churches are actually hospitals where people are treated for a serious disease," Dr. Ruff said. "As they grow stronger as a result of their treatment, their way of life gradually becomes Christ-like. This individual and social benefit is a by-product of the essenial Christian experience of redemption through Christ."

The LLA adopted the largest 2-year budget in its 58-year history, totalling $104,000, or $13,000 greater than the previous largest budget. The sum will be raised by assessing each member $1.25, instead of a previous $1 annual fee.

John Curtis Stacy, 22, of New Springfield, O., was elected president of the League, the youngest man ever named to the post.

An invitation from the Michigan Luther League to hold the 1955 convention of the LLA in that state, probably on the University of Michigan's campus at Ann Arbor, was accepted by the delegates.

TWO THOUSAND young people attended the 58th annual convention in Oxford, O., of the Luther League of America, youth group of the United Lutheran Church in America. Sessions were held on the campus of Miami University. Picture shows delegates listening to an address by the League's executive secretary, the Rev. Leslie Conrad of Philadelphia (standing behind lectern). (RNS Photo).

UN Secretary-General Links Success to Faith

UN SECRETARY-GENERAL Dag Hammerskjold told a group of Christian laymen in New York recently that the world organization's hope for success rests on its being "blessed by Almighty God and founded on changeless religious principles."

He made the statement in acceptance of a permanent visitors' register for the meditation and prayer room at UN headquarters from the Laymen's Movement for a Christian world, a group which was instrumental in getting the meditation room set up.

Mr. Hammerskjold said that the spiritual backing provided by the prayers of Christian people "have been a tremendous help" to political leaders seeking to create an effective world organization. "In fact," he added, "this prayer room can truly be regarded as the real center of the United Nations."

PACIFIC LUTHERAN THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

MARTIN LUTHER and Katherine von Bora were married by a U.S. Air Force chaplain! At least, that's the way it was last summer when the motion picture, "Martin Luther," was filmed in West Germany. When a German actor cast for the role of Pastor Johannes Bugenhagen (who officiated at the Luther wedding) was found unable to speak English well enough to be understood, the producer quickly sent an S.O.S. call to USAFE's Chief of Chaplains, Col. Martin C. Poch. Wing Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Russell L. Shay of Lebanon, Pa., agreed to play the part, and appears in the film to marry Martin and Katherine, played by Niall MacGinnis and Annette Carell. "Martin Luther," a smash-hit in its premier runs around the country, opened in New York City at the Guild Theater in Radio City on September 9. (Lutheran Church Productions Photo).

133 U.S.O. Units Will Distribute Packets of 12 Lutheran GI Tracts

A DOZEN different Lutheran tracts written specifically for servicemen have been approved by the United Service Organization for distribution in 133 U.S.O. units around the world, it was announced in Washington, D.C. by the Lutheran Service Commission.

Packets containing the 12 tracts have been sent to the U.S.O. facilities, including six published by the National Lutheran Council and six by the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

NLC tract titles accepted are: How to Take IF Out of Life; The Chaplain Speaks; Arrow Prayers; How Big Is Your God; Release From Worry; and How Shall I Read My Bible? distributed by the NLC's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel.

Missouri Synod tracts prepared by the Armed Services Commission included: On Using Profanity; You're On Your Own; Purity of Thought; Basic Teachings of Christianity; Attention, Please!; and The Lutheran Faith.

The Lutheran tracts were submitted to U.S.O. literature committee officials in New York recently by the associate secretaries of the Lutheran Service Commission, a joint agency of the National Lutheran Council and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod—Dr. Carl F. Yaeger (NLC) and the Rev. Walter E. Kraemer (MoSy).

The LSC office reports that it has received letters of appreciation for the Lutheran tracts from U.S.O. units as far away as Casablanca, Morocco.

Lutheran Pastor Becomes New U.S. Ambassador to Ethiopia in September

DR. JOSEPH SIMONSON of Glen Cove, N.Y., for the past two years public relations secretary of the National Lutheran Council, has arrived in Addis Ababa to present his credentials to Emperor Haile Selassie as the new U.S. Ambassador to Ethiopia.

Before leaving for Ethiopia by plane on September 19, Dr. Simonson turned in to the secretary of the Evangelical Lutheran Church the ordination certificate he had held for 22 years while serving as a parish pastor in Chicago, Ill., and St. Paul, Minn., and during his service with the N.L.C.

Such action, he said, was in accord with his desire to "serve in our diplomatic corps as a layman." He pointed out that Lutheran ordination does not confer "indelible character," but a ministry and an office which terminates when there is no full-time call to organized church service in parish or general work.

Dr. Simonson's last ministerial act was to officiate at the marriage of his younger daughter, Lois, at Christ Lutheran Church on Capitol Hill in St. Paul on Sept. 13. During the 12-year pastorate there until 1951, he was also chaplain of the Minnesota State Senate from 1941-1951.

The new ambassador was born at Lanesboro, Minn., May 20, 1904, and is a graduate of St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn. He studied law at George Washington University, Washington, D.C., and last year received a law doctorate from Concordia College, Moorhead, Minn.

Second Glance

● Christianity is making more progress in Korea than the United Nations, according to the Rev. E. T. Boyer, a Presbyterian missionary who has completed 32 years service in the Far Eastern country. "Korea is the most open mission field in the world," he said.

● Americans last year contributed $1,296,000,000, an all-time record, to religious organizations, the Department of Commerce reports. Church contributions were $90 millions more than in 1951, for a gain of almost 7½%.

● A former Minnesota Congressman, Harold Knutson, has given a 70-acre tract of lake property, valued at $45,000, to the Evangelical Lutheran Church to be used as a summer camp for "neglected, unfortunate, deprived and handicapped children." The camp is 30 miles north of Brainerd, Minn., in the heart of Minnesota's lake country.

● In Turkey, priests, ministers, rabbis and all religious officers are forbidden to wear distinctive dress publicly, even though they are only passing through the country. Turkish law permits use of clerical vestments only inside houses of worship.

● Captain Bertram C. Gilbert, a Lutheran chaplain from Reading, Pa., has been awarded the Bronze Star medal for services in Korea, the Department of the Army announced in Washington. He is a ULCA clergyman.

● An estimated 250,000 persons crowded into Hamburg's Central Park in August for the closing sessions of the annual rally of the German Evangelical Church Day. The vast throng assembled under a huge wooden cross to demonstrate German Christianity's unity in faith and thanksgiving to Almighty God.

● In Des Moines, Ia., the Danish Evangelical Lutheran Church, one of the eight member church bodies of the National Lutheran Council, voted to change its name to the "American Evangelical Lutheran Church." A spokesman said the change was undertaken because "more and more of our members have nationality backgrounds other than Danish."

● Church membership in the United States climbed to 92,277,129 in 1952, a new all-time high. This was a gain of 3,604,124, or 4.1% over the previous year. A total of 59% of Americans—3 out of every 5—are now members of religious bodies. These statistics were reported in the 1953 Yearbook of American Churches, based on figures provided by 251 religious bodies. Of 15 Protestant demoninations with a membership of a million or more, the United Lutheran Church in America (2,044,188 baptized members) ranked seventh.

● The Navy Department reports that its 316 chaplains serving in Korea have received 158 medals and decorations exclusive of campaign bars and unit awards from the Korean government. The Navy had highest praise for the heroism of 166 chaplains serving with Marine units, and about 150 others on board ships.

● In Kaneohe Bay, Hawaii, a sermon by a Navy chaplain inspired 66 Marines to donate blood which saved the life of a 6-year-old Chinese boy suffering from hypoplastic anemia, a disease which requires frequent transfusions. "Marines are always generous to a cause they believe in," commented Chaplain R. J. Reed of St. Paul, Minn., "but I certainly didn't expect so many donors."

PERSONAL PROBLEM CLINIC

"Expecting Too Much of Your Chaplain"

by Chaplain (Lt. Cdr.) Elmer E. Bosserman, USN

THIS ARTICLE is written to help you better understand the man who serves as the "Servant of God" in your outfit. Being a Chaplain is no joke. It places a minister in a vulnerable position—even more than that of the civilian clergyman back home. The Chaplain is often times expected to be "all things" to all people. When it doesn't turn out that way, then adverse criticism rears its ugly head.

Not many people stop to realize that the Chaplain is one person who cannot be drafted. Every minister, priest or rabbi in the Service is there because he volunteered. This means that a clergyman who is established in a civilian parish comes to the very important decision that some one has to follow our young people into the Service in order to provide a spiritual ministry for them.

Otherwise, the Church would be neglecting her youth at the most critical period of their lives. Therefore, these "Men of God" many times separate themselves from family and the security of the civilian pastorate to go with the troops on land and sea, so that Christ might be preached and souls saved.

One of the unusual features about the Chaplaincy is the necessary practice of serving men and women of many religious groups. The Chaplain cannot seek out his own and minister solely to them. He is now a Christian minister, over and above denominational lines.

We who are Lutheran are all jealous of our position as a Christian Church. It is the Reformation Church; it is the Church which is entirely developed upon Scripture; it is the Church which teaches the Holy Gospel. We can be righteously proud of our Church and her clergy, becaust we seek to maintain the absolute maximum in Christian worship and practice.

In the three Armed Services, a Chaplain needs all the support and assistance you can give him. He does not know you, nor does he have the home connections in most cases to call upon you. There are ever so many jobs to be done, but so few who will do them. The Chaplain can't begin to cover the ground.

Any baptized and confirmed Christian who is in the Service today and has not offered his or her talents to God through the Chaplain is definitely violating conscience and obligation.

Take this illustration, for example. Time after time, Lutheran men have checked through my office as is required by Station and Wing routine. These men have taught Sunday School, sung in Church choirs, worked in youth groups. Promises have been given to the Chaplain by these men to help in promoting Christian work—then they never show up again!

A Chaplain is often a lonely and frustrated person. There is nothing he would welcome more than to have men and women of his own faith drop in and chat with him. This seldom is the case. We all seem to want to be "chased," rather than "to seek." If every Lutheran in the Service was true to his or her religious training, we would have a modern Reformation in the Military. Consecrated groups, even as a minority, can move proverbial mountains.

In purpose, and in summary of this article, let each one of us realize that the Chaplain is not divine, nor is he infallible. He is a human being with a sensitive nature, possessing both good and bad qualities. He wants to serve your spiritual needs in every possible way, but it is up to you to make your needs known.

Let everything we do be done for the Glory of God, and His Son, Jesus Christ. AMEN.

Next Month: Chaplain Bosserman will discuss the moral law, "Making a Man out of Yourself in God's Eyes."

In a switch of the usual procedure, children at Linwood Methodist Church vied with one another in taking their parents to church as part of a Sunday School contest. Bible in Room 314 Inspires Soldiers' Kin

AMONG THE GUESTS at the Roger Smith Hotel in New Brunswick, N. J., each year are hundreds of parents and wives of servicemen at nearby Camp Kilmer, coming from all over the nation to visit with husbands or sons prior to their departure for overseas posts.

Each hotel room has a Gideon Bible, placed there for those who wish to read the Scriptures. In Room 314, however, one Bible contains moving evidence of the faith inspired by God's Word.

The evidence is in the form of letters of comment left in the Bible by hotel guests who turned to the Scriptures to find comfort at a time of personal heartache.

The first of the chain of letters, written on hotel stationery, was apparently left by a mother from Schenectady, N. Y., who occupied Room 314 on January 2, 1952.

"So nice to find a Gideon Bible in the desk," she wrote. "I came down to Camp Kilmer to see my son before he goes overseas. God bless anyone who might read this. It sure is wonderful to trust in the Lord and put yourself in His hands." Signed, "H.I.S."

Dozens of similar letters followed, testifying to strength received after reading God's Word. The hotel manager says the Bible and its messages will remain in Room 314.

4,500 ALC Luther Leaguers Hear Plea for Ministers

SOME 4,500 Luther Leaguers of the American Lutheran Church, assembled for their 11th biennial convention at West Lafayette, Ind., heard Dr. Marcus Rieke, ALC youth director, make a plea for more young people to become pastors and missionaries.

"In spite of the fact that our colleges and seminaries have more youth than ever before," Dr. Rieke said, "there is still a great need for ministers and missionaries."

"Your Church needs your services," he added. "More pastors are needed, particularly to serve churches in the church's expanded home missions program."

Delegates to the convention drew up a resolution deploring "the wide-spread misuse of the normal sex interests for crudely selfish and commercial gain." In this connection, they specifically listed indecent literature, houses of prostitution and night clubs.

In the resolution, the Luther Leaguers requested pastors and teachers to guide young people in a balanced Bible-based study and discussion of social issues arising out of sex questions.

The resolution also commended "those influences in the television and motion picture industries which are striving, despite tremendous obstacles, to minimize the sex orientation which has cheapened so much of the output of these media."

The Luther Leaguers also took a stand on liquor. They said Scripture does not forbid the drinking of alcoholic beverages as such, but called on members "voluntarily to abstain from such use of, or trade in, alcoholic beverages as would cause offense."

Another resolution on choosing one's life vocation stressed that the determining factor should be: "What can I give to it, not what can I get out of it."

A call for six young Lutheran men to help build mission stations in New Guinea drew 11 volunteers.

YOUR THREE BIG CHOICES —

Christianity, Companionship, Calling

by Marcus Rieke

LIFE is made up of many decisions. Some are important, some are not. Everyday we must decide things, and usually the decisions we make have a direct bearing upon our happiness or lack of it.

During the period known as "youth," we have at least three major decisions to make. Upon them depends our very destiny and also our welfare during the whole of our life.

I am thinking of three decisions. Each is almost always made during youth, and each is vitally affected because of the interruption of wearing a uniform.

First, we decide about our religion. Secondly, about our life's mate. Then, about our vocation or life's calling. These are all major decisions and, in the providence of God, we make these decisions early in life.

You who receive A MIGHTY FORTRESS have already decided about your religion. You have chosen Christ. You made this decision at Confirmation. Your vow of faithfulness and loyalty to Christ and His Church was made when you were quite young.

You decide again each day to "hold fast," to allow the "new man" to be born in you daily, and by daily contrition and sorrow for sin to hold fast the forgiveness offered through the merits of Christ, and, consequently, find joy and happiness in your decision to "Live Christ."

But, how about the second major decision—about your life's companion? Here, there often is real frustration. How can you choose a life's mate if you are overseas, away from home? How can you know whom to choose if you have no opportunity to meet that person with whom you would like to share your life? What shall your attitude be during the time this privilege is denied you?

Well, it would seem good to trust God and be patient. It would seem that because you have chosen Christ, you can also trust Him to direct you to your loved one in His own time and way.

Sometimes you hear that the girls back home "are not faithful to you," that they "only think of themselves," and that they "don't care whether you get back or not." Don't believe it!

Once in a while, it might be true, but if your loved one knows Christ, and knows that you, too, know and love Him, you won't need to worry. It seems to me that the Devil uses this one argument—"She won't be faithful"—more than any other. He ruins lots of lives and destroys much joy and happiness with it. The Devil is a liar. Know him for what he is, and don't let him persuade you that your Christian loved one is anything but faithful, praying and waiting.

Above all, keep trusting in God that in His own time and way He will see to it that you who are His very own will be made happy with a helpmate, sweetheart and wife.

You will still be young when you return, and your maturity and patience will make your marriage more meaningful and wonderful in Him and for His service together forever.

And about your calling? Well, this again asks for patience. Military service is a disruptive thing. Of course, you know that it is possible for many of you to learn a vocation while in Service. Others can learn more about the need for certain vocations because of the Armed Services. For example, there are many of you who will learn of the need for pastors while in the Service.

And do not forget that our country is concerned about helping you fellows who have served in getting set in your life's calling. We have a thoughtful and considerate Government. We are proud of her and her potential for good service in the fear of God, in favor of our fellow-men.

Do not become discouraged. Millions before you and millions after you will find that when they are trusting His grace and following His leading, He never forsakes or fails their trust.

Your three big choices! Christianity, Companionship, and Calling! Three C's that are wrapped up in Christ! Hold fast to Him—there really isn't anything else. Live your youth for Him now, and He will enable you to live your whole life in time and in eternity for Him hereafter!

WANT MORE MAIL?

Try Writing Yourself!

IF YOU'VE been drawing blanks at mail call recently, don't blame the folks at home! Chances are, you've been more slow at writing to them. To get mail, you have to write letters yourself!

And, while you're writing, don't forget to drop a line to your home pastor. He's anxious to hear from you. He'll encourage the "old gang" at church to write you the latest on their doings.

A lot of pastors have told us that you fellows often fail to keep in touch with your home church. Why not sit down right now, and drop your pastor a chatty line? He's praying for you!

BUREAU OF SERVICE TO MILITARY PERSONNEL

SEPTEMBER'S "Girl of the Month" is lovely Miss LaRue Basehare of Lebanon, Pennsylvania. Nominated by Marine Cpl. Charles Gerberich, she is 20, 5'2", and "very neat and attractive." Besides being a leader in Luther League activities, LaRue teaches Bible school, sings choir solos, and belongs to the Women's Missionary Society. A bookkeeper in a local bank, she is giving her services to aid in raising $250,000 to build a new Trinity Lutheran Church (ULCA).

Luther Film Slated for General Fall Release

"MARTIN LUTHER," the feature film based on the life of the 16th Century Protestant Reformation leader, will be released to theaters throughout the country during the first week in September, officials announced in New York.

The film had record-breaking test engagements in Minneapolis, Minn., Hickory, N. C., and Houston, Tex. It opened at the Garrick theater in Duluth, Minn., in July, and was scheduled for showing in several other cities prior to its general release.

Peak period for showings throughout the U. S. and Canada is expected by Reformation Day, Oct. 31, according to Cresson E. Smith, sales manager for the film's producers.

Smith said that since picture stories on "Martin Luther" appeared in the July 13 issue of Life and the July 17 issue of the Christian Science Monitor, the producers' office has been "swamped" with requests for extended theater runs.

The $500,000-film was produced by Louis de Rochemont Associates for Lutheran Church Productions, Inc., composed of the National Lutheran Council, United Lutheran Church in America, Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, Evangelical Lutheran Church, American Lutheran Church and Augustana Lutheran Church.

LWA Appeal at Halfway Mark

NEARLY HALF of this year's Lutheran World Action goal of $2,600,000 was raised during the first six months of the appeal, it was announced in New York. In 1952, it took eight months to reach the halfway mark.

Cash receipts for Lutheran World Action through June 30, reported from seven of the eight church bodies participating in the appeal, amounted to $1,256,238, or 48 per cent of the total goal for the year.

At the end of the similar period in 1952, all eight church bodies had raised 38.7 per cent of the total goal of $2,900,000. Funds raised support church projects overseas.

Lutheran Youth Called to Selfless Service; 13,000 Meet in Conventions

LUTHER LEAGUERS of two of the larger Lutheran Church bodies in the U. S. met in conventions in June and July to study ways of living more dedicated Christian lives.

Some 5,000 members of the Augustana Luther League converged on Boston in late June, and a record 8,000 young people of the Evangelical Lutheran Church gathered in Moorhead, Minn., in early July.

Keynoting the Augustana Luther League meeting in Boston, Dr. Wilton E. Bergstrand, youth director, told the leaguers that freedom is not free; it must be worked for selflessly throughout life.

He urged the young Lutherans to "know the shining glory of giving yourself without counting the cost in a world that exists primarily to get," and to "match with living sacrifice what those who have given the last full measure of devotion have given on the nation's and the Church's altars."

Dr. Bergstrand remarked upon the heroic, self-forgetful deeds of American boys in Korea, and commented, "What a remarkable generation are today's American youth! They are capable of touching lower depths of depravity and reaching higher pinnacles of heroism than any previous generation."

The Leaguers also heard a stirring address by Dr. James H. Robinson, Negro pastor of the Presbyterian Church of the Master, New York City. He told them that there is a revolution going on all over the world, started not by the Communists but by Christians, and nothing can stop it.

"The people of the world have seen the fruits of freedom, initiative and progress,"

WHEN Louis de Rochemont Associates, founders of the "March of Time" series, needed a class of boys for a scene in the smash-hit religious film "Martin Luther," in production last summer in West Germany, they called the U. S. Air Force for help! USAFE's Chief of Chaplains, (Col.) Martin C. Poch, responded by bringing into the studio the sons of a group of U. S. Air Force officers. Standing with the "confirmation class" of boys is Chaplain Poch, left, with Irving Pichel, director of the film, in the AFIFA Film Studios, Wiesbaden, Germany. Boy fourth from left, Ronald Deutschlander, who played the prominent role of "Gustav," is the son of Chaplain (Maj.) John H. Deutschlander of Cleveland, O. "... A COUPLE OF OLD GUYS ..."

What I Found At Shimmabuke

by Clarence W. Hall

I CAN NEVER think of the boons and benefits the Bible invariably brings without thinking of Shimmabuke, a tiny village I came upon when, as a war correspondent, I was following on the heels of our troops beating out their tough and bloody victory on Okinawa.

It was an obscure little community of only a few hundred native Okinawans. Thirty years before, an American missionary on his way to Japan had stopped here. He hadn't stayed long—just long enough to make a couple of converts, leave them a Bible and then pass on.

One of the converts was Shosei Kina, the other was his brother, Mojon. From the time of the missionary's visit, mind you, they had seen no other missionary, had no contact with any other Christian person or group.

But in those thirty years Shosei Kina and his brother Mojon had made that Bible come alive. Picking their way through its pages, they had found not only an inspiring Person on whom to pattern a life, but sound precepts on which to base a society.

Aflame with their discovery, they taught the other villagers until every man, woman and child in Shimmabuke was a Christian. Shosei Kina became head man in the village; his brother Mojon, the chief teacher. In Mojon's school the Bible was read daily. To Shosei Kina's village government, its precepts were law. Under the impact of this Book, pagan things had fallen away. In their place, during these thirty years, there had developed a Christian democracy at its purest.

Then after thirty years came the American Army, storming across the island. Little Shimmabuke was directly in their path and took severe shelling. When our advance patrols swept up to the village compound, the GI's their guns leveled, stopped dead in their tracks as two little old men stepped forth, bowed low and began to speak.

An interpreter explained that the old men were welcoming them as fellow-Christians. They remembered that their missionary had come from America. So, though these Americans seemed to approach things a little differently than had the missionary, the two old men were overjoyed to see them.

The GI's reaction was typical. Flabbergasted, they sent for the chaplain.

The chaplain came, and with him officers of the Intelligence Service. They toured the village and were astounded at what they saw—the spotlessly clean homes and streets, the poise and gentility of the villagers, the high level of health and happiness, intelligence and prosperity of Shimmabuke. They had seen many other villages on Okinawa—villages of unbelievable poverty and ignorance and filth. Against these, Shimmabuke shone like a diamond in a dungheap.

Shosei Kina and his brother Mojon observed the Americans' amazement and took it for disappointment. They bowed humbly and said: "We are sorry if we seem a backward people. We have, honored sirs, tried our best to follow the Bible and live like Jesus. Perhaps if you will show us how . . ." Show them?

I strolled through Shimmabuke one day with a tough old Army sergeant. As we walked, he turned to me and whispered hoarsely. "I can't figure it, fellow—this kind of people coming out of only a Bible and a couple of old guys who wanted to live like Jesus!" Then he added what was to me an infinitely penetrating observation: "Maybe we've been using the wrong kind of weapons to make the world over!"

Whenever I think of what's wrong with our world, and of all that must be made right if our civilization is to survive, I can't help thinking of little Shimmabuke, of Shosei Kina and his brother Mojon. Nor can I help thinking of that Book that started it all, and of the Bible Societies, which are struggling to meet the mounting demand for the Scriptures—a demand that is increasing from freedom-hungry people all across the world.

I can't help relating Shimmabuke and the Bible Societies, for I held the Book in my own

Second Glance

● Passengers on railroad trains are being invited to say grace before meals, as the movement to place pre-meal prayer cards on dining tables of hotels and restaurants has spread to dining cars on the Northern Pacific and Illinois Central railroads.

● Presbyterians received a warning against getting an "edifice complex" from Dr. J. T. Peters of the Presbyterian Church-U. S. A. stewardship office. He said, "We must not lose sight of our real task by getting lost in gigantic an expensive building programs. Untold millions of dollars are being spent on beautiful, cathedral-like churches throughout the nation." He added, "We Presbyterians need to let the Church fulfill the redeeming purposes of God—that is our task, and we must not lose sight of it."

● In Philadelphia, 40,000 Methodists gathered to celebrate the 250th anniversary of the birth of John Wesley, founder of their denomination. They pledged themselves to carry out an evangelistic drive to win 250,000 new members.

● Dr. Abraham Joshua Heschel of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America has called upon America's spiritual leaders to "give priority to prayer over preaching." Said he, "Instead of spending our fire on the altar of oratory, we must at each service learn how to convey to others what it means to say a word in the presence of God."

● Some 300,000 Protestant laymen attended the annual Evangelical Church Day rally in Hamburg, Germany, last month, including 10,000 from the Soviet Zone. Theme for the assembly was from Heb. 10:35: "Cast not away, therefore, your confidence." Many of the visitors were housed by Roman Catholics.

● Capt. Mitsuo Fuchida, who led the waves of Japanese navy planes in their devastating raid against Pearl Harbor, was honored at a farewell meeting in San Jose, Calif., before his departure for Japan, where he will launch an evangelism campaign based on the program of of the Sky Pilots of America. The group aims at interesting boys in Christian work through their love of airplanes, training them to become flying missionaries.

● Bishop Hanns Lilje of Hannover, Germany, said in New York that the East German government had halted its anti-Church campaign because "the Church demonstrated its strength." The Communists realized, he declared, that "here was spiritual resistance which they could not break. History will record," he said, "that the change in the Communists' attitude toward the Church in Germany was brought about by the steadfastness and the unwavering faith of our Christian youth."

● East German churches have been jammed to overflowing since the lifting of the Communists' siege of religious life. In many cases, it was reported in Berlin, hundreds of believers gathered outside crowded churches during services. Observed Bishop Otto Dibelius, head of the Protestant Church in Germany, "Despite the great distress and afflictions, the loyalty and faith of the believers and the Church proved unshakeable."

● Lutheran World Relief, material-aid arm of the National Lutheran Council, has sent 405 bales of used clothing valued at $36,000 to flood-stricken areas in Japan.

PERSONAL PROBLEM CLINIC

"Can War Be Christian?"

by Chaplain (Lt. Cdr.) Elmer E. Bosserman, USN.

"How Can We Be Christians—and do what we are doing?"

A sailor in battle dress, helmet and all, asked me that question not so long ago. It was said in a moment of lull between intense action. There wasn't much time to discuss a question of that nature under the circumstance, but a discussion did come later.

From the very beginning of service life to the day of discharge, an individual who is wholeheartedly Christian can ask such a question. Surprisingly enough there is an answer.

The concept of fighting with armed might is not new in our generation. The first records of armies, their strategy and espionage are contained in the Books of the Old Testament. The fierce battles fought by the armies of the Mighty God in the history of the Israelites are extremely unusual in their development.

It might surprise us as Christians to know that it was the God we love and seek to serve who developed the first great strategy in battle—that He directed the first order for espionage. You can quickly establish these facts by reading Numbers, Joshua, Judges, and Samuel I and II. (The espionage is where God commanded Moses to send the 12 spies into the land of Canaan.)

When it became necessary for Almighty God to redeem our lost and fallen race, Jesus, the Messiah, was sent to us in the flesh. Many are the occasions during Jesus' public ministry when the disciples wanted Jesus to call down the wrath of God upon the heads of His enemies.

Jesus would enjoin them by saying, in so many words, "The time is not yet." However, there was a time when the Prince of Peace took matters into His own hands and cleansed the Temple. Why? Because they were despoiling the House of God. Herein, we get our Call to Service.

Jesus, in talking with man, told us that we must return love for hate, kindness for meanness, a soft word for a harsh word. He exemplified this Gospel by His whole life. The attacks upon His person were taken in full stride—even His death on the Cross.

So should we respond to anyone who seeks to treat us as individuals, even as Christ also was treated. We should be constantly ready to turn the other cheek, to forgive seventy times seven. However, we must realize that this is the individual's approach. It is our means of self-sacrifice.

Each of us as individuals has a definite responsibility to society as a whole. The family being the first organization of this world, demands our utmost concern. We must protect it from all harm and danger, no matter what the cost to us as individuals. The Church is our second great concern, for it is comprised of the families.

In the decades past, if Christian men and women had failed to fight for the right when evil powers threatened to engulf the world, there would be an entirely different life on this globe today. God expects us to sacrifice ourselves if necessary so that our brothers might live.

Let us examine this concept closely. Hitler and his followers felt that the State was supreme, and that the family had absolutely no rights. Among these rights which were destroyed was the freedom to worship Almighty God through His Son, Jesus Christ. Missionaries and clergymen were killed or thrown into prison. The Bible was burned. Finally, Christian men and women, by armed might, rescued Germany from false prophets and war lords. Today, the Bible and the Church is flourishing in Germany.

Today, the minions of Satan are working throughout the world under the guise of Communism. Can we do what we're doing and be Christians? The answer in our hearts should be, "We cannot do otherwise and be called Christian."

Army Chaplains in Korea Win 332 Gallantry Awards

United States Army chaplains have won 332 decorations for gallantry while ministering to troops in the front lines in Korea, Chaplain (Maj. Gen.) Ivan L. Bennett, Army Chief of Chaplains, announced in Washington.

Thirteen chaplains were killed or are missing during the first three years of war in that theater, Chaplain Bennett said, while 26 were wounded. This casualty rate among the 300 Army chaplains who have served in Korea is almost as high as for the Army as a whole.

Unarmed, the chaplains have constantly persisted in remaining with their units even in the most hazardous operations, and most of those killed or wounded were ministering to the injured, Chaplain Bennett reported.

Six chaplains were killed in action, two killed in accidents, and three died in the hands of their enemy captors, Chaplain Bennett said, while two are missing in action and unreported on enemy prisoner lists.

Two chaplains have won the Distinguished Service Cross, 12 the Legion of Merit, 28 the Silver Star, and 225 have received the Bronze Star.

Daily Devotions Missed

Sir: The young men of our congregation tell us that they have missed the inclusion of regular suggested devotions in the MF. We feel that you should realize that our young men felt this an important part of this bit of correspondence from home.

Rev. Carl E. Neudoerffer, D.D.
St. Michael's Ev. Luth. Church
Allentown, Penna.

(Pastor Paul Bierstedt, who formerly prepared devotions for the MF, agreed to do so for a six-month period. If enough readers demand resumption, MF will try to do so.)

Likes MF Address List

Sir: The part I read first in the MF is the military addresses of chaplains. It helps us find the many chaplains that are here in Germany that we did not know were here. It gives me great pleasure to tell you what a wonderful paper the MF is, and that the fellows in my billet look forward to it as much as I do!

Lutheran Youth

he said. "But the Communists have been most astute in making the people believe that they, not we, have their basic interest and hopes at heart."

The Harlem pastor said that new missionary methods and approaches are absolutely essential. "The youth of America will either have to outlive the militant atheistic program of Communism, which bends every effort to win the allegiance of the leaders of tomorrow," he said, "or they will ultimately have to out-die it in a great ideological struggle which one day will reach the boiling point. It is entirely unnecessary that this should happen."

He called for "a great, creative army of tough-minded, loving American young people" to go to the far-flung parts of the earth and "give of themselves in the desperate struggle that young people are facing."

Dr. Robinson's appeal pointed up the basic purpose of the conference which was to inspire young Lutherans to give their lives to their Church, either as pastors, missionaries or parish workers. (A conference spokesman said at least 250 Leaguers can logically be expected to adopt Christian service as their life's work as a result of this year's session.)

Bishop Hanns Lilje of Hannover, Germany, president of the Lutheran World Federation, spoke to both the Augustana and ELC Luther League meetings.

He told the Augustana group he could urge upon them no more important lesson than preparing to meet emergencies as calm, courageous followers of Christ. He had to prepare to meet death itself when he was a prisoner of the Nazis.

"I found it the most important and valuable lesson of my life," he declared, "to be prepared to die. In those days my constant prayer was that my knees would not let me down at the last moment, but that I would be able to witness to the dignity of Christian life by my calmness and steadfast courage."

In his address to the Augustana Luther League he called for "a spiritual renewal which will not touch just a few, but all those in authority and positions of responsibility."

He compared the present period to the era of the decline of the Roman Empire and the darkest hours of the Middle Ages, when a completely new start had to be made. Everything depends now, said Bishop Lilje, upon the leadership of those who have rediscovered God.

Speaking to the International Young People's Luther League of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in Moorhead, Minn., Bishop Lilje reported on several observations he had made during his visit to the U. S., which included a call on President Eisenhower.

He was amazed, he said, at how well some of America's leaders grasp the "historical responsibility" on the shoulders of the United States today. "Some people say that America is adolescent. I say that America is mature," he said.

But Europe needs these things from America, the German churchman added: More understanding and less political prejudice; less isolationism, because "all isolationist movements are wrong, and America will have to pay for them;" an end to vague fears; and firm action in international political moves.

"If America takes a firm stand and speaks up, it might help to save the world from war," Dr. Lilje declared.

ing was what may have been the largest Holy Communion service in the history of U. S. Lutheranism. The Sacrament was administered to some 8,000 young people in the Concordia College fieldhouse which had been converted into a huge sanctuary with 32 altar tables and kneeling benches. The Elements were distributed by 66 pastors who assisted the Rev. Erling Jacobson, the celebrant.

The ELC convention received greetings from President Eisenhower, who told them, "The hope for happiness and peace in this land of ours and throughout the world lies in large part with you young people. Our best assurance for a better tomorrow comes from idealistic, dedicated youth, inspired by religious faith so simply and well-spoken in your convention theme, 'Thy Will be Done on Earth.' "

The President concluded, "I sincerely believe that the members of the International Young People's Luther League, linked with like-minded youth everywhere, will play a significant part in making this world more worthy of that high aspiration."

Twenty missionaries, soon to leave for overseas service, were consecrated as part of "international night" ceremonies.

hands for a few memorable moments. At my request, Shosei Kina reverently took it down from the pedestal where it rested, handling it with the loving care one would use with the original of our own Declaration of Independence. It was weather-stained and frayed. Its covers were almost off, its edges dog-eared from thirty years' use. Carefully I turned its pages. I couldn't read a word of it, of course. But I could read the inscription on the flyleaf. It said: "Published and distributed by the American Bible Society, New York."

This textbook of freedom had made a new little world of Shimmabuke. Given proper distribution, may it not make a big new world of liberty and peace for all?

BISHOP HANNS LILJE (center) of Hannover, Germany, president of the Lutheran World Federation, spent three weeks in the U. S. during June and July on a special speaking tour. He paid a brief, formal call on President Eisenhower at the White House. He said he did not discuss with the Chief Executive either German political problems or the recent riots in East Germany. Shown with him are the Rev. Robert E. Van Deusen (left), Washington secretary of the National Lutheran Council, and Dr. Heinz Krekeler, charge d'affaires of the German Diplomatic Mission in Washington. (INP Photo)

Lutheran Chaplain Awarded Bronze Star for Korea Duty

LUTHERAN CHAPLAIN (Capt.) Verner H. Hansen of Newark, N. J., has been awarded the Bronze Star for Korean service beyond the call of duty, the Department of the Army announced recently in Washington.

Chaplain Hansen was one of eight chaplains receiving the award. Two other chaplains were awarded the Silver Star in Korea for conspicuous gallantry while under enemy fire.

President Eisenhower Signs Amendment to U. S. Flag Code

PRESIDENT Eisenhower has signed an amendment to the U. S. Flag Code which provides that whenever the U. N. flag is displayed at a meeting, religious service, or other public gathering, the American flag must always be accorded a position of precedence over it.

Under the new amendment, the U. S. flag must be placed at the right of the clergyman or speaker at a religious service. The U. N. flag, when displayed, should be at the left of the pulpit or rostrum. The Christian flag still rates precedence during worship.

BUREAU OF SERVICE TO MILITARY PERSONNEL

SEPTEMBER'S "Girl of the Month" is lovely Miss LaRue Basehare of Lebanon, Pennsylvania. Nominated by Marine Cpl. Charles Gerberich, she is 20, 5'2", and "very neat and attractive." Besides being a leader in Luther League activities, LaRue teaches Bible school, sings choir solos, and belongs to the Women's Missionary Society. Luther Film Slated for General Fall Release

"MARTIN LUTHER," the feature film based on the life of the 16th Century Protestant Reformation leader, will be released to theaters throughout the country during the first week in September, officials announced in New York.

The film had record-breaking test engagements in Minneapolis, Minn., Hickory, N. C., and Houston, Tex. It opened at the Garrick theater in Duluth, Minn., in July, and was scheduled for showing in several other cities prior to its general release.

Peak period for showings throughout the U. S. and Canada is expected by Reformation Day, Oct. 31, according to Cresson E. Smith, sales manager for the film's producers.

Smith said that since picture stories on "Martin Luther" appeared in the July 13 issue of Life and the July 17 issue of the Christian Science Monitor, the producers' office has been "swamped" with requests for extended theater runs.

The $500,000-film was produced by Louis de Rochemont Associates for Lutheran Church Productions, Inc., composed of the National Lutheran Council, United Lutheran Church in America, Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, Evangelical Lutheran Church, American Lutheran Church and Augustana Lutheran Church.

LWA Appeal at Halfway Mark

NEARLY HALF of this year's Lutheran World Action goal of $2,600,000 was raised during the first six months of the appeal, it was announced in New York. In 1952, it took eight months to reach the halfway mark.

Cash receipts for Lutheran World Action through June 30, reported from seven of the eight church bodies participating in the appeal, amounted to $1,256,238, or 48 per cent of the total goal for the year.

At the end of the similar period in 1952, all eight church bodies had raised 38.7 per cent of the total goal of $2,900,000. Funds raised support church projects overseas.

Lutheran Youth Called to Selfless Service; 13,000 Meet in Conventions

LUTHER LEAGUERS of two of the larger Lutheran Church bodies in the U. S. met in conventions in June and July to study ways of living more dedicated Christian lives.

Some 5,000 members of the Augustana Luther League converged on Boston in late June, and a record 8,000 young people of the Evangelical Lutheran Church gathered in Moorhead, Minn., in early July.

Keynoting the Augustana Luther League meeting in Boston, Dr. Wilton E. Bergstrand, youth director, told the leaguers that freedom is not free; it must be worked for selflessly throughout life.

He urged the young Lutherans to "know the shining glory of giving yourself without counting the cost in a world that exists primarily to get," and to "match with living sacrifice what those who have given the last full measure of devotion have given on the nation's and the Church's altars."

Dr. Bergstrand remarked upon the heroic, self-forgetful deeds of American boys in Korea, and commented, "What a remarkable generation are today's American youth! They are capable of touching lower depths of depravity and reaching higher pinnacles of heroism than any previous generation."

The Leaguers also heard a stirring address by Dr. James H. Robinson, Negro pastor of the Presbyterian Church of the Master, New York City. He told them that there is a revolution going on all over the world, started not by the Communists but by Christians, and nothing can stop it.

"The people of the world have seen the fruits of freedom, initiative and progress,"

What I Found At Shimmabuke

by Clarence W. Hall

I CAN NEVER think of the boons and benefits the Bible invariably brings without thinking of Shimmabuke, a tiny village I came upon when, as a war correspondent, I was following on the heels of our troops beating out their tough and bloody victory on Okinawa.

It was an obscure little community of only a few hundred native Okinawans. Thirty years before, an American missionary on his way to Japan had stopped here. He hadn't stayed long—just long enough to make a couple of converts, leave them a Bible and then pass on.

One of the converts was Shosei Kina, the other was his brother, Mojon. From the time of the missionary's visit, mind you, they had seen no other missionary, had no contact with any other Christian person or group.

But in those thirty years Shosei Kina and his brother Mojon had made that Bible come alive. Picking their way through its pages, they had found not only an inspiring Person on whom to pattern a life, but sound precepts on which to base a society.

Aflame with their discovery, they taught the other villagers until every man, woman and child in Shimmabuke was a Christian. Shosei Kina became head man in the village; his brother Mojon, the chief teacher. In Mojon's school the Bible was read daily. To Shosei Kina's village government, its precepts were law. Under the impact of this Book, pagan things had fallen away. In their place, during these thirty years, there had developed a Christian democracy at its purest.

Then after thirty years came the American Army, storming across the island. Little Shimmabuke was directly in their path and took severe shelling. When our advance patrols swept up to the village compound, the GI's their guns leveled, stopped dead in their tracks as two little old men stepped forth, bowed low and began to speak.

An interpreter explained that the old men were welcoming them as fellow-Christians. They remembered that their missionary had come from America. So, though these Americans seemed to approach things a little differently than had the missionary, the two old men were overjoyed to see them.

The GI's reaction was typical. Flabbergasted, they sent for the chaplain.

The chaplain came, and with him officers of the Intelligence Service. They toured the village and were astounded at what they saw—the spotlessly clean homes and streets, the poise and gentility of the villagers, the high level of health and happiness, intelligence and prosperity of Shimmabuke. They had seen many other villages on Okinawa—villages of unbelievable poverty and ignorance and filth. Against these, Shimmabuke shone like a diamond in a dungheap.

Shosei Kina and his brother Mojon observed the Americans' amazement and took it for disappointment. They bowed humbly and said: "We are sorry if we seem a backward people. We have, honored sirs, tried our best to follow the Bible and live like Jesus. Perhaps if you will show us how . . ." Show them?

I strolled through Shimmabuke one day with a tough old Army sergeant. As we walked, he turned to me and whispered hoarsely. "I can't figure it, fellow—this kind of people coming out of only a Bible and a couple of old guys who wanted to live like Jesus!" Then he added what was to me an infinitely penetrating observation: "Maybe we've been using the wrong kind of weapons to make the world over!"

Whenever I think of what's wrong with our world, and of all that must be made right if our civilization is to survive, I can't help thinking of little Shimmabuke, of Shosei Kina and his brother Mojon. Nor can I help thinking of that Book that started it all, and of the Bible Societies, which are struggling to meet the mounting demand for the Scriptures—a demand that is increasing from freedom-hungry people all across the world.

I can't help relating Shimmabuke and the Bible Societies, for I held the Book in my own

Second Glance

● Passengers on railroad trains are being invited to say grace before meals, as the movement to place pre-meal prayer cards on dining tables of hotels and restaurants has spread to dining cars on the Northern Pacific and Illinois Central railroads.

● Presbyterians received a warning against getting an "edifice complex" from Dr. J. T. Peters of the Presbyterian Church-U. S. A. stewardship office. He said, "We must not lose sight of our real task by getting lost in gigantic an expensive building programs. Untold millions of dollars are being spent on beautiful, cathedral-like churches throughout the nation." He added, "We Presbyterians need to let the Church fulfill the redeeming purposes of God—that is our task, and we must not lose sight of it."

● In Philadelphia, 40,000 Methodists gathered to celebrate the 250th anniversary of the birth of John Wesley, founder of their denomination. They pledged themselves to carry out an evangelistic drive to win 250,000 new members.

● Dr. Abraham Joshua Heschel of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America has called upon America's spiritual leaders to "give priority to prayer over preaching." Said he, "Instead of spending our fire on the altar of oratory, we must at each service learn how to convey to others what it means to say a word in the presence of God."

● Some 300,000 Protestant laymen attended the annual Evangelical Church Day rally in Hamburg, Germany, last month, including 10,000 from the Soviet Zone. Theme for the assembly was from Heb. 10:35: "Cast not away, therefore, your confidence." Many of the visitors were housed by Roman Catholics.

● Capt. Mitsuo Fuchida, who led the waves of Japanese navy planes in their devastating raid against Pearl Harbor, was honored at a farewell meeting in San Jose, Calif., before his departure for Japan, where he will launch an evangelism campaign based on the program of of the Sky Pilots of America. The group aims at interesting boys in Christian work through their love of airplanes, training them to become flying missionaries.

● Bishop Hanns Lilje of Hannover, Germany, said in New York that the East German government had halted its anti-Church campaign because "the Church demonstrated its strength." The Communists realized, he declared, that "here was spiritual resistance which they could not break. History will record," he said, "that the change in the Communists' attitude toward the Church in Germany was brought about by the steadfastness and the unwavering faith of our Christian youth."

● East German churches have been jammed to overflowing since the lifting of the Communists' siege of religious life. In many cases, it was reported in Berlin, hundreds of believers gathered outside crowded churches during services. Observed Bishop Otto Dibelius, head of the Protestant Church in Germany, "Despite the great distress and afflictions, the loyalty and faith of the believers and the Church proved unshakeable."

● Lutheran World Relief, material-aid arm of the National Lutheran Council, has sent 405 bales of used clothing valued at $36,000 to flood-stricken areas in Japan.

PERSONAL PROBLEM CLINIC

"Can War Be Christian?"

by Chaplain (Lt. Cdr.) Elmer E. Bosserman, USN.

"How Can We Be Christians—and do what we are doing?"

A sailor in battle dress, helmet and all, asked me that question not so long ago. It was said in a moment of lull between intense action. There wasn't much time to discuss a question of that nature under the circumstance, but a discussion did come later.

From the very beginning of service life to the day of discharge, an individual who is wholeheartedly Christian can ask such a question. Surprisingly enough there is an answer.

The concept of fighting with armed might is not new in our generation. The first records of armies, their strategy and espionage are contained in the Books of the Old Testament. The fierce battles fought by the armies of the Mighty God in the history of the Israelites are extremely unusual in their development.

It might surprise us as Christians to know that it was the God we love and seek to serve who developed the first great strategy in battle—that He directed the first order for espionage. You can quickly establish these facts by reading Numbers, Joshua, Judges, and Samuel I and II. (The espionage is where God commanded Moses to send the 12 spies into the land of Canaan.)

When it became necessary for Almighty God to redeem our lost and fallen race, Jesus, the Messiah, was sent to us in the flesh. Many are the occasions during Jesus' public ministry when the disciples wanted Jesus to call down the wrath of God upon the heads of His enemies.

Jesus would enjoin them by saying, in so many words, "The time is not yet." However, there was a time when the Prince of Peace took matters into His own hands and cleansed the Temple. Why? Because they were despoiling the House of God. Herein, we get our Call to Service.

Jesus, in talking with man, told us that we must return love for hate, kindness for meanness, a soft word for a harsh word. He exemplified this Gospel by His whole life. The attacks upon His person were taken in full stride—even His death on the Cross.

So should we respond to anyone who seeks to treat us as individuals, even as Christ also was treated. We should be constantly ready to turn the other cheek, to forgive seventy times seven. However, we must realize that this is the individual's approach. It is our means of self-sacrifice.

Each of us as individuals has a definite responsibility to society as a whole. The family being the first organization of this world, demands our utmost concern. We must protect it from all harm and danger, no matter what the cost to us as individuals. The Church is our second great concern, for it is comprised of the families.

In the decades past, if Christian men and women had failed to fight for the right when evil powers threatened to engulf the world, there would be an entirely different life on this globe today. God expects us to sacrifice ourselves if necessary so that our brothers might live.

Let us examine this concept closely. Hitler and his followers felt that the State was supreme, and that the family had absolutely no rights. Among these rights which were destroyed was the freedom to worship Almighty God through His Son, Jesus Christ. Missionaries and clergymen were killed or thrown into prison. The Bible was burned. Finally, Christian men and women, by armed might, rescued Germany from false prophets and war lords. Today, the Bible and the Church is flourishing in Germany.

Today, the minions of Satan are working throughout the world under the guise of Communism. Can we do what we're doing and be Christians? The answer in our hearts should be, "We cannot do otherwise and be called Christian."

Army Chaplains in Korea Win 332 Gallantry Awards

United States Army chaplains have won 332 decorations for gallantry while ministering to troops in the front lines in Korea, Chaplain (Maj. Gen.) Ivan L. Bennett, Army Chief of Chaplains, announced in Washington.

Thirteen chaplains were killed or are missing during the first three years of war in that theater, Chaplain Bennett said, while 26 were wounded. This casualty rate among the 300 Army chaplains who have served in Korea is almost as high as for the Army as a whole.

Unarmed, the chaplains have constantly persisted in remaining with their units even in the most hazardous operations, and most of those killed or wounded were ministering to the injured, Chaplain Bennett reported.

Six chaplains were killed in action, two killed in accidents, and three died in the hands of their enemy captors, Chaplain Bennett said, while two are missing in action and unreported on enemy prisoner lists.

Two chaplains have won the Distinguished Service Cross, 12 the Legion of Merit, 28 the Silver Star, and 225 have received the Bronze Star.

Likes MF Address List

Sir: The part I read first in the MF is the military addresses of chaplains. It helps us find the many chaplains that are here in Germany that we did not know were here. It gives me great pleasure to tell you what a wonderful paper the MF is, and that the fellows in my billet look forward to it as much as I do!

he said. "But the Communists have been most astute in making the people believe that they, not we, have their basic interest and hopes at heart."

The Harlem pastor said that new missionary methods and approaches are absolutely essential. "The youth of America will either have to outlive the militant atheistic program of Communism, which bends every effort to win the allegiance of the leaders of tomorrow," he said, "or they will ultimately have to out-die it in a great ideological struggle which one day will reach the boiling point. It is entirely unnecessary that this should happen."

He called for "a great, creative army of tough-minded, loving American young people" to go to the far-flung parts of the earth and "give of themselves in the desperate struggle that young people are facing."

Dr. Robinson's appeal pointed up the basic purpose of the conference which was to inspire young Lutherans to give their lives to their Church, either as pastors, missionaries or parish workers. (A conference spokesman said at least 250 Leaguers can logically be expected to adopt Christian service as their life's work as a result of this year's session.)

Bishop Hanns Lilje of Hannover, Germany, president of the Lutheran World Federation, spoke to both the Augustana and ELC Luther League meetings.

He told the Augustana group he could urge upon them no more important lesson than preparing to meet emergencies as calm, courageous followers of Christ. He had to prepare to meet death itself when he was a prisoner of the Nazis.

"I found it the most important and valuable lesson of my life," he declared, "to be prepared to die. In those days my constant prayer was that my knees would not let me down at the last moment, but that I would be able to witness to the dignity of Christian life by my calmness and steadfast courage."

In his address to the Augustana Luther League he called for "a spiritual renewal which will not touch just a few, but all those in authority and positions of responsibility."

He compared the present period to the era of the decline of the Roman Empire and the darkest hours of the Middle Ages, when a completely new start had to be made. Everything depends now, said Bishop Lilje, upon the leadership of those who have rediscovered God.

Speaking to the International Young People's Luther League of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in Moorhead, Minn., Bishop Lilje reported on several observations he had made during his visit to the U. S., which included a call on President Eisenhower.

He was amazed, he said, at how well some of America's leaders grasp the "historical responsibility" on the shoulders of the United States today. "Some people say that America is adolescent. I say that America is mature," he said.

But Europe needs these things from America, the German churchman added: More understanding and less political prejudice; less isolationism, because "all isolationist movements are wrong, and America will have to pay for them;" an end to vague fears; and firm action in international political moves.

"If America takes a firm stand and speaks up, it might help to save the world from war," Dr. Lilje declared.

ing was what may have been the largest Holy Communion service in the history of U. S. Lutheranism. The Sacrament was administered to some 8,000 young people in the Concordia College fieldhouse which had been converted into a huge sanctuary with 32 altar tables and kneeling benches. The Elements were distributed by 66 pastors who assisted the Rev. Erling Jacobson, the celebrant.

The ELC convention received greetings from President Eisenhower, who told them, "The hope for happiness and peace in this land of ours and throughout the world lies in large part with you young people. Our best assurance for a better tomorrow comes from idealistic, dedicated youth, inspired by religious faith so simply and well-spoken in your convention theme, 'Thy Will be Done on Earth.'"

The President concluded, "I sincerely believe that the members of the International Young People's Luther League, linked with like-minded youth everywhere, will play a significant part in making this world more worthy of that high aspiration."

Twenty missionaries, soon to leave for overseas service, were consecrated as part of "international night" ceremonies.

hands for a few memorable moments. At my request, Shosei Kina reverently took it down from the pedestal where it rested, handling it with the loving care one would use with the original of our own Declaration of Independence. It was weather-stained and frayed. Its covers were almost off, its edges dog-eared from thirty years' use. Carefully I turned its pages. I couldn't read a word of it, of course. But I could read the inscription on the flyleaf. It said: "Published and distributed by the American Bible Society, New York."

This textbook of freedom had made a new little world of Shimmabuke. Given proper distribution, may it not make a big new world of liberty and peace for all?

BISHOP HANNS LILJE (center) of Hannover, Germany, president of the Lutheran World Federation, spent three weeks in the U. S. during June and July on a special speaking tour. He paid a brief, formal call on President Eisenhower at the White House. He said he did not discuss with the Chief Executive either German political problems or the recent riots in East Germany. Shown with him are the Rev. Robert E. Van Deusen (left), Washington secretary of the National Lutheran Council, and Dr. Heinz Krekeler, charge d'affaires of the German Diplomatic Mission in Washington. (INP Photo)

Lutheran Chaplain Awarded Bronze Star for Korea Duty

LUTHERAN CHAPLAIN (Capt.) Verner H. Hansen of Newark, N. J., has been awarded the Bronze Star for Korean service beyond the call of duty, the Department of the Army announced recently in Washington.

Chaplain Hansen was one of eight chaplains receiving the award. Two other chaplains were awarded the Silver Star in Korea for conspicuous gallantry while under enemy fire.

The Lutheran clergyman is a pastor of the Danish Evangelical Lutheran Church.

President Eisenhower Signs Amendment to U. S. Flag Code

PRESIDENT Eisenhower has signed an amendment to the U. S. Flag Code which provides that whenever the U. N. flag is displayed at a meeting, religious service, or other public gathering, the American flag must always be accorded a position of precedence over it.

Under the new amendment, the U. S. flag must be placed at the right of the clergyman or speaker at a religious service. The U. N. flag, when displayed, should be at the left of the pulpit or rostrum. The Christian flag still rates precedence during worship.

GIRL OF THE MONTH

JULY'S Lutheran Girl of the Month is truly an exceptional young woman of whom the Lutheran Church has every right to be proud. She is Miss Beth Bierstedt, a 1952 graduate of Capital University, Columbus, O. Now doing interdenominational student work at the University of Southern California, Los Angeles, Beth is a speech correction specialist. At "Cap," she starred in campus dramatics, was a cheer leader, and won several scholarships. Her dad, Pastor Paul Bierstedt (ALC), has written Bible meditations for the MF during the past six months.

GI's Build Underground Chapel at Korean Front

UNITED STATES ARMY forces have constructed an underground chapel within a mile of the front lines.

Believed to be the first such chapel in history, it was built by men of the 17th Ordnance Co., Eighth Army, aided by men from Republic of Korea forces stationed nearby.

A small steeple was made from packing cases and painted a gleaming white to differentiate this bunker from the others in the area.

When enemy shells begin falling, the bunker serves as a shelter. At other times, it enables chaplains to conduct services for the men who serve the big guns immediately behind the lines, as well as for front-line companies on their way to or from the nearby trenches.

The battle line has been relatively stable in this area, although there have been occasional Communist forays.

Lutherans Boast 1 Divorce Among Every 20 Marriages

THE LUTHERAN CHURCH can point to a record of only one divorce for every twenty marriages, instead of the national average of one in four or even three marriages, and the general Protestant average of one in ten.

The Rev. Paul Hansen, director of the Family Research Project, Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, told a national assembly of Lutheran welfare workers in Chicago that the Church can claim the credit for its religious influence as "the greatest deterrent to divorce."

He pleaded with the welfare workers to pay more attention to all problems involved in marriage, warning that we live in a time "when marriages are being entered for better or for worse, but not for good."

Mr. Hansen asserted that today "the latest inventions provide more and [illegible] rmanent waves, and fewer and fewer [illegible]t wives."

Martin Luther Film 'Smash Hit' as Minneapolis Premiere Runs 3 Weeks

THE WORLD PREMIERE of "Martin Luther," originally scheduled for a two-week run in Minneapolis, Minn., was extended to three weeks in response to public demand for tickets to the full-length dramatic film on the leader of the Protestant Reformation.

During its first week at the Lyceum Theatre from May 4-9, the picture attracted 29,000 persons, with nearly all daily performances (one matinee, twice evenings) sold out well in advance of the showings.

In a "Christian Education Day" at the Lyceum, an entire matinee performance was bought out by 1,800 pupils of Christian day schools conducted by the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

Officials at the Lyceum declared that "Martin Luther" has surpassed all attendance records for picture showings there. In the jargon of show business, the manager exclaimed, "I knew Luther would 'kill' them in Minneapolis."

As the film proceeded into its second and third weeks, enthusiastic reviews appeared in newspapers and magazines throughout the U. S.

The Christian Herald made it the "film of the month"; the Farm Journal declared: "No praise can be too great for this superb history and biography of the epic figure of the Reformation. . . . An Irishman named Niall MacGinnis plays the reforming monk. Magnificent."

The National Parent Teachers Magazine said: ". . . a powerful motion picture . . . Whatever one's religious beliefs, one feels great significance in the story of Luther the man—his heroic search for truth as he saw it, his courageous refusal to compromise in what he believed, his need to affirm God and life itself."

The National Board of Review of Motion Pictures observed that "The Luther film is irrefutable proof that films about religion and religious history need not be dull. . . . Luther's refusal to recant at Worms . . . is a creative filmic moment . . ."

The reporter for Variety, weekly journal of show business, wrote a review headlined, "Martin Luther Show-Cases Into a Smasheroo in Minneap!"

"MARTIN LUTHER" asks Emperor Charles V through his chamberlain, "will you or will you not recant?" This powerful scene from the full-length feature motion picture on the life of the Reformer, was seen by 29,000 persons during the first week of its world premiere run at the Lyceum Theatre in Minneapolis, Minn. Produced for Lutheran Church Productions, Inc., the film was made in Germany last summer. (NLC Photo).

Lutheran Civilian Nurse Instructs in Korean Hospital; Aids Nurses

MRS. NADINE E. ROBINSON would be our nomination for "Lutheran Nurse of the Month," if someone were conducting such a competition.

Though her husband was in Korea, his description of medical needs there prompted her to volunteer to serve, without pay, both as a nurse and as an instructress to Korean nurses.

When Major Donald H. Robinson went to Korea last year as the Eighth Army's assistant chief of preventative medicine, he wrote to his wife about the plight of civilian casualties, for whom medical facilities seemed worefully inadequate.

Nadine replied that she would be eager to go to Korea and serve as a volunteer nurse, and "couldn't he work it out somehow?"

Six months of red tape later, the Army said "OK," and Nadine embarked on the long voyage across the Pacific, weathering a typhoon while lashed to her bunk before landing in Korea last summer. (Husband Donald paid the transportation costs.)

Arriving at Seoul's Severance Hospital, supported by four American Presbyterian church groups, Nadine took on work in the amputee clinic, and began instructing classes of young Korean nurses.

She soon noted that the Korean nurses were badly in need of shoes which they could hardly afford on their $9 monthly salaries. But last fall, Nadine thought of a plan to get new shoes for her pupils.

Inviting the Korean nurses to draw outline footprints of their feet on sheets of paper, putting their names on in Korean and English, Nadine sent them to her mother-in-law, Mrs. George Robinson, back home in Elkins Park, Pa.

With the aid of friends and interested local storekeepers, the major's mother purchased 28 pairs of nurses' shoes which were sent to Seoul in time for Christmas. "The nurses were as excited as I've ever seen them," Nadine told her husband.

The folks at home had not only improved upon the quality of the shoes ordered, but had also supplied both brown and white models for each original pair ordered.

The beautiful, sturdy shoes were "a real treat," Nadine explained, adding that Korean nurses seldom can buy new things, "or things they themselves have been personally measured for!"

Mrs. Robinson receives no pay for her work, supplies her own board, and plans to stay at the hospital as long as her husband remains in Korea.

She and Maj. Robinson are active members of Nativity (ULCA) Lutheran Church in Philadelphia, Pa., where the Rev. Warren C. Johnson is pastor.

Second Glance

● Protestants are "more than twice as zealous as Roman Catholics in seeking to win converts" to their respective groups, according to a nationwide survey made for the Catholic Digest. Rated by their success in gaining converts, Baptists ranked first, followed by Pentecostals, Presbyterians, Methodists, Episcopalians, Lutherans, Congregationalists and Roman Catholics last.

● Since its organization in 1816, the American Bible Society has distributed 435,792,985 volumes of scripture, with present-day demands greatest in history, far outstripping the supply, according to Dr. Eugene A. Nida, the Bible Society's secretary for translations. He said some part of the Bible has now been translated into languages which 90 per cent of the world's population can understand.

● Maj. Gen. Ivan L. Bennett, Army Chief of Chaplains, reports that 642 enemy prsioners-of-war in Korea have told the United Nations they wish to study for the ministry. He also said that 30,000 enemy POW's have enrolled in Bible study courses in Korean POW camps.

● In New Jersey, all 21 of the state's county prosecutors have agreed to crack down on bingo games. Superior Court Judge Ralph J. Smalley of Trenton criticised law-enforcement officers who have overlooked doing their duty. Said the judge: "Bingo is a violation of the laws of the State of New Jersey. Now whether you like it or whether I like it, it is the duty, it is the obligation of law-enforcement officers to enforce the law."

● The campaign to encourage people to say grace before meals is gathering momentum. Aimed primarily at restaurant patrons, the Davenport (Iowa) Chamber of Commerce is supplying public eating places with small white cards suggesting three "grace" prayers for Protestants, Roman Catholics and Jews. Neighboring Rock Island and Moline, Ill., are launching similar projects. And back in Indiana, the American Legion recently reported they can't keep prayer cards in local restaurants. Customers take them home!

● Members of the United Lutheran Church in America are putting 22 per cent more money in offering plates this year, as compared with a year ago. ULCA treasurer Edmund F. Wagner reports that for the first three months of 1953, receipts totalled $836,501, as against $682,789 for the same causes in 1952.

● U. S. Department of Commerce reports personal income received by individuals amounted to $268.5 billion, an increase of 5½ per cent above 1951. Giving to churches, educational and welfare activities (all tax deductible) amounted to less than 2 per cent. Despite government encouragement (by allowing 20 per cent deductions for charity), there seems to be little evidence that Americans are giving more for these causes.

● Chaplain (Capt.) Francis Lee Albert, a Southern Baptist clergyman, retired from active duty in the Navy last month. He was the oldest chaplain in point of duty, with service stretching from 1918 through the Korean War. Chaplain Albert holds the Legion of Merit, the Purple Heart and four Battle Stars.

● The Evangelical Lutheran Church has appointed a television evangelist. He is the Rev. Norman L. Hammer, pastor of Emmanuel Lutheran in No. Hollywood, Calif. Pastor Hammer says he will "seek ways and means of showing people by television the love of God and invite the lonely, the frustrated and the discouraged to find peace through Jesus Christ."

Daily Bible Meditations

by Pastor Paul Bierstedt

This is the last in a series of inductive Bible meditations provided in a "Mighty Fortress" during the past six months. It closes with Matthew's gospel, which describes the person and work of Jesus Christ, the foundation for our Christian faith and life. Think prayerfully of what is written, what it means, and how it applies to you. The Holy Spirit will give you the understanding and the will to obey His word.

JULY: The Gospel of Matthew

1 1:18-25—EMMANUEL, BORN OF MARY. Who is the Father of Jesus Christ? Why was a Virgin conception of the Redeemer necessary? What do the names "Emmanuel" and "Jesus" mean to your faith?

2 2:1-15—KING OF ISRAEL. What factors indicate Jesus' kingship? Why did the world need a new kind of "Ruler"? In what ways are you giving Him your homage?

3 3:1-17—GOD'S BELOVED SON. Note the human needs here which required a Savior to come. What "righteousness" did God's Son fulfill? What does Jesus' baptism confer upon you?

4 4:1-11—VICTOR OVER SIN. See how Jesus' replies fit each kind of temptation. In what ways did they test His sonship with God? How does your resistance to sin show your relation with God?

5 4:12-25—CHRIST'S MINISTRY BEGINS. What aspects of His ministry are in these verses? What factors show His to be a redemptive ministry? How can you serve Him in "redeeming society"?

6 5:1-16—A NEW KIND OF PEOPLE. What spiritual qualities are here described? In what ways are Christians salt and light? What opportunities do you have to "let your light shine"?

7 5:17-26—A NEW OBEDIENCE. What are the right motives for right living? Why is anger a kind of murder? When is war not murder?

8 5:27-48—NEW MEANINGS TO OLD COMMANDMENTS. What common moral corruptions does Jesus oppose here? Why does the spirit of the law go deeper than its letter? Are you contending for genuine morals among your buddies?

9 6:1-18—INNER VS. OUTER PIETY. What contrasts in practicing Christianity are here? What makes the difference in these contrasts? How are you cultivating your own inner best self?

10 6:19-34—PROPER PERSPECTIVE. What divided motivation do you recognize here? What does "seek the Kingdom of God first" mean? In what ways are you making the spiritual the center of your life?

11 7:1-14—STRAIGHT AND NARROW WAY. Discover here at least four descriptions for Christian conduct. Why is the straight way also a narrow way? How is your Christian faith also your way of life?

12 7:15-27—BUILT ON A ROCK. What makes these teachers, confessors and builders "false"? What do these mean in terms of today's ideologies? What do we Americans need to build a more secure future?

13 8:1-17—A MIGHTY HEALER. In what ways are the healings here alike and unalike? What purposes did Jesus have in healing the sick? What is your responsibility for human welfare?

14 10:16-42—CHOSEN MESSENGERS. What experiences here are most typical of the Apostles? How do these fit today's ministers? Lay Christians? What Christian mission do you have where you are now?

15 13:1-9, 18-23—PREACHING. What listening attitudes given here are most usual? What is the ultimate cause of unbelief? Why do you listen to a sermon?

16 14:13-21, 15:32-38—COMPASSION. How and why did people get into such predicaments? For what purposes did Jesus perform miracles? How would you determine your Christian charities?

17 15:1-20, 16:1-12—RELIGIOUS FORMALISM. What were the Jews' besetting faults? What are the causes of religious formalism and hypocrisy? How can you guard against a superficial Christianity?

Remember: To Keep It Holy

I SHARED a taxi with two GI's on a recent Sunday morning, on my way to preach at a large military center. The boys were chatting away, when one asked: "What day is this anyhow? I really can't remember!"

It was Sunday—just about two hours before it was time for church. Here were two lads who didn't remember it was Lord's Day. Frankly, I was disturbed, bothered, concerned.

I guess there are men who are now aware of the fact of Sunday and its meaning. I suppose there are people to whom Sunday means little more than "another day." But how can it be for those of us who name Christ as Savior and Lord?

We recall that God has said: "Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy." And which of us can forget the meaning of this commandment: "We should fear and love God so that we do not despise His Word and the preaching of the same, but deem it holy, and gladly hear and learn it." And that meaning applies whether we are at home, or abroad, at peace, or at war.

No government on earth has made it so easy and convenient for her armed forces to care for the needs of their souls. No nation has used such meticulous care to see that her chaplains are given every possible opportunity to nurture the faith of her fighting forces.

Chapels have been erected at almost every base and post. Pastors have left home congregations to share with the men, minister to their spiritual needs, bear the Means of Grace, gladly and willingly facing all contingencies of life in the service. For these facts we are both grateful and thankful.

We want to speak a word of encouragement to you men and women in the service who are regular and faithful in your church-going. Word has come back "home" that thousands of you do "remember the Sabbath." God be praised!

When church call sounds, when a worship opportunity presents itself, we know that the heart of a Christian responds. We know why, too. Man needs a power outside of himself, beyond himself. This power comes from God, from the Holy Spirit who through the Means of Grace brings us to faith and salvation.

It is a wise serviceman who has learned to trust implicitly in God, His Word, and the services of His house. It is also a wise GI who counsels often with his chaplain, and who makes no excuse for visits to the chaplain's office and to the chapel for worship.

Here, straight from the Word which is "mighty to save," comes inner quiet and the surge of strength that comes through trusting that Word for what it is and can be for all who believe.

So, "Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy!" May every call to worship find you and your friends present whenever possible. Back home we too shall join you in worshiping God "in spirit and in truth."

PRAYER: "Blessed Jesus, at Thy Word
We are gathered now to hear Thee;
Let our hearts and souls be stirred
Now to seek to love and fear thee,
By Thy teachings sweet and holy
Drawn from earth to love Thee Solely."

3,000 Young Lutherans Expelled from E. Zone Schools for Faithfulness

AT LEAST 3,000 young Lutherans have been expelled from schools in East Germany for refusing to renounce their membership in Church youth groups, as Communist-directed expulsions continue throughout the Soviet Zone.

The actions are carried out at Communist mass-meetings in the schools at which students are given the choice of either signing statements that they will sever relationships with the Church organization, or being expelled.

Attacks on the Junge Gemeinde (Young Church) were launched in Communist youth publications earlier this year, with the drive for expulsions beginning in April.

Meanwhile, Bishop Otto Dibelius of Berlin, president of the Evangelical Church in Germany, urged young parishioners to "remain loyal to Christ and His Church and be unafraid," asking them to remember to pray for "those who insult and persecute you."

In a pastoral letter to the young people, the Bishop said: "Signatures that have been extorted have no validity in the eyes of God. You are free to act according to God's word and commandments." He added that he considered the Communist action to be an attack on the Church as a whole.

Lutherans Warned Against 'Emotional' Gospel Songs

CONGREGATIONS of the Northwest Synod of the United Lutheran Church in America were warned in Minneapolis against confining their hymn singing to "emotional" gospel songs.

Dr. Paul E. Bishop of Minneapolis, synod president, declared before the annual convention:

"Visits to many congregations revealed a tendency to neglect the rich variety of hymns available in the Common Service Book in favor of a few well-known standbys and/or in favor of so-called gospel songs flavored highly with human-centered emotionalism.

"Carried on interminably, this tendency will lead to shallow rather than deep faith, narrow rather than broad experience of the love of God.

"We have a liturgy historically acceptable, easily useable; we have access to more than 500 hymns and hymn-tunes, rich in truth and-singable. Congregations are urged to make full use of the approved and proved helps to worship."

Emergency Church Building Program Ends in Germany

THE SO-CALLED "emergency church building program" in Germany will be concluded by the end of 1953, according to a report by the welfare agency of the Evangelical Church in Germany to the Lutheran World Federation.

Under the program, which was largely financed by Lutheran World Action funds raised in the U. S., 48 "emergency churches," 19 congregational centers and 27 refugee chapels have been built in all four occupation zones of Germany.

In order to speed the work, each of the three different types of buildings were built on uniform designs, with prefabricated frames. Construction of a final refugee chapel at Visbeck will conclude the program which began in 1946.

Communists Threaten East Zone Pastors with Death

A THREAT that the death sentence may be imposed upon East German clergymen who oppose the Communist regime in the Soviet Zone was made by Neues Deutschland, official Communist newspaper.

The paper said that "all reactionary clergymen" are liable to prosecution under East Germany's "protection of the peace" law which provides imprisonment or death as punishment for public, or even private, criticism of Communist policy.

It charged that "many itinerant churchmen from West Berlin and West Germany are supplying hostile literature to agents working in East Germany in the guise of ministers," adding that death sentences are prescribed for such crimes "against peaceful nations."

Unity Discussions Progress as Four U.S. Lutheran Groups Plan '56 Merger

REPRESENTATIVES of four U. S. Lutheran groups are engaged in negotiations which may bring them together in a merger by 1956, creating a united Church with a combined membership of 1,750,000.

Currently under discussion by the Joint Union Committee of 36 members are general principles of church government and details of church organization in the proposed united Church.

The Committee of 36 is composed of representatives of the Evangelical Lutheran Church (872,813 members), American Lutheran Church (762,196), United Evangelical Lutheran Church (49,241), and the Lutheran Free Church (59,860).

By the time that the four bodies meet for their conventions in 1954, the Committee hopes to have shaped a joint statement of policy and the organizational structure for the merged Lutheran Church.

If these plans are approved by the four churches, the Committee will have two more years' work preparing a constitution before the four bodies can act on merger at their conventions in 1956.

Responding to a memorandum from the Lutheran Free Church, the Committee is carefully studying the LFC's suggestion that its congregations be constituted as a "non-geographical conference" in the merged Church.

The LFC said there is a need for a "variety of patterns of organization if the varying needs of today's Lutheran Church are to be adequately met and the roots of the past not completely severed."

It also pointed out that its suggestion was "an application of a principle widely recognized among strongly divergent Christian churches, and certainly in harmony with the spirit and doctrines of historic Lutheranism; namely, that true unity does not depend upon either complete uniformity of practice or a centralized organizational control, but upon agreement as to the 'the doctrine of the Gospel and the administration of the Sacraments.'"

"In seeking to lay sound and practical plans for the future life and work of a considerable segment of American Lutheranism," the LFC's statement said, "our aim should be to develop structures which will effectively release and channel the spiritual forces inherent in each of the merging bodies."

The current merger negotiations were initiated by the UELC, ELC and ALC, who later invited the Lutheran Free Church and the Augustana Lutheran Church, in order to include all five members of the American Lutheran Conference in the unity discussions.

Augustana formally withdrew from the meetings last fall, on the grounds that it was primarily interested in a merger of all Lutheran Churches in the United States.

HAMBURG, Germany—This floating Lutheran Church, converted from a former German navy vessel, has a congregation of fishermen, riverboat men and their families, many of whom are refugees from East Germany. Some of the refugees fled from the East in their small craft, and now use their vessels as living quarters. The church seats 140, and was reconditioned for $12,000, contributed by U. S. Lutherans through Lutheran World Action and by Lutherans in other countries. (RNS Photo).

NLC Leaders Visit Far East Servicemen

TWO National Lutheran Council leaders spent three weeks last month on an inter-faith visitation to U. S. military installations in Hawaii and the Far East.

Making the trip were Dr. Paul C. Empie of New York, NLC executive director, and Col. (Ret.) Gynther Storaasli of Washington, D.C., secretary of the NLC's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel.

Purpose of the mission was to meet chaplains and GI's and to participate in Holy Week and Easter worship services. They spent Palm Sunday in Hawaii, and their itinerary included Okinawa, the Philippines, Tokyo, Korea and Guam.

The visitation was arranged by Maj. Gen. C. I. Carpenter, Air Force Chief of Chaplains, with the chiefs of Army and Navy Chaplains also invited to participate. A number of other Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish clergymen also took part in the mission.

HAVE YOU FORGOTTEN?

God is With You — Everywhere!

RECENTLY, I had a letter from one of your Buddies. He had just completed his hitch in the Army. He was back from Korea. And, like all the rest, he was happy and thankful to be back. His letter wasn't pleasant to read. One of the paragraphs bothered me especially:

"I found that temptations are much more present overseas than they are here in the States. I think the main reason for that is that the men just feel that they are far away from home and no one is going to know what they do anyhow.

"It seems that they forget that God is with them wherever they are, and He watches everything they do."

Right fellow! God is everywhere! We can be thankful that He is. But the thought that comes to me is this: How about the realism of Jesus?

Surely those of us who name Him as Lord and Savior know that He is real and near, and dear, and precious, and wonderful . . . beautiful Savior! But the temptation is to forget it, and occasionally to deny it with loose or careless living.

We often are strange and peculiar people in ways that must try our God. When danger is near, then we want God near. When sickness is upon us, we turn to Him in every hour. When things go wrong, we want Him to make them right.

I am always reminded of the little boy playing on the roof. He started to slide off, and try as he would, he couldn't stop himself. So the little fellow cried out: "God, save me! Save me!" Just then his trouser caught on a big nail, and he stopped. Then the boy said, "Never mind, God, I'm caught on a nail!"

"Never mind, God!" We don't mean it. We can't. Yet we are all guilty. "Never mind, God, I'm in Germany, Japan, Korea—no one will know!" But under fire it is different.

I recall speaking to youth in Europe last summer. They confessed that they often promised (when the bombs were falling) that they would be faithful and true. But when it was over and they still had life—well, He wasn't so necessary then. I suppose we are little different. But let's try to be.

Jesus is real. He is present with us. Sins are no less grievous to Him if committed in Korea or at home. Surely we are going to act like men and women of the Cross, and not like a kid sneaking out to the movies!

If we are not at home, and temptations are more prevalent, then we should live even closer to Him: "Gird our loins about us and keep our light burning."

If men fall to the tempter's lies, then we need testimony and confession louder and more direct than ever before.

I am sure that that the lives of many of you men and women who do so much for us by way of sacrifice and service are consistent Christian lives, giving testimony to His love.

We, too, will try with you, to honor our Lord with lip and life. Jesus to us will forever remain real as He is. We shall never forget that this same Son of God who lived and obeyed for us, suffered and died for us, rose and ascended for us, is still with us—real—alive —interceding and precious.

It is this same real Savior who will one day be our Judge. From Him we want to hear the "Well done," and the "Enter thou into the joy of life."

● A four-story building costing $1,250,000 is being erected in Minneapolis, Minn., to house the headquarters of the Evangelical Lutheran Church and an addition to the Augsburg Publishing House. Completion is expected this summer, to include a 100-seat chapel and a 20-foot cross to be placed on the top of the building.

● Restaurants throughout the country have been urged to print pre-mealtime prayers on their menus for persons of all faiths. This innovation began in Mamaroneck, N. Y. (see picture on Page 3) where it has been "enthusiastically received." A similar plan is being sponsored in Indianapolis by the American Legion.

● Thirty thousand baby chicks have been shipped by air to Egypt by the Christian Rural Overseas Program of Church World Service, as part of a program to increase egg size and egg and chicken production in that country.

● An East German Communist paper has accused Lutheran pastors and church youth leaders in the East Zone of "cynical war agitation and disregard of the State order." Neues Deutschland accused the church leaders of "warmongering" by "inflammatory utterances," claiming that East German church youth are being supported by "voluminous shipments" from the U. S., Sweden and Denmark, aimed at influencing East German youth in a manner "hostile to peace and the State."

● In Pusan, Korea, church services are being broadcast directly to UN fighting men in front-line bunkers and trenches each Sunday under a new program instituted by GYPSY, farthest forward station of the USAForces Network.

● Bishop Hanns Lilje of Hannover, Germany, the president of the Lutheran World Federation, will visit the United States this summer to speak to Luther League conventions of the Augustana Lutheran Church (Boston, June 24-28), and the Evangelical Lutheran Church (Fargo-Moorhead, Minn., July 1-5).

● In Buffalo, N. Y., churchgoers got free rides to and from church on Sundays during Lent by telling bus drivers of the Niagara Frontier Transit System that they were either going to church or returning home from worship. As a goodwill gesture, the company gave 239,652 such free rides during Lent of 1952.

● At Gettysburg College, Penna., "Hell Week" for fraternity pledges this year became "Help Week," with prospective members from 12 frats cleaning and terracing a small stream near the Lutheran college's chapel into a campus "beauty spot." Hazing is no longer permitted.

● Phos, Greek Orthodox journal published in Istanbul, Turkey, suggests that Orthodox clergy should "return to the simple, modest garb of St. Basil and St. Chrysostom." The paper also praised Pope Pius XII's recent order simplifying the robes of Roman Catholic cardinals.

● In Akron, O., the Beacon-Journal has become the first newspaper in history to begin publishing the entire text of the Bible, a project which will take ten years to complete. The paper began the project a year ago, hoping to encourage more people to read their Bible and to attend church regularly.

● Pastors of 10,000 National Lutheran Council congregations were urged to support the annual nation-wide Spring Clothing Appeal by Lutheran World Relief, April 19-26. Clothing collected will be shipped to refugees in Korea, Palestine and West Germany. Last Thanksgiving, U. S. Lutherans gathered 2,000,000 lbs. of clothing.

Lutherans Unify Mission Work in New Guinea Area

THE FIRST unified and autonomous international missionary organization in Lutheran history has come into being with the adoption of a constitution and by-laws for the New Guinea Lutheran Mission.

Officials of four different mission agencies operating in N.E. New Guinea (an Australian trusteeship) participated in the action.

Headquarters of the new group will be at Lae. It will merge the work in that area of the American Lutheran Church, the Neuendettelsau Missionary Society of Germany, the United Evangelical Lutheran Church in Australia, and the National Lutheran Council of the U.S.A.

The four bodies, which had been cooperating in the work in New Guinea since World War II, will continue to support the New Guinea Mission, but the latter will make its own decisions and policies.

The New Guinea work now unified is the outgrowth of missionary activity carried on by two German Lutheran agencies prior to World War I, the Neuendettelsau Society and the Rhenish Society. After 1918, the Australian Church temporarily took over the Neuendettelsau work, while the ALC took permanent charge of the Rhenish field.

During World War II disruption of the Neuendettelsau work, it was cared for by the National Lutheran Council, The German society resumed partial support of this field in 1950.

WANTS LUTHERAN GI PEN-PALS

To the Editor:

I'd like to find out if there is any way that we servicemen could write to other young men and women of our Lutheran Church, a sort of "Lutheran Pen-Pal" idea.

I have no idea on how you could work this into the paper, but maybe it could be done. If you can put this plan into action, I'd appreciate my name on the list.

WANTS MORE SERMONS ON CURSING

To the Editor:

I agree wholeheartedly with M/Sgt. Steve Vrbosky's suggestion that our chaplains conduct sermons on cursing. It is really a shame to hear men in the Armed Services take the Lord's name in vain, when they should offer their praises to Him for all the gifts He has given them. (See James 3:9-10.)

Daily Bible Meditations

By Pastor Paul Bierstedt

These meditations are based on New Testament letters which treat very much of the practical side of Christianity. Think through the daily sections: What is said, what it means, and how it applies to you. Summarize each meditation into one short sentence and regard it as your message from God for the day.

MAY: James, Timothy and Titus

James:

1 1:1-8—WHEN EVILS COME. In what way does steadfastness under trials produce joy and completeness? What kind of faith does this take (read Romans 5:15, Mark 11:22-24)? Do you have this kind?

2 1:9-18—LOOK TO GOD. How are the character of God and the character of man contrasted here? Why does failure often lead back to God? How has God's Word ever brought you back?

3 1:19-27—REAL RELIGION. List here the marks of a genuine Christian. Why do hearing and doing God's Word always go together? In what ways has the Bible helped you overcome evil and do good?

4 2:1-13—NO PARTIALITY. What social distinctions in our day need the same condemnation? Why does impartiality toward all men express the spirit of Christ? How can you practice mercy in your work?

5 2:14-26—FAITH IN ACTION. How does James show the relation of faith and life? How does this argument explain verse 24? Are you consistently living your faith?

6 3:1-12—WATCH YOUR SPEECH. In what good and evil uses is the tongue employed? How is one's speech a good character-indicator? How are you doing in controlling your tongue?

7 3:13-18—HUMBLE WISDOM. What is the difference between worldly and godly wisdom? Try to understand v. 17 in the light of Romans 12:9-10, and 1 Peter 1:22. What kind of peace is on your mind?

8 4:1-10—WHAT CAUSES WARS? What analysis does James give to this question? And what does he say is the cure for it? How would you build a better world?

9 4:11-17—LEAVE IT TO GOD. What is wrong with taking the law into one's own hands? How does Luther's "fear, love and trust God" give life its best direction? Is your faith in God more than mere words?

10 5:1-11—ULTIMATE JUSTICE. What social and economic inequalities are described here? Why is this human situation a concern of the Christian? What is your duty in the face of such evils?

11 5:12-20—OUR FELLOWSHIP. What aspects of a Christian community does James set forth? Do these seem possible in your present situation? How can you cultivate Christian concern in your group?

1 Timothy:

12 1:1-17—EVANGELICAL PREACHING. What distinctive marks does Paul set on the ministry? What is the difference between Law and Gospel preaching? What do you expect from your chaplain?

13 1:18-2:7—CHARGED TO PRAY. What dangers and needs made prayer a demand? What world circumstances today make prayer desperately timely? What are you praying for?

14—2:8-15—PROPRIETY IN THE CHURCH. What actual situations seemed to have faced the Apostle? Compare Paul's advice with 1 Peter 3:3-5. How does a change in time affect women's part in church work?

15 3:1-16—QUALIFIED SPIRITUAL LEADERSHIP. Give a summary of qualifications for such leadership. Why is it imperative that church leaders be sincerely spiritual? How can clergy and military cooperate for a better society?

16 4:1-11—FIT FOR THE MINISTRY. What requirements does Paul place on young Timothy for his high calling? How would faith and hard work make one a good minister? Have you ever considered full-time church work?

17 4:12-5:2—FULL-TIME CALLING. Compare the duties of pastor and preacher. In what ways is the ministry really full-time? Do you sufficiently use the services which your chaplain offers?

18 5:3-6:2—FAIRNESS TO ALL. What Christian considerations demand equity in all dealings with persons? What is "church work" in the strict sense? How are you dealing in fairness with your buddies?

19 6:3-10—GODLINESS WITH CONTENTMENT. Why is the money-motive especially bad in religious work? How does the godly life give the most contentment? What evils of greed are you fighting against?

20 6:11-21—REACH FOR RIGHTEOUSNESS. How does Paul show Timothy to practice what he professes? Why is the Christian life "life indeed"? In what ways are you living out your creed?

2 Timothy:

21 1:1-14—GUARD YOUR FAITH. What solemn advice does Paul give in this final letter? Why was, and is, a courageous spirit needed to back one's convictions? How are you standing up for your faith?

22 2:1-13—STRONG IN THE GRACE OF CHRIST. In what respects is Christian living like fighting a battle? How do we get strength for it from God? How are you overcoming your temptations?

23 2:14-26—NONE BUT GOD'S WORD. Contrast "godless chatter" with "rightly handling the word of Truth." Why is "arguing religion" usually so fruitless? What is your best way to witness for Christ?

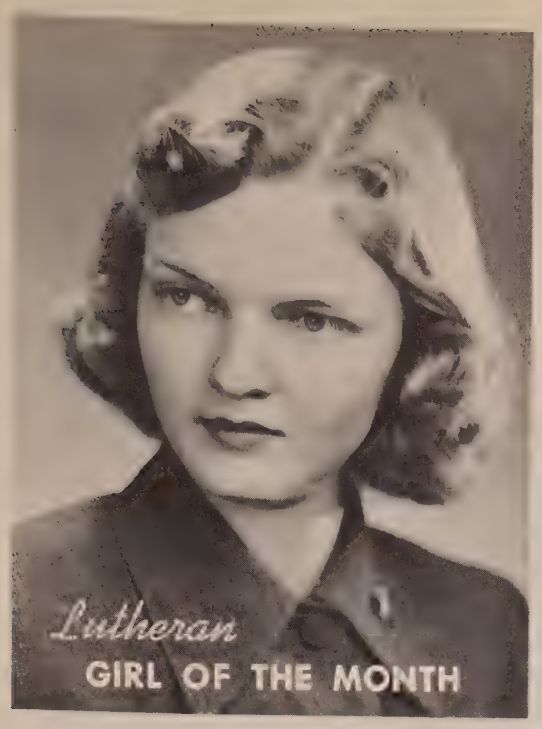
24 3:1-9—SIGNS OF THE TIMES. Summarize the inhumanities foretold of the latter days. How are these descriptions of today? What is a Christian's duty against the immoral trends of our day?

25 3:10-17—SEARCH THE SCRIPTURES. Why are good men persecuted? Why are the inspired Scriptures so helpful in living the Christian life? In what ways are you using your Bible to live by?

26 4:1-5—URGENT PREACHING. What does Paul say about the kind of preaching needed? When is a preacher preaching with a "sense of urgency"? How do you repond to a timely sermon?

27 4:6-18—THE GOOD FIGHT. What were some of the great spiritual battles which Paul fought? Why is it necessary to keep faith in Christ to the very last? What spiritual victories are you winning?

Titus:



28 1:5-16—THE GOSPEL MINISTRY. In what matters is a pastor or a chaplain responsible for his people? From what source does he get his authority? How are you working with your chaplain?

29 2:1-8—BUILDING TOGETHER. Note how a good congregation is a combination of a good pastor and good people. Why does good character emerge from good teaching? What do you owe to your Christian training in your home church?

30 2:9-15—COMMUNITY LIVING. What elements of community living does Paul counsel about? Why should Christians make the best neighbors? How can we make democracy really live?

Unity Discussions Progress as Four U.S. Lutheran Groups Plan '56 Merger

REPRESENTATIVES of four U. S. Lutheran groups are engaged in negotiations which may bring them together in a merger by 1956, creating a united Church with a combined membership of 1,750,000.

Currently under discussion by the Joint Union Committee of 36 members are general principles of church government and details of church organization in the proposed united Church.

The Committee of 36 is composed of representatives of the Evangelical Lutheran Church (872,813 members), American Lutheran Church (762,196), United Evangelical Lutheran Church (49,241), and the Lutheran Free Church (59,860).

By the time that the four bodies meet for their conventions in 1954, the Committee hopes to have shaped a joint statement of policy and the organizational structure for the merged Lutheran Church.

If these plans are approved by the four churches, the Committee will have two more years' work preparing a constitution before the four bodies can act on merger at their conventions in 1956.

Responding to a memorandum from the Lutheran Free Church, the Committee is carefully studying the LFC's suggestion that its congregations be constituted as a "non-geographical conference" in the merged Church.

The LFC said there is a need for a "variety of patterns of organization if the varying needs of today's Lutheran Church are to be adequately met and the roots of the past not completely severed."

It also pointed out that its suggestion was "an application of a principle widely recognized among strongly divergent Christian churches, and certainly in harmony with the spirit and doctrines of historic Lutheranism; namely, that true unity does not depend upon either complete uniformity of practice or a centralized organizational control, but upon agreement as to the 'the doctrine of the Gospel and the administration of the Sacraments.'"

"In seeking to lay sound and practical plans for the future life and work of a considerable segment of American Lutheranism," the LFC's statement said, "our aim should be to develop structures which will effectively release and channel the spiritual forces inherent in each of the merging bodies."

The current merger negotiations were initiated by the UELC, ELC and ALC, who later invited the Lutheran Free Church and the Augustana Lutheran Church, in order to include all five members of the American Lutheran Conference in the unity discussions.

Augustana formally withdrew from the meetings last fall, on the grounds that it was primarily interested in a merger of all Lutheran Churches in the United States.

HAMBURG, Germany—This floating Lutheran Church, converted from a former German navy vessel, has a congregation of fishermen, riverboat men and their families, many of whom are refugees from East Germany. Some of the refugees fled from the East in their small craft, and now use their vessels as living quarters. The church seats 140, and was reconditioned for $12,000, contributed by U. S. Lutherans through Lutheran World Action and by Lutherans in other countries. (RNS Photo).

NLC Leaders Visit Far East Servicemen

TWO National Lutheran Council leaders spent three weeks last month on an inter-faith visitation to U. S. military installations in Hawaii and the Far East.

Making the trip were Dr. Paul C. Empie of New York, NLC executive director, and Col. (Ret.) Gynther Storaasli of Washington, D.C., secretary of the NLC's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel.

Purpose of the mission was to meet chaplains and GI's and to participate in Holy Week and Easter worship services. They spent Palm Sunday in Hawaii, and their itinerary included Okinawa, the Philippines, Tokyo, Korea and Guam.

The visitation was arranged by Maj. Gen. C. I. Carpenter, Air Force Chief of Chaplains, with the chiefs of Army and Navy Chaplains also invited to participate. A number of other Protestant, Roman Catholic and Jewish clergymen also took part in the mission.

Increasing Unity Noted Among Lutherans On Both National, International Levels

Signs of increasing unity among Lutherans on both the national and international level were noted recently in Atlantic City, N. J., by Dr. Lawrence M. Stavig, retiring president of the National Lutheran Council.

Addressing the NLC's 35th annual meeting, Dr. Stavig said that although U. S. Lutherans are organized in almost a score of separate bodies, they are "actually in theology and program very much a single Lutheran Church."

He declared that the separate Lutheran churches were finding "more and more areas" in which they could function together.

Dr. Stavig, who is president of Augustana College (ELC), Sioux Falls, S. D., expressed confidence that "the organizational patterns which can express this emerging reality" of a united Church would be found. He urged patience in working toward organizational unity.

The Council president said that on the international level there was a "very gratifying process of unification within world Lutheranism."

The Lutheran World Federation, he added, has 51 member churches with 60,000,000 members in 25 countries. This, he said, is "a group comprising almost half of Protestantism that is increasingly finding a unity of doctrine, of worship, of goals and of spirit."

With the establishment of new departments and services by the Lutheran World Federation, control of a considerable amount of the NLC's cooperative work overseas will shift to the Federation, Dr. Stavig said.

He pointed out that much of the Council's cooperative work was international in character. This includes inter-church aid, orphaned missions, relief and other projects outside U. S. borders.

However, Dr. Stavig continued, the NLC will continue to serve as the "effective agency for cooperation in ever larger areas of work."

For some time, it will be expected to supply a greater proportion of funds than LWF member churches of other countries, he said. And, some NLC projects set up on a temporaary basis are now becoming permanent.

Dr. Stavig said the Council must continue as the agency through which U. S. Lutherans unite their international efforts, because "we want a program in the LWF that will adequately meet the opportunities and needs of a great world Church."

Elected to succeed Dr. Stavig as president was Dr. Oscar A. Benson of Minneapolis, Minn., to serve for a one-year term. Dr. Stavig had served as president for the constitutional limit of three years.

Accomplished on trombone and piano, she plays the organ and sings in the choir of St. John's Lutheran Church (ALC) in Corwith, Iowa, plus being Sunday School and Luther League secretary. Nominated to be "Girl of the Month" by Airman Kenneth D. Perin of Craig AFB in Florida, Vivian will attend Wartburg College in Waverly, Iowa, this fall.

LUTHERANS AID FLOOD VICTIMS IN HOLLAND

Supplies valued at $20,000 have been offered to aid flood victims in Holland and Britain by Lutheran World Relief, material-aid arm of the National Lutheran Council.

When President J. P. van Heest of the Dutch Lutheran Church indicated to LWR that baby food was needed, a consignment of 14 tons was immediately placed on board a ship bound for Holland.

British people responded "so magnificently" that emergency areas there were "flooded with gifts," but officials expressed "immense appreciation" to LWR for the offer of assistance.

AN EASTER MEDITATION —

"Vain—the Seal"

These are lines from a beautiful Easter hymn:

"Vain the stone, the watch, the seal—
Christ hath burst the gates of hell."

That seal on the tomb of Jesus was stamped with the image of Caesar. It was set in wax over the edge of the stone door of the tomb. To move the stone meant to break the seal, and that was a capital crime against Rome.

That seal represented man's supreme effort to prevent the resurrection. It was all in vain. The power to rise from the dead is God's power alone. Seals cannot hold the Son of God in a tomb.

Men may bury Christ, but He will not stay buried. The disciples found that out before the first Easter was over. They were so sure of His resurrection that they were willing to give their lives for His Gospel.

Countless thousands today will testify that Christ lives, that He has kept His promise: "Lo, I am with you always."

Men may bury the truth, but it will not stay buried. They thought they had put an end to all that Jesus taught. They believed, as many in our world still believe, that might makes right.

But Christian truth lives on in our wicked world. The Church is a living witness that right, though it may lose a battle, always wins the war.

Men may bury their loved ones, but they will not stay buried. Listen to Jesus: "Because I live, you will live also." Read the 14th Chapter of St. John: "I go to prepare a place for you, that where I am you may be also."

If I am Christ's by faith, what we call death is only the open door to a better, happier life. That is the Easter assurance.

I Passed Through the Sonic Barrier

BY CHAPLAIN CARL T. GEIST

One of the Air Force's newest jet-fighters now being prepared for combat is the single-engine F-94C, the "Starfire." In recent months, it has been featured in magazines like Time, Life and Newsweek, plus many newspapers.

On a recent Sunday, I was changing from vestments to uniform after our Lutheran service at Tyndall Air Force Base, Florida. Among those still gathered in conversation as I left the chapel was Lt. Phil Brockman, a Lutheran from Detroit who always attends our worship.

"Chaplain," the young pilot asked me, "how would you like a ride in the 94-C tomorrow?"

I had been trying to get a ride in a jet-type aircraft for some months. Several times, dates had been set, but something always came up to negate the arrangements. I did not hesitate, and quickly replied,

"Sure, anytime you can arrange it!"

"I have to fly a training mission about noon tomorrow," Phil continued. "I'll see if Operations will let you go along."

It was left at that. I didn't give it much more thought, figuring that, like the others, this invitation would be forgotten.

Next day, after returning from a lunch which later proved to be a waste of time, a Welfare Specialist from my office met me at the door with the announcement. "They are holding that plane for you down at Operations."

And so began my first jet-plane ride.

In most occupations, there is a distinctive garb that identifies the worker. Some are merely decorative; others are necessary. This is especially true, in the latter sense, concerning those who fly for the military forces.

My first step, therefore, was to be properly outfitted. Successively, a blue nylon flying suit, a bulky-orange "Mae West" jacket, a khaki-covered parachute and a shiny white helmet with green-rubbered oxygen mask, were zipped, tied and buckled about me.

Kindly remarks of watching bystanders assisted in preparing me emotionally.

"Last will and testaments made out here," one voice volunteered.

"Anyone want to contribute for flowers?" said another.

"In case you land in water," my pilot advised as he strapped me into my "Mae West," "jerk this, pull that, and throw out the shark repellant."

It was a good thing no one asked me if I wanted to change my mind!

My briefing continued. In the plane itself, other things needed explanation—the flow of oxygen, gauges to watch, safety belt and harness, interphone and radio system. Once again, there were assuring instructions with reference to the ejection seat. To me it seemed that it takes a lot of know-how to ride in these modern winged steeds, even for passengers!

"If we get in any trouble, put your feet in the stirrups; pull up this handle; press the trigger; and a 37-mm. shell will shoot you out of the plane," I was advised. "Then, unstrap the harness, kick the seat away and pull the

After completing his training, Mr. Fuchida will return to Japan as chief of "Sky Pilots" in that country and take up missionary work among his fellow-countrymen. (RNS Photo).

● President Eisenhower opens all Cabinet meetings with prayer. When heads of government departments have assembled in the White House, the President rises and asks them to bow their heads in a moment of silent prayer. Only after the prayer does the business of state begin.

● Father Leonard J. Christian Counsel Saves 'Teen-Age Drug Addicts

CHRISTIAN counselling by a chaplain often means the difference between despair and hope for a youthful drug user, according to a Lutheran pastor who ministers in New York City at America's first hospital for 'teen-age addicts.

The Rev. Charles R. Jaeckle, a World War II veteran, says four months as official Protestant chaplain at Riverside Hospital have shown him that the role of the Christian minister is as vital as that of the psychiatrist, physician, teacher and recreational specialist in rehabilitating the victims of narcotics.

Pastor Jaeckle

He urged young people who have fallen under the habit to seek help from a chaplain or pastor, and called on ministers to understand drug users and invite their confidence to aid them in overcoming drug addiction.

"Such boys and girls," he said, "have usually been dealt with cruelly by life, and they are scarred, hurt and sick. But I work with the conviction that there is room for them in God's Church. I have learned that in all circumstances, the Christian faith proclaims a relevant message." Pastor Jaeckle was appointed to his post last fall by Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri. The institution, located on an island in the East River, is equipped to handle 150 boys and girls under a joint city-state program costing $1,000,000 a year.

Daily Bible Meditations

By Pastor Paul Bierstedt

This Letter to the Romans is a great treatise on Christianity. Read the daily selections, thinking of what is written, what it means, and how it applies to you. The questions given below will help you in profitable meditations.

APRIL: The Letter to the Romans

1 1:1-17—UNDER OBLIGATION. List Paul's reasons for wanting to go to Rome (v. 8-15). Explain v. 16 in light of vv. 3-6. Why should you want to tell others about your Christian faith?

2 1:18-32—THE TERRIBLE NEED. How does this list of sins show a desperate need? In what ways is God showing His wrath today? What are you doing to stir up repentance in yourself and others?

3 2:1-16—MAN HAS NO EXCUSE. Why has God good reason to be just? Why is a sinner without excuse? How would you explain God's justice to a buddy?

4 2:17-29—EVEN THE COVENANT PEOPLE HAVE SINNED. Why would the Jews be expected to obey God? Why does knowing the right make doing evil a greater wrong? How are you as a Christian measuring up?

5 EASTER 6:1-11—ALIVE UNTO GOD. How does Paul relate the raising of Christ from the dead to the new kind of living for a Christian? In what sense is a Christian freed from sin? Unto whom are you living your life?

6 6:12-23—A FREE SLAVERY. What are the differences between serving sin and serving righteousness? What is Christian liberty? How does God's gift of eternal life obligate you?

7 7:1-12—BELONGING TO CHRIST. Why can the Commandments not free the sinner? How does the risen Christ unite us with Himself? How are you showing that you have the new life?

8 7:13-25—STILL STRUGGLING. How does Paul describe his own conflicts in always doing right? What makes this struggle continue while we live on earth? Wherein can you be victorious over temptations?

9 8:1-11—FORGIVENESS IN CHRIST ALONE. What did Christ do to make forgiveness possible for a sinner? How does conduct complete the picture for the forgiven one? Are you living "spiritually"?

10 8:12-27—REAL LIVING IS IN THE SPIRIT. Note the work of the Holy Spirit in our prayer life and sufferings. How can there be a hope for a restored creation? What are you doing for a "better world"?

11 8:28-39—MORE THAN CONQUERORS. What assurances are given to those who really have faith in God? Why should a Christian be the most secure person in the world? How are you facing each day?

12 3:1-20—NO JUSTIFICATION BY DEEDS. What are some of the proofs of the universality of sin? Of what use, then, are the Commandments? Why is self-righteousness also condemned?

13 3:21-31—RIGHTEOUSNESS IS GIVEN. Note the words: righteousness of God, grace, redemption, expiation, faith. In what ways are these all "gifts of God"? Of what comfort is this to you?

14 4:1-12—CONSIDER ABRAHAM. Trace Paul's argument that Abraham was accepted because of his faith. What does "justification" mean in terms of "reckoned"? Is your hope in God, or yourself? Explain.

15 4:13-25—BECAUSE OF FAITH. Consider the personal aspects of Abraham's confidence. How would you define faith as a personal experience? How is it important to your faith that Jesus is living?

16 5:1-11—PEACE WITH GOD. What benefits come with justification by faith? How would you think of peace with God in relation to Christ's work of reconciliation? How do you show your joy in salvation?

17 5:12-21—LIFE ETERNAL. Contrast the devastation brought by Adam and the restoration brought by Christ. What is "eternal life," its nature, how and when possessed? How can you be sure you have it?

18 9:1-16—ISRAELITES INDEED. Compare these verses with 11:1-12 and see how the "true children of Abraham" are chosen. How are both Gentiles and Jews included in God's purpose? In what ways do you witness your faith to all nationalities?

19 10:1-17—GET THIS MATTER CLEAR. Why, in the last analysis, does Paul return to the experience of faith? How does man come to have love from God? Why is Gospel preaching important to you?

20 12:1-8—AN ACCEPTABLE SACRIFICE. What motives does the Apostle give for Christian living? Why is it best lived in the context of the Church? How are you following God's will for your life?

21 12:9-21—LIVE GENUINELY. What is the overall quality in Paul's list of virtues? In what sense is the Christian life the expression of Christ in the believer? Do others know you are a Christian?

22 13:1-7—CHRISTIAN CITIZENSHIP. In what ways do governments do God's will? How does a Christian be the best kind of citizen? How is your present service to the government also a service to God?

23 13:8-14—LOVE IS FULFILLMENT. Think of love as God-like concern for human welfare and eternal salvation. Why is this kind of love so desperately needed today? Is what you are doing for the common good and for Christ's sake?

24 14:1-12—WITHHOLD JUDGMENT. What practices in eating is Paul here relating to Christian liberty? How should the Universal Judgment sober all our dealings with fellow-men? How does your attitude toward others reflect Christ's forgiveness of you?

25 14:13-23—BE TRULY CONCERNED. What needs of the "sensitive believer" must be carefully considered? Why must individual rights often be sacrificed for another's good? How are you overcoming self for others' sakes?

26 15:1-6—IN MUTUAL BENEFIT. In what ways does Paul say Christians live for each other? What does "living in harmony" mean? How can you work for "peace and good will among men"?

27 15:7-13—TO BOTH JEW AND GENTILE. See how Paul uses the Old Testament to prove the Gentiles are included in the Covenant. Why, therefore, should Jew and Gentile be welcomed into the same Church? Do you have prejudices in your witnessing?

28 15:14-21—PREACHING AND TEACHING CHRIST. What all does Paul include here in his description of his ministry? What is the essential purpose of the ministry? Do you often seek your chaplain?

29 15:22-33—HOPE, PRAY, WORK. Of what plans for his missionary journey is Paul here writing? How are praying and giving a part of mission work? How are you showing your interest in world missions?

30 16:1-16, 21-23—A FELLOWSHIP OF CHRISTMEN. Note the personal quality of Paul's various greetings. Why is interest in the individual's welfare a mark of a good pastor? How are the people and pastor of your home church really a fellowship?

Armor for Christ

(2 Timothy 2:3)

Be a good soldier for Jesus,
Put on your armor of faith;
Let not your heart be troubled,
Lean on His unchanging grace.

Love never will fail you,
Though tossed by many a foe;
Put on your shoes for Jesus,
By His strength you shall go.

You can have Victory through Jesus,
If He is your constant guide;
Though there be difficult conflict,
He always is at your side.

O, sing of His love forever,
Joy in your heart you will find;
Come while yet it is daytime,
Put on your armor and shine.

ripcord."

I began to understand why flyers get extra or "hazardous" pay!

Finally, we were ready to start. The A.P.U. (Auxiliary Power Unit) sputtered; the jet engine began to whine, crescendoing quickly into a powerful roar. But despite the fury of sound and penned-up power, there was hardly a quiver to the shiny aircraft.

"Tyndall! This is jet 877. Taxi-take-off instructions, please," spoke the headset.

"977. Take-off runway 1-3. Wind southeast 5 to 10, barometer 30.03. Cleared to position and hold."

Slowly, smoothly the sleek plane glided to the end of the runway. Then the engine was revved up to what must have been a deafening roar outside.

"Ready to go?" Phil called back to me.

"All set."

"Tyndall. 977 ready to roll."

"977 cleared for immediate take-off."

Brakes released, we lurched forward at once. We bucked again with the sharp explosion of the after-burner. Then, before I could look we were off the ground, and straining to peer back over the side, the field already lay behind us.

Phil called back, "We'll pick up a little speed before we begin to climb. We are going about 400 knots now."

"What is your mission?" I asked. "Do you have to do anything special?"

"We'll make a maximum performance climb to 45,000 feet. Then we'll try a 'sonic dive,' ending up with a standard jet let-down and a few GCA (Ground Control Approach) runs."

I was in for more than I bargained, but there was no backing out now. With a tremendous thrust, we shot up. Our rate of climb is restricted information, and for that matter, indiscernable to me. But, what seemed in no time at all, we were cruising at 45,000 feet.

In earlier flights, I had looked down from almost 10,000 feet, where most of the earth's markings are still clear—each road, lake, stream, farm standing out boldly.

When I looked over the side of the "Starfire" from this new record height (personal record, that is), I was amazed. The earth looked like a large relief map I once saw. It was awe-inspiring.

Some clouds thousands of feet below seemed to frame a picture of the earth. Nestling in that frame, the contrast between shiny Gulf waters, ragged coast line and dark-shrubbed land seemed like a painting from the masters, though none of the masters were ever this high!

Then came to my mind the words of the Psalm (19th), "The heavens declare the glory of God, and the firmament showeth his handiwork."

Hardly had I begun to enjoy this sight, when the pilot called back, "We are heading down!"

Then, the plane seemed to balance on its nose. Heading straight down, we picked up speed, and it seemed my body wanted to go faster. I hung on to the safety harness as if there were no seat under me.

Down, down, one mile—already the ground seemed to leap into my face—two miles—the altimeter needle revolved madly—three miles—blood roared in my ears—four miles—the plane shuddered and suddenly became stable.

After nearly five miles of descent, Phil started to level off at 20,000 feet.

We had gone faster than the speed of sound, I realized. We had broken the so-called "sonic barrier"!

The rest was anti-climatic. There followed some slow rolls, a standard let-down; yes, some air-sickness on my part; the traffic pattern, and finally the popping of the parachute brake canopy on landing.

When I walked away from the plane on two wobbly legs, with less relief than pride, I knew that I had experienced the ride of a lifetime.

Since the F-94C is the first two-place aircraft to go faster than sound, and since this base is the first to use this craft for training, with previous use confined to tests and experiments, I claim to be the first man of my profession to have had this experience—the first Chaplain to go through the sonic barrier!

"This is The Life," Missouri Synod TV Show, Wins Wide Acclaim at N.Y. World Premiere

A NEW television series described as "A revolutionary step in the propagation of Christianity" had its world premiere in New York City recently, receiving wide praise from critics.

Designed to reach the more than 65,000,000 non-churchgoing Americans, the series, produced by Lutheran Television Productions of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod at a cost of $500,000, consists of 26 dramatic films.

The weekly half-hour TV films treat simple moral truths as they affect an average home in an average American community. Each represents an episode in the life of the Fisher family, and the application of Christian principles to problems arising in their daily lives.

According to the Rev. L. C. Wuerffel of St. Louis, Mo., chairman of the Lutheran TV Productions committee, 32 of the nation's 107 TV stations have already agreed to show the series, entitled "This is The Life," as a public service. Showings have been booked on a national basis in New York, Birmingham, Cincinnati, Columbus, Detroit, Jacksonville, Louisville, Omaha, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Schenectady, Utica, Washington, D.C., Denver, Albuquerque, Dallas, Los Angeles, New Orleans and Oklahoma City. Additional cities will be added in succeeding months, Mr. Wuerffel said.

The National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., through its Department of Broadcasting and Films, is cooperating with the Missouri Synod in distribution of the TV series which thus, it was said, "becomes the most formidable project yet undertaken to expose the un-churched population of this country to the benefits of attending church."

One of the films in the series was shown in New York to a preview audience of over 100 TV and movie critics from leading newspapers, magazines and radio stations.

"This is The Life" was produced in Hollywood with professional actors and actresses portraying the various roles. Action centers around the lives of Grampa Fisher, his 50-year-old son and daughter-in-law, Carl and Anna, and their three children.

Remember to Thank God On Thanksgiving Day!

THURSDAY, November 27, is Thanksgiving Day, set aside for Americans to gather in their churches and homes to offer thanks to Almighty God for the many blessings He has showered upon them.

Servicemen will have opportunity to observe Thanksgiving Day too. Even now, supply branches of the Armed Forces are rushing special shipments of states-side turkey, cranberry sauce and all the trimmings for traditional dinners to GI's, sailors and marines all over the world.

Wherever possible, chaplains will schedule services of thanksgiving to give servicemen an opportunity to praise and thank their ever-present Creator and Preserver.

For those unable to attend such worship services, a careful reading of several Scripture selections will be helpful. Jesus' prayer of thanks to His Father is found in Matthew 11: 2-6, 25-30. Paul's thoughts on the subject may be studied by reading I Timothy 2:1-8. Give God thanks!

Thanksgiving Clothing Drive

TO HELP meet needs among millions of homeless refugees around the world, 10,000 congregations in the National Lutheran Council are being asked to support the annual Thanksgiving Clothing Appeal of Lutheran World Relief, material-aid arm of the NLC.

The appeal has been set for Nov. 23-30, destined to aid uprooted people in Germany and Austria, plus thousands streaming daily into the West across the border from Iron Curtain countries.

Severe needs among 4,000,000 homeless Koreans and 750,000 Arab refugees in the Middle East are also slated to be eased through the LWR appeal.

Last year, the Thanksgiving Appeal produced about 1,750,000 pounds of clothing, and LWR leaders hope that 1952 results will be even better, in view of increasing needs.

YOU CAN'T TAKE OUT . . .

If You Don't Put In!

By AMOS JOHN TRAVER

DAD USED to say, "Too bad you boys can't put as much life into hoeing corn as you do into playing baseball!" Most boys will spend more energy working up schemes to bypass work than it would have taken to do it. Why not let up on the boys? Men are just overgrown boys!

In college days, one of the fellows in my dormitory had worked out a system with a rope and pulleys so that he could open his window or door without getting out of bed. And, some of us oldsters think nothing about walking a couple of miles around a golf course on a hot afternoon, calling it "fun," while the sight of a lawnmower only brings forth a groan.

The fact is that we tend to expend all kinds of energy on things which we like to do. Things are easy, as long as we do not have to do them. Amateurs in any sport who turn professional soon discover that a game which they formerly enjoyed now has turned into hard work — a way to make a living. Batches of bills arriving on the first of each month remind the professional that winning games is important; and so it is business, not pleasure, which keeps him practicing.

Many tasks given to men wearing the uniforms of our country might be fun, if there was nobody to give orders and take the pleasure out of working. Of course, it may seem a far cry from sports to religion, but some men say they never come to church because their parents had made them go every Sunday when they were kids. Isn't that a childish alibi?

Isn't the important question whether a man ought to go to Church? Countless numbers of servicemen attend church every Sunday, and find joy in the experience. Perhaps they first attended worship because they were sent, but they put their minds and hearts into understanding what it was all about. They learned the meaning of service, and put themselves into the responses and the singing of hymns with real zest. They volunteered for any job that needed doing around the church. The more they put themselves into the work of the church, the more the church meant to them.

Several young men were ordained into the ministry recently because they had served as chaplain's assistants during World War II. Prior to this time, some said they had held little interest in the Church, but that working with a chaplain — having something to do for Christ — had put new meaning into their religious lives. If the work of the Church lacks luster and enjoyment, the surest antidote is to find something to do for Christ and His Church!

Branch Rickey spoke straight from the shoulder about this subject while addressing a church group. He said:

"There are more thrills in religion than in baseball. What the Church needs to do is to hit some home runs. It needs to go to bat with a determination to win games! Even sacrifice hits won't do at this time. Knock the ball over the fence, clear the bases, and the Great Umpire of the game of games — the game of life itself — will chalk up the winning score for you!

"Religion isn't a drab, colorless something for the weak, the aged, and the sentimental. It's the great game of making a new world. Take religion in the spirit of eager sportsmanship; play the game fairly, but play it hard!"

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS
In Rhyme

I am the Lord thy God, saith He,
And thou shalt worship only Me;
Take not My holy Name in vain;
Nor dare the Sabbath-day profane;
Obey your parents, lass and lad;
Kill not, nor hate, it's just as bad;
In tho't, in word, in act be clean;
Steal not, for thou of God art seen;
Of no one say an unkind word;
Nor covet, always love the Lord.

Former German Navy Vessel Becomes Church

A FORMER German navy vessel has been rebuilt and launched in Hamburg, Germany, as a church and youth club by the Lutheran congregation of riverboatmen. Dedication ceremonies were held in October.

The floating church was reconditioned at a cost of about 50,000 marks ($11,900), nearly half of which was contributed by Lutherans in other countries. Hamburg shipowners, shipbuilders, businessmen and sailors provided the balance.

Refugees from East Germany comprise the majority of the riverboatmen's congregation. It is estimated that some 80 per cent of the 6,000 boatmen plying small craft in and around Hamburg harbor are refugees, many of whom fled East Germany in their boats and now use them as living quarters.

The church will seat 140 worshippers. It has painted glass windows illustrative of East German areas and cities from which its congregation came.

Army Chapel Attendance Increases Over 50%

ATTENDANCE at religious service in U.S. Army chapels increased more than 50 per cent during the year ending June 30, 1952, according to a report by Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, Jr.

Total attendance at chapels in the U.S. during the 12-month period was 18,949,060 compared with 12,682,884, the year before, setting a new post-World War II record.

Figures include both service personnel and their dependents.

The Army now has a total of 1,400 chaplains compared with 1,200 in 1951, Mr. Pace said. Army chaplains reported 2,541,993 visits to the wounded in military hospitals, an increase of 250,000 over the previous 12-month period.

Luther Film Being Readied in Germany; Scheduled for U. S. Release Next Year

CAMERAS on location in Germany have begun grinding out the first scenes of a new dramatic motion picture being made on "The Life of Martin Luther" by a corporation formed specially by the Lutheran churches of America.

The Lutheran film group opened its production work in Rambach with prayer and scripture reading, and now is filming episodes from Luther's life like his journey to the Leipzig to debate with Eck and his abduction by knights of Duke Frederick.

Tentatively titled, "Martin Luther," the film is being made by Lutheran Church Productions, Inc., a company formed for the project by the National Lutheran Council and five Lutheran church bodies in America: American Lutheran Church, Augustana Lutheran Church, Evangelical Lutheran Church, Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, and United Lutheran Church in America.

Photography is being done in Germany to record authentic scenes of where Luther lived and worked. Where such places have been destroyed by bombing or now lie behind the Iron Curtain dividing Germany, appropriate churches, castles, houses and streets have been selected elsewhere in West Germany.

Most of the Luther story episodes will be filmed in Maulbronn monastery, the town of Eberbach, and in cities like Rothenburg and Regensburg. Other scenes will be made in the AFIFA studios, Wiesbaden, where the Pope's chambers, Luther's room in Wartburg castle, and rooms in Luther's home have been reconstructed. Following a two-month filming schedule, it is expected that the film will be released in the U.S.A. early next year.

The man chosen to play Luther is the well-known English actor, Niall MacGinnis, who not only looks like the Reformer, but plays the role with great sensitivity and understanding. Melancthon and Carlstadt are also played by English actors, Guy Verney and Alastair Hunter. Spalatin is the French actor, Pierre Lefevre. Knights, nobles, monks, the Pope, various "bit" players and extras are Germans.

Costumes for players were brought to the Luther film project from salt mines in Kassel, where hundreds of robes, suits of armor, hats, gowns, spears and swords were saved from destruction during the war.

The Regensburg meeting hall, still preserved with banners and tapestry, will provide the setting for the Augsburg Confession, a Lutheran statement of faith forming the basis for the first official recognition of Protestantism.

Since no location could be found to match the hall in which the Diet of Worms was held, this room will be reconstructed in the Wiesbaden AFIFA studios.

Original Luther documents, imperial decrees and church records have been duplicated for use in the film story, or have been copied in English in the original 16th century format. Luther's pamphlet on the "Freedom of the Christian Man" will appear in English on the screen, but will look exactly like the original German document.

So realistically and accurately has everything been done that tourists who visit locations where the film is being made are taken by surprise. In a Rothenburg restaurant, an American school teacher was overheard commenting to another that she was "shocked" to find the town so "anti-Lutheran."

"On several walls and doors," she remarked to her friend, "someone has scrawled, 'Death to Luther, the Saxon Hus!'" A Luther film technician quickly explained that over 80 per cent of Rothenburg's inhabitants are Lutheran and that the wall markings were merely props for scenes in the new film on the Reformer!

Catechism Corner

LUTHER'S SMALL CATECHISM

PART II

THE APOSTLES' CREED

The First Article: Of Creation.

I believe in God the Father Almighty, maker of heaven and earth.

WHAT DOES THIS MEAN?

Answer: I believe that God has created me and all that exists; that He has given and still preserves to me my body and soul, my eyes and ears, and all my members, my reason and all the powers of my soul, together with food and raiment, home and family, and all my property; that He daily provides abundantly for all the needs of my life, protects me from all danger, and guards and keeps me from all evil; and that He does this purely out of fatherly and divine goodness and mercy, without any merit or worthiness in me; for all which I am in duty bound to thank, praise, serve, and obey Him. This is most certainly true.

The Second Article: Of Redemption.

And in Jesus Christ His only Son, our Lord; who was conceived by the Holy Ghost, born of the Virgin Mary; suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified, dead and buried; He descended into hell; the third day He rose again from the dead; He ascended into heaven, and sitteth on the right hand of God the Father Almighty; from thence He shall come to judge the quick and the dead.

WHAT DOES THIS MEAN?

Answer: I believe that Jesus Christ, true God, begotten of the Father from eternity, and also true Man, born of the Virgin Mary, is my Lord; who has redeemed me, a lost and condemned creature, bought and freed me from all sins, from death, and from the power of the devil; not with silver and gold, but with His holy and precious blood, and with His innocent sufferings and death; in order that I might be His own, live under Him in His kingdom, and serve Him in everlasting righteousness, innocence, and blessedness; even He is risen from the dead, and lives and reigns to all eternity. This is most certainly true.

The Third Article: Of Sanctification.

I believe in the Holy Ghost; the holy Christian Church, the communion of saints; the forgiveness of sins; the resurrection of the body; and the life everlasting. Amen.

WHAT DOES THIS MEAN?

Answer: I believe that I cannot by my own reason or strength believe in Jesus Christ my Lord, or come to Him; but the Holy Ghost has called me through the Gospel, enlightened me with His gifts, and sanctified and preserved me in the true faith; in like manner as He calls, gathers, enlightens and sanctifies the whole Christian Church on earth, and preserves it in union with Jesus Christ in the one true faith; in which Christian Church He daily forgives abundantly all my sins, and the sins of all believers, and at the last day will raise up me and all the dead, and will grant everlasting life to me and to all who believe in Christ. This is most certainly true.

SOLDIERS who hear American Forces Network radio programs in Europe are reminded that their conduct off-duty often is the only impression Europeans receive of what Americans are like.

Daily spot broadcasts say: "A country is known by its people — What people think of your country depends on you!"

This is good public relations, and is a technique used by many large business firms as well, but it is not a new idea.

The Christian Church has always taught this practice. Jesus said, "Let your lights so shine before men . . ." (Matt. 5:16)

With non-Christians surrounding us daily, keep in mind that the Christian Church is known by its members, and what others may think of Our Savior may depend entirely on you!

She attended Wartburg College, Waverly, Iowa, for one year before entering the nursing school in 1955.

LUTHERANS HELPING THE WORLD'S NEEDY PEOPLE

LUTHERAN WORLD ACTION, the annual financial appeal of the National Lutheran Council, raised $3,601,541 in 1958, bringing the grand total of contributions to the 20-year-old appeal to $53,388,993.

Most of the funds have been used for interchurch aid, relief work and such programs inside the United States as the NLC services to military personnel.

In addition to Lutheran World Action funds, food, clothing, medicines and other relief goods valued at over $95,000,000 have been shipped to the areas of need overseas by Lutheran World Relief, the Council's material aid arm since 1946.

For 1959 the Lutheran World Action goal is $3,900,000.

THE LUTHERAN MINISTRY TO YOU

LUTHERANS SPEND MORE for their ministry to military personnel than any other denomination, according to statistics revealed at the National Lutheran Council's 41st annual meeting at Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

From Lutheran World Action, the annual fund appeal of the NLC, and other sources, Lutherans contribute a whopping $750,000 to such services. The Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A., second among the churches in funds devoted to the services, spends no more than $284,680 per year.

Chaplain E. O. Midboe, head of the NLC Bureau of Service to Military Personnel, warned that "until the day comes when the Communist world lays down its arms and ceases its planned maneuver of keeping the western allies off balance by successive 'brink-of-war' aggravations, first on one flank and then on the other, and concurrently strives methodically by peaceful means to win the hearts of men, the Church dare not relax her efforts in this crucial battleground."

The Armed Forces, said Chaplain Midboe, currently have 854 Lutheran chaplains of whom 302 are on active duty. Yet this leaves nearly 2,000 bases without a Lutheran chaplain. Therefore, the Bureau is currently trying to blanket the United States with a network of contact pastors serving congregations adjacent to military installations and willing to serve the military as well. At present, there are 210 such contact pastors and the number is growing.

The Council also heard Dr. Carl F. Yaeger, associate secretary of the joint NLC-Missouri Synod Lutheran Service Commission, emphasize the growing need for off-station military as more and more soldiers and dependents become "global transients" while forces are deployed according to atomic strategy.

The attendance of five Lutheran Service Centers abroad (in Germany, Japan, the Philippines and Okinawa) reached an all-time high of 64,192 in 1958. All told, Dr. Yaeger reported, there are over 200,000 Lutheran military personnel and dependents overseas requiring and deserving a Lutheran Ministry.

Lutherans are now serving as governors in seven of the nation's 49 states, according to a survey made by the Lutheran Brotherhood Bond. The survey also found four Lutherans among the 98 members of the United States Senate.

Tribute to the four chaplains who went down with the USS Dorchester in 1943 after giving up their life belts to servicemen was paid at the 41st annual meeting of the National Lutheran Council. An honor guard, two uniformed military chaplains and NLC officials participated in a special service during the sessions of the Council.

Baptized membership of the United Lutheran Church in America, the nation's largest Lutheran body, rose 2.52 per cent to a total of 2,395,611 last year.

The cornerstone for a new Lutheran World Federation hospital was laid at Fanling, Hong Kong. The 50-bed unit will be the largest of four medical centers maintained in the crown colony by the LWF, chiefly to serve refugees from Red China.

Courses on religion in colleges and universities have achieved "respectability" and are being introduced on an increasing number of campuses, according to the Rev. A. Henry Hetland, head of the National Lutheran Council's Division of College and University Work.

Calling for a Lutheran ministry to all the people, the Rev. Conrad M. Thompson, evangelism director of the ELC, chided Lutheran church members for being more concerned with "continuity of national background and one race." He claimed that "most of us find it difficult to think there is any bluer blood than Scandinavian or German."

Dr. Norman A. Menter, first vice president of the American Lutheran Church and president of its Michigan District, was elected president of the National Lutheran Council. Dr. Raymond M. Olson, stewardship director of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, was elected vice president. For the first time a layman was elected secretary of the Council. He is Mr. Harold Le Vander of St. Paul, Minn., a member of the Augustana Lutheran Church.

The executive secretary of the Lutheran World Federation reacted favorably but cautiously to the announcement by Pope John XXIII that he will call an Ecumenical Council aimed at seeking unity between the Roman Catholics and other Christians throughout the world. " We will welcome the announcement if there is a genuine interest in making a mutually effective search for deeper and greater Christian unity," said Dr. Carl E. Lund-Quist.

Pastor Moeller, first Missouri Synod clergyman ever elected to Congress, won in a political upset in a southeastern Ohio district that had not sent a Democrat to Congress since the Civil War.

The chapel, a quonset hut, houses the only duplicate of the painting "The Soldier and Christ" done by an Italian artist, Ortavio Delphin, in 1946, during the U. S. Army's occupation of Trieste, Italy. The original painting belongs to another chaplain formerly stationed at Fort Richardson with a now inactivated unit.

BAD EXAMPLE RETARDS CHRISTIANITY

CHURCH MEMBERS who set less than a Christian example are retarding Christianity itself and giving it a "bad reputation," a Lutheran public relations executive warned.

"Wherever congregations or individuals who are known to be Lutherans support ideas which help to perpetuate racial segregation, Lutheran public relations suffers because the truth suffers," said the Rev. Philip A. Johnson, head of the NLC's Division of Public Relations.

"When Lutheran men send their wives and children to church to do their praying for them, they are not only promoting bad public relations, but they are diminishing the strength and influence of their Church.

"When people who are known to be Lutherans set a less than Christian example in the place where they work—in their standards of honesty, decency of speech, and application to their work—they are causing damage to the Church which no army of public relations experts could repair," he said.

LUTHERAN COLLEGE INTEGRATION CITED

LUTHERAN COLLEGES AND SEMINARIES in the U. S. and Canada reflect "a wholesome and agreeable atmosphere" in race relations, according to results of a survey done by the National Lutheran Council.

Nearly 500 students of ten cultures or races other than white have spent 1,526 academic years in Lutheran colleges and seminaries since 1950.

Questionnaires were sent to 64 Lutheran colleges and seminaries, of which 60 replied.

Fifty-six schools reported they practiced no racial or cultural discrimination in accepting applicants. One college said it discriminated against Negroes, and another that such matters were left to the discretion of the admissions committee.

Nine schools said they had officially adopted policies against discrimination, while 49 said their practices were based on common acceptance. None of the schools are prohibited by state laws from becoming integrated.

Uncle Abe said

MEET ME IN HEAVEN

By Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

IN OUR HOME during my childhood days "Uncle Abe" lived with us. He was always an interesting man and was one of the first ones in the neighborhood to have a crystal set. Putting on the earphones we could hear people talking in a city twenty miles away. This was indeed remarkable in those days.

However, "Uncle Abe," although he had respect for religion, was not a Christian. He attended church occasionally but was not committed to Christ and His cause. One day he became ill and the doctors advised that he stay in someone else's home because of the nature of his illness which was undetermined and there was a question as to whether or not it was contagious.

"Uncle Abe" had learned the Catechism in boyhood days and memorized the Bible history. During his illness the Holy Spirit worked thru the Word of God in his mind, convicting him of his sin and convincing him of Christ's righteousness.

Three weeks before he died he accepted Jesus Christ as his personal Savior and Lord. He called his cronies to his bedside and pleaded with them that they should not make the mistake he had made of waiting until the end of his life to become a Christian. He told them that he was going into eternity empty handed. They had the opportunity to accept Christ and in gratitude to God for His salvation they could work and bring others along with them.

During these three weeks he constantly talked about heaven and told his friends that he would be waiting for them. Like Paul he said, "My desire is to depart and be with Christ, for that is far better." (Phil. 1:23).

At this very time his daughter, our cousin, was coming from Norway by ship. As the ship docked at the pier I will never forget that arrival of our cousin as her sisters explained to her that while she was en route her father had died, but had said, "Meet me in heaven." On his tombstone there was a hand pointing up and above this the inscription, "Meet me in heaven."

As Jesus Christ revealed Himself to His disciples after His resurrection, He assured them He was going home to be with the Father and to prepare a place for them. He would also send the Comforter, the Holy Spirit, to empower them to live for Him despite persecutions and trials.

Jesus stated in John 14, " 'Let not your hearts be troubled; believe in God, believe also in me. In my Father's house are many rooms; if it were not so, would I have told you that I go to prepare a place for you? And when I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and will take you to myself, that where I am you may be also. And you know the way where I am going.' Thomas said to him, 'Lord, we do not know where you are going; how can we know the way?' Jesus said to him, 'I am the way, and the truth, and the life; no one comes to the Father, but by me.' " (John 14:1-6).

'BRIMSTONE' CITY PRODUCES POTASH TODAY. This signpost at Sodom, Israel, tells in Hebrew and English the story of the biblical city's destruction by brimstone and fire (Gen. 19:23-25). Lowest point of habitation in the world, 1,286 feet below sea level, Sodom today is the center of Israel's potash production

Do you have this assurance that someday you will meet loved ones in heaven? How wonderful it will be to meet Christ and the saints of God who have marched across the pages of the Old and the New Testaments and across the pages of history of the Christian church down through the years.

Trust in the promises of His Word. They will stand us in good stead both in life and in death.

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading your Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He Commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

GERMAN REDS DEVELOP "COUNTER CHURCH"

COMMUNIST AUTHORITIES in Stalinstadt, Soviet Zone, have issued regulations setting forth the principles to be followed and the methods adopted in promoting Red rites as substitutes for Christian ceremonies.

Church sources here said the regulations reveal for the first time in detail the East German regime's plans to develop the Communist ideology into an atheistic "counter Church."

Apparently designed as a model for all other Soviet Zone districts, the regulations were approved by the Stalinstadt City Council after it voted to assign a special official to be in charge of promoting and organizing the Red rites. The rites include "name giving ceremonies," "Socialist weddings" and "Socialist funerals."

The Stalinstadt regulations denounced Church baptisms, weddings and funerals as "acts designed by the exploiters' class." They said that these "biological processes have assumed great social importance and must, therefore, be celebrated in a dignified form as solemn events of the growing socialist society."

The vow to be taken by participants in "socialist weddings" was prescribed in the regulations as follows:

"Feeling responsible to all working people, to ourselves and to one another, we pledge in mutual love to shape our marriage, concluded here and today, as a union concluded for the whole of life. We vow to augment with joint active strength the socialist achievements and the power of the workers and peasants.

"We vow to each other attentive respect, care, and sacrificial aid in distress, mutual promotion of our professional and cultural development, unity in decisions and insoluble faithfulness."

Sharing Your Experience

SOLDIER UNCLE IN GERMANY

By Pfc. Roger Ose

WHEN I WAS A LITTLE BOY I admired the older boys from our church who were home on furlough wearing their military uniforms. I hoped that someday I might wear one.

After graduating from Augsburg College, Minneapolis, Minn., I attended the Lutheran Bible Institute, Seattle, Wash., for a winter, but then volunteered for the U. S. Army two-year draft. Within a few days I was on active duty in Texas.

For seven months I was an M-48 tank gunner, then a sign painter, and finally our company clerk. A year ago our chaplain needed an assistant, I was chosen, and I have been with him since then, and the part of my work here in Southern Germany that I enjoy most is working with children.

I help with the Sunday School opening worship by leading singing. We have 120 to 160 attending regularly. Sunday evenings I'm in charge of our Children's Service. Last Sunday night there were 63 boys and girls. I didn't have enough chairs so some sat on the floor. We sing songs and hymns and I tell Bible stories or show Bible films.

There are 85 children in the Lutheran orphanage near our post. We soldiers help purchase shoes, clothes, food, toys, and necessary things for the home. Thanksgiving Day we invited 70 of them to be our guests for dinner in the mess hall. They enjoyed being with their "Soldier Uncles," and they hugged us when it was time to say "Good-by." It all seems as if God answered a prayer.

Pfc. Roger Ose will be the recipient of the April $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Stories of religious significance will be favored, but any well-written report not exceeding 300 words may make the grade.

Try to sit down and write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

PLANS MADE FOR CLOSER LUTHERAN COOPERATION

FORTY YEARS of Lutheran cooperation were reviewed at the 41st annual meeting of the National Lutheran Council in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, and plans were discussed for further strengthening of ties between the various Lutheran church bodies in America.

A special committee will study the future of the National Lutheran Council in view of the fact that seven of the eight participating church bodies are currently involved in merger negotiations, expected to lead to the establishment of two new major church bodies in this country.

The Evangelical Lutheran Church, the American Lutheran Church and the United Evangelical Lutheran Church have definitely agreed to merge in 1960 into one 2,120,000-member church body which will be known as The American Lutheran Church.

Negotiations between the United Lutheran Church, the Augustana Lutheran Church, the Suomi Synod and the American Evangelical Lutheran Church may lead to the establishment of a 3,000,000-member church body as early as 1961.

Hopes that the 2,200,000-member Missouri Synod might join the bodies cooperating in the Council suffered a temporary setback when the Councillors meeting in Milwaukee received notice that the Missouri Synod was not ready to take part in discussion of such a cooperation.

IT DOES MATTER WHAT YOU DO

By the Rev. Howard A. Kuhnle

"IT DOESN'T MATTER WHAT I DO!"

How many times have you heard this said—indifferently, scornfully, hopelessly, carelessly—both in and out of church.

But it just is not true! Yes, underline that, it is not true. Here are a few examples to show that it is not true.

Probably Edison has affected our lives in modern times from a material standpoint more than any other one person. His early inventions, which were also the most fundamental ones, were accomplished by him alone. While, in later years, his work was done in well-equipped laboratories and by a large staff of scientists, we should never forget the influence of the one man—Edison.

The figure of Lincoln grows through the years. He did not say, "It does not matter what I do," but he did say, "With malice toward none, with charity for all . . ."

Mother's Day is the idea of one person—Miss Annie Jarvis. She wanted to honor mothers, but the plan did not spread very fast at first. She kept at it, but even though Mother's Day is celebrated universally now, not many persons know of the persistence of Miss Jarvis in spreading the idea.

It mattered a great deal what Martin Luther did, because even in his lifetime his influence spread throughout the Christian world. We can scarcely imagine his saying, "It doesn't matter what I do!"

Here are also negative influences as well as the positive influences cited.

"I'm not going to church today!" That's a common enough phrase, but said by even the most obscure person, it may influence your family and friends, too, not to participate in divine worship.

"Who cares!"—this phrase said thoughtlessly may cause someone else to take the same indifferent attitude instead of an attitude of cooperation.

And the last example is that of the Master, who did not say, "It doesn't matter," but "I must be about my Father's business," and "I must work the works of Him that sent me, while it is day."

CHINESE PUPILS TAUGHT RED LEADER IS 'SUPREME GOD'

A SONG hailing Mao Tse-tung, head of the Chinese Communist Party, as the "Supreme God" and lauding his "virtues and power" is being taught in China's schools, the Peiping Radio announced.

It said the song's lyrics are: "No supreme God is in heaven; no dragon God under the earth. I am the supreme God, and the dragon God. Tell the mountains and the cliffs to make way, for I am coming."

The station also disclosed that at a literary congress, organized by the Chinese ministry of cultural affairs, local authorities were "fiercely" criticized for "allowing the propagation of religious superstitions" in their areas.

Urgent measures are being taken, the broadcast said, to stop this propaganda "which has been allowed to permeate surreptitiously various new government publications."

Second Glance

The Veterans Administration disclosed that 35,827 veterans of World War II and 12,392 veterans of the Korean War have undertaken training under the GI Bill of Rights to become clergymen. The ministry ranked just below medicine and law in the number of veterans who undertook preparation for the professions.

Six hundred and forty-two new congregations have been organized by the United Lutheran Church in America since 1945. The ULCA's Board of American Missions plans to organize 70 new congregations in the U.S., Canada and Alaska during 1959.

Dr. Svend Frederiksen, research associate in the Arctic Institute of the Catholic University of America, received a $1,500 grant from the Washington Evening Star to complete his proposed 500-page study on "Primitive Eskimo Beliefs." Dr. Frederiksen, a native of Greenland, and a Lutheran, has warned that the advance of civilization will soon destroy the last remaining primitive aspects of Eskimo culture and that time is running short for scholars to study the history and folklore of these hardy people.

The 150th anniversary of the establishment of the first Lutheran consistory, by official decree of Napoleon Bonaparte, is being celebrated this year by the 15,000-member Lutheran Church of Paris.

Communist customs officials in Leipzig, Soviet Zone, confiscated copies of an Evangelical calendar from Christmas parcels sent by West Germans to East Germany, claiming that the importation of "filthy, trashy and anti-democratic literature into the East German Republic is prohibited."

Another "university of atheism" has been opened in the Soviet Union to augment the continuing government-sponsored campaign against religion. The new establishment is in Leningrad.

Most of the 250 Lutheran churches of the Twin Cities area in Minnesota will take part in an evangelism mission next fall. Some 400 pastors and lay leaders representing congregations of the National Lutheran Council and the Lutheran Synodical Conference of North America made plans for the missions at a meeting here. The mission was described as "the largest cooperative endeavor among Lutherans in the Midwest."

A. E. Doerring, a stewardship counselor of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, has been named executive director of the men's auxiliary of three Lutheran Churches which will unite next year. The new unit will be formed by the merger of the brotherhoods of the Evangelical Lutheran Church, the American Lutheran Church and the United Evangelical Lutheran Church. It will be known as "The Brotherhood of The American Lutheran Church" and will have a membership of nearly 500,000.

IN A RECENT GAME at Augustana College, Rock Island, Ill., a soccer team, composed of ten foreign students and an American faculty member as goal keeper, licked the "American All-Stars" of the college 3 to 1. The contest was staged to introduce soccer to an American audience, and to bring the foreign students into closer contact with their American fellows. The result, as well as the composition of the "United Nations" team showed clearly that outside America soccer is the most popular, best understood sport. Playing against the Americans were students from Korea, West Germany, East Africa, Hong Kong, Malaya, Sweden and Egypt. All but one of the male foreign students enrolled at Augustana took part—as the picture shows, some playing barefoot.

NEWPORT NAVAL BASE WILL HAVE LUTHERAN SERVICE CENTER

FIRST LUTHERAN CHURCH OF NEWPORT, R. I., will join with the Lutheran Service Commission in providing a Service Center for sailors at the Newport Naval Base.

The program will begin when the initial phase of a building project is completed sometime in the summer of 1959.

A survey conducted a year ago by the National Lutheran Council's Division of American Missions, showed that there were some 1,200 Lutherans in the Newport area. The majority of these were military personnel and their families.

The local congregation, sensing the great opportunity to expand its ministry, began a study of a possible program with cooperation of the Augustana Lutheran Church's Board of American Missions.

A two-acre lot in Newport was purchased for the congregation's new church, close to the Naval Base. The basement of the new church will be used as the Service Center.

According to the Rev. Wm. Marwede, Eastern Area Director of the LSC, homelike surroundings would be the goal in equipping the center.

Since Navy personnel in the area are not allowed to keep civilian clothes on base, he went on, lockers will be installed for the sailors' convenience.

LUTHERAN PASTOR DIRECTS SERVICE LOUNGE IN HONG KONG

THE REV. GLENN W. KRANZOW, former missionary of the United Lutheran Church in America, has been appointed director of the U. S. Servicemen's Lounge in Hong Kong.

The Hong Kong facility is under the general direction of the Joint Committee for Work Among American Servicemen, a group representing the American community in Hong Kong and Protestant churches interested in their people in the Far East.

Since this program began in 1953, the Lutheran Service Commission has maintained consultative relationships and has assisted financially with occasional contributions. However, this is the first time that it has assigned a staff member to work in the British Crown colony.

As director of the U. S. Servicemen's Lounge, Mr. Kranzow will serve as an LSC service pastor and will concentrate his work with Naval personnel when they dock at Fenwick Pier. The lounge is located on the second floor of the Missions to Seamen building directly across the street from the pier.

Mr. Kranzow, one of six Lutheran service pastors located overseas, served as interim service pastor of the Tachikawa, Japan, Lutheran service center from May to September of 1958. Prior to that he served as a missionary in Hong Kong for the United Lutheran Church in America.

Bishop Berggrav Dies:

SYMBOL OF FREE CHRISTIANITY

BISHOP EIVIND BERGGRAV, former Primate of the Lutheran Church of Norway, died at the age of 74.

A former president of the World Council of Churches and an active figure in the Lutheran World Federation, Bishop Berggrav was recognized as one of the world's authorities on the subject of Church-State relations.

As spiritual leader of the resistance movement to the German occupation of Norway during World War II, he also became known as "a symbol of free Christianity in the world."

In the winter of 1941, two years after the Nazis had occupied Norway, Bishop Berggrav was summoned to the royal palace to face Minister President Vidkun Quisling who charged him, among other things, with having refused to endorse attempts to recruit Norwegians to fight with the Germans against Russia. One word led to another. Finally the Minister President bellowed: "You triple traitor! You deserve to have your head chopped off."

"Well," came the bishop's answer, "here I am."

Little surprise was felt when Bishop Berggrav was forced to resign from the Oslo See in February, 1942, and two months later was arrested and interned in the Bretvedt concentration camp near Oslo. Later he was released from the camp—reputedly on Adolf Hitler's orders—and confined instead in a summer cottage at Asker guarded by 20 men and surrounded by barbed wire. No one was permitted to see him, except his servants and nearest relatives. He was confined to an area of 500 square yards around the cottage.

During his three years imprisonment, Dr. Berggrav managed to win the sympathy and friendship of his guards, with what proved to be useful results.

Once a week, he put on a pair of spectacles and a false black beard, went unmolested past his guards, and motorcycled to a place where the underground Church was holding meetings. This was a stone's throw from Gestapo headquarters. There, through a coded information system which covered the entire country, the bishop directed the activities of the Church after the great majority of the Church's more than 800 state-supported pastors had resigned at one stroke to set their Church free.

Bishop Berggrav remained a Nazi prisoner until the night of April 17, 1945, when members of the Home Front liberated him. With Norway free again, he resumed his post as Primate. His first official action was to suspend all pastors who had deserted the Church during its period of trial. Only about 50 were affected by the decree.

Following his resignation as Bishop of Oslo and Primate of the State Church, he took his formal farewell at services at the Oslo Cathedral.

Bishop Eivind Berggrav

Subsequently a delegation of civic and ecclesiastical leaders presented him with a handsomely decorated special edition of the "Ground of the Church," a statement of the Norwegian Church drawn up by the bishop himself. In it he had announced the determination of Norwegian Lutherans during the war not to surrender their spiritual rights to the Nazi occupiers.

However, he never limited his opposition to the Nazi brand of totalitarianism.

In an interview two years ago, Dr. Berggrav called for a halt to the growing contacts between western churches and the Russian Orthodox Church, charging that the Russian Church "subordinates itself to a godless State." He contended that western churchmen who participate in official visits to the Russian Church and join in its worship services "place themselves on the verge of treachery to Christian justice and faith."

CANADIAN DESTROYER, HQ SWAP BIBLE MESSAGES

A DAMAGED AND LEAKING Royal Canadian Navy destroyer, limping home, and the navy's Atlantic command headquarters swapped "Bible messages" while the ship was still 250 miles at sea being pounded by a storm.

The Huron, with a skeleton crew of 150 officers and men aboard, was on her way home from exercises in the Mediterranean with the French fleet, when she began shipping water.

"Isaiah 30, Verse 20—Philippians 2, Verse 12," flashed Atlantic command to the stricken ship, while aircraft and other vessels raced to her aid.

The two texts read:

"And though the Lord give you the bread of adversity, and the water of affliction, yet shall not thy teachers be removed into a corner any more, but thine eyes shall see thy teachers:"

"Wherefore, my beloved, as ye have always obeyed, not as in my presence only, but now much more in my absence, work out your own salvation with fear and trembling."

The Huron radioed: Job 4—Verse 4.

This text reads: "Thy words have upholden him that was falling, and thou hast strengthened the feeble knees."

ARE BRIDEGROOMS MORE NERVOUS THAN BRIDES?

THE BRIDEGROOM IS ALWAYS more nervous than the bride. Take it from James Platt Berkeley, who recently retired as verger of Washington Cathedral (Episcopal) after more than 35 years service as the master of ceremonies for all religious rites.

Mr. Berkeley, who had the duty at weddings of making certain that both the bride and groom were ready, said that more often than not it was the bridegroom whose hands were trembling and knees knocking and who required a few words of counsel before the signal was given for the ceremony to start.

Although brides were often late, to the dismay of guests and officiating clergy, bridegrooms were more at fault in this department, too, Mr. Berkeley added.

The worst delay which he ever experienced occurred when a handsome Marine officer was taking the daughter of a prominent government official as bride. He slipped in the mud down at Quantico (Va.) Barrack and it took an hour to get his dress uniform trousers cleaned and pressed. It was his only dress uniform.

Sharing Your Experience

RED LIGHT MEANS GO!

By an A/3C who calls himself Sauce

MY STORY BEGINS at a certain training base where a certain cadet trainee and his instructor took off for a few hours flying which the trainee needed to obtain enough hours in the air before making his first solo flight.

The instructor, who had very much confidence in the trainee, went to the rear of the plane to take a short snooze.

When the trainee had completed the hours which he was to fly and had just landed and gotten out of the plane, the instructor woke up, saw the red light at the control panel, which means the motor has conked out or has just been shut off, thought very fast, bailed out of the plane on the runway, and broke his collar bone.

"Sauce" will be the recipient of the March $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Stories of religious significance will be favored, but any well-written report not exceeding 300 words may make the grade.

Try to sit down and write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

SP-4 BILLY M. WALTON, whose report, "A Helping Hand in Korea," appeared in the November 1958 Sharing Your Experience column, has notified us that he received his check for 10 dollars at Seoul, Korea, and contributed it to the Korean's Orphan's Fund.

TRAVELS 60,000 MILES IN UNSUCCESSFUL BIBLE SEARCH

AN UNSUCCESSFUL SEARCH for two lost Gutenberg Bibles took a Chicago clergyman on a 60,000-mile jaunt through Europe.

The Rev. Don Cleveland Norman, religion editor of the American Peoples Encyclopedia, says he believes the two missing copies are secreted somewhere in Russia.

Both Bibles are among 47 Gutenbergs known to exist. Of these 35 are printed on paper and 12 on vellum. Gutenberg's press at Mainz, Germany, turned out between 180 and 300 Bibles before Aug. 15, 1456.

They are believed to have been the first books printed from metal movable type.

Mr. Norman personally examined 44 of the 47 Gutenbergs. Besides the two missing volumes, he was unable to see one held by the Bank of Montreal in its vaults in Ottawa, Canada, where it awaits the outcome of a dispute over its ownership between Free Poles and Poles of Communist Poland.

Of the other Gutenbergs, 14 are in the U.S., nine in Germany, eight in Great Britain, four in France, two in Spain, two in Italy, and one each in Portugal, Switzerland, Austria, Denmark and Belgium.

LUTHERAN MISSION TO AID 'LAUGHING SICKNESS' VICTIMS

LAUGHING SICKNESS is no laughing matter for natives of the Tarabo-Okapa area of New Guinea—nor for the Lutheran Mission on this tropical Pacific island.

A newly-discovered fatal malady for which medical science has not yet found a cure, the apparently hereditary disease has been spreading among aborigines in the Mission's Tarabo field.

Victims of the disease die after six to eight months of general deterioration of health, including loss of control of bodily movements.

At the request of the New Guinea government, a special Lutheran Mission medical center will be established in the area.

SPACE PROBLEMS OFFER CHURCH NEW CHALLENGE

PROBLEMS OF SPACE and the practical application of theology to them should be one of the major concerns in the Church today, a Lutheran chaplain told the 2nd International Symposium on the Physics and Medicine of the Atmosphere and Space held in San Antonio, Texas.

Pointing out that the Church must be prepared to go along with the scientists as they unveil new knowledge about the universe, Air Force Major Voight M. Sink reported that the scientists who are involved in space projection are gravely concerned with the kind of faith individuals will have who will be isolated in vehicles which leave our planet.

The veteran chaplain, a pastor of the United Lutheran Church in America, said that scientists are deeply interested in how the Christian Church will meet this challenge.

Chaplain Sink was the first religious representative to be invited to a worldwide meeting of scientists and physicians working in the space field. Over 700 medical doctors and scientists participated.

In his position as a guest-observer, Major Sink said that "it became evident as the symposium progressed that our Church must come to grips with the problem of thinking in terms of a practical theological application for the people who will find themselves in this new environment.

"In fact many of the participants told me," he continued, "that the presence of a clergyman and the offering of a prayer to begin the meeting started the scientists thinking about religious implications in the space age.

"When one thinks about our faith in this new era," he went on, "the universal or geographic outlook in the Gospel itself is brought into a new and infinite perspective.

"This provides a unique evangelistic challenge for our church to provide the theological basis for a proper understanding of the whole of God's creation.

"Actually we must ask ourselves now whether we as church people are going to keep abreast in this whole new area of applying the Christian gospel," the Air Force chaplain concluded.

Major Sink, also took part in the Lutheran Chaplain Convocation in Dallas and brought these searching questions to the thirty-one chaplains in attendance.

Second Glance

A 65-foot-high stained glass window donated by United States soldiers was unveiled in the Protestant Cathedral in Ulm, Germany. It replaced one destroyed during the war. The necessary $5,000 was raised by troops of the U. S. Army's 47th Infantry Division which left Germany two years ago and is now stationed at Fort Carson, Colo.

A new $15,000,000 Lutheran university at Thousand Oaks, Calif., will be named "Ventura University" after the county in which it will be situated. While the entire campus will not be completed for 15 years, the first section, to cost $4,000,000, will be opened in 1961 or 1962.

Organization of 70 new congregations in the U. S., Canada and Alaska during 1959 is planned by the Board of American Missions of the United Lutheran Church in America.

The first volume of a new publication called Atheistic Literature has appeared in Communist Czechoslovakia, the Prague Radio reported. It said further issues will be published "in great numbers" for distribution to factories, schools and libraries.

Polish girls, according to the Moscow Radio, have been writing to Moscow for advice on how to reorganize their backward "priest-ridden" villages, and complained of the "religious complexes" of their local communities. Moscow's reply: Follow the advice given by the Polish Communist youth organizations.

Dr. Lajos Ordass, who was ousted by Communist authorities last June from his post of Bishop of the Southern District of the Hungarian Lutheran Church, is now engaged in translating Scandinavian literature into Hungarian.

Communist newspapers in East Germany have begun to omit all Christian symbols and references to religion in funeral advertisements and notices. For instance, many papers no longer print the name of the officiating pastor. Or if the relatives insist that the clergyman's name be mentioned, the papers refer to him as "Mr." X. This policy is obviously intended to keep readers in the dark as to whether or not a church funeral has taken place.

Chapel attendance of Air Force personnel and members of their families totaled more than 11,000,000 during the fiscal year that ended June 30, 1958. Sunday School and religious education classes attracted a total attendance of 4,634,000, an increase of more than 200,000 over the previous fiscal year. The Air Force presently has 863,000 men on duty.

A new Lutheran church, described as the "most original" in Norway, was consecrated in a new Oslo housing development. Built over a block of stores, the church has a soft drink bar under the organ loft, a large safe under the concrete altar, and an aquarium built into the walls of the porch. Folding doors permit use of the church as an assembly hall on weekdays.

Basketball and the GAME OF LIFE

By Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

EARLY THIS WINTER I sat in the end arena at Madison Square Garden and watched an outstanding basketball game between the New York Knickerbockers and the Detroit Pistons. Next to me in the same row sat six other men watching intently as the lead seesawed back and forth until the Detroit team finally forged ahead to win.

Unknown, naturally, to the other 15,000 people gathered, this group of seven men were experiencing something very significant in their lives. As young boys in grade school, they had played basketball together. They had started a career of their own as they played on sandlots, in church parish halls, community houses, and in school gyms throughout an area in New Jersey called the Oranges, suburban communities near the metropolis of Newark.

This was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of their team, the "Vikings," which had played together for eight years, consecutively winning tournaments, trophies, and at one time having a winning streak of as many as forty-two in a row, extending over a period of one and a half seasons.

All except one had seen service in World War II. They had been scattered throughout the world as they had served their country. Two are still active in the Reserve program; one had been recalled during the Korean conflict. One of the members of the team was now home on furlough from his second tour of duty as a missionary in Africa. As we watched the game, we realized that there had been some changes. The ball players today are a lot taller and the game is faster, having eliminated the center jump after each basket, but by and large the basic fundamentals are the same. Screen plays, pick-offs, and working around the pivot were basically the same.

You know, the Christian life is a lot like a basketball game or a basketball career. There are the disappointments and sorrows, but also unexpected pleasant surprises and joys. There are the victories and, yes, at times, the defeats. There is the catching of your second wind; there is a giving of all that you've got, one with extra punch if necessary. I think that if the Apostle Paul had been alive today he would have been a basketball enthusiast too. He was well acquainted with the athletics of his day and even devoted certain sections of his writings to the use of the athletic games as a point of illustrating the Christian life.

In I Corinthians 9:24-27 he writes, "Do you not know that in a race all the runners compete, but only one receives the prize? So run that you may obtain it. Every athlete exercises self-control in all things. They do it to receive a perishable wreath, but we an imperishable. Well, I do not run aimlessly, I do not box as one beating the air; but I pommel my body and subdue it, lest after preaching to others I myself should be disqualified."

Writing to his spiritual son, Timothy, he said, "For I am already on the point of being sacrificed; the time of my departure has come. I have fought the good fight, I have finished the race, I have kept the faith. Henceforth there is laid up for me the crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, will award to me on that Day, and not only to me but also to all who have loved his appearing (II Tim. 4:6-8). Paul was very aware of the importance of being spiritually fit, of disciplining himself and exercising self-control. He believed in a sound mind and a sound spirit within a sound body. God has given you and me a task to perform too, a spiritual task, namely, that of living out our lives for Christ, running in the Christian race of life.

One of the reasons we "spiritual athletes" sometimes miss the basket, so to speak, is that we simply fail to rely on Christ who is the source of our life, who is our strength, our power, our wisdom, our guide. Paul calls Christ the power and wisdom of God (I Cor. 1:24).

GOD-HOME-COUNTRY RECORD-SETTERS

By Carl Manfred

WHEN SIX MEMBERS of Bethany Lutheran Church (Augustana) at Perkins, Mich., received the God-Home-Country Award during a Sunday service earlier this year, it marked the first time in the history of the award that as many as six recipients were honored at one service.

But that's only half the story. The confirmed membership of Bethany totals exactly 32. The six award winners represented almost one-fifth of the entire membership of the congregation!

The six girls: Janice Anderson, Beverly Soderstrom, Sandra Soderstrom, Dolores Simonsen, Judy Aasen, and Barbara Bannister are members of the "Perky Perkettes"—the Perkins 4-H Club. At the time of the awards, they had completed a total of 87 projects in clothing construction, knitting, canning and freezing of foods, vegetable and flower gardening, food preparation, wild flowers and personal accounts.

All six have been confirmed by Pastor Clifford C. Peterson, who since his ordination has served the Bethany congregation and the nearby First Lutheran of Gladstone. Each of the girls has been active in church and Luther League, and several have taught Sunday school. All are members of the League choir.

To qualify for the award, the girls in addition to their regular 4-H and church activity made a special study of the church, its organization, symbols, liturgy, and worship appointments. They also committed to memory many of the psalms and parables dealing with rural life, and shared what they had learned with other youth at League meetings and before other church groups. Each girl prepared a 500-word theme on a topic relating the church to 4-H activity and rural living.

The 4-H God-Home-Country award was established in 1951, for Lutheran 4-H'ers who are outstanding in both 4-H and their church. It's a companion to the Pro Deo et Patria award, which is given by the National Lutheran Committee on Scouting to Lutheran Boy Scouts who are especially active in their congregations.

According to the God-Home-Country committee, "This program is made available as a plan by which the Lutheran churches in a community may provide for their youth who are 4-H members a special religious training activity under the guidance of the pastor and a parish committee."

Sharing Your Experience

HOME IN SWEDEN

By Frans Nelson, A/2c

I TOOK ADVANTAGE of the opportunity to travel that our Air Force recruiters tell us about. I "hopped" from my permanent station in Texas to Orly Airport in Paris. I stayed only a little over a week in France and then proceeded to Scandinavia.

It is fifty years now since the day my father left Sweden for Canada. Fifty years is a long time and there have been many changes. My Uncle William was born after Father left home. Though the old farm is vacant now and the house no longer stands, my aunts, uncles and I visited the site and posed for a picture on the flat rock that was the doorstep.

I will never forget the day we drove through Osby on our way to the University in Lund. The highway passes the front of old Osby Church and the adjacent lawns. It was about nine o'clock and the sun cast long shadows across the cool, green grass. A tall man in black cassock, with his hands clasped behind him, strode up and down the gravelled paths. We stopped the car and descended into the garden. My uncle introduced me to Father Gunnar Rosendal, a priest in the Lutheran Church of Sweden.

I have seldom been so impressed by a man of faith. I knew he was a sincere and troubled man —a man devoted to the establishment of greater order in the whole of Christendom. He told me in perfect English, "The worthwhile is never accomplished easily." As we parted he blessed us with the sign of the holy cross.

Early on Sunday morning the whole clan gathered in the churchyard. In Sweden the cemetery surrounds the church. It is difficult to express my emotions as I laid a wreath on the grave of my grandparents.

I prayed in the pew my grandmother had knelt in. "It's strange, that about thirty years ago the Church became prohibitive toward the ancient Christian practices," my aunt commented. "Still your grandmother continued the custom of kneeling when she entered the house of God. And now the young people are learning that old practice again."

"You've come home," they told me. Yes, I thank God, for it was good to be home in Sweden.

Pfc. Don Gustafson will be recipient of the January $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Stories of religious significance will be favored, but any well-written report not exceeding 300 words may make the grade.

Try to sit down and write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

MOUNTAIN OF THE TEN COMMANDMENTS. Mount Moses shown here is commonly accepted as Mount Sinai. It was there, more than 3,000 years ago, that Moses—escaping Pharaoh's persecution—received the Ten Commandments. In the foreground is the celebrated Greek Orthodox Monastery of St. Catherine which is regarded as the oldest religious sanctuary in the world. Long before Moses, its site was a sacred center to the desert tribes who made pilgrimages to Mount Sinai. RNS Photo

GAME OF LIFE

In I Cor. 1:30 he states, "He is the source of your life in Christ Jesus, whom God made our wisdom, our righteousness and sanctification and redemption."

Are you making use of this power? Were you in church last Sunday, or did you sack in? Have you read your Testament recently? How goes it with your devotional life? How long is it since you spent time alone with Him in prayer? God longs to give you power in this game of life if you'll only let Him.

GIRL OF THE MONTH

MARJORIE ANN MILLER, our Lutheran Girl of the Month for January, has been active in Luther League work at St. Peters' Lutheran Church in Philadelphia for a number of years and has served as secretary of the Senior League.

She sings in the senior choir and plays piano and organ for the cherub choir, which consists of tots aged five to six. Marjorie also teaches Sunday School to the nursery class.

A graduate of Germantown High School, Marjorie works as a secretary in Philadelphia. She likes ice and roller skating and is fond of music and reading.

Pfc. Paul Miller, Jr. nominated her because he feels Marjorie is "a girl I'm proud to call 'my sister'."

A LUTHERAN RADIO STATION FOR AFRICA

THE LUTHERAN WORLD FEDERATION has started a drive to obtain pledges of financial support from Lutheran Churches, mission boards and societies in different countries for the erection of a short-wave radio station in Africa for "the spreading of the Gospel."

The project was formally approved by the LWF Executive Committee at its recent annual meeting in Strasbourg, France.

It involves not only a capital of $400,000, but an annual budget of $70,000. Lutheran mission societies in six countries have already announced that they will contribute to the cost of building and operating the radio station.

The LWF installation will be the second Protestant radio station in Africa with a full Christian program geared to that continent. The other is the ELWA station near Monrovia, Liberia, which opened in 1954 and is operated by the West African Broadcasting Corporation.

Location of the LWF station will depend on where a franchise can be negotiated with a government. It is hoped to find a site that will give the widest possible coverage not only of the African continent, but also of the Near East and Asia.

RED PRESSURE ON GERMAN STUDENTS

STUDENTS IN EAST GERMAN SCHOOLS are being told they must sign statements pledging active support of the Communist government at all times, or lose their chance of entering a university later on, the East German Radio reported.

Each student must promise to "fight religious obscurantism and superstition," and pledge to "further the building of Communism" after they have completed their studies.

In the universities all professors are now required publicly to pledge allegiance to the principles of dialectic materialism.

The result has been that professors, as well as students, are fleeing in increased numbers.

During the first ten months of last year, a total of 2,393 East German school teachers and professors left everything that they own behind to seek freedom in West Berlin.

Almost invariably they said that their chief reason for flight was the increasing Communist insistence that teachers must participate in the spreading of atheism.

"FOR TO THE SNOW he says, 'Fall on the earth!' " (Job 37:10RSV).

Second Glance

Proposals in the United Nations to declare a World Refugee Year were endorsed by the Lutheran World Federation's Executive Committee. In a resolution, the committee expressed its "deep interest" in the plans and pledged its support and continued cooperation "in a joint international effort to relieve the plight of homeless people throughout the world."

The top organization of all young people's groups in West Germany unanimously decided to reject bids to participate in the Communist-sponsored World Youth Festival to be held in Vienna, Austria, next year. The decision was made by representatives of the German Youth League, which includes Protestant and Catholic groups among its member bodies.

Audiences totaling 45,900 persons saw 11 performances of a historical play-pageant given in eight cities in connection with the centenary of Lutheranism in Minnesota. Entitled "Of Grace and Growth," the dramatization had a cast of more than 100, including a 60-voice choir. A series of flashbacks covered Lutheranism's role in education, evangelism, missions, music, social action and medicine.

Doctrines of the Lutheran Church are depicted in a series of 14 advertisements made available to Lutheran churches for placement in newspapers. Produced by the United Lutheran Church in America for its 4,500 congregations in the U. S. and Canada, the advertisements will be offered to the seven other Lutheran denominations affiliated with the National Lutheran Council.

Using fragments of 3,200 eggshells, an Atlanta artist produced a 27-foot Biblical mosaic for the wall of a bank. He thus illustrated the theme, "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap."

Radio Prague replied with an emphatic "no" to listeners who, it said, had written in urging that Christian moral principles be retained in Communist Czechoslovakia because of their "good influence." "These principles, while reasonably good when Christianity was young," the station said, "have deteriorated into a reactionary system exploited by the capitalists. For that reason, they cannot be allowed and must be replaced by Communist principles of morality, which are the best in the world."

A record total enrollment of 9,129 students at the 12 educational institutions operated by the Evangelical Lutheran Church represents a 4.6 per cent increase over the 1957 total. Luther Theological Seminary, St. Paul, increased its enrollment 18.7 per cent to a total of 569 young men preparing for the ministry. This makes it one of the nation's largest Protestant ministerial-training institutions.

CREW MEMBERS OF THE ATOMIC SUBMARINE Nautilus, submerged deep under the Arctic ice, bow their heads in prayer led by Chaplain (Lt.) Elwin N. Sire of Groton, Conn.

THE LORD'S PRAYER was recited in sign language by the White Buffalo Council of American Indians before some 2,500 delegates at the 8th National Assembly of United Church Women in Denver, Colo. In this photo members of the council enact the phrase: "Our Father, Who art in Heaven."

MORE THAN 250,000 CARDS bearing Protestant, Catholic and Jewish mealtime prayers, appeared on restaurant tables across the U. S. last November as part of the 10th annual Religion in American Life campaign to increase regular attendance and support for all churches and synagogues. Examining one of the cards here are Mrs. Mary Reed and Miss Claire Franklin of the American Bible Society, and Matthew A. Griffith, of the Methodist Committee for Overseas Relief.

Is it really important

TO RECEIVE HOLY COMMUNION?

By Chaplain (1st Lt.) Sheldon E. Hermanson

"SAY CHAPLAIN, is it really important for me to come to Communion? And why are we Lutherans going to have a separate Communion service from the other Protestants? I always attended the general Protestant Communion before and it was nice to be with my buddies. Is there a difference?"

This is only a sample of what is asked by many Lutheran servicemen. Yet, it makes every Lutheran chaplain quiver to realize how much of the love of God is missed because His Word was not stressed on such important areas as the Sacrament of Baptism and Communion. Somewhere, either by parents or teacher or pastor, too many people have been fed the 'milk foods' and have never been introduced to the 'solids' of God's Word, and for others, what was rightly taught was grossly misunderstood or has been forgotten.

When we begin to feast upon the Word of God, our nourishment is complete. The Word tells us that "all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God" (Rom. 3:23). Because we are born into the world "... short of the glory of God," God offers to us the visible means of Baptism to give to us the invisible means of His forgiveness. Thus, "... we too might walk in newness of life" (Rom. 6:3, 4). Our life, which was unclean and would keep us from fellowship with God, is cleansed and accepted by Him as we are baptized unto the remission of our sins.

However, with the Satanic influence present in every area of the world and buddies who could "care less" for the will of God, we find it too easy to step out of this "new walk." We stray from our baptismal convenant and our confirmation promises. We disgrace ourselves before Jesus who, "... while we were yet sinners, ... died for us" (Rom. 5:8).

In His mercy He has given to us, who truly repent and are sorry for our sins, the gracious forgiveness of all of our sins as we commune together at His table. For when we, under the promise of God, commune at His table and receive the bread and the wine, we are receiving His Body and His Blood for the remission of our sins.

St. Paul writes, "The cup of blessing which we bless, is it not a participation in the blood of Christ? The bread which we break, is it not a participation in the body of Christ?" (I Cor. 10:16).

St. Matthew records: "Now as they were eating, Jesus took bread, and blessed and broke it, and gave it to the disciples and said, 'take, eat; this is My Body.' And He took a cup, and when He had given thanks He gave it to them, saying, 'Drink of it, all of you; for this is My Blood of the new covenant, which is poured out for many for the forgiveness of sins' " (Mt. 26:26-29).

As we come to realize how important Holy Communion was to Jesus, and to Paul and the early Christian Church, the importance of our willing and regular participation is accented: To meet Jesus in this special and intimate way; to be renewed and cleansed of my sins; to be in fellowship with those who believe as I do and and as God's Word teaches.

"Say chaplain ... Is there a difference?"

Yes, we Lutherans believe, as did St. Paul, that Christ is present "in, with and under the bread and the wine"—"This is My Body ... This is My Blood." As we present ourselves to Him at His table He, in this special way, makes "full satisfaction for all of our sins" before Almighty God. He does not leave it up to us to satisfy God, for then our sinfulness would never permit a Communion, but He is our "full satisfaction" before His Father. God accepts us and our plea for forgiveness because He accepts His Son as the last sacrifice for sinners.

Thus, Holy Communion is not just a symbolic remembrance of the Last Supper and the death of our Lord, as is celebrated in general Protestant Communion, but It presents us anew in the presence of the Living and Forgiving Lord Jesus Christ.

ORDASS SUCCESSOR CONSECRATED IN HUNGARY

SENIOR PASTOR ZOLTAN KALDY of Pecs was solemnly consecrated as Bishop of the Southern District of the Hungarian Lutheran Church at imposing rites in Budapest.

A 39-year-old bachelor, Bishop Kaldy was elected to the office last October with the approval of the Communist government to succeed Dr. Lajos Ordass, who was "requested" last June to relinquish his post.

Dr. Ordass is now living in retirement in Budapest on what has been described as "a very small pension."

DR. FREDRIK A. SCHIOTZ, president of The Evangelical Lutheran Church, received the Royal Order of St. Olaf from King Olaf of Norway. A citation given with the decoration recognizes Dr. Schiotz' "work for Norwegian Church interests in the U. S. A.," and also acknowledges the close working relationship between the Church of Norway as the "mother" of its "daughter" Church, the ELC.

Sharing Your Experience

SERVICE WITHIN THE SERVICE

By Pfc. Don Gustafson

NOT LONG AGO our battery was marched off to the theater to hear a "re-up" presentation. We were all "U. S." personnel, prejudiced against anything the re-enlistment NCO had to say. He rambled on about security, privileges, and adventure. As a clincher, he suggested, "And if you are religious, there is no place like the Army for practicing your faith." Such a ridiculous statement hardly deserved even a derisive laugh.

Later, the comment slipped into my thinking. Considering my own Army experiences, I wondered if perhaps the sergeant had not spoken more of the truth than even he realized.

Not even a university has the cross-section mixture of a barracks. Old and new temptations, influences, and perspectives hit one from every angle and force the concerned Christian to rethink and re-evaluate his own faith. For the first time I've had intelligent, dedicated Jews and Roman Catholics as intimate buddies. Amazingly, instead of undermining beliefs, through our respect for each other's convictions, we have come to understand and value more deeply our own religious faith.

I remember the night one of my Catholic friends went with me to see the movie "Martin Luther." His one remark afterwards was, "It's an excellent film. I can appreciate my own faith more having seen it."

There is another give and take which results from living so close to so many different people. The other day I walked into the barracks whistling "On Top of Old Smokey." Minutes later strains of the same melody echoed from corners of the room.

It was an unconscious influence—and copying. But if it happens with something as inconsequential as a tune, will there not be influence and copying on important things as well—from attitudes toward others to the adjectives one uses? Even a small light may reflect back.

Our re-enlistment sergeant probably stretched the truth in many ways, but he was right here. The opportunities for growth in faith and the chances for Christian service within the Service are limitless!

Pfc. Don Gustafson will be recipient of the January $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Stories of religious significance will be favored, but any well-written report not exceeding 300 words may make the grade.

Try to sit down and write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

'UNIVERSITY OF ATHEISM'

A "UNIVERSITY OF ATHEISM" has been opened in the Soviet Union.

It is located in Ashkhabad which is in a predominantly Moslem part of the country.

Courses will consist of 60 lectures, including one on "Marxism and Leninism on Religion and Ways of Overcoming It."

DO YOU KNOW frontiers MAGAZINE?

TEACHERS HAVE LONG BEEN TELLING US that we never cease being students. Even though our daily lives might not be made up of five class hours and ten study hours, the party in the fraternity house after the Friday night game and the Lutheran student group meeting on Sunday evening, we still retain an urge to study and an interest in what the "campus world" is doing.

For this reason, frontiers magazine, published monthly, October through May, by the Lutheran Student Association of America, is approaching the men in the service of our country with the idea of subscribing this year.

Many men are familiar with both frontiers and the LSAA; many will become familiar with it when they enter college in the years to come. The LSAA wants everyone with student interests, Lutheran or not, Christian or not, to consider the issues that concern the modern collegian.

These issues involve our studies, our worship, our recreation and our community—every young adult is urged to keep up with these issues through a publication such as frontiers.

Formerly titled, Campus Lutheran, the LSAA journal publishes articles by leading American theologians, experienced counsellors and pastors, and creative student writers. frontiers art has long been the subject of a great deal of collegiate and professional attention; its innovations into modern art have been taken up by several publications in the student world. But whatever our articles or our art, frontiers is primarily concerned with conveying the word of God and being a witness to the student world wherever it is found—on the base or on the campus.

Beginning on January 1, 1959, the price for an annual subscription will be $1.50, whereas it has been one dollar for many years. Any organized Lutheran congregation or student Christian group may subscribe in bulk orders of fifteen or more for one dollar each. Subscription orders should be sent to: frontiers, 327 South LaSalle Street, Chicago 4, Illinois.

THE Christmas STORY

AND IT CAME TO PASS in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed.

And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.

And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city.

And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judaea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem, because he was of the house and lineage of David,

To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child.

And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.

And she brought forth her first-born son, and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them, Fear not, for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, which is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying;

Glory to God in the highest, and peace on earth to men of good will.

EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN

THE WONDER OF CHRISTMAS

By Chaplain I. Torkelson

THE SHEPHERDS on the lonely fields at night long ago were the first to wonder about the great Message told by a multitude of angels. "Fear not, for unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour which is Christ Jesus."

This was the first wonderful Christmas, and to us today it is still the most wonderful day of the year. God and the angels are declaring again the wonderful tidings the great writer once said: "He who wonders shall reign, and he who reigns shall rest."

Have you ever halted on your hurrying way through life to analyze the charm of childhood? More than half the happy secret is that children still wonder. Children themselves are wonders and are set in a wonderful world.

To be childlike is to have the spirit of a child, to know the touch of the Eternal. It is, according to George Morrison, to live freshly in a glad fresh world with thousands of avenues into everywhere out of this dull spot that we call now. It was Jesus who taught us to wonder in our life. For life without wonder, which is our lot when we let the child-spirit die in us, is hardly worth living.

Our world today is buried under the rubbish of commercialism, yet there is for all of us, if we will it, an authentic spirit which can lift us at this holy season out of the strife of a money-grabbing, war-weary, sin-sick world into a real wonder of Christmas. A babe in a manger is God Almighty. The "Wonderful One." Jesus who delivers all mankind from sin. He ushers in the glories of a new order for all people.

So God became man in order to make man free and happy even in this world. Yet even in this last hour of our world millions do not wonder, do not look at Christmas as wonderful and as a holy season. These millions are as an immense human avalanche moving steadily, inexorably, irresistibly down the road to ruin. Yet the door is still wide open. The message is still, "Unto you this day is born in the city of David a Saviour."

DRESSED IN SCANDINAVIAN COSTUMES, young people of Bethel Lutheran Church in Youngstown, Ohio, prepare for the annual Christmas season festival in honor of St. Lucia, an early Christian martyr. Scandinavians commemorate the saint by lighting special candles and by the oldest daughter of the household serving coffee and rolls. Youngstown churches of Scandinavian background participate in the festival every year.

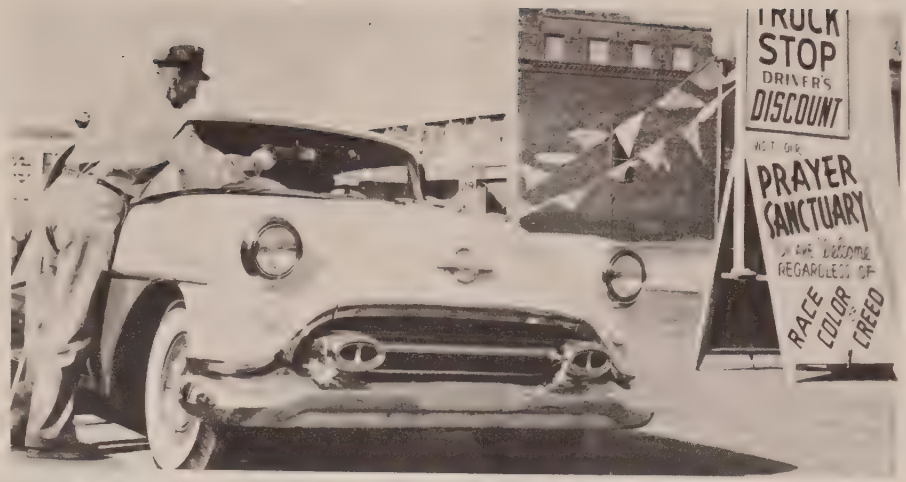
Second Glance

A milestone on the way to the merger of four Lutheran church bodies was passed when the 21st biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church in America overwhelmingly approved provisional plans for union with the Augustana, the American Evangelical Lutheran Church and the Suomi Synod. The three other bodies had done so at earlier conventions. If the Joint Commission on Lutheran Unity can complete final merger documents for approval by the 1960 conventions, a new Lutheran Church of over 3,000,000 members may be born in 1961.

Final approval to another merger was given when the 15th biennial convention of the American Lutheran Church voted for merger with the Evangelical Lutheran Church and the United Evangelical Lutheran Church. The constituting convention of this two-million-member group will be held in 1960.

A survey conducted by Pulpit Digest, a non-denominational journal for the ministry, indicates that the majority of Protestant ministers in the 17 Southern states favor compliance with the Supreme Court's order for racial integration in public schools. Of the 765 ministers who answered the Digest's questionnaire, four out of five expressed sentiment for integration.



A new affirmative statement on racial desegregation was adopted by the convention of the United Lutheran Church in America. On the final vote only one dissenting voice was heard from the rows of 700 delegates.

A pressing need for more pastors and lay workers was emphasized by the American Lutheran Church. It called upon pastors, church councils, and leaders in youth work "to present to promising boys and young men the challenge of the ministry."

New billboard posters prominently displayed in East Germany call Lutheran Bishop Otto Dibelius, head of the Evangelical Church in Berlin-Brandenburg, a "stinker." This is the latest personal attack on the churchman whom East German Communists label "the NATO bishop."

The recent convention of the United Lutheran Church in America gave green light to the developing of Faith and Life Institutes designed to help lay people relate their Christian faith to practical everyday issues. The institutes, which will be organized in various parts of the United States and Canada, will be similar to the "Evangelical Academies" successfully developed in Germany.

"An Army chaplain should be a man with a mission," Brigadier General Frank A. Tobey, the newly-appointed Chief of Army Chaplains, told a group of Lutheran leaders in Washington, D. C. He encouraged the church officials, who are members of Armed Forces supervisory committees representing over seven-million Lutherans in the United States, to select only the "best of your young preachers for the chaplaincy."

PASSING MOTORISTS welcome the chance to rest and pray in the sanctuary at Erwin Tucker's gas station in Wynnewood, Oklahoma. The chapel is a boon to truck drivers especially, who rarely have time to attend regular services. And, according to local police, it helps prevent accidents by easing the strain of weary motorists. Mr. Tucker, shown cleaning a customer's windshield, refuses to accept donations for the chapel. Instead, he insists that funds be contributed to some church or worthy charity.

NATIVITY SCENES were depicted on regular postage stamps released in Australia seven weeks before Christmas in order to stress the season's spiritual significance.

JUDY FORD (right), the first girl ever to be elected president of the 60,000-member Luther League of America, brightened her report to the 21st biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church in America with a demonstration of the hula hoop.

The pert 22-year-old schoolteacher from Hickory, N. C., told the 700 ULCA delegates that the hula hoop signifies one new trend in America. Another trend, she said, is a growing tendency to entrust young people with more important posts in church life.

As a delegate, Miss Ford also spoke on the matter of integration, stressing that if "understanding, respect and love between the races can be created, integration will follow as a natural by-product."

She herself teaches Bible courses to 210 Negro and white students in three segregated high schools at Concord, N. C., but emphasized that she is "looking forward to the time when schools and churches in my state will be integrated."

Where are you
CELEBRATING CHRISTMAS?

By Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

AS YOU READ this article you will be miles from home. Perhaps this will be your first Christmas away from loved ones. I've been there too. It's no fun. "Christmas this year just won't be the same," you've been saying.

What was your Christmas like at home? For me as a boy it meant taking the red wagon down to the corner lot and picking out a Christmas tree that just "must not cost more than 75 cents." Arriving home, I would go up to the attic and pull out the Christmas tree stand and all the decorations that had been packed away in a big cardboard box. What fun it was to decorate that tree!

Then our attention was turned to the presents that had to be wrapped. "Where is the ribbon?"

"I'm all out of wrapping paper!"

Other cries for help came from us youngsters to Mom who was busy as a beaver, making last minute preparations and successfully keeping the secret of Mom and Dad's presents to us hidden away in their bedroom closet.

Then at 6 o'clock that evening Dad would say, "All the lights in every room from attic to cellar must be on." This had been his boyhood custom in Lyngdal, Norway, from whence he had emigrated as a seventeen-year-old boy to America at the turn of the century.

Sitting on pins and needles, Brother and I could hardly wait to open our presents—but first the Christmas Gospel from Luke, the second chapter, was to be read and then a prayer of thanksgiving to God. We would thank the Lord that He had given us another Christmas together . . . that He had provided us with good health and many friends . . . with these presents which we were to give each other on the birthday of our King . . . but even more important, thanks to Him for the gift of salvation through Jesus Christ—the greatest Christmas present of all.

You way out there—aboard ship sailing toward some distant port, or camping on barren ground, standing guard to preserve our freedom under God, I suppose are thinking these days, and especially on Christmas night, of your past Christmases at home. Go ahead and think about them. It will do you good—'twill bring back many happy, nostalgic memories, I am sure. But remember although that place where you will celebrate Christmas this year may be different, the message of Christmas is still the same.

The place where we remember the birthday of our King may change, but the good news comes to you now, just as it did to the shepherds who were out in the fields keeping watch over their flock by night. "I bring you good news of great joy which will come to all the people; for to you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord" (Luke 2:10, 11).

How fortunate we are to hear of Him. Almost one-third of the world has never heard.

How fortunate we are to believe in Him. Almost two-thirds of the world has not received Him.

"But to all who receive Him, who believe in His name, He gave power to become children of God" (John 1:12).

This good news is the story of God's eternal love. "For God so loved the world. . . ." That's why we have a Christmas. That's why Jesus our Saviour was born.

He came to be God and man in one person—to be tempted just as you are tempted, yet without yielding, to experience joys and sorrows, happiness and disappointment, smooth sailing and rough going, pleasure and pain, and finally even suffering and death. "For God so loved the world that He gave His only Son, that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have eternal life" (John 3:16).

On this Christmas night can it be said of you and me, as it was said of the shepherds, "And they returned, glorifying and praising God, for all they had heard and seen, as it had been told them" (Luke 2:20)?

Won't you this Christmas open your heart anew to the Saviour, that He might be Lord of your life in the new year to come, 1959?

Celebrate Christmas this year in your heart no matter where you may be throughout the world. Why not make this beautiful verse by Phillips Brooks your prayer:

"O holy Child of Bethlehem,
Descend to us, we pray;
Cast out our sin, and enter in,
Be born in us today.
We hear the Christmas angels
The great glad tidings tell;
O come to us, abide with us,
Our Lord Immanuel."

A blessed Christmas to you, wherever you may be.

GIRL OF THE MONTH

FLOICE ELLIS, our Lutheran Girl of the Month for December, is a life-long member of our St. George Evangelical Lutheran Church in Brighton, Michigan. She has a long-standing record of leadership and service both in the church and in the community.

At church, she has served as Luther League officer, as teacher and officer in Sunday School, and as a member of the senior choir.

Floice was the recipient of the Daughters' of the American Revolution "Good Citizenship Award" for 1958, in recognition of her leadership in extra-curricular activities in high school.

She graduated from high school last spring as salutatorian of her class, and was awarded the University of Michigan Regent's Scholarship. She is at present enrolled in the university, preparing for a career in nursing.

"Floice without question takes her religion very seriously and provides a splendid example for all with whom she associates," according to her pastor, the Rev. Robert F. Spieler.

Sharing Your Experience

WHAT A FELLOWSHIP!

By Corporal Lionel Reginald Ball, Royal Air Force

ON A COLD EVENING I took off from London Airport, bound for Christmas Island where the RAF had drafted me for overseas duty.

My stay on Christmas Island was a short one for within a week I was moved to Hickam USAF Base.

What does a Christian look for in fresh fields? Surely the answer is so simple, to find another link in the world-wide chain of Christian Fellowship. "Seek and ye shall find," we read in God's word. Needless to say, I found Fellowship with a capital "F."

The day following my arrival I happened to be dining at the same table as an American Airman, who I learned was a fine Christian. We soon became firm friends and spent many fine times in Fellowship.

He, in turn, introduced me to the Lutheran chaplain of one of the chapels and I experienced that warmth of Fellowship which only Christians can receive.

On being asked if I would care to help with the Sunday School, I inquired as to the subject set for that particular day. The answer thrilled me to the core. "Tell those poor kids about Jesus."

Whilst I was taking a class one morning, I asked one little girl of 7 why she liked coming to Sunday School. She replied, "Because I hear about Jesus." What lessons can be learned from these young ones!

Jesus, I could see, was the center of this Sunday School and Fellowship. Here was a corner of God's vineyard wherein Jesus dwelled. "A Mighty Fortress," indeed!

Since my arrival it has been my pleasure to work with some of the finest Christians one could ever wish to meet, all seeking to further God's Kingdom by telling others about JESUS.

CORPORAL BALL (right) with Chaplain (Capt.) D. J. Kalal, at Hickam Air Force Base, T. H.

"Corporal Ball" said the chaplain, "is one of the finest Christians I have ever met. A regular Bible reader and consequently an excellent teacher and witness for our Lord."

"He is a truly fine organist and student of church music, having served as the organist of his village church since the age of 14.

"A Welshman, he possesses one of the most beautiful tenor voices we have ever heard. With the warmth of a Christian character and personality and with his love and God-given talents he has been a great blessing.

"At the completion of his eight years service as a signalman in the Royal Air Force he intends to go into full time Christian service as a missionary."

Corporal Ball will be the recipient of the December $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Stories of religious significance will be favored, but any well-written report not exceeding 300 words may make the grade.

LUTHERAN HOUR EXPANDS IN 25th SEASON

FIVE NEW LANGUAGES and 11 new lands have been added to the schedule of the Lutheran Hour gospel broadcast during its 25th year which has just ended.

This brings to 59 the number of languages used on the program and to 68 the number of countries from which stations beam the global broadcast, sponsored by the Lutheran Laymen's League of the Missouri Synod. The new languages are: Arusha-Masai, Chagga, Efik, Ibo, and Swahili.

A total of 1,314 Lutheran Hour broadcasts are now made regularly from 1,044 stations around the world at a cost of $1,545,000 annually.

IT WASN'T IN WORMS!!

REDFACED, we must admit that a boner slipped into our October "Sharing Your Experience" column. Of course SP3 Ralph A. Powers couldn't have seen the door on which Martin Luther nailed his 95 theses in Worms since the hammering took place in Wittenberg, now in the East Zone of Germany. And there were just 95 (not 99) theses.

The flood of angry letters received by your editor was well deserved. But it was a consolation to see how many of you do read your MIGHTY FORTRESS carefully.

GIRL OF THE MONTH

DIANE LUNDELL, our Lutheran Girl of the Month for November, is a member of Bethlehem Lutheran Church, East Hampton, Conn.

She belongs to a very active and gifted Lutheran family. Her father is choir director, also soloist, and so is brother Charles. Diane herself is a member of the choir, a Sunday School teacher and Sunday School pianist, as well as assistant church organist. Also, she is secretary of her church's Luther League.

Diane graduated last June at East Hampton High School and entered Hartford Hospital School of Nursing this fall.

She has two brothers in the service: Richard, in the Army, stationed in Korea, and Howard, in the Navy, stationed in Jacksonville, Florida.

She was nominated for a Lutheran Girl of the Month by her pastor, the Rev. John E. Nelson.

GIVE THANKS BY SHARING USED CLOTHING WITH NEEDY

ONCE AGAIN, Lutheran World Relief, the material aid arm of the National Lutheran Council, is calling on Christians to give thanks by sharing their used clothing with the world's needy.

The week of November 23-30 will be ingathering week for the 1958 Lutheran World Relief Thanksgiving Clothing Appeal.

Through Lutheran World Relief and Lutheran World Action, Lutherans of America are making possible a Christian testimony of love in a number of tension areas of the world.

Currently, help is being distributed in Taiwan and Quemoy, as well as to the neediest among the 700,000 Chinese refugees in Hong Kong.

Clothing gifts will also help Arab refugees in the Holy Land and the churches in Germany in their ministry to the people coming from behind the Iron Curtain.

THE VOCABULARY OF GRATITUDE

By Chaplain I. Torkelson

THE FLEETING YEARS seem to obscure the sadness of the past. This fact explains our tendency to look back longingly to "the good old days" which in reality were no better than the days in which we live. It is true that every age endures its share of sin and sorrow. Neither will time erase the fact of sorrow and sin, even though it grows dim in human recollection. God will not permit us to forget the sins which separated us from Him.

So upon the pages of the Bible is written in blazing words the evils of a people who willfully rejected their God. Especially Jeremiah's writings bring us very close to the circumstances which saddened the heart of the Heavenly Father.

The sin was ingratitude. "My people have forgotten me days without number" Jeremiah 2:32. The greatest sin of Israel was ingratitude to the One who loved them most.

But we must not think that the basis of ingratitude was a sin common only to the ancient Hebrews. The stark truth is that the sin of ingratitude toward God is one of the most common sins of today in spite of all the blessings He has bestowed upon us.

Our nation has enjoyed such abundance of wealth that it has lost its sense of values. Self complacency of our people has destroyed the feeling of dependence upon God and has changed the vocabulary of gratitude into words of self praise.

Even our motives for worship are all too frequently selfish. Why do we go to church? Some say, "I go in order to get a lift."

Now, to be sure, one should receive a lift or a blessing. Yet this must not be the primary motive for worship.

Worship is a vocabulary of gratitude. We go to church because we are grateful to Him. To worship merely that He may do something more for us is to desecrate the holy privilege.

Even Thanksgiving which we are soon to celebrate is in danger of being a mockery, or a day of ingratitude to the One who gave us everything we have and hold dear.

May God forbid that He should be forced to say of us today, "My people have forgotten me days without number."

The vocabulary of gratitude which is pleasing unto God is more than words; it is a life of surrender to His will. The very most that any one of us can do is so little in comparison with what God in Christ has done for us.

From The Guiding Light

THIS HUGE STATUE of the Last Supper, weighing 25 tons, was installed in Memorial Park in Milwaukee, Wisc. It rests on a 5,000-pound pedestal of Swedish granite. The work of art was sculptured out of one solid piece of Italian marble by artist Bernhard Zuckerman. Each completely-rounded figure measures 6½ feet high in sitting position.

Second Glance

As Red China stepped up its attacks on Quemoy, Lutheran service and relief agencies around the globe acted to help the people living on Nationalist islands off the Chinese coast. The Lutheran World Federation's Commission on World Service voted to channel support from LWF member churches for development of badly needed Lutheran medical services in Formosa and the Pescadores. Lutheran World Relief, cooperative material aid agency of American churches, decided to increase food and clothing shipments to Quemoy.

The Air Force Commendation Medal was awarded to Lutheran Chaplain (1st Lt.) John O. Ballantine for meritorious action last March when he helped to save the life of a civilian trapped under the flaming wreckage caused by a gas explosion in a bowling alley at Warren Air Force Base, Wyoming.

Eskimo members of Lutheran mission congregations on Seward Peninsula, Alaska, heard about Lutheran efforts to help Chinese refugees in Hong Kong and made a contribution of their own — they sent a parcel of fish which they had caught and dried during last summer to the material aid agency of the Lutheran World Federation.

A record 1,025 congregations will take part this November in the "Every Member Visit" program developed by the Evangelical Lutheran Church. More than 125,000 laymen in teams of two are expected to serve as visitors calling on fellow members in order to receive pledges of time, talent and financial support for the coming year.

All members of the International Luther League, youth organization of the American Lutheran Church, were urged this fall to join a campaign against indecent literature and to discourage the distribution of such literature in their communities.

Rep. John P. Saylor (R.-Pa.) told 200 delegates to the ninth annual conference of the United Student Fellowship that more young people were needed to represent the United States in other countries. "It's tough to go overseas for anyone, but we need representatives there who can show people how to walk before they run," he said.

A leader of Communist youth organizations in Czechoslovakia complained of the "inefficiency" of the anti-religious drive among youth. In a long report broadcast by Prague Radio, he said there were "serious shortcomings in the ideological influence of Communist youth groups," and added that the aetheistic drive has been "particularly inefficient" among university students "who continue to be swayed by religious prejudice."

THIS IS THE NEW LUTHERAN SERVICE CENTER on Okinawa, chief U. S. military base in the Far East.

The ultra-modern and functional building is the first Lutheran structure ever erected on the 76-mile-long island. It is also the first church-supported, civilian installation for off-duty military personnel in Okinawa.

Designed to withstand all but the heaviest typhoons and earthquakes, the building has a lounge, game room, music room, rest room, snack bar and, of course, a chapel. Located in a busy shopping area where two major highways meet, the center is conveniently available to a majority of the service people stationed on "the keystone of the Pacific."

The Okinawa center is the sixth overseas "home-away-from-home" now operated in the Far East and Europe by the Lutheran Service Commission, joint agency of the National Lutheran Council and the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod.

In charge of the new center is the Rev. Harry L. Anderson, a minister of the ELC. He arrived on the island in the summer of 1957, to begin the off-station ministry to military personnel.

SERVICE PASTOR BRINGS GOODWILL SYMBOL TO JAPAN

A LUTHERAN SERVICE PASTOR in Japan recently presented a symbol of international good will and understanding to the governor of metropolitan Tokyo.

Commissioned as the personal representative of the mayor of an American city, the Rev. George Vojtko made the presentation of a "key to the city of Lakewood, Ohio," to the Honorable Seiichiro Yasui in the latter's executive offices.

The ceremony took place soon after Mr. Vojtko arrived from Lakewood to direct the Lutheran service center at Tachikawa.

The mayor of Lakewood, a Cleveland suburb with a population of about 70,000, had asked Mr. Vojtko to make the presentation to assure the Japanese of Americans' strong desire "to bring about international good will and peace in our time."

Mayor Frank P. Celeste added that the key represents "the friendly tie to our two cities" and this will help the friendship of "our two countries to be strengthened more than ever."

At the presentation Mr. Vojtko said, "A key fulfills a twofold purpose—it opens a door before us and it locks a door behind us."

"We, the people of Lakewood," the Lutheran clergyman continued, "would also have this same key to lock, and to keep locked forever, the door of hatred and prejudice, of bigotry and distrust, which only leads to war and bloodshed and to the eventual destruction of all civilization."

"I trust that I, as a representative of the Lutheran Church, in ministering to the moral and spiritual well-being of men in the military, will also be able to play a small part in preserving and strengthening this spirit of mutual friendship and cooperation," he added.

Protestant Community
FLOURISHING IN FORMOSA

By Religious News Service

PROTESTANT LEADERS in Formosa share the conviction that a Chinese Communist conquest would not only spell the doom of all missionary activity on the island but deprive the free world of a promising Christian outpost in the Pacific.

The Protestant community is a vigorous and expanding part of this picturesque island of ten million souls where only three years ago Tunghai University was established. This first Christian institution of higher learning on Formosa was hailed as a concrete symbol of the faith shared by the Chinese Nationalists and the Formosan Christians in the eventual victory of Free China.

Most of the Protestant missionary work on Formosa was begun only after World War II, when refugees and missionaries poured across from the mainland after the Communist seizure of power in China.

However, the Protestant missions actually have a history dating back to 1864, when a group of English Presbyterians arrived in Formosa. These pioneers were followed seven years later by a band of Canadian Presbyterians. Today their followers are united in the Taiwan Presbyterian Church, which is 95 per cent self-supporting. Largest Protestant body in the country, the Church has two theological colleges, a number of Bible schools, three secondary schools, a hospital and clinic, and 50 kindergartens.

Three other major national Churches are the True Jesus Church, the Taiwan Lutheran Church, and the Little Flock Church, which celebrated its 30th anniversary in 1956.

Meanwhile, 63 or more missionary societies have helped to build up the Protestant community which, according to 1956 reports, boasted 209 churches and 389 chapels, with 33,195 members and 48,942 potential members undergoing instruction prior to baptism.

Sixty per cent of the missionaries come from the United States and 33 per cent from Canada, Great Britain and the Scandinavian countries. The remaining seven per cent belong to international bodies.

Among the American Protestant church bodies represented in the mission field are the Baptist Evangelization Society, the Evangelical Mission Covenant Church of America, the Wesleyan Methodist Church, the Southern Baptist Convention, the Seventh-day Adventists, the Mennonite Church, the Oriental Missionary Society, the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, and the Free Methodist Church.

A MODEL of the 500-seat chapel now under construction which will rise 72 feet over a slope on the campus of Tunghai University in Formosa. Like the university itself, the chapel is a symbol of freedom and faith for Formosan Christians.

One of the major phenomena of postwar Christian work in Formosa has been the rapid growth of the "tribal churches" from 3,000 members in 1953 to 16,400 in 1956. These churches embrace converts from among the 180,000 or more primitive Aborigines, a mountain people of Malayan origin who live in tribes and support themselves by agriculture and hunting. They have their own local languages and are known for their remarkable musical talent.

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading your Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He Commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

MINNESOTA MARKS CENTURY OF LUTHERANISM

A CENTURY OF LUTHERANISM in Minnesota is being marked by the presentation of a historical play-pageant in eight cities and towns of the state this fall.

The production is sponsored by 14 church bodies which have nearly 1,000,000 members in Minnesota. Not since the world premiere of the Martin Luther film in Minneapolis in 1953 have so many Lutheran groups co-operated in one project.

Entitled "Of Grace and Growth," the pageant has a cast of more than 100, including a 60-voice choir. A series of flashbacks covers Lutheranism's role in education, evangelism, missions, music, social action and medicine. The production recalls "God's wonderful grace and care to the people of Minnesota," said James S. Kerr of Minneapolis, its writer and director.

The pageant coincides with the centennial year of Minnesota's statehood.

Lutheranism was pioneered in Minnesota Territory in 1857 by former missionary to India "Father" John Christian Frederick Heyer of Philadelphia, Pa., the old Lutheran General Synod's first missionary. He became pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, St. Paul, parent congregation of the denomination's Minnesota Synod, which he founded with five other pastors from the Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh Synods.

SOVIET JOURNAL ADMITS RELIGIOUS REVIVAL

PROBLEMS OF PHILOSOPHY, the leading Russian philosophical magazine, admitted in an article that there is a "partial revival of religion in the Soviet Union" and called for "more subtle and vigorous atheistic propaganda."

In a three-page attack on religion, the publication contended that the revival was due to the "influence of the capitalist world" and must be fought with anti-religious lectures, films and other media.

The magazine also denounced the "pacifist movement" and stressed that "religious ideology" did not help preserve peace.

It added that "mankind will reach peace by the struggle of the masses against the imperialists and not through a religious outlook saturated with pacifism."

Sharing Your Experience

A HELPING HAND IN KOREA

By Pfc. Billy M. Walton

HERE IN KOREA there is a lot of missionary work being done. Due to the fact that there is so much more to do than can be done by the missionaries sent here by our churches, I have noticed many of the soldiers in the Armed Services rendering a helping hand.

Of course, all branches of the Armed Services try to influence good relations with the people of any foreign country. It seems that here in Korea there is no influence needed. The men just can't resist when they see people in such great need.

Here are a few of the projects being done by the men in the Armed Services: the giving of money and clothes, building of orphanages, and the most important of all, the giving of friendship and the word of God.

Not long after I was stationed with the 304th Sig. Bn. here in Seoul, I was asked by several of the fellows at our chapel to help with the building of an orphanage. The building is being built for a group of children who live up in the hills of Korea in a tent. A few weeks ago those children were brought down to see their new home. I was unable to be present at the time but the fellows who were there told me that the expressions on the faces of those little children meant more than anyone could realize.

There is a great need for teachers, both for religious and educational needs. Again the men are willing to help. In my company (Radio Company), we have approximately one hundred men. Out of that number, ten men have steady teaching jobs. Due to the fact that it is an operations company, many others are unable to fulfill their desires.

Not long ago I visited the World Vision Orphanage, which is one of the best operated orphanages in Korea. They have about one hundred children of all races. Out of this one hundred, about thirty have, or have had, T.B. These children are in a separate building and receive special care. When the children become of age they will be adopted by families in the U. S. and sent there to live.

These are just a few of the things that happen here, and I sincerely hope if you, the readers, ever have a chance to help an orphanage, whether it be in Korea or elsewhere, that you don't let the opportunity slip by and not do it. After all, it is our duty to help our fellow men.

In closing, I hope you will join me in extending a few extra prayers for these people in need and the soldiers and missionaries who are so faithfully doing a great job.

Pfc. Walton will be the recipient of the November $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Stories of religious significance will be favored, but any well-written report not exceeding 300 words may make the grade.

Try to sit down and write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

"OLD SWEDES" CHURCH TO GET NEW SETTING

SLUM AREAS surrounding historic Gloria Dei ("Old Swedes") Church in Philadelphia, Pa., will be razed and turned into a public park by the Department of the Interior under a new law signed by President Eisenhower.

Founded in 1642 as a Swedish Lutheran church, it was built by the first Swedish settlers who established the short-lived colony of New Sweden along the banks of the Delaware River.

Forty years later, William Penn laid out his "City of Brotherly Love" on a site just north of Gloria Dei and its surrounding settlement, after receiving the former Swedish lands as a grant from the King of England.

Although the church was sold to Episcopalians a century ago, it remains a monument to early Swedish Lutheran settlement of the New World.

GIRL OF THE MONTH

SANDRA VAN DYKE, our Lutheran Girl of the Month for October, is an active member of Central Lutheran Church, Des Moines, Iowa.

A vice-president of the Hi-League and member of the Senior Choir, she attended the ELC Missoula International Youth Convention's leadership school and workshop in 1957.

Her pep, joy and enthusiasm means much in Luther League activities and in her Christian witness, said her pastor, the Rev. H. William Sorensen.

"We find Sandy a beauty within and without," he added. "She is a real Christian. She is a good local missionary—bringing friends along with her and encouraging those who are members but not active."

PRESIDENT SETS OCTOBER FIRST AS NATIONAL PRAYER DAY

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER has called on Americans of all faiths to pray on Wednesday, Oct. 1, for a just and durable peace "under the guiding hand of Almighty God."

In a statement proclaiming Oct. 1 as a National Day of Prayer, the President also asked that all visitors in this country, "each according to his own faith," join Americans in praying.

"In our time," he said, "buffeted by unprecedented changes and challenged by an aggressive denial of Divine providence, we have continuing need of the wisdom and strength that come from God, and we shall always find our highest satisfaction in a steadfast purpose to know and to do his will."

BUREAU OF SERVICE TO MILITARY PERSONNEL

VOL. VIII | New York, N. Y., October, 1958 | No. 6

NEARLY 8 MILLION LUTHERANS IN AMERICA

MEMBERSHIP of the Lutheran Churches in North America is nearing the eight-million mark.

A total of 7,866,320 members was reached during 1957, according to the annual statistical summary compiled by the National Lutheran Council.

The Lutheran Churches in the United States and Canada gained 248,019 members. This was an increase of 3.3 per cent, the same as in 1956, and about the average gain over the past decade.

Comprising the third largest Protestant denominational grouping in America, the Lutheran Churches are exceeded in numbers only by the Baptists and Methodists. Of the total Lutherans, 7,627,738 are located in the United States and 238,582 in Canada. The latter are affiliated with the Churches in the U. S.

The Council's summary is based on statistics supplied by sixteen Lutheran church bodies, plus the Negro Missions conducted by four groups associated in the Lutheran Synodical Conference.

The gain in baptized membership of 248,019 in 1957, distributed among the 17,712 congregations, represents an average increase of 14 new members per local church.

Confirmed or adult membership advanced by 138,880 to a grand total of 5,216,830, a gain of 2.7 per cent. This would indicate an average accession of 7.8 adult members per congregation in 1957, a little above the average of the past ten years.

For the 13th consecutive year, the highest numerical increase was made by the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod. Its gain of 75,721 baptized members or 3.5 per cent over 1956 boosted the synod's total membership to 2,228,133. Over the past 13 years it has added 787,762 members, an average of 60,597 annually. The Missouri Synod is the second largest Lutheran body in America.

Among the major bodies, the Evangelical Lutheran Church and the American Lutheran Church showed the greatest advance on a percentage basis, both 3.8 per cent. The ELC gained 39,579 members and with 1,082,809 on its rolls is the third largest Lutheran body. The ALC added 35,417 members for a total of 972,929. It ranks as the fourth largest Lutheran group.

A gain of 3.4 per cent was recorded by the Augustana Lutheran Church with 18,794 additions that boosted its total membership to 576,198, fifth largest of the Lutheran bodies.

The United Lutheran Church in America, largest of the sixteen denominations, reported an increase of 60,259 or 2.6 per cent for a total of 2,395,611 members.

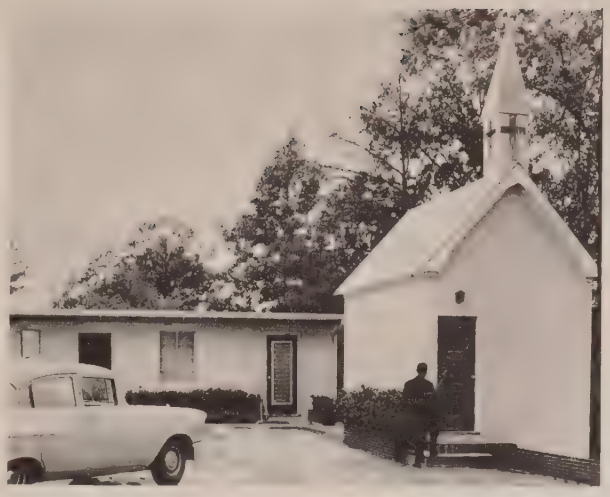
THIS POSTER will be displayed this fall and winter during the 10th annual Religion in American Life campaign to increase regular attendance and support for all churches and synagogues. The program is sponsored by a laymen's committee comprising members of various faiths. It is supported by 24 national religious bodies with American business cooperating through the Advertising Council of America. November is designated as "Religion in American Life Month." RNS Photo

Second Glance

A record membership of 60,000 in the Luther League of America was announced by the League's executive secretary, the Rev. F. Leslie Conrad Jr. The official youth auxiliary of the United Lutheran Church in America is the oldest Lutheran young people's organization in the U. S.

The Lutheran World Federation's Department of World Service opened a Medical Treatment Center in the Kowloon section of Hong Kong to expand services to Chinese refugees. During the past three years, the LWF has given medical help to nearly 9,000 refugees. The new center is equipped to handle 100 patients daily.

The membership of the Austrian Lutheran Church has more than doubled in the past ten years, chiefly because of the influx of refugees from Soviet tyranny in East Germany. Total membership is over 396,000.



Chaplain (Lt. Col.) David E. Kinsler, a minister of the United Lutheran Church in America, became the first Protestant chaplain to use the newly-established 90-day leave of absence for a refresher course. He is devoting the time to study "pastoral care and interviewing" at Duke University in Durham, North Carolina.

Food and clothing from Lutheran World Relief and Church World Service were supplied to thousands of victims of a typhoon that destroyed 15 per cent of the homes in Hwalien City and damaged some 12,000 homes in surrounding counties on the east coast of Taiwan (Formosa).

The Rev. George Paul Vojtko of Lakewood Ohio, is the new service pastor and director of the Tachikawa, Japan, Lutheran Service Center. He is the first representative of the 16,000-member Slovak Evangelical Lutheran Church to join the staff of the Lutheran Service Commission. When the Rev. Milford C. Brelje vacated the Tachikawa position last April to re-enter the parish ministry, missionary Glenn W. Kranzow of Hong Kong assumed the post on a temporary basis. Pastor Vojtko took the post on September 1.

A Lutheran Youth Leaders conference at Liselund, Denmark, voted to recommend that the Lutheran World Federation develop a coordinated program of Lutheran youth cooperation throughout the world. But they rejected a proposal recommending establishment of a separate youth department within the framework of the LWF.

Representatives of Lutheran Churches in East Germany were conspicuously absent from a conference in Hamburg of German Lutheran Youth Chaplains. The Soviet Zone pastors had been denied travel permits to Hamburg. It was the latest of many similar instances of Communist interference with travel by church leaders and groups, both out of and into the so-called (East) German Democratic Republic.

THIS TINY CHAPEL, nestling behind a motel on a well-traveled highway near Buford, Ga., is believed to be the first motel chapel in the United States. It was built by motel-owners Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wilkerson for tourists who want a place for prayer and retreat after a day on the highway. Complete with steeple, the simple Gothic-style chapel has three walnut pews and an altar with a Bible and a cross. RNS Photo

The recruits are (left to right): Private William C. Holst (ULC) is a member of the Faith Lutheran Church of St. Paul, Minnesota; Private Gary G. Bazick (Mo. Synod) is a member of the Immanuel Lutheran Church, Monroe, Michigan; Private James E. Kinman (ULC) is a member of the Blue Ridge Trinity Lutheran Church, of Raytown, Missouri (he had been a member of the Augustana Lutheran Church, until his family recently moved to Raytown where the only Lutheran Church is ULC); Private Robert C. Henrikson (ALC) is a member of St. Paul Lutheran Church, Reed City, Michigan; and Private Charles G. Larsen (UELC) is a member of the Pella Lutheran Church of Omaha, Nebraska. Chaplain Swanson is a pastor of the Augustana Lutheran Church. Marine Corps Photo

THE REV. FRED PANKOW, pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran Church in Houston, Tex., looks up a Biblical quotation for some of his pupils who attend his integrated vacation Bible class. The boys shown represent the principal groups active in the church. Left to right are: Lee Van Robertson, 14, a Negro; Raymond Palacios, 13, a Mexican-American; and Gerald Bunton, 11, white. The integrated Bible school is believed to be the only one of its kind conducted by Protestant churches in Texas. RNS Photo

The courage to state:

"I AM A CHRISTIAN"

By Chaplain Bernt C. Opsal, USNR

"WHAT DO YOU SAY, Bill, let's hit the beach and live it up," exclaimed Tom, as he called across the compartment to a shipmate who had just recently reported aboard for duty.

This was the test—the initial test. What to do? Bill had just come aboard ship and wanted to make friends. However, he knew from the conversation which had taken place earlier that day that Tom and his buddies' concept of a good time was not Bill's. They had talked about making the rounds of various bars and then ending up in some pretty questionable activity, to say the least.

Another matter flashed through Bill's mind. He could give an excuse and say that he was pretty busy, since it was his first day aboard ship. But there would be invitations in the future and then there would have to be other excuses.

"Why not just tell them right out why I can't go with them," Bill mused. He knew this would be the simplest and easiest thing to do if he did it right now right from the start.

Then followed the gamut of excuses in Bill's mind. "Why not postpone telling them right out? Why not wait until later when you get better acquainted?"

But Bill knew that postponing things wouldn't solve the matter either.

"What do you say, Bill? Let's go!"

"No, I'm sorry, fellows. I can't. You see, I'm a Christian," answered Bill with confidence and kindness in his voice.

"Well, blow me over with a feather," one shipmate shouted.

"A Sunday School boy," another said sarcastically.

"I hope you'll understand. There are certain things I like to do and there are certain things I just don't care for. You see, my life isn't my own. I belong to Christ and I want to please Him in all that I do. At least, that's my desire and by His strength I try to live for Him," answered Bill.

Nothing more was said. The fellows left the compartment and didn't return until early the next morning, some under the weather and most of them pretty generally dissipated.

That evening Bill picked up his Testament to read Paul's letter to the Philippians. In times of persecution he had always found this book to be very helpful. Paul wrote this letter while in prison. Despite opposition he was still optimistic and hopeful.

Bill read, "I want you to know, brethren, that what has happened to me has really served to advance the gospel, so that it has become known throughout the whole praetorian guard and to all the rest that my imprisonment is for Christ; and most of the brethren have been made confident in the Lord because of my imprisonment, and are much more bold to speak the word of God without fear" Phil. 1:12-14.

Later that evening another shipmate struck up a conversation with Bill. "I heard you tell those fellows why you didn't want to hit the beach with them. I sure give you credit," said the sailor. "I'm a Christian, too, but I haven't had the courage to tell them why I don't care to go along. I have run out of excuses with the result that sometimes I have gone along only to regret it later on. Where do you get the guts to tell them the real reason why—that you're a Christian?"

Bill smiled, picked up his worn New Testament, and turning again to Philippians read from the fourth chapter, verses 11-13:

"Not that I complain of want; for I have learned, in whatever state I am, to be content. I know how to be abased, and I know how to abound; in any and all circumstances I have learned the secret of facing plenty and hunger, abundance and want. I can do all things in him who strengthens me."

And then from the nineteenth verse of the same chapter, "And my God will supply every need of yours according to his riches in glory in Christ Jesus."

"That's the secret," said Bill. "It works every time if I only pray to God for help and let Him help me. One big difficulty with us is that we just don't turn to Him or we just don't let Him help us."

"Dear Heavenly Father, help those of us who are weak. Give courage to those of us who are afraid of what men will say of us when we declare our allegiance to Christ. Give us the desire to serve Thee and the willingness to let Thee help us, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

A RECORDING of seven "prayers for peace" was presented to President Eisenhower by the Lutheran Laymen's League. Making the presentation was Dr. Oswald C. J. Hoffmann (right), speaker of the Lutheran Hour radio program and director of public relations for the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod. Looking on is John W. Boehne, Jr., former Congressman from Indiana and active church leader here. In expressing his appreciation, President Eisenhower said he would listen to the prayers during his lunch period. Fortify Your Faith Through

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading your Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He Commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

ONLY GOD CAN MAKE A TREE

THERE IS NOTHING more beautiful in nature than a stately tree, and there is no more beautiful sight among men than mature Christian personality. To attain this ideal, a person must be planted beside the rivers of the grace of God. The roots of his life draw life and power from this source. This kind of person, through private prayer, worship, and the sacraments, receives those qualities of spiritual life without which he would die.

Only with his roots in the deep soil of God's love and mercy can a person grow to such stature that he will bring "his fruit in his season."

"The wicked are not so," for their lives are rooted in self-love, which can only produce bad fruit.

Only God can make a man like a beautiful tree.

Sharing Your Experience

IN THE LAND WHERE IT HAPPENED

By SP3 Ralph A. Powers

HERE IS THE LAND where it really happened!

Yes, what an awe inspiring thing it is to really walk through the streets, the villages, the paths where Martin Luther and his contemporaries trod as they fought a battle to free their world from the evils and wrongs that existed in the practices of worship in Germany and nearby countries during the 15th and 16th centuries.

You travel from your present military duty station to the picturesque German city of Worms situated on the mighty Rhine River in central Western Germany.

Here you see the very church—the very door upon which Luther nailed his 99 Theses as he began his freedom fight.

Can you help but wonder at the mighty ways of God? Can you help but feel a surge of renewed faith as you realize that you are privileged to view the actual environment that spawned the faith which has given your life and that of others a basis for existing for over four centuries?

Perhaps others could, but I have not been able to approach the situation with any other than an attitude of reverence and respect. As I bow my head for prayer in the military chapel where I attend weekly Lutheran services, I am doubly grateful for the benefits that a tour of duty in Germany and Europe has brought me.

It has represented a chance to see the people, to appreciate the conditions, to evaluate the reasons why—a chance to more than ever be glad that my faith is Lutheranism—the faith that is built on a rock. Veritably, A MIGHTY FORTRESS.

SP3 Ralph A. Powers will be recipient of the October $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

We want short reports on any true experience you think may be of interest for others, and will pay $10 for each piece that appears in the MIGHTY FORTRESS.

Stories of religious significance will be favored, but any well-written report not exceeding 300 words may make the grade.

Try to sit down and write about what happened to you or your friends in the service, but, please do not expect us to acknowledge contributions or to return them.

SOVIET NAVY STARTS SPECIAL ATHEISTS' CLUB

SPECIAL ATHEISTS' CLUBS for young people have been opened at Lwow, in the Western Ukraine, Komsomol Pravda, Russia's largest youth newspaper reported. It said the "most popular" lectures are those which "expose so-called miracles, especially those involving reputed miraculous icons." Soviet Fleet, an organ published by the Soviet Ministry of Defense, reported that similar clubs are being organized also at Black Sea naval units. In addition to anti-religious lectures, these clubs also sponsor talks on "American imperialism."

GETTING EX-ARMY JEEP PROVES HARD FOR MISSIONARY

AN AMERICAN LUTHERAN MISSIONARY studying language at Croissy-sur-Seine, France had to cut red tape in high places before he could buy a junked U. S. Army jeep.

According to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington, D. C., the Rev. James G. Kallas of the Evangelical Lutheran Church wrote Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota as a last resort in an attempt to find an official who would approve selling him an abandoned jeep.

Mr. Kallas soon will be going to French Cameroun, West Africa, and wanted an old jeep chassis to build a small house trailer.

"Hundreds of jeeps were rusting in Army junkyards in France," the wire service said, "but the Minneapolis missionary couldn't find an official" from whom he could purchase the obsolete chassis.

He wrote Senator Humphrey after being passed along to five officers in turn at one Army dump. The Senator got in touch with the Pentagon, wrote the U. S. Ambassador in France, and sent personal letters to an Army quartermaster in Europe.

Meanwhile, Mr. Kallas wrote the Senator saying he had "become so enmeshed in the inertia and red tape of the Army" that he was about to give up.

Finally the way was cleared and Mr. Kallas got a jeep. In telling of his success in an appreciation letter to the Minnesota Senator, he also apologized for not writing sooner.

The dispatch quoted the letter: "But I think I have a valid excuse for my delay. Monday morning I finally got the jeep and Monday afternoon my wife gave birth to a healthy, beautiful 8-pound girl. And this is why I haven't had a minute in the last few days to tell you of the successful outcome of all your letters on my behalf.

"I can't name a daughter 'Hubert,' so all I can do is say many, many thanks."

Note to pastors:
You must put your address here!

Form 3547 Requested.

ARIE HANSEN, our Lutheran Girl of the Month r September, is a member of St. John's Evan- elical Lutheran Church, San Antonio, Texas.

Marie is the past president of the Junior uther League and past treasurer of the S. A. ederation of Luther Leagues. She served as presi- dent of her catechism class, was a member of the rganizational committee of the church and at present is serving as evangelist of her Sunday School class. She is presently an active member of the Young Adult Fellowship group.

Perhaps Marie's outstanding contribution to the work of the church has been in music. She was a member of the choral union for several years, and is now a member of the adult chancel choir. She has been a soloist in the church's music program for the past three years.

Marie has also given many hours of voluntary service, particularly in the church office and in the Vacation Bible School program.

She graduated this year from Northeast High School where she was a member of the school choir, president and secretary of the Business Club, and is a member of the Coed Quintette. This Quintette, made up of Northeast High School girls who sing all over the city of San Antonio for various non-profit charitable, social and religious functions, are currently being featured on television. The girls are not paid for this singing.

This fall Marie entered Texas Lutheran College where she will study business administration. Marie is a very conscientious Christian girl and takes her religion very seriously, according to her pastor, the Rev. John E. Meyer.

A LUTHERAN MOTORIST'S PRAYER

A special "Motorist's Prayer" written by the Rev. David J. Quill, pastor of Our Saviour's Lutheran church in Minneapolis, is widely circulated in Minnesota. You, too, ought to read it:

"LORD IMPRESS UPON ME the great responsibility that is mine as I take the wheel of my automobile. As I need Thy guidance in all things, so now especially do I when I have life and death in my hands . . .

"Give me always a deep reverence for and desire to protect human life. When I would be careless, remind me of the homes where there is sorrow and loneliness, or of hospitals where broken, suffering bodies lie in anguish because someone forgot. Write indelibly upon my conscience the fact that each time I take the wheel of my car, I am a potential murderer—that in a matter of a few careless moments, I could be face to face with dire tragedy, for my own family as well as others . . .

"Give me grace to practice Christian virtues of patience and thoughtfulness at all times. Help me to show the same courtesy and kindness to other motorists that I want to expect from them . . .

"When others exceed the speed limit or otherwise break the law, let me not be tempted to do the same. Forgive my stupidity if ever I think it is perfectly permissible to violate traffic laws, so long as I do not get caught. Remind me often that I am responsible to Thee as to the state to obey the ordinances of the highway; and when I do not, I sin against Thee as well as against my fellowmen, even though no one else may be watching and no accident may result . . .

"Lord, grant me control of my car and myself at all times. Help me to live lawfully and peaceably, to save life and not destroy it, and so by example lead others to do the same.—Amen."

KING OLAV V of Norway received the solemn benediction of the (State) Lutheran Church at historic Trondheim Cathedral in ceremonies which are an equivalent of a coronation. The monarch became head of the state following the death of his father, King Haakon VII, last fall. In 1906, King Haakon and Queen Maud were crowned in Trondheim, a former capital of Norway. King Olav chose the same historical site to honor his father. RNS Photo

Dr. Paul C. Empie, executive director of the National Lutheran Council, was one of three clergymen in a civilian party participating in a good will tour to the Caribbean and South America aboard the USS Ranger, the world's most modern aircraft carrier. Other civilians on the cruise were labor leaders, industrialists, educators and doctors.

Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther (ret.) declared that fidelity to basic religious beliefs will help to prevent a third world war. "I'm absolutely certain," he said, "that if we remain true to our basic religious concepts and broaden our fields of knowledge, we will prevent World War Three and hold our own in the cold war." The former commander of NATO forces in Europe, who is now president of the American National Red Cross, said America must find an answer to the widespread hunger and low living standards in other parts of the world. "If we don't," he stressed, "all the guided missiles in the world won't help us."

Two Eskimo youths from Alaska have been awarded $1,000 scholarships for study in schools of the Evangelical Lutheran Church. They were given by the Lutheran Daughters of the Reformation, an auxiliary of the ELC, to Clifford Weyiouana, 15, Shishmaref, who will study at Augustana Academy, Canton, S. D., and Edna Miller, 17, Teller, who will study at Pacific Lutheran College, Parkland, Wash.

The future of the Lutheran Church in Communist China is "up in the air," according to a representative of the Lutheran World Federation. The Rev. Arthur Olson said a complete "wall of silence" has separated the Lutherans of China from their co-religionists here since 1956. Formerly, the Lutherans operated 16 missions in Communist China, with a total membership of 60,000.

The 1958 Spring appeal of Lutheran World Relief netted 1,339,437 pounds of clothing. This topped last year's efforts by 301,019 pounds or 29 per cent.

Thanks to funds provided by Lutheran World Action, a member of the Batak Protestant Christian Church is believed to be the first Indonesian ever to earn a Doctor of Philosophy degree in America. He is Sutan Manahara Hutagalung, 37, who has spent five years in graduate study in the United States, obtaining his S.T.M. in 1955 and his Ph.D. in 1958 from the Divinity School of Yale University at New Haven, Conn. A leading campaigner for Indonesian independence, Mr. Hutagalung served as a guerilla fighter during intermittent warfare between Netherlands and nationalist forces in the late 40's. Although he earned a reputation as a soldier, he turned down a military career to devote his life to the Church.

The establishment of a post-graduate scholarship program called "Martin Luther Fellowships" was announced by the National Lutheran Educational Conference. Sixteen faculty members and outstanding college seniors received fellowships amounting to over $16,000 for graduate work during the 1958-59 academic year. All the recipients intend to become faculty members of Lutheran colleges and seminaries upon completion of their academic pursuits.

DR. FRANKLIN CLARK FRY (center), president of the Lutheran World Federation, and Dr. Carl E. Lund-Quist, executive secretary of the LWF, visited the Berlin Command on their return from Warsaw, Poland, where they participated in the reconsecration of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church that had been used by the Communist government for other purposes. They were met by Chaplain (Lt. Col.) Gomer S. Rees, Chief of Chaplain's Division, Berlin Command.

Dr. Fry, who is also president of the United Lutheran Church in America and holds such important positions as chairman of the policy-making Central and Executive Committees of the World Council of Churches and member of the Policy and Strategy Committee of the National Council of Churches, commented on the vigorous role Army chaplains are playing in modern life:

"These chaplains are performing a tremendously important ministry. There are more men in service today than there are in universities. What a magnificent opportunity we would be missing if we did not pay attention to them. We are using our best men and energies toward this purpose."

MISSION PROBLEM: ELEPHANTS IN BACK YARD

"HOW DO YOU GET an elephant out of the garden?"

The United States Department of Agriculture has answered some pretty tough questions, but this one proved too much for even the best of its garden-pest experts.

The question came from Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Cuppy, missionaries of the Disciples of Christ in the Belgian Congo. The Cuppys first told their problem to John C. Hirshler who is secretary of the Council of Churches in Indianapolis, Ind. Mr. Hirshler lost no time in passing it on to Rep. Charles B. Brownson (R.-Ind.). Mr. Brownson contacted the U.S.D.A.

Seems the elephants have been invading the gardens of the native women near the Congo mission, Mr. Brownson said. In the process the pachyderms destroyed the cassava root from which the natives make bread and tapioca—the staples of native diet.

The Congressman explained that the missionaries didn't want to hurt the animals, just keep them out of the garden.

Well, the elephant-pest expert was not to be found that day, so the U.S.D.A. men quickly contacted the folks at the Washington zoo.

"Fire," said the zoologists. "Build brush fires around the garden at night. That will scare them away."

Other experts were called in and, it seems, the Library of Congress had a better idea. "Noise," said they. "Put some pebbles in a tin can and hang it from a wire. The animals will stumble over the wire and the clatter will frighten them."

There were still other suggestions, of course, and these ran the gamut from burning smudgepots and building spiked fences to even constructing a moat around the garden.

The latest word from Congo? The pachyderms are still flexing their proboscises, happily enjoying the fruits of the Cuppy garden—tin cans and all.

YOU CAN'T MAKE GOD STOP LOVING YOU!

"YOU MAY IGNORE HIM—resist Him—insult Him—reject Him . . .

You may even commit every sin 'in the book'—do every damnable thing that was ever conceived as sin . . .

But you can't make God stop loving you!

God loves man because it is the nature of God to love. God loves—not because man is lovable—not because man deserves to be loved . . . but because God is love.

You can't make God stop loving you . . . but you can be indifferent to his love—you can refuse His love—reject it entirely.

Love does not force or coerce. He will not force His intentions!

Every sin of man's is covered by the Cross—except the sin of rejection!"

LUTHERANS AT WORK IN ALASKA

VITUS BERING, a Dane and a Lutheran in the service of the Russian Government, is generally credited with the discovery of the Alaskan Coast in 1741. Thus Russia established claim to this vast wonderland of the North, but except for an extensive traffic in furs, little by way of development occurred in Alaska under Russian rule. However, when in 1840 there was a change in administration in the affairs of the Russian-American Company, Captain Adolph K. Etholin, a native of Finland and a follower of the Lutheran faith, came to Sitka to head up the affairs of the Company. He was accompanied by a Lutheran minister by the name of Sidnyeuss.

A history of the Russian-American colonies, published at St. Petersburg in 1863, mentions that Etholin, shortly after his assumption of office, began the erection of a Lutheran Church in Sitka. It also appears that the first pastor was succeeded by two other Lutheran pastors, this ministry continuing up to 1865.

When the United States took possession from Russia in October of 1867, a small parcel of ground in Sitka was excluded from the deed and set aside for the use of the Lutherans forever. During ensuing years, the Lutheran Church was used from time to time by Protestants and Catholics alike, as occasion might arise. Gradually the building fell into decay, but the little organ which first sounded forth its tones more than 100 years ago is in the Alaska Museum, and the valued painting of the Ascension graces the Greek Orthodox Church in Sitka.

FOR THE 1956 Easter Sunrise Service at Ladd Air Force Base, Alaska, men of the Arctic Indoctrination School had constructed pulpit, altar, and the facing on the choir platform of block ice and snow. U. S. Air Force Photo

The first Lutheran ministry in Alaska supported by Americans began August 1894, when the Rev. T. L. Brevig came to Teller as a missionary to the Lapps, who had come to Alaska to train the Eskimos in reindeer husbandry. Thus it was, too, that mission work was started among the Eskimos more than sixty years ago, by the Evangelical Lutheran Church.

For more than sixty years the ELC has maintained a resident ministry, first at Teller Mission, then also establishing work at Mary's Igloo—which was given up a few years ago because of the migration of the Eskimos, and in later years also in Teller Town and Shishmaref. Shishmaref, Teller Town, and Teller Mission are fully-organized congregations, with a pastor serving at Shishmaref, a resident pastor at Teller Town, and a woman missionary at Teller Mission, and one at Mt. Edgecombe. The Rev. Norval Hegland, stationed at Teller Town, operates a Piper four-seater plane, furnished by the Lutheran Daughters of the Reformation of the ELC.

Aside from the work among the Eskimos, the Lutheran Church very much forgot Alaska until the year 1913. But since then Lutheran churches have been established in thirteen cities and villages and today their membership exceeds 4,000.

In visiting any one of these churches, a Lutheran would feel very much at home. The service is conducted as here in the States with full liturgy and the solid preaching of sin and grace; the Sacraments are administered as the Lord instituted them and as taught by the Lutheran Church; and the Christian indoctrination of the young is of primary concern. From some of these congregations are coming today young men and women who attend our colleges and, indeed, some men who are going on to study for the Lutheran ministry.

For many years following the acquisition of the Territory by the United States, Alaska was often referred to as "the land that God forgot." God never forgot, but men did. But in His loving remembrance and mercy the Gospel is being preached in far-flung places in Alaska today. Our Heavenly Father remembers those as yet without the Gospel or the Lutheran witness, for He still says, "Go, and preach the Gospel." God help us that we do not forget!

From a report by Dr. H. L. Foss, President Pacific District, Evangelical Lutheran Church

ortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading your Bible.

2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.

3. Read it when you are alert.

4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.

5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.

6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He Commands, obey. When He guides, follow.

SPACE SCIENTIST URGES EXPANDED SPIRITUAL HORIZONS

MAN NEEDS TO EXPAND his spiritual horizons just as rapidly as he is expanding his physical horizon through venturing into outer space, according to one of the nation's top space scientists.

Dr. Hugh L. Dryden, director of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, and a lay preacher of The Methodist Church for 40 years, said the farther man ventures into the Universe, the more humble he must become.

Man is learning how to master everything but himself, the scientist contended. He has gained mastery over the animals, plants and insects of the world, and even of disease, but "man is his own greatest enemy," he warned.

Sharing Your Experience

AND WHEN EVENING COMES

By E. Hugo Lutz

WHEN EVENING COMES, the material world ends its restless activity and bows to the inevitable fading of the sun. Then it is night—darkness—shadows unrelieved, except for the occasional flare of a match, and the cold glitter of the moon on the sleeping ocean. Night—the time of meditation, thought and prayer.

Night on the Pacific is long and lonely. The beauty of darkness becomes monotonous and only thought is companionship.

During the daylight hours, the man of the sea wears a mask of cheerfulness and confidence. It is necessary for the preservation of mind.

But under the protecting cloak of darkness, the mask drops unheeded, the suffering mind exposes itself to the soothing salve of thought.

What constitutes this sacred thought? The past, as memories forever cherished; the future, as dreams and plans; but the present . . . it is not safe to think of that.

Here there is no present, no measure of time, no concern for reality. For the sea has no place for old men . . . and there are no young men.

The sailor is a dreamer. He remembers the past more meaningly and clearly than before, for he is no longer young. He sees his childhood, its innocence and ignorance; his parents' love, evinced each waking and sleeping hour; his room; his church; his dog; his first kiss, obvious evidence of maturation.

All this shall never return. It is irrevocable, a portion of the past, sacred memory. But he does not forget the past, for in its stead lies the future, rising to new heights of achievement love, life, faith.

He will tell you that he has spent many nights filled with worries, doubts, and uncertainties. But as the moon breaks away from the clouds, even so does he find light and guidance amidst the shadows. For him the future is new, unexplored, unscarred by evil, a virginal reality-to-be.

The freshness of the sea displaces the stagnant smell of bodies, and he thinks of home, the smell of dew on the grass at dawn, the odor of fresh turned earth in the furrow, the smell of a thousand lilacs in the spring.

He hears the voice of the sea ripple disturbingly against relentless steel, and he hears the myriad sounds familiar only to him, the cool murmur of a tiny secluded brook, the sound of a woman's laughter in the darkness, the first cock's crow at dawn, the peal of church bells in the sacred air of morning.

He looks at the moon's magical reflections on the deep blackness of water, like obsidian under a candle, and he sees the reflection of street lamps on the sidewalks after a rain, the warm glow of a campfire in the forest, the sight of those he longs after . . . but that is as far as his thoughts go . . . after . . .

Yes, he thinks of many things, for those who have known the sea have mysteries in their hearts, and profoundness in their thoughts.

And as the darkness fades away before the dawn of a new day; as the vague shadows of night reciprocate to the brilliant shadows of a new day; as the sun majestically displays with color, the deeds and sufferings of light, a prayer forms on his lips:

"Eternal Navigator, I do not ask for miracles, but only for faith. I ask not for power, but for wisdom and understanding. I ask not for wealth, but only that I may be worthy of what I have. I ask not for happiness, but only that I may be worthy of happiness. Make my life worthy of its Maker and grant that I may return it a little more perfect . . . when evening comes. Amen."

EAST GERMAN babies receive toys while their parents are congratulated following "name-giving ceremonies" designed by the German Communists to take the place of Christian baptisms. According to East German publications, the name-giving rites are to be held regularly "for all newly-born children regardless of the faith of their parents." Other atheistic ceremonies devised by the Reds include "youth dedications" to replace Christian Confirmation, and "Socialist weddings and funerals." These ceremonies have been strongly opposed by church leaders. RNS Photo

MARGIT HJELMELAND, our Lutheran Girl of the Month for July, was recently named the candidate for the title 1958 Camellia Queen by the Student Nurses Association at Sacramento Junior College where she is majoring in public health nursing.

An active member of St. Luke's American Lutheran Church of Sacramento, California, Margit was nominated as the Lutheran Girl of the Month by her pastor, the Rev. Arnold C. Schultz, who both baptized her at the age of three and confirmed her.

In her church, Margit has held various offices in the Luther League. She served for two terms as secretary and also as treasurer. At present she is serving as Promoter of Christian Higher Education in the Young Adult League. She has been very active in the Conference and District Luther League work. For six years she has also been teaching a Church School class in the Junior Department and for the same period of time has been a faithful member of the choir.

On top of all that Margit has a most unusual avocation. She is working as assistant to Johnstone, a professional magician, and has appeared with him on many TV programs and in shows for school children as the magician's assistant. Often she is the subject of the magician's illusions.

RED PRESSURE INCREASES IN EAST GERMANY

BISHOP OTTO DIBELIUS of Berlin, chairman of the Council of the Evangelical Church in Germany, declared it is a "miracle" that there are any families in East Germany who can resist the "concentrated coercion" of youngsters to participate in atheistic youth dedication ceremonies.

In the keynote address at the annual Synod of the Church, he charged that Christians in the East Zone are suffering "severe afflictions" as the result of Communist pressures to participate in counter-Church programs replacing Christian baptism, confirmation, marriage and funeral ceremonies with their own "atheistic rites."

He demanded of Soviet authorities that they give "a clear answer" to whether "practicing Christians can still live in East Germany without being deprived of their essential rights."

For several hours before the Synod was opened 200 Communist demonstrators picketed the meeting place in East Berlin denouncing Bishop Dibelius as "a henchman of NATO" and demanding a change in the meeting theme —"Church and Education."

The 78-year-old bishop said the Soviet Government has been conducting a major "leave-the-Church movement" aimed not only at Communist Party members, but also at teachers and students preparing for teaching careers who are "being pressured either to renounce their faith or leave the universities." At the same time, he added, they are conducting a systematic campaign to enforce participation in youth dedication rites through "means of state power and unprecedented pressures on children and parents.

"Nobody outside the Soviet Zone can imagine how great this pressure is and what afflictions it brings upon families," he declared. "It is a real miracle that there are still families at all who resist this concentrated coercion. The Church will continue to uphold freedom of faith and conscience as an inalienable demand."

But, he added, "no one must think that a church which experiences such difficulties as those faced by the Church in East Germany therefore ceases to be joyous and hopeful. We are undoubtedly forced into a new form of church life. But the experience of other countries shows that in this new form of church, in which a smaller group of Christians hold to their faith more firmly than before, its life develops unsuspected strength."

Communist newspapers denounced Bishop Dibelius' speech as "the anti-Soviet Zone provocations of the EKID's NATO wing." Albert Norden, secretary of the East German Commu-

LUTHERAN WREATH was placed at tomb of the Unknown Soldier, Arlington Cemetery, during Armed Forces Week by Chaplain E. O. Midboe, executive secretary of the National Lutheran Council's Bureau of Service to Military Personnel. Standing with hands on hearts were Chaplain H. Edgar Knies (left), assistant executive secretary of the Bureau, and the Rev. Dr. Carl F. Yaeger, associate secretary of the Lutheran Service Commission.

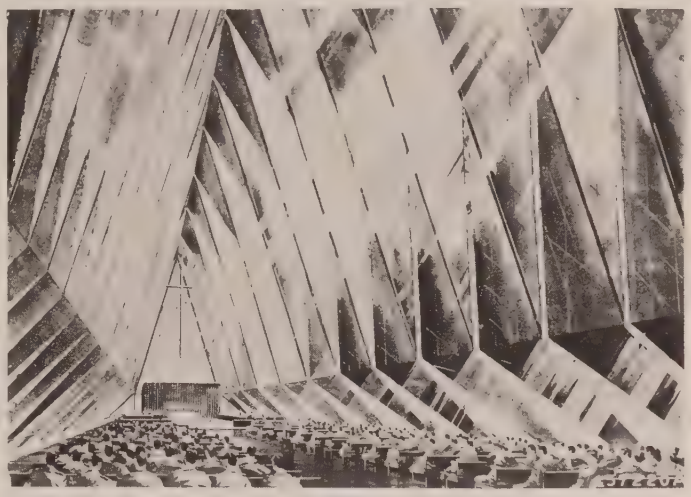
Second Glance

The Rev. Glenn Warren Kranzow has been appointed temporary service pastor of the Tachikawa, Japan, Lutheran Service Center. A member of the Illinois Synod of the United Lutheran Church in America, Mr. Kranzow has been serving as a missionary in Hong Kong since 1957. He has completed the U. S. Marine Corps Officer's Candidate Course and is an officer in the ready reserve.

Beginnings of Swedish Lutheranism in Minnesota were recalled at the centennial convention of the Minnesota Conference of the Augustana Lutheran Church. Delegates visited nearby Taylors Falls where the first Swedish settlers in Chicago County landed. Dr. Leonard Kendall, conference president, hailed the "robust faith" and spiritual heroism of the conference founders.

Some 60 million dollars was spent by 388 agencies of eight Lutheran bodies in their health and welfare work in 1957, according to the National Lutheran Council's Welfare division, which coordinates their activities. The agencies aided 285,000 hospital patients, 14,000 aged persons, 10,000 children and 1,600 unwed mothers.

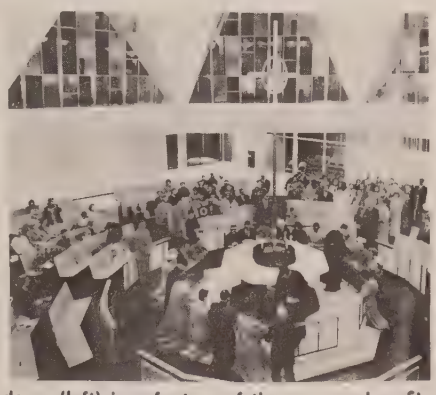
Dr. Edward L. R. Elson of Washington, D. C., the President's pastor, told some 600 chaplains of the three major faiths that although man has "almost conquered the world of matter, he has not yet conquered himself." Today "our fear is not so much of synthetic stars or of shining satellites, but of man who triggers them," because "man acts much as he did when he first invented the wheel. He is still man—sinful, perverse, an alien, wandering from his home, in need of a shepherd, a redeemer and a Saviour."



Religious groups gave $78,100,606 to 895 institutions of higher learning in the U. S. in 1956-57, a survey disclosed.

A top Communist youth leader complained in Moscow that civil marriages in Russia have "become too simplified" and the ceremony "should be made more beautiful." At the same time, Aleksander N. Shelepin, secretary general of central Committee of the Komsomol, the Soviet Union's Young Communist League, denounced Komsomol leaders for permitting too many members to "succumb to religious and bourgeois habits" and demanded an all-out, well-organized anti-religious campaign aimed at young people who still go to church.

Orthodox clergy in Communist-controlled Bulgaria were sternly warned not to discuss politics from the pulpit, but to concentrate on "sermons of peace" supporting the government. The warning was issued in a joint letter signed by Patriarch Cyril and nine other bishops. Bulgarian sources in the free world described the warning as the "final act of capitulation," by the Church. It was obviously issued under Communist pressure.



THE 14-FOOT CERAMIC (above) depicting The Lord's Prayer is outside a National Food Store supermarket in Warson Village near St. Louis, Mo. The design shows four figures of saints with bread, birds, fruit and fish.

PICTURE AT RIGHT is artist's drawing of the 900-seat Protestant nave of the proposed chapel at the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs. Plans for the chapel are still on drawing boards. For nearly two years, Congress has withheld permission to start building. Some Congressman described the design as a "rectangular accordion stretched out on the floor" and a "nineteen-spired polished aluminum monstrosity."

THE STRIKING 42-FOOT-HIGH eight-sided windowed dome (left) is a feature of the new modern St. Peter's Lutheran Church in Edina near Minneapolis. The $350,000 church's center altar and nave are flooded with natural light during the day because of the huge triangular windows. At night the stars and moon shine on the congregation. The church has a circular altar (right) around which parishioners kneel for Holy Communion, or sit for the service. The seating and altar arrangements are symbolic of the "family of God grouped around the table of the Lord." Early Christians gathered in a circle around Christ to listen to Him preach.

WE CLAIM OUR SHARE

By Edgar Trexler

A JOKE ABOUT MARRIAGE AND RELIGION has been making the rounds. The punch line states that a couple has been married five years but never knew they were members of the same church.

Such an outlandish incident came to life one afternoon when two members of a major league baseball team were chatting in a Philadelphia hotel lobby.

"You're Lutheran too? Why, I didn't know that!" Bob Taylor, Milwaukee's 18-year-old rookie catcher, and Andy Pafko, the old pro with the Braves, made a startling discovery that afternoon.

Between them, they remembered that Bob Buhl, a righthanded fireballer, also fell in the Lutheran category.

"I am a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Metropolis, Ill." Taylor commented. Pafko replied that he belonged to the Missouri Lutheran family.

"Milwaukee once had a 'Lutheran Night,' " Pafko recalled. "Bob Buhl and I received several gifts. That was before Taylor joined us."

The two pros agreed on one fact: About the only chance ballplayers get to attend church regularly is during the winter.

On the diamond, their feats are more outstanding. Pafko was the reliable old man during the Braves' pennant drive—a good pinch-hitter and a fine fielder; Buhl maintained a better than .500 average on the mound; and although Taylor only played in a few games, he showed promise.

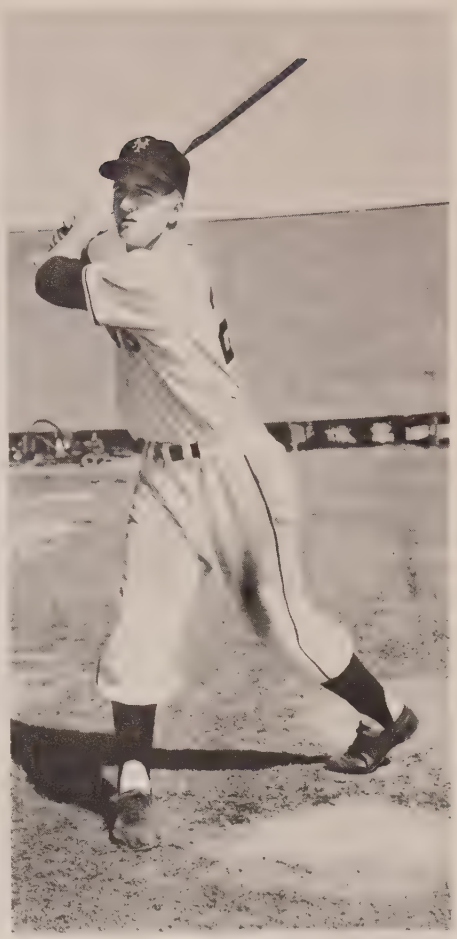
The next night as hitters gathered around the batting cage at Connie Mack Stadium, a crew-cut blond by the name of Rip Repulski waited to take his swings. Talking between turns in the cage, the slugging Phillies' outfielder was a little more open about his religion.

"That's right, I'm Lutheran," he replied, smiling. "Missouri Synod." Repulski was different from the other ballplayers interviewed. He knew he was the only Lutheran on the Phillies' squad.

Clean-shaven and affable, the young hero pointed out that he "never misses church during the winter months." He attends Trinity Lutheran Church in Sauk Rapids, Minnesota. During the summer, however, he frequents a United Lutheran Church when the Phillies remain in town.

Switching clubs is quite an adjustment

Repulski was traded to the Phillies in 1957 in a deal which sent Del Ennis to St. Louis. A long-time member of the Cardinal chain, the "Ripper" found it was "quite an adjustment" to switch ball clubs. Yet, he expressed no regrets.



Elsewhere in the National circuit, powerful Don Mueller stepped up to the plate and banged out another safety. A rarity among the lively-ball sluggers, Mueller hits for singles and doubles—not the homer. Often he is considered more dangerous than the power-laden boys. His .300-plus batting average speaks for that fact.

Mueller's church is Zion Lutheran in Maryland Heights, Mo. Don recalls that during his childhood his father stressed two things—church and baseball. On Sundays the family first went to church. Then the elder Mueller played ball with young Don.

I'm prouder to be a Christian

A couple of years ago, Mueller told a writer, "I'm proud to be a baseball player, but prouder to be a Christian."

The Mueller family is putting Don's preaching into practice, too. Little Mark Mueller has shown an interest in baseball, but once again, Sunday School comes first.

Don Mueller

A former teammate of Mueller's, Alvin Dark, is another deeply religious fellow. A tither for many years, Dark startled a number of churchgoers when he also gave a tenth of his 1954 World Series share, $1,114.

A quarter of the way across the United States another Lutheran steadied the Detroit Tigers. Harvey Kuenn, quite a flashy shortstop, considers baseball as a Christian vocation. He loves the diamond sport and claims there is no daily "grind" connected with it. The crew-cut Tiger has also found that ball players respect the religious convictions of their teammates.

When you return to the TV set or the ballpark keep in mind that baseball players are just average people. They are interested in more than just athletics. A number of your favorite stars have a genuine devotion to the church, and Lutherans seem to claim their share.

At one point during the meeting the Synod invited one of the Communist demonstrators to speak to the meeting "so that the world will know the Synod is willing to listen." A spokesman for the pickets addressed the meeting for ten minutes, devoting himself solely to repeating the demands made by the demonstrators.

Sharing Your Experience

SINGING ON OKINAWA

By Pfc. Argyl Ullestad

FEW TIMES in my life have I experienced such a heart-warming inspiration as that of listening to a group of nearly 100 Okinawan children sing at the top of their voices, and in their own tongue, one of our most loved of all hymns—What A Friend We Have In Jesus.

"I tsu ku shi mi fu ka ki," they sing with joyful hearts and brilliant faces, as I accompany them on the portable field organ.

Such inspirational singing rings in the ears of the near-by villagers, and as the singing progresses, more children come running, eager to see and hear what is being conducted.

Upon their arrival at the Community Hall, in this village of Agena each Tuesday evening, they find themselves in the warm spiritual atmosphere of a Bible class. 1st Lt. Donald J. Ostroot, army chaplain of the Evangelical Lutheran Church assigned to the 97th AAA Group here on Okinawa, instructs these cheerful youngsters in the Word of God, and familiarizes them with several of the well known Bible stories.

Chaplain Ostroot becomes understood to the children by the clear interpreting of Eugene Ginama, a qualified young Okinawa Law student of 25. Tomiko Fukohara, a talented young Okinawan lady, is on hand during each class period to lead the children in several different verses which they have learned by memory.

Aside from the religious music provided by the field organ, the classroom is equipped with an altar, which aids in creating an atmosphere of a spiritual gathering. This altar, like the organ, is a portable kit, and we carry it with us to and from our office each week in the chaplain's own automobile.

Ever since I have had the privilege of becoming the chaplain's assistant, I have been able to help in bringing the wonderful words of the Gospel to these Okinawan children. Why do we do it? We do it because the love of God in our hearts makes us wanting and willing to use the talents he has given us, to further His kingdom.

Pfc. Ullestad will be the recipient of the July $10 check for a contribution to our column, "Sharing Your Experience in the Service." Why don't you try to get the next?

LUTHERAN GIRL REPRESENTS U. S. IN BRUSSELS WORLD'S FAIR

DIANE BAIR considers herself one of the luckiest girls in the United States. Chosen one of 350 young Americans who are acting as guides at the Brussels World's Fair, she is having a thrilling summer in Europe with Uncle Sam picking up the check!

Appearance, personality, poise and character entered into her selection. Ability to speak French was also a deciding factor. This Diane acquired through being a French major in her senior year at Mt. Union College, Alliance, Ohio.

Diane is a member of St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Youngstown, Ohio. She has been an active Luther Leaguer and member of the chancel choir. Her father is church treasurer, councilman, member of the Lutheran Laymen's Movement for Stewardship and synodical delegate.

In November, 20-year-old Diane will return to finish her college course, trilingual, traveled and enthusiastic about her experience in Brussels.

RED COURT REHABILITATES LUTHERAN BISHOP

THANKS TO EFFORTS by the Lutheran World Federation, Lutheran Bishop Lajos Ordass has been absolved of charges for which he was sent to prison for nearly two years in 1948 and which led to his ouster from ecclesiastical office in 1950.

Several conferences, which leaders of the LWF held with the ruling Hungarian Workers (Communist) Party and the Lutheran Church of Hungary, resulted in a reopening of the case against Bishop Ordass, who had been in house arrest since 1950.

The Supreme Court of Hungary found that the charges of "foreign currency manipulation" on which Ordass was sentenced in 1948 were false and "annulled" the previous sentence. After that, the Disciplinary Court of the Church, which in 1950 had divested Ordass of his ecclesiastical right, declared its previous decision "invalid."

The bishop, who after his arrest was elected an honorary vice president of the LWF, was thus rehabilitated. He was permitted to preach and asked to teach theology. The LWF hopes it may also achieve his full reinstatement as a bishop.

THE HOLY FAMILY, a painting by the 17th century Italian master Carlo Maratta, is one of four "Favorites from the Christmas Gallery" appearing in CHRISTMAS, an American Annual of Christmas Literature and Art, Vol. 25, published by the Augsburg Publishing House in Minneapolis, Minnesota.

CHURCHES STUDY UTILIZING FORMER SERVICE PERSONNEL

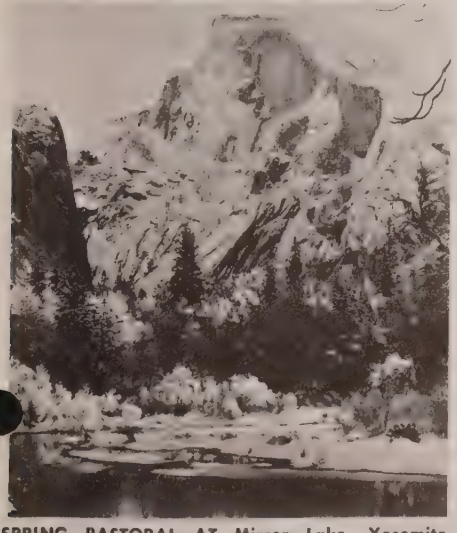
HOW CHURCHES CAN USE SKILLS of retired service personnel acquired in the armed forces was discussed by some 60 representatives of major Protestant denominations at a recent meeting in Washington, D.C.

Chairman for the steering committee of a Conference on Church Vocation for Ex-Service Personnel was Dr. Marion J. Creeger, executive secretary of the General Commission on Chaplains and Armed Forces Personnel.

He said the conference aimed to compile authoritative information on the service needs and opportunities for laymen in the work of churches and give it to chaplains "as a counseling tool."

Another goal, he said, was to "alert our churches to this available lay leadership and encourage them to use it."

Dr. Creeger observed that within the next few years a considerable number of military personnel in the 40-50 age group will be retired to civilian life.



"Many of these people will have a variety of highly developed skills that could be used in a wide range of church-related programs," he said.

In addition, he said, many acquire during their service a strong religious interest under the ministry of their chaplains.

"Since all will retire with fairly comfortable pensions," Dr. Creeger said, "it is our belief that some could be interested in using their experience, either on a part-time basis, or on a full-time basis with part-time pay, in a wide variety of church-related tasks that otherwise could never be done."

The problem, he said, is how to relate this potential manpower to important church tasks.

An information manual prepared from the conference proceedings will be issued to military chaplains to guide them in counseling retiring personnel on utilizing their abilities in church work.

ARMY CHIEF STRESSES MORAL ARMAMENT NEED

A MAN CANNOT DEFEND his country effectively without moral as well as physical armament, Gen. George H. Decker, Army Chief of Staff, told the annual Department of the Army Chaplains Conference in Washington, D.C.

"In the end it is the man who counts," said Gen. Decker, "Any man with a dedicated sense of moral purpose has the will and the determination to resist oppression. But with the best equipment and weapons in the world, if he is without that sense of purpose, a man is morally disarmed."

Gen. Decker, in private life an active Episcopal layman, told the chaplains America's history is one of a "fierce national determination to overcome adversity," and that by meeting many crises with resourcefulness and discipline, America has become "a tough, highly competitive nation, and a God-fearing nation, with a reputation for integrity, hard work and opposition to tyranny."

America now enjoys the highest standard of living in the world, he said, but he warned that "this affluent society of ours shows some indications of moral slackness and too much preoccupation with personal satisfaction and gains."

He repeated President Theodore Roosevelt's warning: "If we seek swollen, slothful ease, if we shrink from hard contests . . . then the bolder and stronger peoples will pass us by and win for themselves the domination of the world."

Gen. Decker called on the chaplains to give the serviceman a new awareness of his national heritage.

"He must understand thoroughly that his is a heritage based on spiritual and ethical values," he said.

In this way, he said, foreign persons with whom American servicemen come into contact will also be strengthened in their awareness of the meaning and value of freedom.

EARLY EASTER MORNING:

"Lord Jesus, everliving friend, bring to my remembrance as I awaken from my sleep this morning, how Thou didst on this first day rise from the dead. Fill my heart with the perfect joy and the abundant trust in the glory of Thy resurrection. May Thy Gospel this day speak sureness and peace to my soul. Let men everywhere be quickened to a newness of faith and life by the power of Thy resurrection. Give me the strength to overcome every force of darkness and walk with Thee in true righteousness. Amen."

Second Glance

Seven bishops and about 30 laymen from West Germany were barred by the East German police from entering East Berlin to attend a special service in St. Mary's church marking the opening of the week-long Synod of the Evangelical Church in Germany. This happened only days after Walter Ulbricht, top German Communist, had declared that the rupture between his government and the West German Protestant Churches can be healed only if the Churches sever their "relations with NATO" and cancel the treaty which sets up a chaplaincy for the West German armed forces.

A Japanese Lutheran pastor was recently taken on a round-the-world trip by a British war veteran whom he had helped by smuggling medicines into a Hong Kong prisoners camp during World War II. The ex-soldier invited 70-year old Pastor Kiyoshi Watanabe of the Japanese Evangelical Lutheran Church to visit him in London.

West Germany's President Heinrich Luebke recently received two airplanes as a gift. He gave one to a Roman Catholic charitable cause, the other to the Lutherans of Germany. In turn this plane was handed over to the Lutheran Mission in New Guinea, which is the largest Protestant mission in the world. This will be the fourth plane operated by the Lutherans in the jungles of New Guinea.

The Lutheran World Federation hopes to begin full scale broadcasts from its new African radio stations in Ethiopia by July, 1962. The station wll beam programs to all parts of Africa, the Near East and Southern Asia.

A wall from the time of Christ, apparently built by King Herod, was discovered accidentally between the Dung Gate and the Wailing Wall in Jerusalem's Old City, during the construction of a new school building. Archeologists were reported eagerly awaiting further reports on the discovery, which was expected to have an important bearing on the topography of the Second Temple destroyed in 70 A.D.

Religious instruction has already been abolished in 85 per cent of the public schools in Communist Poland, the Warsaw Radio claimed recently. It gave this estimate in a broadcast reporting the progress being made in a campaign against religious classes which is being conducted by the Secular Schools Society and atheistic organizations. It said the schools society now has 7.000 branches throughout the country.

Plans for erecting prefabricated churches in foreign ports have been announced by the Seamen's Mission of the Danish State Lutheran Church. The churches are designed to accommodate at least 150 persons and will be built at a cost of around $25,000 each.

2 LUTHERAN GIRLS OF THE MONTH

THIS TIME we got two Lutheran Girls of the Month: Diane Grade and Linda Wudel.

Both are members of Salem Lutheran Church of Parkston, South Dakota, both are seniors in the Parkston High School, both are, according to their pastor, the Rev. R. W. Schwartz, highly qualified for the honor of being Mighty Fortress girls of the month.

DIANE GRADE is the past president of Salem Luther League.

In church where she is a most faithful member and never fails to attend services unless she is ill, Diane has taught Vacation Bible School the past few years and is a substitute Sunday School teacher.

She also is a faithful member of the senior choir. Her hobby is organ and piano playing and she occasionally helps out by playing for special services.

At school she is a member of the vocal trio and very active in declam. Another favorite subject is debate where she earned high honors both locally and at the regional level.

For the past two years she has been business manager of the school annual.

Following her graduation from high school the 5'10" brunette plans to enter business college.

LINDA WUDEL, is described by her pastor as "another fire-ball in the Luther League." She has been secretary of both the local as well as the Federation League.

In addition to being one of the regular organists of her church, Linda directs the junior choir and sings in the senior choir. She is a regular and faithful Sunday School teacher and has also taught Vacation Bible School for the past two years. At times she assists her pastor with typing.

Her hobby is twirling and organ and piano playing.

At school, Linda's favorite subjects are English and speech. She is a majorette for the high school band in which she also plays the saxaphone. She has played in the all-state band the past two years and earned two medals. For the past year she was also a cheerleader for the local football and basketball squad.

In addition to the above, Linda is also a member of the school sextette as well as of the mixed choral group at which she won first place rating at the regional level. She is also active in declam and dramatics, as well as a member of the staff of the school annual.

Following her graduation from high school, the attractive, ever-smiling 5'3½" brunette plans to attend Augustana College of Sioux Falls, South Dakota, where she will pursue her interests in music and social work.

Plans for intensified Communist indoctrination of Bulgarian young people were discussed at a conference in Sofia of school officials and the Communist government, the Sofia Radio reported. A similar campaign was already inaugurated in the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia.

LUTHERANS SHOW NEW FILM ABOUT EAST GERMANY

"QUESTION 7", a new Lutheran-produced motion picture dealing with Christianity's fight for survival in Communist East Germany, was shown for the first time in March in theaters of several U.S. and Canadian cities.

"Question 7" depicts the opposition of a pastor and other Christians to the surrounding atheistic forces in East Germany. The pastor's son, a talented pianist, comes under strong pressure to give his allegiance to the Communist youth movement in order to further his musical career.

In principal roles are Michael Gwynn, British stage and movie actor, who portrays, the pastor, and Christian de Bresson, 15, a French boy who has appeared in off-Broadway productions, as the pastor's son.

PETER, the pastor's son in new Lutheran film about East Germany, wants to be a musician. Yet, under the Communist regime, he has no chance to pursue an artist's career unless he joins the Communist youth organization and professes the atheistic "religion" of the Reds. Above, portrayed by 15-year-old Christian de Bresson, the boy is shown in tense moment during a Communist-sponsored concert.

The title of the film refers to a key query on a questionnaire students are forced to complete. Question relate to the students' attitudes toward the Communist state.

The same six Lutheran groups responsible for the popular "Martin Luther" film formed a stock corporation, LFA Productions, Inc., to produce the new motion picture.

Louis de Rochemont Associates, which filmed and distributed "Martin Luther", has been similarly engaged for the new movie. The new motion picture also has the same producer, Lothar Wolff, and writer, Allan Sloane, as the Luther film.

"Question 7" was filmed on location in Germany, in the town of Moelln near the East-West boundary, and Berlin. In addition to release in the United States and Canada a full German version has been prepared for issuance soon overseas.

Fortify Your Faith Through

Daily Bible Readings

THESE SELECTIONS of great narrative and instructive passages from God's Word will give both the new and the veteran Bible reader increased familiarity with the "whole counsel of God."

We suggest that you:

1. Set aside a definite time each day for reading your Bible.
2. Read the Bible in company with someone else whenever you can.
3. Read it when you are alert.
4. Read it thoughtfully, prayerfully, unhurriedly.
5. Look for a message to you personally, and be ready to respond to it.
6. Reread verses which strike fire. When He condemns, bow penitently. When He offers light, place your hope on it. When He Commands, obey. When He guides, follow.
